There will be one of the best basketball games at Isabella gymnasium Saturday night, January 3, at 8:00 o'clock that will be played in this section of the state this year. Chilton County High was the State Champion last year. Isabella marred their perfect season by beating them here by a score of 23-14. The same three red heads who played a major part in this defeat are still here and going strong. They — Roy Davis, Quinton Cummings, and Robert Cummings — believe that the performance can be repeated this year and there are some others whose faces are new on this squad who must be convinced that it can't be repeated.

This game may make state history in basketball this year. Do not miss it! It will begin at 8 p. m. However, there will be a preliminary game which will start at 7 p. m.

Clanton to Have Practice Blackout

Residents of Clanton will get a bit nearer to the realization that we are at war Friday night, Jan. 9th when we practice our first blackout. Local officials have not decided as to the time but it will be announced in next week's paper.

One of the things that you are requested not to do is call the fire department or turn in a fire alarm. The Fire Department will have more than it can do already. Do not try to call friends or relatives, as the authorities may need all the open lines that they can get. Do not scream or act in anyway to alarm others. Stay in the house. Be sure that no light shows anywhere. If your lights remain on, windows must be covered with blankets so that no light shows from within. Remember City authorities can impose heavy penalties upon you for not obeying Civilian Defense Authorities during blackouts. Do what those in charge tell you to do.

Air raid wardens will be or have been appointed for every two blocks in the city. One will be patrolling your neighborhood to see that all requests and regulations are complied with. Do all you can to help him.

AFTERNOON SINGING AT ENTERPRISE SCHOOL

There will be regular monthly singing at Enterprise next Sunday afternoon, January 4th, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. It is expected that a supply of the new Stamps-Baxter books will be on hand. All singers of the county are cordially invited to attend. — Phillip Headley, Chairman.

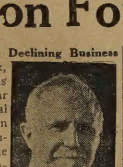
Babson Forecasts Declining Business; Increased National Income



Babson Forecasts Declining Business

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 1—As long as World war II lasts, the total U. S. production will continue to increase. I estimate an increase in national income of $9 billions for 1942 thus bringing it up to ninety-five billions compared with $76 billions in 1940 and $86 billions in 1941. In forecasting this national income for 1942, I am taking into account probable increases in prices and wages. These figures do not mean that more goods will be produced; in fact 1942 will show a decline in the real wealth of America.

Unfortunately, the increase in the industrial production will be in the defense industries. Nineteen-forty-two will show considerable decline in the non-defense industries. It is well for my friend Odlum and others to talk about shifting over manufacturers or lawn mowers to make battle tanks. To a certain extent this will be done in 1942, but a great many non-defense concerns will suffer if the war continues through 1942. Washington tells me that Japan, Germany and Italy fighting us we may need 50 per cent of the wage workers of the country on defense works before Hitler is eliminated. This seems very high to me as Great Britain now has less than 30 per cent engaged in defense industries.

Will Bombing Win the War?

Most readers, whether employers or wage workers, should primarily be interested in whether World War II will continue in its present fury through 1942. If it will so continue, this is good news for those engaged in the defense industries, and bad news for those who are in certain non-defense industries. If the war is to end during 1942, then the reverse is true. In fact, we would then see some hectic times which would be detrimental to many readers, even though helpful to others. Therefore, let's bravely face the facts and answer the question, "Will World War 2 continue through 1942?"

It would be impossible to lick Hitler by an army of invasion before December 31, 1942. Most aviators are not very hopeful about the effects of bombing. They believe that cities gradually become immune to bombing as individuals become immune to almost everything which comes along slowly and lasts long enough. Of course, if the British and Americans should invade Europe, bombing planes would tremendously help the invading army by destroying the enemy's communication lines, crops, and oil. But for merely scaring the people of a country, bombing has not been successful. Statistics indicate that the money lost in the cost of bombers destroyed amounts to more than the property loss caused by the bombers. The Multiplication Table, as well as the Ten Commandments, is bound to be a factor in bringing this war to an end, but when? The blockade — however—is becoming an important factor, but blockading takes time whether against Germany or Japan.

Uprising May Come

All of this means that the only hope of bringing World War II to an end during 1942 is an uprising of the Germans, Japanese, and Italians, or of the people of the conquered nations, or of the people of Great Britain, or of the United States. To have the people of any of these countries quit and go on a "sit-down strike" would bring the war to an end. I can visualize this taking place sometime after 1942; but I cannot visualize it as coming about in 1942. In this connection let me remind readers of what I said last January regarding the destruction of crops and fuel supplies during 1942. Therefore, I say that there will be no peace in 1942; that many non-defense industries will be depressed throughout 1942; and that business as a whole has already seen its peak. The war may even last two or more years after 1942; but after 1942, two months before it ends no one will foresee the end.

Real Estate Will Hold Firm

Prices of farm lands should strengthen during 1942. Farmers will be more prosperous. The only investment which farmers know is land. Many will be so foolish as to again get land poor as they did following World War I. There also will be some purchasing of small farms as inflation hedges. It looks, however, as if—other than in defense areas—the "small home" industry has about reached its peak and will begin to slump off in 1942.

Ordinarily this should result in increased rents and an increased demand for houses already built. It must be remembered, however, that where a third of the workers will have more wages and want to move into better houses, two-thirds of the workers will have no wage increases. Many will have wage decerases. Some will see their expenses so increased that they will be looking for cheaper homes as well as for cheaper cars. Readers who have real estate which they would like to sell should make a strong effort to sell it during 1942—at least sell enough to get out of debt.

What About Retail Tarde?

Merchants in the defense areas should have a good year. I am not so hopeful for those outside defense areas. Certainly, the number of sales will be smaller although the total gross may hold up. Expanding the draft age may have a dampening effect on retail trade later in the year. The new draft call may also cut the labor supply of many industries. Blackouts are another factor in retarding consumer buying. Hence, merchants should increase advertising appropriations if they expect a good year in 1942. I advise merchants to keep down expenses; avoid wage increases; and get out of debt. If someone else offers your employes more money than you are now paying, let him have such. After the war they will come back to you glad to work for less money than you are now paying. Don't speculate in merchandise. Keep well stocked on standard goods, but avoid style goods which are hard to carry over. Inflation is with us and is gradually increasing prices at the rate of from 10-15 per cent a year. Legislation can check it, but it can no more stop inflation than can legislation stop crime. Remember that when the war stops, it will stop suddenly. Therefore, merchants should keep close to shore.

Residential Building Will Decline

Residential building during 1941 increased, as a year ago I forecasted it would increase. Hence, I do not like to risk my good reputation now in giving a figure for 1942. I believe, however, that rising costs, scarcity of certain materials and the provoking way in which labor has acted is hurting residential building. Surely it will show no increase in 1942 over 1941; while I should not be surprised if it fell back to 1940 figures,—possibly to the extent of 10 per cent to 15 per cent. Public works and highway construction will be less i n1942 than in 1941. The building of industrial plants will continue in good volume during the first six months. Pleasure car production will be cut 50 per cent. General export trade, except for war purposes, will also fall off. This will especially be true in the Pacific due to Japan's attack upon us. Remember that—as a rule—the curves for residential building, auto production, and non-defense foreign trade generally go in the same downward direction.

Utilities Should Improve

The utility industry is basically sound. With a few exceptions when high-finance crept in, the utilities have been conservatively and efficiently managed. They have been foremost in reducing the cost and improving the quality of their service. Yet for some unknown reasons the utilities have been persuaded, taxed, sandbagged, and strangled as never has any legitimate industry before. When a financial history of the 20th century is written this unjust and unnecessary abuse—climaxed with the SEC "death clause"—will be its big black spot. What of their future? They will continue to grow and improve their service. All the bonds and stocks of the operating companies should be good investments. The bonds and pre-

This Week In National Defense

A WEEK OF THE WAR

Great Britain's Prime Minister Churchill arrived in Washington for a meeting of the "United States-British War Council" which includes the heads of the two nations and their ranking naval and military advisers. The White House announced the primary objective of the conference as the "defeat of Hitlerism throughout the world."

The statement also said "It should be remembered . . . the present conferences in Washington should be regarded as preliminary to further conferences which will officially include Russia, China, the Netherlands and the Dominions. . . the other interested nations will be kept in close touch with this preliminary planning."

In a side-by-side press conference the President and Mr. Churchill said they were working out a broad development of strategy to be turned over to the military for execution in cooperation with all anti-Axis countries.

Speaking before an informal session of Congress, the Prime Minister proposed that following the present war the "germ centers of hate and revenge" should be constantly policed so "the pestilence can be controlled at the very beginning. . ."

THE WAR FRONT

The Navy Department reported during the past week 14 enemy submarines were sunk or damaged, one enemy transport and one mine sweeper were sunk and an additional transport and one seaplane tender were" probably" sunk. The Department said enemy submarines had sunk three merchant ships and shelled two others. Wake Island, with its 400 officers and men and 1,000 construction workers was reported captured. The War Department said an American Army bomber sank an enemy submarine off the California coast. There was heavy fighting in the Philippines and Manila was declared an open city.

OTHER FOREIGN RELATIONS

A special House Committee investigating air transportation returned from a tour of the American Republics to report the Axis controls airports within easy bombing distance of the Panama Canal, strategic airports in Brazil just across from Africa, vast stocks of aviation gas and oil in Brazil, and "no les sthan 14" shortwave radios in Guatemala alone and others in Mexico which have informed German authorities aboard U. S. merchant vessel departures from the United States. The committee also reported finding the Nazis have perfected plans for the sabotaging of all utilities in Buenos Aires "and that in a crisis they could probably establish an operating base in Argentina."

The State Department announced a new trade agreement with Cuba and an accord with the Vichy Governor of French Maritime to continue the "status quo". Secretary Hull issued a statement that seizure of the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon near Canada by the Free French was "courtesy to the agreement of all parties concerned and certainly without prior knowledge or comment in any sense of the U. S. Government."

The President wrote Prime Minister Curtin of Australia "we give you our assurances that we consider the safety of your great Commonwealth as a definite essential in every plan of defense. . ."

PRODUCTION

The President approved a plan for combining the productive resources of Canada and the U. S. and removing barriers such as tariffs, import duties, customs and other regulations. The American Section of the Joint War Production Committee was asked to investigate what legislative action was necessary to fulfill the plan. Canada has already approved.

Parts of the OPM were reorganized "to speed up war production, to quicken the conversion of civilian industry to war output and to widen the participation of management and labor." OPM Contract Distribution Division announced the three special "contract" trains which toured the nation to exhibit the type of war work small manufacturers might handle, uncovered 11.000 factories able to do some of the work. Among them are a fish hook manufacturer who can make springs for the Army and a beer-can concern which can make hand grenades. The first of 48 "department stores of subcontracting" was opened in St. Louis. The "stores" will exhibit samples of needed war equipment to prospective producers. The OPM issued an estimate that nearly $4,000,000,000 in war materials could be produced by civilian-goods plants in 15 industries if they are converted to war work.

PRICES

The Labor Department reported its check of 18 foods in 19 cities showed little net change in retail prices during the first half of December. Price Administrator Henderson moved to stabilize prices of: leather, sugar, reclaimed rubber, soles and heels, cotton "fine goods," glycerin, ethyl alcohol and dry colors. Mr. Henderson also asked manufacturers of china, glass, lampshades, watches and silverware to hold prices at not more than December 1 levels.

PRIORITIES

The OPM announced war production demands will necessitate electrical power rationing and pooling for the Southeast, Southwest. Pacific coast and part of the Middle West during 1942 and 1943. The Priorities Division ordered owners of privately-financed defense housing projects to make definite statements on prices at which they will sell or rent the properties they construct. The Division also issued new orders limiting uses of lead and tinfoil, steel, burlap, wool ,manila cordage, refined sugar, wire and wire products, spare tires, passenger cars and light trucks.

LABOR

The President's industry-labor conference to plan uninterrupted war production agreed: (1) There shall be no strikes or lockouts; (2) all disputes shall be settled by peaceful means; (3) the President shall set up a proper War Labor Board to handle these disputes. The President accepted the plan without reservations and said he would act at once.

The U. S. Conciliation Service reported settlement of 28 labor disputes. Labor Secretary Perkins announced that during the past year hourly earnings of factory wage earners increased 14.7 per cent; average hours rose 4.8 per cent; and average weekly earnings of both full and part time employment rose 20.6 per cent.

MANPOWER FOR INDUSTRY

The OPM Labor Division said the U. S. has the manpower to meet 1942's need of at least 3,000,000 additional persons for war industires, but there is a shortage of industrial plant supervisors and skilled workers in some war crafts and occupations. The Division said war industries now employing 4,500.000 will need 9,000,000 by June, 1943. These additional workers can be raised without serious economic disruption by utilizing all existing sources—women, Negroes, foreign born, older workers, and those displaced from civilian jobs, he said.

AGRICULTURE

The Agriculture Department announced a favorable economic outlook for agriculture in 1942 despite entry of the U. S. into war, due to the expanding war effort and prospective accompanying rise in industrial activity, employment and wages. Agriculture Secretary Wickard said 1942 production goals call for more milk, eggs, beef, canned vegetables, peanuts and soybeans, and a cut in production of wheat, cotton and tobacco. Mr. Wickard also said the millionth ton of American food shipped to Great Britain under the lend-lease system has arrived safely.

When We Must Say "NO"

THE TIME has come when major electric line extensions must be clearly related to the National Defense effort or to the public health and safety. Aluminum, copper, iron, steel and zinc are the backbone of electric line construction. They are also backbone metals for planes, guns, tanks, ships and other implements of war.

Orders which we had placed for aluminum wire were canceled many months ago. Copper wire is becoming increasingly difficult to get. We are salvaging every bit possible. Deliveries on line equipment made from iron and steel are slow. Most materials and equipment can be had only under priority ratings.

We do not know when the situation will change. Currently, we are permitted to be supplied with enough materials—based on our records of past use—to repair, maintain and operate existing electrical services, and to connect customers to existing lines where no major extension is required. We may not make additions to our system beyond these modest limits without approval in advance from OPM, even though we may have the materials.

There will be many occasions when some desired electric line extensions cannot be built because the materials are needed for National Defense.

Good service will continue, and as you do your part to further VICTORY, you may be sure that we are doing ours.

THE ANTI-AXIS ALLIANCE

Though all is not going well in the Pacific—though Hong Kong has fallen, Wake has been captured, and the Philippines are in grave danger—an event of utmost significance has taken place in the United States, which is indicative of a much better chance for us of winning the war. This event marks the beginning of what Dorothy Thompson called. when she addressed an audience in Birmingham on February 18, an Anglo-American Alliance. For when Prime Minister Churchill of the British Empire, accompanied by Lord Beaverbrook and other high-ranking British officials, met with President Roosevelt at the White House in Washington, it was only natural to assume that a unified effort to wi nthe war would become the logical outgrowth of such a meeting.

This is not the first time that the two leaders of the world's great democracies have met. The first time was at sea on August 14, 1941. Then they wrote jointly a document of eight parts which has aptly been called "The Eight Pillars of Freedom." This document stated that the United States and Great Britain seek no territorial aggrandizement; they desire no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned; all peoples can choose their own form of government; all nations have an equal right to the raw materials of the world; they desire economic adjustment; they desire a peace which will grant freedom to all men; that all men should be able to traverse the high seas and oceans without hindrance; and that they believe all nations should disarm. Thus had the two great democratic leaders written a propaganda piece aimed at encouraging revolt in the Hitler ranks, and at encouraging the free peoples of the world to give their best efforts toward winning the great battle confronting them.

Today, however, Winston Spencer Churchill is not talking with Franklin D. Roosevelt to draw up such a program. They are now talking in military terms so that we may win the war we are in. Then will the eight points become of some real importance. Today they stand merely as a document of war aims—a symbol of what rights we are fighting for.

So that we can win the war and bring these rights to all the nations of the world, is the reason for the second meeting of Churchill and Roosevelt. As Churchill and Roosevelt meet, a billion persons under five flags are brought into an economic and military unit to fight for total victory against a quarter billion people on the Axis side of the fence. The success of Roosevelt and Churchill depend on how well America and Britain are able to unite for a cooperative strategy, for a single production agreement, and for a method of unifying the commands of the military and naval forces on the various fronts of this World War.

Besides Churchill, Roosevelt also is working for unity with Canadian Prime Minister Mackenzie King, with Russian Ambassador Maxim Litvinov with the Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, and with the Netherlands Minister, Dr. A. Loudon. For in a war which finds Germany, Italy, Japan, and all the lesser states of Europe pitted against us, we need all the allies we can obtain, and we need unity among our ranks so that we can make the best use possible of the resources we have.

We have now come to the decision which after the first World War we were afraid to make; which during the first post war years we could not create enough interest in; and which all throughout our history has been a necessity whether we have realized it or not.

That decision is the unity of the English-speaking peoples of the world. There will be those of us who will not favor such a union; those who will resent it and fear it. But they will be infinitely small in their vision, in their justice, and in their belief of a world of everlasting peace.

Before we can give peace to the world, we must first, ourselves, set the example. War has caused us to unite, and we have set now the example. We have manifested our first step—the steps that follow are long and hard and dangerous, but we must have the courage in the days to come to take them, so that we can say we are worthy being followers of the example set for us by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston S. Churchill.

That God May Give Us Strength

Following is the text of the proclamation issued by President Roosevelt Monday appointing New Year's Day as a day of prayer:

By the President of the United States of America, a proclamation:

The year 1941 has brought upon our nation a war of aggression by powers dominated by arrogant rulers whose selfish purpose is to destroy free institutions. They would thereby take from the freedom-loving peoples of the earth the hard-won liberties gained over many centuries.

The new year of 1942 calls for the courage and the resolution of old and young to help win a world struggle in order that we may preserve all we hold dear.

We are confident in our devotion to our country, in our love of freedom, in our inheritance of courage. But our strength, as the strength of all men everywhere, is of greater avail as God upholds us.

Therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint the first day of the year 1942 as a day of prayer, of asking forgiveness for our short comings of the past, of consecration to the tasks of the present, of asking God's help in days to come.

We need His guidance that this people may be humble in spirit, but strong in the conviction of the right; steadfast to endure sacrifices and brave to achieve a victory of liberty and peace.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 22nd day of December in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-sixth.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Dam For The Etowah

Montgomery has a very direct interest in one of the items of the appropriation bill which has been signed by the President, for it adds greatly to the flood control and power conservation sources of the whole Coosa river valley. In the bill $3,000,000 is allocated for the building of what is called Alatoona dam on the Etowah river just above Centerville, Georgia.

For the benefit of those who do not know their southern rivers the Etowah and the Oostanaula rivers in extreme northwest Georgia unite at Rome, to form the Coosa river. The Coosa flows southward to a point near Wetumpka, where it is joined by the Tallapoosa to form the Alabama river, passing Montgomery and down to Mobile Bay. The Etowah has its rise in the mountains and is a very unruly stream that frequently sends down vast quantities of water doing great damage along its own banks, in the vicinity of Rome, and frequently its torrents cause trouble on the lower reaches of the Coosa.

The Coosa river has three great power dams of the Alabama Power Company, Lay, Mitchell and Jordan, which create lakes and help to store the raging floods to a certain extent. But it will be an enormous help to have the turbulent Etowah harnessed and controlled so that its waters can be sent down the stream for power production when it is needed.

It is this power production feature which caused the President to authorize the Alatoona dam as a national defense project, for electric power is an urgent need. The dam will bring the whole river system into a control that has been impossible so long as the waters of the Etowah could run loose and do their worst. The government means business for the army engineers have already announced that contracts for the dam construction will be let immediately and work pursued on a three shift basis. They want to get this power available at the earliest minute.— Alabama Journal.

Our New Year Poem

Back in the days when Hugh E. Keogh ("Hek") was conductor of the "In the Wake of the News" column on the sports page of the Chicago Tribune, he wrote two New Year's poems which have become Newspaper Classics. One was:

PUT IT AWAY WITH THE REST
(One New Year's Day

There it goes, there it goes,
With its sunshine and tears,
Its triumphs, defeat, and its draws;
'Twas only a mark on the tablet of years—
A straw in a bundle of straws.
They come rather swift when the brightest are gone,
And the dullest remain to be met;
When the stretch has been reached and the finish is on,
And the has-been outnumbers the yet.
Slip it back in the pile—there's a lot of them there,
The bad ones mixed up with the blest;
It carried its joy, it delivered its care—
Just let it lie there with the rest.
No better nor worse than the others that went,
They all bear the same kind of freight;
It has taken the portion for which it was sent,
And those that have left only wait.
Only wait for their own to come rolling along,
Which it will to the same glad acclaim,
For time takes no note for the dirge or the song,
But stolidly plays out the game.
The one that was planted when yesterday closed.
Took its toll of the brightest and best,
And those that are left are only exposed—
So put it away with the rest.

Here's What You Can Do For Defense

Answering the oft-repeated inquiry, "What Can I do to Help Win the War," the Alabama State Defense Council has promulgated a list of ten tasks to which a citizen may assign himself. They are:

1. Enroll in the war against waste by saving your wastepaper, newspapers, magazines, rags, old tires. kitchen utensils, scrap metal, rubber overshoes or mats. When you have sufficient quantity, call the junk dealer and sell them.

2. Register with your local defense council for civilian participation service.

3. Buy war savings stamps or bonds.
4. Enroll one member of the family in the first aid course.
5. Cooperate fully with the program of civilian defense.
6. Grow vegetables for home consumption, thus pushing secretary of agriculture's slogan: "Vegetables for Vitality for Victory."
7. Take every precaution against fires in private and public buildings.
8. Extend courtesies to those enrolled in the various branches of military service.
9. Perform your job more efficiently and effectively.
10. Take the necessary steps to promote your health and physical vigor.

COUSIN HORACE BLOWING HARD ON DYING SPARKS

(By Grover C. Hall, Jr.)
In Alabama Journal

To look at my Cousin Horace Hall, editor of The Dothan Eagle, you would think he was a gentleman as amiable as he is estimable. But to read his page sometimes, is to see that you can't judge a book by its cover.

As Alabama Magazine reports the matter, Cousin Horace "took editorial note of the ballyhooing carried on by Atticus Mullin and Grover Hall, Jr., most vociferous of the Graves publicity squad, thwacked them soundly for their 'trained 'seal' performances."

Here is what Cousin Horace wrote: "Alabama's trained seals are giving until it hurts in furthering their fuehrer's gubernatorial campaign and are trying to convince the skeptics that the Little Colonel will win office in 1942 sans opposition.

"Atticus Mullin, sometimes staff writer of The Montgomery Advertiser, but more recently the Graves Goebbels. is doing yeoman service to the cause of his new-found love by advising Advertiser subscribers that at least 90 per cent of Alabama voters will support Colonel Graves come hell or high water.

"Atticus has even hinted in his rather blunt manner that in view of the United States declaration of war it will be unpatriotic and sacrilegious for any one to oppose Colonel Graves in 1942. According to him, the Graves campaign has already been blessed by everybody from President Roosevelt and the secretary of war down to the Coosa County coroner. He is momentarily expected to invoke the blessings of the Almighty, such is his zeal for the cause.

"And in the Alabama Journal, the matinee edition of The Advertiser, Grover C. Hall, Jr. . . . records for posterity the intelligence that municipal officials recently conferred with Colonel Graves asking for commitments on any state funds which might be available when he takes office. According to this writer, Colonel Graves' refusal to commit himself in advance was predicated not on the possibility of defeat but on the unpredicatable demands the national war effort might make on state funds.

"Somehow we suspect that the voters of Alabama will. . . . vote their own convictions rather than those of the political writers. They have been fed so much political tripe by the so-called political writers who pretend to present solid facts in their columns that they have long since learned that they cannot afford to follow their profered leadership."

In the past we have had something to say of the technique of the anti-arGves papers such as The Dothan Eagle from the standpoint of the political student; and here we find occasion to revert to the subject.

There are two candidates for governor—Graves and Sparks. The Eagle, and some of its sister scolds, have had some harsh things to say about Colonel Graves. And there they leave the matter. On reading these philippics on Graves, one assumes that Sparks must present a pretty acceptable alternative. But do they ever write at length of Sparks' qualifications for the office he seeks? Where is the editorial which rehearses his career in the Legislature to show that he is more fit for the job than Graves? It is unwritten. With only two men in the race, The Eagle and prototypes enjoin their subscribers abstain from any form of support Graves. But does it urge support Sparks? It does not. So, The Eag —for all it has said editorially—wo simply have the voters avoid the po on Acclamation Day.

The sword-swallowing performan of The Eagle in mourning my depar ed soul presents another case point. The Eagle declares that th reports carried in Capitolisms of Co onel Graves' strength are extravagan but the echo of some vague but sin ister master's voice.

But why make the assertion and le it go at that? That's the work o an UNtrained seal! If Capitolism reports are awry or phonies, why no show how and why? If Cuddin Hor ace disputes the intelligences, let hi make an editorial excursion into th political set-up in the big countie and call the names of Sparks' suppor ers. We have always given the name and addresses of Graves and Spark adherents—and never a one has re quested a retraction. Let The Eagl call the roll. And it can start wit Barbour County.

Compiled from Annual Reports by Statewide Highway Planning Survey

MONEY FOR ROADS—The above chart offers a graphic illustration of great progress made in the construction and maintenance of wide and beautiful highways in Alabama from 1922 to 1941, inclusive. During the past fiscal year road construction amounted to 454 miles of new paving, of adequate design and high standard. Bridges were built to an aggregate length of 4½ miles. During the past three years 13.59 miles of modern bridges have been built—a splendid achievement. Shown on the chart are heavy-construction years of 1928-29, when the second bond-issue money was expended. 1932 was a lean year during the "depression." 1940-41 represent much work at decreased costs. Maintenance on the 6,505-mile State Highway System costs $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 per annum.

ferred stocks of the holding companies should sell during 1942 for more than present prices. What about the common stocks of the holding companies? Well, those not preceded by bonds and |or preferreds should be okay. In liquidation they should get more than they are now selling for. As for holding company stocks preceded by bonds and |or preferreds, I have my doubts. Yet some of these at present prices may be worth holding. Price-fixing should help the utilities.

Nineteen-forty-two has been the best year that the railroads have had since 1928. The total gross for 1941 will be about $5,300,000,000 compared with $4,300,000,000 in 1940; while the net for 1941 will be about $925,000,000, compared with $682,000,000 in 1940. The coming year 1942 will show higher figures both for gross and net earnings; but if so, 1942 may be a good time to get out of railroad securities. Yes, get out and stay out. After World War II the railroads are sure to get an awful licking from shipping, airplanes, pipe lines, auto trucks, motor coaches, and private cars of all kinds. Besides the recent railroad wage award is very unfair to the railroads. The ICC and the Brotherhoods are killing the railroad industry. The sooner the government buys the railroads, the better off investors will be.

Money Rates And Bond Prices

Money rates will stiffen during 1942; perhaps not appreciably, but some. Certainly any change that does take place will be on the upside. The U. S. government cannot spend about $30 billions a year (575,000 per second) "mostly for fire crackers" without an ultimate strengthening of money rates even though one-half of the sum is raised by taxation. This ultimately means higher yields for Governments and corporation bonds. Certain medium-brade bonds should sell at higher prices during -1942. The money-rate pendulum has swung from high to low and vice-versa for 2,000 years. It will continue to swing. The present decline in gold imports foretells the next swing. Gold imports are now running only 25 per cent of 1940, while loans are increasing.

Cost Of Living

The official government cost-of-living, which will be published during 1942, will show a small increase each month. The reason is that these figures must cover the same items, brands, and grades in order to have them useful for comparative statistical purposes. As a practical matter, however, a family can switch its purchases from sirloin steak to top-of the round without any increase in the cost-of-living. The same family can cut down on desserts and save money on both food and dental bills! Hence, there need be no increase in the cost-of-living for well-managed families during 1942. This is especially true as 15 per cent now goes into the garbage pail or is wasted in other ways.

Will Wages Be Frozen

Some engaged in the defense industries may get wage increases during 1942; but not more than enough to offset the rise in the government's cost-of-living indices. Certain concerns engaged in the non-defense industries will be obliged to pay key people a little more to hold them. The great majority of workers in the non-defense industries will get no increases in 1942, while some will get their wages reduced. The year 1941 saw the peak of strikes and wage increases. The Canadian labor-policy may be adopted by our Congress. The law of supply and demand is still working. Cost-of-living in the defense areas may have already seen its peak. The new workers who are flowing into these areas may so flood the market as to prevent further wage raises. Besides, I'm in hope the government will issue a supplementary table of living-costs after providing for switches in purchasing and waste eliminations.

What Will Congress Do?

My forecast a year ago as to what Congress would do in 1941 was 100 per cent correct. Now, I am even surer of my ground. When Congress declared war it performed its most important single act until peace comes. From here out it will become of necessity somewhat of a rubber stamp. War emergency powers of the President will require but little action on the part of Congress. Remember that there are important Congressional Elections on November 3, 1942. Incidentally, the results of these elections will be very interesting to watch. They will give us a good clue as to Republican chances in 1944; but this is something for me to discuss a year from now. There is another possibility, namely, the enacting of labor control legislation such as Canada has adopted.

If price control legislation is enacted in 1942, it will not be very successful. Price control, without rationing, is usually a failure. Of course, the entire set-up appears cockeyed to me. For instance, the purpose of price control is to prevent inflation and to discourage the purchase of non-essentials. But, does keeping prices down discourage purchasing? No! The way to discourage purchasing is to let prices rise. But, you ask: How about the prices of essentials such as food? Well, strange to say, the prices of farm products are not being controlled! Even wages are omitted "because we cannot force people to work" and yet wages are the most important factor in setting prices. Bernard Baruch is correct when demanding the freezing of everything on a given day,—commodities, farm products, wages, rents, interest, and profits. Fine! But how can such a law be enforced?? Remember the boot-legging during prohibition days and apply this to 100,000 articles! The answer is in having price control apply to a few essentials and then ration these essentials.

Social Security Legislation

There will be a new tax bill in 1942. It will somewhat increase corporation and personal income taxes, but not seriously. Let me again remind readers that all the Congressmen and one-third of the Senators will be up for re-election on November 3. 1942! There will be a serious attempt by the anti-inflation group to further tax luxuries and unnecessary non-defense products as the easiest way to raise money.

Social Security taxes on wages will be another easy way to get funds. They are really a sales tax of the most vicious kind; but the name and promises which go with them make them very difficult for Congressmen to oppose. "Social Security" is a poisonous pill, sugar-coated. The United States can easily commit suicide by taking too much "Social Security" poison. Of course, one fair way to collect more money would be for Congress to put an excess profits tax on wages identical with the present excess tax on profits. This would both raise all the needed funds and put an end to the labor racket for the duration of the war.

Rents And Strikes

Rents will not decline during 1942; but whether to make long or short leases is debatable. Those owning large, old style houses should sell them during 1942 for any price they can get. I say this because of the action of carpenters, brick layers, plumbers, and painters who are fast killing the geese which lay their golden eggs. You can no longer afford to make over a large, old house into apartments as you once could. Again I say—try to get out of debt during 1942.

There will be fewer strikes in 1942. The strike business has its "ups and downs" like the stock market. Labor leaders, like Wall Street bankers, strike while the iron is hot; they speed up while the going is good. With both labor leaders and bankers, their jobs are purely a business. The "business" of the average labor leader will not be so good in 1942 as in 1941. As the tax payers of the nation (and this includes every reader of this column) realize that during 1941 they lost about 20,000,000, man-days (or five times the loss during 1940) the American people will wake up and stop this nonsense. Statistics show that 1941 had 3,500 major strikes involving over 2,200,000 workers. This is about double the average of the preceding five years. Congress should insist on a secret ballot by workers before a strike can be called.

Farm Prices Will Be Better

I estimate that if farm prices are not controlled, the farmers in 1942 may receive an increase of 20 per cent over 1941. This could increase the national income 10 per cent and raise farm consumer purchasing power to nearly double what it was a few years previous. Cash farm income in 1942 should reach about $13,000.000,000 — the highest since 1920. This figure compares with $11,000,000,000 for 1941, and $9,000,000,000 for 1940. During 1941 food prices increased about 12 per cent, but 1942 should show a distinct tapering off of this upward curve. By substitutions and the elimation of waste, most people can absorb this food price increase without either further wage increases or a reduction in living standards.

High Living Standards

Readers who are squawking about increased prices should remember this fact: —Considering 1929 wages and living costs at 100, the wage index has gone up to 106 while the retail cost of food has dropped to 80. In other words, the average American has today left over for non-food purchases $1,045 compared with $887 in the boom year of 1929. To put it another way. all wage workers are at least 20 per cent better of ftoday than in 1929. What possible excuse is there for more strikes or even wage increases? These high standards wil lhold up during 1942, notwithstanding our war with the Axis Powers.

Firmer Commodity Prices

Wholesale prices will average during 1942 about 10 per cent over the "1941 average." But do not get excited! These prices are now about 10 per cent below the 1926 level which the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics considers "normal." Those who expect a less-than 10 per cent increase point to (1) the large stocks of food supplies, raw materials, and merchandise now on hand; (2) the heavy advance purchases which consumers made during 1941 which could keep them going for some time; (3) the high taxes of various kinds which 1942 is to witness, together with the curtailment of installment credit; and (4) gradual increase of unemployment in the non-defense industries.

Those who expect a greater-than-10 per cent increase point to (1) the steady decline in available non-defense goods regarding defense materials, the making of which goods will be curtailed; (2) the increased purchasing power which will come from the farm sections even if wages in the war industries are no longer increased; (3) a shortage and speculative buying and hoarding which cannot be prevented. Psychology and fear are more potent than law; (4) the fact that higher taxes and more bond sales will result in greater disbursements which must come back to increased purchasing and higher prices.

I believe that these eight reasons about balance one another and that the net result will be an increase of not over 10 per cent, as above indicated. This, however, does not necessarily require an equal increase in the cost of living for careful housewives.

Stocks To Go UP

The stock market was a "selective market" during 1941 and will probably continue to be such during 1942. While the market as a whole was declining, certain stocks were moving upward. Among these, were war stocks, movie stocks, motor coach stocks, chewing gum stocks, soft drink stocks, and certain chain-store stocks. On the contrary, the stocks of companies making mostly refrigerators, oil burners, auto parts, and the like have declined much more than the average market. This has also been true of the electrical appliance stocks and the "small-loans" stocks. As declining stock prices came in 1941 accompanying advancing business activity, it is logical that advancing stock prices should come in 1942 accompanying declining business activity. Certainly stock prices will recover sharply from present quotations even if not topping 1941 highs. The companies to buy into are those which are enjoying increased consumer demand and are having no government interference. Fire-insurance stocks look good to me for 1942 investments. Besides, they should be a good inflation hedge.

Defense Costs For 1942

During the calendar year 1941 our government spent about $16,000,000,000 with revenue of over one-half this sum. It is estimated that this will be nearly double in 1942. I estimate the government debt increased during 1941 about $12,000,000,000. Bankers recently estimated that on December 31, 1942 the government debt will be about $65,000,000,000 compared with only $20,000,000,000 in 1922 and less than $2,000,000,000 in 1917. As a result we are slowly approaching state capitalism. The Federal Government may some day control banking, transportation, and farming. I am bearish on long-term government bonds.

England is likewise increasing its debt by leaps and bounds. This makes me wonder why we talk only of an uprising in Germany. Could not the English, Japanese, Italians, or even American people get tired and quit? In this connection let me say that according to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, U. S. taxes in 1941 were higher than English taxes whether measured on a per capita or percentage basis. My estimate for U. S. federal, state, and local taxes for 1942 is $25,000,000,000. This gives a per capita figure of about $180—for every U. S. person; while the British figure will be only $173 per person. Based upon national income, it is estimated that U. S. taxes take 25 per cent of our national income while the British taxes will take only 22 per cent.

Closing Warning

Just a word to various groups who read this forecast: (1) To manufacturers and investors:—Get out of the objective case. Stop kicking, but help more to row the boat. If you believe in "private enterprise" show more of this enterprise in your own plans and policies. If you love personal liberty, be willing to fight for it, to be taxed for it, and accept the risks that go with it. If you wish to avoid having the government make employment, make it yourselves. There never was any cyclone cellar for private property or for private enterprise.

(2) To wage workers and others:—Smash the racketeers in labor circles or government circles. Insist that workers shall vote by secret ballot as to whether or not they shall strike after hearing arguments from both their labor leaders and their employers (I am willing to agree that no corporation be allowed to put on a "lock out" without a similar vote by its stockholders.) I beg labor in 1942 to encourage the Department of Justice in eliminating all rackets.

(3) The Babsonchart shows total U. S. business today at an all-time high. Production and consumption records are being made all along the line. More are employed and at higher wages than ever before. But if 1942 is as good as 1941 we will be lucky.

We should work, study, and cooperate as never before! On our shoulders rests a great responsibility. This is no time for politics or pettiness in any form. The stakes are too high. The very life of our country and our way of living hang in the balance. Let us join wholeheartedly in giving our all to serving humanity in this, its hour of need. Only real sacrifice, effectively co-ordinated, can tip the scales for righteousness and insure security. The fight calls for all we Americans can give of time, money, and blood. Most of all it means that we should ask of God forgiveness for our past selfishness and wastefulness. Let's begin the new year with an honest prayer that each of us as individuals shall be better men and women.

50 Registered Hereford Cows and Heifers (Many With Calves at Side)
25 Registered Hereford Bulls (1 to 4 Years Old—Mostly 2 and 3 Year Old)
200 HEAD OF HIGH QUALITY STOCK COWS AND HEIFERS

This is a good lot of useful cattle. They do not carry a lot of fat to cover up their faults but are selling in just good flesh to make serviceable cattle. We invite every cattleman to attend this sale and buy a few head of these cattle as we can recommend them to anybody.

In this lot of Purebred cattle we are offering some of as good quality and breeding as has been offered in the South the past year. The entire herd of O. I. Walker will be sold at this sale. These cattle were shipped here from Texas about two years ago and are fully acclimated. The breeding and quality is as good as can be found anywhere. Quite a number of these cows have calves at side and many are heavy springers. In the bull offering you will find a big number of the bulls that are two and three years old and are ready for service. We doubt if you will be able to find any more bulls of this age and quality offered in a sale this spring.

MORAL ECHOS

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D. D.

I was called to the blackboard my first year in college, and the Math teacher read out to me an Algebra equasion. It seemed to be simple and with some speed I sought the answer. It ran on and on until I had covered the board and finally I came to the close where the answer read, "X equals zero. The problem covered the board but all of that work came down to nothing. That reminds me so much of many a life that I have known. We see people running here and there, doing this and that. They cover much territory, but when life is over they have done nothing. After all of their racing to and fro in the earth, they amount to nothing. Why not solve the problem of life so that the final results will be untold wealth in the better world

At the last service of the Ashram a bright faced woman arose and said, "Dr. Jones, I have found a new way of life up here at Blue Ridge and I am going back to my home to practice it. I do not know how I shall do it yet, but I am going to just swish love all around." Those of us who listened to her sincerity, could see her as she went about, "Swishing love all around." She brushed love into the home, into the church, among her neighbors and every where. When any one strikes right and left with the rod of love, then love will be coming back to him, or her. With what measure ye measure out, that same measure will come back to you. When we, "Swish love around" then love will come back to us.

Just before a hard battle was to be fought Napoleon would call his generals together for a council of war. They would talk the battle over and special duties would be assigned to each leader. When the conference was over, the generals would file out of Napoleon's tent and form a line on the outside. Then the little leader would step out before them and without speaking a word, he would go down the line and fervently shake the hand of each man. After he had returned to his own tent, his generals were ready to dare and die for their leader. As Christians we can feel the firm, silent grip of the Man of Galilee and for Him we can certainly dare to do our duty. We are not called to tasks that we do not have the inspiration to accomplish in His name. The touch of the hand Divine imparts inspiration.

Recently Japan has enforced new regulations on both Catholic and Protestants throughout that empire. Each religious faith was required to enter a union and to be blocked off in groups of five thousand to each group. These individual groups were called Blocks, and each block was required to elect a man out of the group who was to represent the five thousand members in Governmental affairs, and this selected one was known as the "Block-head." He is called into the counsels of Japan and the government speaks to him and he speaks to his group. On reading of this in the papers my first thought was that for the first time in life I had found leaders correctly named. On the second thought decided that not all leaders were, "Block-heads." Some of them are really sincere and know what it is all about. That does not keep me from saying that some leaders are, "Block-heads."

An Indian Chief landed in New York and for the first time in his life saw the bright lights of Broadway. After leaving the Central depot, he found himself in the glare of a new world. There were lights and more lights everywhere ,but the one that attracted his attention more than any other light, was across the street in front of a Theatre. In wide wonder he watched the Neon lights as they glimmered up and down the wall and then went round and round. After observing the restlessness of the lights he turned to one of his Braves who stood by his side and said, "Much St. Vitus Western hills of the Rockies, saw dance." The quiet old man from the American life in New York and his estimate of it was that people and lights had St. Vitus dance. Should you take your stand on the street corner of any city, anywhere, any size, and observe the pushing, rushing, milling multitudes, you would be forc "Much St. Vitus Dance."

In compliance with Bane's request that an organization be established to handle the allocation, Gov. Dixon announced that he had instructed Houston Cole, executive secretary of the State Defense Council, to take the desired action in cooperation with the local councils.

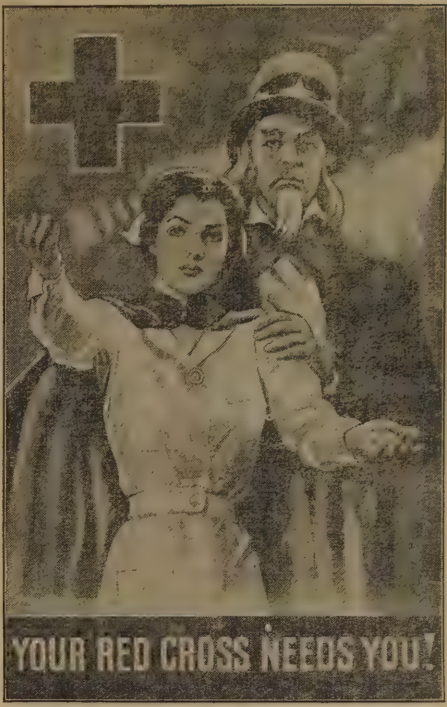
AMERICA'S WAR VICTIMS APPEAL FOR YOUR HELP



YOUR RED CROSS NEEDS YOU!

First war poster of the new World War, painted by the distinguished artist James Montgomery Flagg, carries an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund to aid the victims of aggression upon the United States and its island possessions.

To aid the victims of warfare being waged upon America and her island possessions, the American Red Cross has issued an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund, Chairman Norman H. Davis announced from the national headquarters in Washington.

Mr. Davis urged men, women and children to give to this mercy fund through their local Red Cross Chapters. These funds will support the Chapter's war work with the families of men in the military services, as well as the broad relief program of the national Red Cross.

President Roosevelt, who is president of the American Red Cross, issued a proclamation urging all citizens to give to the Red Cross war fund.

In launching the appeal, Chairman Davis said:

"There are millions of our citizens who desire today to demonstrate their will to victory over the enemy. Not all can be in the armed forces, and not all can volunteer their services for humanitarian work, but all can volunteer their dollars to arm the Red Cross to be their representative at the scene of battle and distress.

"Today is the day to demonstrate our high morale, our unity, our determination not alone to support our President and our fighting men at the front, but also to insure to our wounded, homeless and suffering fellow citizens in our Pacific Islands that we stand one hundred per cent ready to aid them through the Red Cross."

Squirrel Hunters

RED BAY, Ala. — There are 10 members of the Ross Vinson family.

But a dog, two boys, a rifle and a shotgun keep the household in meat all the year round by skillful hunting.

Amon Vinson, 20, has killed at least 65 squirrels with his 22 rifle since the open season began Nov. 1.

"When my dog trees a squirrel, I don't generally miss," he says. Lorenzo, 19, uses a 12 guage shotgun.

The boys hunt along Gum and Chub Creeks and are careful not to exceed the bag limit. But the Vinsons haven't missed a day having squirrel.

The two older boys are now training 16-year-old Paschal to the art.

Mr. and Mrs. Vinson and the eight children live about six miles from Red Bay.

INCENDIARY BOMBS

By R. C. Parker of Birmingham

The Thermite Bomb that is used so much is the Incendiary Bomb to start fires. A small plane carries no less than 800; the larger planes carry up to 5,000. When they start releasing them, they fall for a distance of about three miles. Out of 800, our Government figures that there would be at least 75 to 100 fires started.

The greatest thing that the people need to learn is how to put these bombs out. They can do so by starting a tiny stream of water on the bomb very slowly. If you dash a bucket of water on it, that merely starts the combustion of the hydrogen and oxygen and causes the explosion that will blow your house up and kill you.

They can be put out in about three to five minutes time, but if you do not put them out they will burn for about 15 minutes, and they will burn through a double floor in about two minutes.

If you have a way, they can be gotten up on a shovel with sand, but it would burn the naked shovel out. The best way is to start with a small stream of water. Keep 10 to 12 feet away if possible; possibly six to eight feet from it, if necessary to place the stream of water.

A Hand pump with a little hose can spray a small stream. Keep a tub or bucket of water convenient in your home at all times.

October statistics show that California, New York and Texas contribute more me nto the Navy than any other states in the Union.

Baker School Students Write of Their Experiences Had on Trip to Montgomery

OUR TRIP TO MONTGOMERY

The room that got the most parents at the P.-T. A. meeting got a half a day. Our room had the most parents and as we planned to go to Montgomery, Mr. Parrish, our principal ,gave us a day off. We had to bring a note from mother saying we could go. Our bus driver was Mr. Hughey Carroll. We carried a notebook and pencil with us to take notes on the things we saw. Mrs. Johnson invited three mothers to go. The mothers were Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Marcus.

We left Baker school Tuesday a. m. at 8:00 o'clock. We saw many things on the way. We saw the Alabama River, Maxwell Field, then we saw soldiers marching, some with guns and some without guns.

We arrived at the Capital at 10:00 o'clock. Our guide met us at the door First he showed us the star where Jefferson Davis stood when he took the oath of office as president of the Confederacy. Then he carried us inside. The floor and wall was made of marble. The marble on the floor came from Georgia and the marble on the walls came from Alabama. There was a circular stairway. It was made by an Englishman. It didn't have a nail or iron in it. Then he took us in the legislature hall where our laws are made. The desk were numbered. The desk that was number 106 was Representative Percy M. Pitts. Mrs. Hattie Wilkins was the first lady Representative of Alabama. She was from Selma. There was a desk for every person. There was a loud speaker in each corner. We went from there to the balcony where people sit when they are in session. We couldn't go in the Senate hall. It was being repaired. Then we saw the dome. There were many beautiful pictures. The picture represents 1540 to 1930. The pictures were painted by an artist. Richard McKenzie, from Mobile. Some of the pictures repersent Sam Dale leading the first pioneers into Alabama, Governor William B. Bibb, first governor of Alabama and the meeting of DeSoto and Tuscaloosa. From there we went out on the porch. The guide said that there were around 78,000 people in Montgomery. From there we went in Gov. Dixon's office. There were three flags in his office. The first flag was the governor's flag, the second one was the Alabama flag and the third was the United States flag. Then he carried us outside. We saw a monument to the Confederate soldiers. Each status in this monument has a historical meaning. Then we left our guides. We thanked him for his kindnes sand said goodbye. He told us to look at the fish pond, cannons, and flowers We saw the flower garden. It was full of roses. The fish pond was full of pretty red fish, there were several cannons.

Then we left the Capital and went to the Archives of natural history. Our guide met us at the door. We spoke to him, then he showed us the doors. The doors were made of pannels and bronze. The door had eight pictures. It was a sliding door, inside the floors were made of Tennessee marble and the walls were made of Alabama marble. The lights were made of inlaid gold. We saw some Indian relics. The pots were called burial urns. The Indians buried people in them. They found one pot with bones in it. The Indian cracked hickory nuts with two stones. We saw a military ship. It was the Alabama ship. We saw a silverware set that was given to Mrs. Bankhead on her fiftieth anniversary. We saw an old fashion piano and a chair that Jefferson Davis sat in. Then we went in another room. There were many animals and birds. There we saw a stuffed reindeer head and a beaver cutting down trees.

Then we decided it was time for lunch. We went back to the truck and went to Oak Park for lunch There were squirrels and pigeons. There was a lion, two bears, a talking parrot, and many other tame animials. After seeing the animals we went to Jefferson Davis home. Our guide met us at the door. First we saw his shoes, his suit case and the old chair that his wife, Mrs. Davis, sent him when he was in prison. Second we saw Mrs. Davis' bedroom. The next room we went in was Jefferson's parlor where the old piano was. There was a pretty rug and a real pretty bedspread. The next room was the second parlor. There was a very nice room with pretty rugs. Then we saw the dining room. The last thing we saw was Jefferson Davis study where he studied. We wanted to go upstairs but it was time for us to go.

We hope we can go back very soon and see upstairs of Jefferson Davis' home. Then we got in the truck and came back to Baker School. When we got to Baker the bus was waiting for us.

OUR TRIP TO MONTGOMERY

The half holiday of Baker School's P.-T. A was given to the sixth and seventh grades. We decided to take a trip to Montgomery. Everyone agreed to go.

We brought notes from our mothers, telling our teacher, Mrs. Johnson, that we coudd go.

We planned to take notebook and pencil to take notes on the things we saw.

We invited three mothers to go with us. The mothers were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Marcus. We got Mr. Carroll to take us. We left Tuesday a. m. at eight o'clock.

After we crossed the Alabama river we saw Maxwell Field. Many planes were on the field. Some were comming and some were going. Then we saw some boys marching.

After we had passed the airport and had gone farther we could see the river again. Farther away on a hill we could see the flag on the dome of the capital waving through the air.

Soon we arrived at the Capitol. Our guide showed us the star where Jefferson Davis stood when he took oath as President of the Confederacy. Then he took us inside the building and showed us the circular stairway. The stairs were made of solid wood. No steel, iron or nails were used, and it was built different from any other stairway in the world.

Then we went to the legislature hall. And we saw where Hon. Percy M. Pitts sits when the legislature is in session. We saw many desks and loud speakers. Then we went up in the balcony. The guide told us that the listeners sat up there.

Later, we went to the dome. We saw eight pictures. They were painted by Roderick McKenzie from 1540 to 1930. Then went out on the porch. We could see the river and town. The guide said that 78,000 people lived in Montgomery.

We then went into Gov. Dixon's office. There were three flags in his office which were the United States, Alabama and the Governor's flag.

After that we went outside and saw a big statue and said good bye to our guide.

He told us to go look at the cannons and fish. There were three cannons, a beautiful pond of fish and a rose garden.

We went to the Archives of Natural History. Our guide met us at the doors. They were sliding doors made from bronze and had light panels.

Later we went inside. The floor was made of Tennessee marble, the walls were Alabama marble. The lights and ceiling are made of inlaid gold. We saw some Indians relics and some things like a bowl called urns. The Indians used these for burying things in.

We went into the Military room, where we saw many kind of guns, money shells, and swords, and flags. After that we went into a room and saw an old fashioned piano.

We ate lunch in Oak Park.

There were many kinds of animals. We had lots of fun watching the monkeys.

After lunch we went to Jefferson Davis' home. In his bed room we saw his sword, suitcase, and hat box that he carried through the wars. Later we went into Mrs. Davis' bed room, first parlor and second parlor, and dining room which had beautiful crystal lights in them. Then we saw Mr. Davis' study and his and Mrs. Davis' desk.

Then it was time to go home. We watched the airplanes and the river and soon we were home.

Everyone was happy and enjoyed the trip very much.

Hunting Seasons Closed And Closing

With the advent of 1942, Alabama's hunting gentry can scratch deer and duck hunting trips off their lists until the fall months usher in another season. Turkey hunters can do the same until the spring gobbling season opens March 20th and squirrel hunters north of U. S. highway 80 follow the example of the deer and duck hunters. The last day of December ended the duck season and the first of January ended the deer, turkey and north of U. S. 80 squirrel seasons.

Dove hunters have until sundown January 11 to pursue their sport throughout the state and squirrel hunters in the territory south of U. S. highway 80 four additional days, the season closing January 15.

Throughout January the quail, rabbit, raccoon, o'possum, rail and gallinule hunters may still legally take the field in quest of those species. Sundown of January 31 marks the end of all these seasons with the exception of quail and rabbit which continue until February 20.

The open trapping season will close on January 31 throughout the state.

A Hunting Story

The best hunting story of the season around here is now public. The other afternoon Jim Annis Gay, Clyde Woodall and Skinny Jones went duck hunting up on the lake. They took along a number of wooden decoy ducks to entice the ducks down to get shot. The three hunters found a nice place with some good bushes and reeds at the water's edge and they put out a number of the decoys and hid in the grass to wait. After a bit they were startled by a number of gun shots right over their heads and they jumped up to see a farmer shooting their wooden ducks right out of the lake! The hunter said he thought the ducks were mighty still as he crept up for a shot.

P. S. Jim Annis said the episode positively cured him of wearing his coonskin cap around on his hunting trips—coonhunters might be loose.—Jackson County Sentinel.

Three Announce For Office On Democratic Ticket

Delos Culp, Jack Hayes, and Buck Roberts Are First To Enter Races

Politics started off with a bang this week after the meeting of the Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee meeting a few days ago at which time fees were decided upon and a course of action was mapped.

First to come in under the starting wire was our Friend Jack Hayes, a local boy who made good in professional baseball and who is no stranger to the voters of Chilton County.

Then there is Delos Culp, who for the past three years has been principal of the Forest Home Junior High School, at Forest Home, Ala. Mr. Culp was a candidate for the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County four years ago and is out again for the same office. He is an old resident of the county and has many, many friends here.

"Buck" Roberts threw his hat into the ring also this week when he announced for Tax Assessor. It hasn't been a couple of years since Buck ran a whale of a race for County Commissioner and is sure to give somebody a whole lot of trouble before May primary.

Up to now that looks just about like the crop for this early in the race but the fireworks haven't started yet. Watch the News and we will give you the news.

Alcohol Tax Unit At Work Here

J. L. White with the Alcohol Tax Unit, working out of Birmingham spent Tuesday in Clanton signing up merchants on an agreement to stop the selling of sugar to moonshiners. According to Mr. White, every time a merchant sells a sack of sugar (100 pounds), to a moonshiner it costs the citizens of America $40.00. Mr. White says there is very little profit at all to the wholesaler or the retailer is handling sugar but when the whiskey maker buys it and turns it into untaxed whiskey Uncle Sam loses that amount in taxes and Mr. Tax Payer has to dig down to make it up. Mr. White was very complimentary of Clanton and praised the local merchants highly.

R. M. (Roy) Roper Not To Run For Tax Collector; Makes Statement to The Public

January 6, 1942

To My Friends of Chilton County:

At the time I first announced my intention of making the race for Tax Collector of this County (as you well know) this Country had not gone to war. However now we are in an all out war and today the only employe in my service capable of Superintending the operation of my farm is being inducted into the armed service of our country.

This simply means that for me to run for public office my farm would have to go neglected and untilled. That of course is unthinkable in the present emergency when our country is calling for our farmers to produce food for freedom.

My farm is an all out fruit and vegetable farm, has been for some time. This class of farming must have some one at the head of it that knows something about this class of farming, and under the circumstances I feel it my duty for that person to be me.

I am 100 per cent for the Democratic party and will do all in my power for its victory next November and this action on my part is being taken unbeknowing to any other candidate.

Thanking the many, many friends who so graciously offered me their support and at any time I can be of service to you, please call on me.

R. M. (ROY) ROPER

Respectfully yours,
R. M. (Roy) ROPER.

Instructions Are Given Here On Proper Way To Make Test Successful

Clanton's Civilian Defense Committee in cooperation with the fire department will experience its first blackout test Friday (tonight) night. The time for the blackout signal has been set at 7:00 o'clock and the signal is one long blast of the Fire whistle followed by several short blasts. The all clear signal will be one long blast of the whistle.

Here is what you are supposed to do when you hear the first alarm

1—KEEP COOL

Above all, keep cool. Don't lose your head.

Do not crowd the streets: avoid chaos, prevent disorder and havoc.

You can fool the enemy. It is easy. If planes come over stay where you are. Don't phone unnecessarily. The chance you will be hit is small. It is part of the risk we must take to win this war.

Until an alarm, go about your usual business and recreation in the ordinary way.

Think twice before you do anything. Don't believe rumors—spreading false rumors is part of the enemy's technique. Don't let him take you in.

Know your air-raid warning. In general, it is short blasts or rising and falling pitch, on whistles or horns. The "all clear" is a steady tone for 2 minutes. Watch this paper for description of the local signal. (This is subject to change.)

Await official information before taking any action. When the Air Raid Warden comes to your home, do what he tells you. He is for your protection. He is your friend

He will help you do your part to whip the enemy

We can do it. We WILL do it, if

High School Defeats Isabella

Clanton won a close game from Howard Freshmen Wednesday night, 23 to 22

Isabella's basket ball team was defeated by the Clanton Tigers Saturday night, Jan. 3, on the Isabella court b ythe score of 41 to 21. This was the fifth victory for the Clanton boys this season without a defeat so far. The teams that have met defeat to date are: Ensley High, Corner High, Selma Y. M. C. A., Jacksonville State Teachers "B" team and Isabella.

Coach Cox has one of the smoothest working high school basket ball teams ever to represent this school If nothing happens to disrupt the team, it should go far when tournament times comes around the last of February.

The boys making up this squad are Collins, Cost, Coggins, Johnson, Daniel, Deason, Riggins, Payton, Smith, and Edwards. This is the same squad to win the state championship last year with the exception of Luke Chambers, who is not in school this year.

Coach L. D. Cox of the high school announces the basket ball schedule for the remainder of the season. Games to be played at home are as follows:

Jan. 7 Howard Freshmen, Jan 9 Ramsay High School, Jan. 20 Isabella, Jan 27 Tuscaloosa County High, Jan. 30 McGill High of Mobile, Feb. 5 Pell City, Feb. 10 Lanier, Feb. 13 University Military School Mobile, Feb. 17, Selma.

This is by far the best high school basket ball schedule ever offered Clanton fans. Coach Cox is bringing some o fthe outstanding high school basket ball teams of the state to Clanton. Every high school team on the schedule has been at the top in its district for the last year or two and several of them have been in the state tournament the last two or three years.

If it is keen competition and fast basket ball Clanton wants, then the fans should be delighted with this set-up for the ermainder of this season.

All games begin promptly at eight o'clock.

SEN. CHARLES B. TEASLEY SAYS COLONEL BIBB GRAVES IS BEST CHANCE FOR OLD-AGE PENSIONS

(From the Montgomery Advertiser, Sunday, January 4, 1942.

Former Senator Charles B. Teasley, of Montgomery, a student of State finances and an authority on taxation, comes out openly in a statement saying that the election of Bibb Graves offers the best chance of old age pensioners to get what they want.

Senator Teasley has been in favor of old age pensions for years. He believes that the issue has not been deadened or killed by the fact that the able-bodied of the country will have to pay taxes to the bone to keep the war going. He believes that after the able-bodied men of the country have either gone to war or stayed behind, that they should be taxed to take care of all those over 65 years who need it and he believes further that Bibb Graves is the man best suited to tax the earnings of what is left of Alabama's able-bodied during and after the war.

Senator Teasley indicates that he will be a candidate for the Legislature on an old age pension ticket.

In a statement to The Advertiser the Senator says in part:

"....I have never favored the Townsend plan of pensions because it promises too much. However there are many arguments made in favor of that plan which equally apply to any other pension plan

"In my opinion the pension could be provided by the State to match Federal aid, which could be easily financed. The State has financed many other problems more serious and not as important as this and there is no good reason why a good pension law should not be enacted by the next Legislature.

COL. BIBB GRAVES

"In this connection I may say I think the more ardent advocates of old age pensions are making a mistake in opposing Gov. Graves for Governor. The question is too big and important to be affected by personalities. Personally, I do not believe they could have a man in the Governor's office that would be more sympathetic to this question than would be Gov. Graves. I have known him and we have been friends all of our lives, and the greatest criticism ever made of him as a public officer has been that he has been too human and liberal with education and all welfare activities. Personally, I would be willing to risk him in working out this promlem.

Jack Hayes Addresses Voters of County

M. C. "Jack" Hayes has statement for citizens in behalf of his candidacy for office of Tax Collector of Chilton County.

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 9, 1942

To the citizens of Chilton County, I want to take this opportunity in behalf of my candidacy for the office of Tax Collector of Chilton County to give you some of my qualifications and to state in a brief way what I stand for. I was born in Chilton County and have spent all my life in Chilton county except when I was away at school and following my profession. My parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes, have been life long citizens of Chilton County. I have always been a Democrat and have rendered what service I could for the best interest of the party. In 1927 when I finished school at the University of Alabama I entered professional baseball and joined the Birmingham Barons of the Southern League. During that year I was sold to the Washington Senators of the American League. I played with this club until 1932 when I was traded to the Chicago White Sox of the American League. I played with this club until the fall of 1940 when I was forced to retire because of eye trouble.

In 1933 my brother, Dick Hayes, and I formed a partnership in business known as the Hayes Chevrolet Company. During the off season in baseball I was actively engaged in this business. December 1st 1941 I sold my interest in this business to Dick.

If elected to the office I will give it my entire time. This is the first time I have asked the citizens of Chilton County to favor me with an office. If permitted to serve you as Tax Collector I will endeavor at all times to act fairly, honestly and without regard to party affiliation when in the performance of my official duties.

I solicit your vote on my record as a citizen, and a business man. I will appreciate any assistance given my candidacy for the office which I seek.

Yours very truly,
M. C. (Jack) HAYES.

State Democratic Committee Meeting

The State Democratic Executive Committee is meeting in Montgomery today in a routine session to name the date fixed by law for holding the Spring Primary in May, and to fix entrance fees, and other rules and regulations for candidates.

As the Committee meets it is reported that more than three-fourths of the members are pledged to Bibb Graves for Governor, and a majority of the others are for him but do not wish to be quoted.

Unless all political signs fail, this is going to be one of the least interesting Gubernatorial campaigns in the history of the State.

The Columnists

Wouldn't it be fine if the hundred and one Columnists, who are daily telling us just how the war should be fought, could exchange places with the seasoned warriors at the heads of our fighting forces, so this terrible slaughter could be ended in the next week or so?

HOW MATERIAL SHORTAGES AND DEFENSE REQUIREMENTS AFFECT TELEPHONE SERVICE

From 1931 through 1939 Southern Bell service was brought to a peak of efficiency never before attained.

During these years we had full margins of plant facilities, and most telephone workers were veterans with years of experience and training. These conditions created a situation ideal for concentration on the betterment of the speed and quality of our services.

Now the situation is reversed. Defense requirements, both military and industrial, as well as unprecedented demands for individual service, have placed exceptional burdens on our physical resources and manpower. Added to this is the tremendous increase in local and long distance calls, which combined have developed service demands without parallel in our history.

Thousands of new workers have been employed and trained, and millions of dollars have been spent to expand our facilities to meet these heavy demands.

We hope you will agree that we have so far been generally successful in meeting the demands for telephone service, great as they have been. Because of conditions beyond our control, such as the shortage of copper and other essential materials, it may be, as time goes on, that we cannot continue to meet the demands in certain congested areas with the same success. However, we pledge you that we shall continue to do our very best, with the determination to accomplish the impossible rather than trying to show why the possible can't be done.

One of the most important steps ever taken by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad came in November, 1909, when it acquired the Wasioto and Black Mountain Railroad, then being built through Harlan County, Ky. The line was completed to Harlan Courthouse in July, 1911, and to Benham, some 30 miles farther up Poor Fork Branch, in September, 1911. The first carloads of coal left Harlan County on August 25, 1911, from the Aldrian Mine of the old Wallins Creek Coal Company.

The years just before America's entrance into World War I, were featured by the dedication of a new Union Station at Memphis, Tenn., in 1913, and by a terrific hurricane which struck the Gulf Coast on September 29, 1915.

At first the War which raged abroad had an adverse effect upon rail traffic, but by the end of 1914 business had begun to pick up and thereafter boomed, with America's railroads annually being called upon to handle an ever-increasing tonnage. The L. & N.'s gross earnings in 1916, just prior to America's entrance into the war, totaled approximately $65,000,000, an increase of several million dollars over the previous year. The emergency found the Louisville & Nashville prepared, for it had been gradually expanding its equipment and facilities during the previous decade.

Prior to the inception of the National Defense effort the Old Reliable annually spent millions of dollars for new equipment and to otherwise improve its physical plant. The present Emergency has caused a redoubled effort, and outstanding authorities for improvement work on this railroad now total more than $15,000,000.

Here is a few paragraphs taken from a INS writers story on the Pearl Harbor attack:

A wounded sailor was full of praise for his commanding officer in the Battle of Honolulu.

"Our skipper was a little fellow," he said. "You could look right over his head. But he certainly was full of fight. We had only a three-inch gun where we were, but he wouldn't let anybody else fire it. He peppered away at the Japs until a bomb hit nearby and blew him into the water. Our executive gave the order to abandon ship.

"Our skipper bobbed up out of the water just as we were going down the gangplank.

"Hey, where you fellows going," he yelled. "We told him we were abandoning ship.

"'The hell you are!' he shouted. 'Get back to your stations!'

"So we went back and he climbed aboard and went back to his gun When he spotted some men idling he ordered a messenger to get a sack of potatoes.

"When the messenger hesitated, the skipper yelled at him. 'Yes I mean potatoes, I got to keep the men occupied at a time like this. Let them throw potatoes at the Japs.'"

PATES CHAPEL

It seems like old man Winter is visiting in our community this week after a few rainy days last week afwe enjoy some cold weather.

When the weather is cold and bad we are sorry that some cannot come to church that would come if it was pretty weather.

Bro. Nix filled his regular appointment at both services and delivered two wonderful messages.

We are sorry that some have had a couple of accidents who live in our community. Mr. Sam Hubbard who was working at a saw mill happend to walk out over the slab pit on a plank and it broke with him and caused him to step in the bed of coals and burn his feet pretty bad.. He also had a light case of pneumonia too. Mr. Hershel Maddox fell when a pole broke with him and broke the small bone just above the ankle. But he is not confined to his bed. He can walk around on crutches.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox are the proud parents of a fine baby girl. We do not know the young lady's name

Mr. Milford Hubbard who is in camp was home on a few days vacation.

We are glad to know that Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hayes are making their home in our community at the present.

Let everybody try to make a promise to go to church each and every Sunday as we have started a new year.

Clanton Blackout

we stay calm and cool and strong and alert.

2—STAY HOME

The safest place in an air raid is at home.

If you are away from home, get under cover in the nearest shelter. Avoid crowded places. Stay off the streets.

The enemy wants you to run out into the streets, create a mob, start a panic. Don't do it!

If incendiary bombs fall, play a spray from a garden hose (never a splash or stream) of water on the bomb. Switch to a stream to put out any fire started by the bomb. Switch back to a spray for the bomb. The bomb will burn for about 15 minutes if left alone. only about 2 minutes under a fine water spray. A jet splash, stream or bucket of water will make it explode.

Under raid conditions, keep a bathtub and buckets full of water for the use of the fire department in case water mains are broken.

If you have a soda-and-acid extinguisher (the kind you turn upside down,) use it with your finger over the nozzle to make a spray. Don't use the chemical kind (small cylinders of liquid) on bombs. It is all right for ordinary fires.

But above all, keep cool, and stay home.

Choose one member of the family to be the home air-warden—who will remember all the rules and what to do. Mother makes the best.

3—PUT OUT LIGHTS

Whether or not black-out is ordered, don't show more light than is necessary. If planes come over, put out or cover all lights at once—don't wait for the black-out order. The light that can't be seen will never guide a Jap. Remember a candle light may be seen for miles from the air.

If you have portieres or curtains, arrange a double thickness over your windows. Blankets will do. If you have heavy black paper, paste it on your windows. Don't crowd or stampede stores to get it, however. You probably have everything you need at home. Be ingenious—improvise.

Should you get an air-raid warning, remember to shut off gas stoves, gas furnaces and gas pilot lights on both. Bomb explosions may blow them out from blast efefct. Gas that collects may be explosive later.

Prepare one room, the one with the least window glass, in the strongest part of your house, for a refuge room. Put food and drinking water in it. Put a sturdy table in it. Put mattresses and chairs in it. Take a magazine or two, and a deck of cards, into it. Take things, like eyeglasses and dentures with you when you go into it. Take toilet facilities, paper, a screen. If you have a portable radio, take that too. Above all keep calm. Stay at home. Put out lights.

4—LIE DOWN

If bombs start to fall near you, lie down. You will feel the blast least that way escape fragments or splinters.

The safest place is under a good stout table—the strongest the legs the better.

A mattress under a table combines comfort with safety.

The enemy may use explosive bombs or incendiary bombs, or both. If incendiaries are used, it's more important to deal with them than to be safe from blast. So defeat the incendiary with a spray (never a splash or stream) of water, then go back to safety under a table in a refuge room.

Most raids will likely be over in your immediate neighborhood in a short time. However, stay under cover till the "all clear" is sounded.

Know your raid alarms. Know the all clear. Official news of these will come to you from your Air Raid Warden. Don't believe rumors. Watch this paper for air raid alarm description. Ask the warden when he comes.

Should your house be hit, keep cool. Answer tappings from rescue crews if you are trapped. (You most likely won't be either hit or trapped, but if you are, you can depend on rescue squads to go after you.) Again —keep cool, and wait. Don't yell after you hear them coming to you, unless they tell you to. Keep cool!

Just keeping cool hurts the enemy more than anything else you can do. Keep calm. Stay at home. Put out lights. Lie down.

5—STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS

Glass shatters easily, so stay away from windows.

Don't go to windows and look out, in an air raid. It is a dangerous thing and helps the enemy. The Air Raid Warden is out there watching for you. Again we say, get off the street if planes come over.

At night, there is danger of being caught in blast from explosives. Antiaircraft fire means falling shrapnel. You are safe from it indoors, away from windows. It's more important to shell a plane than it is to see it from a window. Do not say—we are repeating; we would rather repeat until we bore you than have you forget.

Stay in your refuge room, away fro mwindows. That is the safest place. Go there at the first alarm; stay there until the all clear.

Above all, keep calm. Stay home. Put out lights. Lie down. Stay away from windows. That is the safest

You can do all those things without any special equipment, other than what you have now in your home.

You can help lick the Japs, with your bare hands, if you will do just those few, simple things.

Be a good fellow and follow instrucions and keep well.

Do not be a wise guy and get hurt.

(f) On farm tractors or other farm implements, other than automobiles or trucks for the operation of which rubber tires, casings or tubes are essential.

(g) On industrial, mining and construction equipment, other than automobiles or trucks, for the operation of which rubber tires, casings, or tubes are essential.

The law specifies that no member of the Local Board shall receive pay for services rendered. It provids, however, that the person designated as Inspector may charge, where he has to take off and put back on tires in order to examine same, 50¢ cents for his services. In other words, if the applicant takes off his own tire in the presence of the Inspector, no charge can be made by the Inspector for any of the services connected with the Rationing Board.

Mayor Stapp points out that seriousness of the rubber shortage, and states that, in view of the fact that the members of the Tire Rationing Board and all the clerical help connected therewith are rendering their services voluntarily, he hopes that the people of Chilton County will show their usual cooperative spirit by conserving tires and making as few demands as possible on the Rationing Board.

Association of Livestock Producers Organized In Chilton Couunty

At a meeting called by County Agent, P. H. Smith, and Assistant County Agent, Glasscock, on Monday, January 12, 1942, the Chilton County Livestock Association was organiged. Announcement of this proposed meeting and its objective was made in both papers last week. A representative group of producers was present and enthusiastically organized an association that will do much toward the improvement of and increase of livestock in our county.

Every Producer Should Join

Every producer of cattle, both beef and dairy types, hogs and any other livestock is requested to list his name and objectives with the secretary of the Association. Every producer is needed in the Association and every producer will benefit by the Association. Later in this article some of these possible benefits will be listed.

Dr. W. L. Parrish, Chairman

Dr. W. L. Parrish was elected chairman of the Association, and he is well qualified to serve in this capacity. His wide knowledge in the care, feeding, breeding and handling of all types of stock makes him, in this position, a greater asset to us all as livestock producers.

Burton Mullins was elected Vice-Chairman, and you will find Burt willing and ready at all times to assist you in any way with your problems. It is probable that Burt will be the general marketing coordinator as plans of the Association form.

The Secretary-Treasurer is Bob Oglesby.

You are urgently requested to be present at the next meeting to help draft plans that will aid us all in the better production of livestock. Your presence at, and part in each meeting, is one of the greatest benefits, because:

First benefit—We will discuss and try to work out our mutual problems regarding care, breeding, feeding, Etc. Give your ideas and get new ones.

Second benefit—We hope to (and with your cooperation will) become well enough organized that we can buy bulls, heifers, boars, gilts and other stock in groups in order to buy them cheaper than if we must continue buying as individuals. Quantity buying will always give many advantages and better bargains. LIST YOUR NEEDS WITH THE SECRETARY NOW, if you plan to buy a registered bull, registered boar or a few stock steers or heifers. LIST YOUR NEEDS at once with Secretary Bob. A file is being set up to keep a record of all such needed items.

Plans are under way at present for a group to make an inspection trip soon to buy a few registered bulls. If you are planning to buy one soon, notify your Livestock Association Secretary, Bob Oglesby, at once.

Third benefit — Under the second benefit we feel the Association will help us to "buy right"; now it can help us to "sell right." We can sell F.O.B. our lot in quantities large enough to justify a regular packer buyer coming here better than we can, as individuals, haul our products to the markets and pay fees, Etc. Then, too, hauling is going to be a problem.

There are many other benefits too numerous to itemize. COME TO YOUR NEXT MEETING AND GIVE US SOME OF YOUR IDEAS.

FREEDOM

"Food for Freedom" was the primary objective of this meeting and the organization of this Association. Chilton county has been asked to produce 13% more beef; 11% more pork, and 15% more milk in 1942. Under separate cover we are mailing each producer a review of beef cattle specialist, W. H. Gregory's suggestion at this first Association meeting as to haw we can produce more beef and more milk. Read this article—attend the next Association meeting—Do your part in FOOD FOR FREEDOM FOR DEFENSE.

"By casting this ballot I do pledge myself to abide by the result of this Primary Election and to aid and support all the nominees thereof in the ensuing General Election."

COL. BIBB GRAVES QUALIFIES

"Little Colonel" Is Going After the Democratic Nomination for Governor in the May Primary.

Immediately after the State Democratic Executive Committee meeting held in Montgomery Friday Col. Bibb Graves, who commanded the 117th Field Artillery in the first World War and who also has had the distinction of serving as governor of Alabama, qualified with both the Executive Committee and Secretary of State, John Brandon, to be a candidate for the governorship in the May, 1942, Democratic primary.

Colonel Graves, who is now in excellent health, says he will enjoy the campaign as it will bring the renewal of many old acquaintances and bring him pleasant visits to all parts of his beloved native state. It is often being said by associates of Colonel Graves that he probably knows more people personally and has visited more communities than any man in public life in the state.

The Colonel has been urged to make this race by many prominent groups of people from all walks of life in Alabama. He has a way of getting and holding state-wide cooperation of all our people and in the present emergency he is considered the logical leader for our state government.

From time to time he will state his policies and plans. The first policy already stressed by Colonel Graves is that his campaign efforts positively will not meddle in county or local politics or races of any kind. He says that he is running for governor, and that alone, and publicly states: "The other boys in politics can settle their own affairs in their own way without any meddling from me or my campaign.

"My people have honored me twice by making me governor of Alabama, and for this signal honor I feel a humble and profound sense of gratitude to them and to God who put it into their hearts to do this.

"My people, I believe, want me to devote the intimate knowledge of the affairs of state and the experience in government which I have necessarily acquired, to their service for a third term, and I welcome that call to service.

"Every policy, every recourse, every ounce of energy of this state must be devoted first to the wholehearted and unstinted cooperation with our national administration to win the war and to make human liberty secure for future generations.

"Subject to that primary and paramount objective, I shall later make my position clear on all public issues. This is no time for bitter partisan strife. I call on my fellow Alabamians to remain united all for one and one for all."

NOTICE

TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY:

I expect to announce myself for Congress from this district within the near future and will see the people of your county as soon as possible.

Carnation Company To Locate Cooling Plant Here

In a letter received the first of this week by Pat Smith, County Agent Clanton was assured by the Carnation Milk Company, of a Cooling Station to be built here at a cost exceeding $10,000

Mr. A. C. Oosterhuis, of Oconomowoc, Wis., Director of the Extension Department was the authority for the announcement and assured Mr. Smith that the work would start sometime this summer

The Company is at work at present building a condensary at Dadeville, and the work on this plant will have to be finished before the work here begins.

Property for location of the building has already been purchased by the Carnation Milk Company and lies in north Clanton just beyond the creek. The allotment for the new Cooling Plant has already been voted by the Board and funds set aside for construction of the new unit.

In conversation with Mr Smith we learned that employment of local labor is nil as only four or five employees are required to handle the operations of the plant.

Press Association Meets Today

Alabama editors meet in Birmingham January 16-17 for the 72nd convention of the Alabama Press Association, and a full discussion of methods they can employ in serving their communities and nation in the war months ahead.

Three executives of press associations in the South head the list of speakers; Col. Bruce R. McCoy, manager of the Louisiana Press Association; James C. Seymour, manager of the Georgia Press Association, and faculty member of the Emory University School of Journalism, and C. R. F. Smith, editor of "Folks," a magazine for rural and small-town correspondents.

Alabama publishers who will participate in panel discussions include Jay Thornton, of The Haleyville Advertiser; Cullen Morgan, Hale County News; Bonnie Hand, LaFayette Sun; Charles Dobbins, Anniston Times, and Ben Green, Tuscaloosa News.

J. H. Faulkner, of Bay Minette, is president of the association, Doyle Buckles, of the University of Alabama School of Journalism, is field manager.

Kiwanis Club Observes Ladies Night

The Clanton Kiwanis Club observed 'Ladies Night' 'at their last meeting. Miss Harriet McSwain of Selma, gave an appropriate talk on the war and what all of us can do.

The club was also favored with a number of vocal solos by Mrs. Dick Kemp.

Mr. Roy Roper was welcomed into the club as a new member

Patriotic decorations were used which were not only beautiful, but very much in keeping with the occasion.

Clanton Residents Co-operate In Their Practice Black-Out

Residents of our city did themselves proud last Friday night when Clanton tried its first practice black-out. Practically all the population cooperated wonderfully.

The Birmingham News sent Jack House, staff writer here to get the story and gave us quite a bit of good publicity on the occasion. Large pictures appeared on the front page of the Saturday afternoon eddition.

"Rip" Burnett at Clanton Motors came in for a bit of unfavorable publicity in the News story when he and Sleepy Miller went off to help the Air-Raid Wardens and forgot a small light in the back of the garage. Rip says it was overlooked and he didn't appreciate the story.

The weatherman didn't hear the signal whe nit sounded and started sifting a mantle of white over the City and countryside, which lasted just about as long as the black-out.

But all in all we will have to compliment all who had anything to do with it and especially W. H. L. Smith, Fire Chief, all the Firemen, the Boy Scouts and Mr. Clanton Citizen in general. It was a big success.

This Week In National Defense

A WEEK OF THE WAR

The President, in a message to Congress, said he had directed Federal agencies to arrange a new schedule of war production calling for 60,000 planes in 1942, including 45,000 combat craft, and 125,000 in 1943, including 100,000 combat units; 45,000 tanks in 1942 and 75,000 in 1943; 20,000 anti-aircraft guns in 1942 and 35,000 in 1943; 8,000,000 deadweight tons of merchant ships in 1942 and 10,000,000 in 1943.

The President told Congress he would order the U. S. armed forces to a world-wide front to find the enemy and "hit him and hit him again whenever and wherever we can reach him." He said U. S. forces would take up positions if necessary in the British Isles, the Far East and on all oceans and bases within and without the New World necessary to protect the Western Hemisphere.

The President proposed total expenditures in the fiscal year 1943 of $77,000,000,000. Of this $56,000,000,000 would be for the war. He said total war expenditures are now at the rate of approximately $2,000,000,000 a month and may surpass $5,000,000,000 a months during fiscal 1943. The President said he could not predict ultimate costs "because I cannot predict the changing fortunes of war," but he proposed an increase in tax collections to $27,000,000,000. He asked careful Congressional consideration of income taxes collected at the source, payroll, taxes, excise taxes and taxes on State and local government bonds.

Mr. Roosevelt said expenditures for farm aid, work relief and youth aid would be reduced by the end of the 1942 fiscal year $600,000,000 from last year an will be reduced another $860,000,000 next fiscal year when the total cost will be $1,400,000,000 or about half of the sum for the present year.

PRODUCTION PROGRESS

The Office for Emergency Management reported increased pooling of aircraft production facilities within the industry and with the auto industry, and concentration on superior types of planes. The OEM said in almost every month of 1942 additional plants will begin production of planes with parts supplied by industrial pools.

The War Department reported at least one plant of each of the 13 types required for the munitions program was completed in 1941, making a total of 28 now in operation. The announcement said 28 more will begin production soon.

OPM Director Knudsen announced the auto industry must double its scheduled war output to handle $5,000,000,000 additional war contracts. OPM formed a 10-member industry labor committee to study conversion of the industry to war products.

EMPLOYMENT

Labor Secretary Perkins reported 15,000,000 workers will be engaged in war production by the end of 1942 — three times as many as were so employed in the fourth quarter of 1941. There will be only a relatively small increase in total employment) however, Miss Perkins said, because many persons now working in civilian-goods industry will be shifted to war work. WPA announced 3,800,000 persons were unemployed in December 100,000 less than the previous month.

CONSERVATION OF MATERIALS

OPM announced industrial conservation programs will be set up in more than 30 industrial centers to wreck old machinery and equipment to salvage needed materials; to minimize waste and spoilage, to handle scrap and speed its return to users.

OPM also recommended elimination of special deliveries of milk and substitution of every-other-day delivery for daily delivery to conserve tires. The agency recommended manufacturers simplify the types of bottle and other containers and eliminate those not necessary; ordered all tin and lead scrap under rationing control, restricted use of ethyl alcohol in toilet soaps, mouth washes, rubbing alcohol, candy glazes; cut use of certain materials in manufacture of vending machines dispensing cigarettes, food, candy and other items; cut the amount of wool for civilian use to 80 per cent of last year; and restricted the use of copper in certain radio parts.

OPM granted permission to auto manufacturers to make 204,848 cars in January in order to use up parts already made before the plants are converted to war production. Congress passed a law permitting the President to order daylight saving time to save electric power.

PRICES

The Prseident sent a message to Congress asking for provision for a single price administrator for all prices in the price control legislation now under consideration. The OPM issued a pamphlet, "How to Stop Inflation," the causes of inflation, measures taken in other countries and what can be explaining in non-technical language done here to keep prices down. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported wholesale prices are now at the highest level since 1939—17.6 per cent above this time last year.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE

The President appointed James M. Landis, Dean of the Harvard Law School, as Executive of the Office of Civilian Defense to direct the civilian defense program under the general supervision of Director LaGuardia, who is also Mayor of New York City. The House and Senate passed and sent to conference a bill appropriating $100,000,000 for civilian defense. OCD asked its regional directors to obtain from State and city governments all possible equipment needed by the auxiliary firemen, policemen, air raid wardens and other volunteers. Director McNutt of the Defense Health and Welfare Services set up in each of the 48 States a State Nursing Council on Defense to promote recruiting of student nurses and enrollment of 50,000 young women in nursing schools in 1942.

AGRICULTURE

The Oklahoma Agriculture Defense Board established an experimental "machinery bank" to provide a reservoir of spare parts for farm equipment. All idle farming equipment on Oklahoma's 32,000 farms will be centrally located, repaired and made available to farmers as they need it.

PAN-AMERICAN RELATIONS

OEM announced that for the first time in recent history, U. S. imports from Latin America have been larger than exports. U. S. trade in Latin America, the agency said, was one-third larger than in the corresponding period of 1940 and about 75 per cent larger than in the first three quarters of 1939. The State Department elevated the U. S. legations in Paraguay, Ecuador and Bolivia to the rank of embassies in "formal recognition of the importance of developments" leading to Pan-American solidarity. Under Secretary of State Wells left Washington to attend the Pan-American conference of foreign ministers at Rio de Janerio January 15.

THE WAR FRONT

The White House announced the U. S., Britain, the Netherlands and the Dominion governments agreed to a unified command in the Southwest Pacific area with all sea, land and air forces under Gen. Wavell of the British army, with Lt. Gen. Brett, of the U. S. Army Air Forces, as next in command. Gen. MacArthur, commander in the Philippines, reported his lines holding against renewed Japanese attacks. The Army and Navy reported sinking of three enemy cargo ships of 10,000 tons each, one enemy transport and more than a score of Japanese bombing and fighting planes. The Marine Corps announced that new reports showed that the defenders of Wake Island had sunk one cruiser, four destroyers, one submarine and one gunboat before succumbing. The President cited the entire Wake garrison for heroism.

The White House announced the RAF dropped more than 2,000,000 American pamphlets on Nazi-occupied France stressing the historic ties between the American and French people. The pamphlets included pictures of the Statue of Liberty and quotations from the President's speeches.

The President set Fbruary 16 for selective service registration of men from 20 to 44 who have not previously registered.

Changes At National Capitol December 7th Reported by Jarman

Washington, D. C. — (Special) — Many changes have occurred in your National Capitol since the outbreak of war.

My attention was first directed to one as I crossed the Potomac en route from the airport to which I had flown from Birmingham early on the morning after Pearl Harbor. Soldiers with fixed bayonets were already on guard. The Congress has a special police force for the group of Capitol buildings which was augmented perhaps a year ago by a detail of city police. Soldiers were immediately substituted for policemen from 6:00 p. m. to 8:00 a. m. While not on duty they sleep in the Rotunda directly under the Capitol Dome through which I pass when I leave my office. It was at first a very strange sight, though one which recalled many pleasant and unpleasant memories, to see these soldiers sleeping on their blankets on the stone floor. While cots have since been furnished, even while sleeping on the floor they enjoyed the unusual comfort of steam heat.

At first no one could enter the building after the soldiers took charge unless recognized by a Capitol policeman who remained on duty for that purpose; later the regulation was changed to prevent entrance under any circumstances of one who could not present the pass which has been issued to those who work in the Capitol building.

Machine Guns are constantly manned by soldiers on top of the House and Senate Office Buildings as well as Departmental Buildings. I naddition, on the memorable occasion when Prime Minister Churchill addressed the Congress riflemen were spotted at frequent intervals on top of the Capitol Buildings and throughout the grounds.

The Capitol Dome, which has for years been even more brilliantly lighted than that of our own Capitol in Montgomery is now dark. No unnecessary lights burn in public or private buildings and white way lights use considerably reduced voltage, causing rather a dark and dismal appearance. Search lights frequently play about in the skies and anti-aircraft guns point across the Potomac. A very successful blackout occurred this week which will undoubtedly be frequently repeated.

In other words, your Nation's Capitol is on a war basis, ready for what may come, just as your National Congress is devoting its entire attention to the war effort, as it will continue to do until our arms are again crowned with the victory which has concluded every war in which America has been forced to participate.

Wheeler Wants Daylight Time

WASHINGTON. —Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D., Mont.), today expects the Senate interstate commerce committee, of which he is chairman, to consider his bill for nationwide daylight saving time at its first meeting of the new session.

Wheeler said he planned to "push the bill right through." It would authorize President Roosevelt during the war emergency and for the ensuing six months, to order the nation's clocks ahead or back by not more than two hours.

GIVE IT TO LEGION TAKE OFF INCOME TAX

If you contribute to the American Legion—not membership dues but all other donations—that money may be deducted from your individual Federal income tax, John T. Batten, state commander of the American Legion announced.

The American Legion regularly donates flags, school awards and trophies to schools, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and similar organizations, Mr. Batten said, and donations to the Legion for any of these purposes are deductable.

CCC CAMP NEWS

The war and its necessities have placed on farmers large and small the obligation of conserving and putting to best use every piece of farm machinery it was pointed out today by Mr. Marvin Durbin, County Supervisor, of the Farm Security Administration program in Chilton County.

Accordingly, the FSA has thrown its efforts into the campaign, in which all agencies of the United States Department of Agriculture and the USDA Defense Boards are jointed, to help overcome the impending shortage of new farm machinery.

"There is a lot of farm machinery, both whole and in parts, that may be redeemed for use," said Mr. Durbin. "We are asking all FSA borrower families to help collect unused machinery, to collect parts of old machinery which may still be used, and to spread the use of machinery under a plan of sharing and of joint ownership.

"Most farm machinery doesn't wear out so much as it rusts out. In the present national emergency, the redemption and restoration of old machinery becomes a patriotic duty.

"Farmers will have to depend more than ever on existing machinery regardless of its condition, because the manufacture of new machinery and equipment will be sharply curtailed in 1942 due to defense demands on supplies of steel, copper and other metals. Farm machinery parts are going to be both scarce and expensive. We are urging all Farm Security families to oil and grease their machinery and to wrap all moving parts now. Tools are being checked over for repair or replacement and then stored in sheds or protected from the weather in some other way."

"We also are advising them to strip from old implements all bolts, gears, or other parts needed to repair newer machinery."

Mr. Durbin pointed out that there is an opportunity for profitable employment for both individual farmers and groups of farmers in assembling, painting and restoring machines which have rusted from disuse and which, under normal conditions, might have been discarded for scrap heaps.

Post-War Depression Fear Unfounded, Says Edward J. Flynn

The United States has little cause to fear a post-war depression in the opinion of Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The fact that the United States experienced a business depression after the last World War, he declared in an interview, did not mean the same result should follow this war.

"It's not the same kind of war," he said. "In the last war nearly all the destruction was in France. Now it's all over Europe and a large part of Asia. Who can supply all the materials for reconstruction? Only the United States."

He asserted he thought the United States' economic position was strong enough to make it useless to worry about how war-stricken countries could pay for the things they needed.

"There have always been people saying we're going to hell in a h basket," he said of administration c ics who said the country was virtu ly bankrupt before the current war

Flynn said political parties w the logical organiaztion for prom ing the sale of defense bonds a stamps and the organization of c ilian defense.

"We'll never get away from o two-party system in America a wouldn't want to see it happen," h continued. It's the basis of our g ernment system."

"BEER HAS A USEFUL PLACE IN AMERICAN LIFE."
—Judge Walter B. Jones, Montgomery, Ala.

WALTER B. JONES, prominent jurist of Montgomery Circuit Court, says "beer is a wholesome beverage with a useful place in American life." Judge Jones adds:

"The Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee is doing a splendid work in aiding our law enforcement officers to stamp out law violations in places where beer is licensed to be sold."

Courts of Alabama, he declared, are giving full support to the work of the ABC Board and the beer industry to have beer sold under clean, wholesome conditions.

Help protect this beverage of moderation—patronize only reputable, law-abiding places.

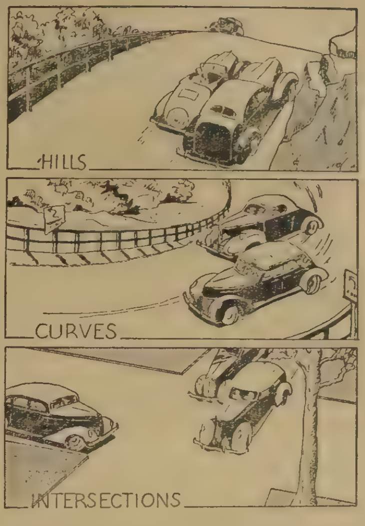
PLACES WHERE PASSING IS FORBIDDEN



INVITATION TO INJURY OR DEATH—Motorists who stake their lives or limbs against time and speed, in the hurry of some erstwhile mission, are simply inviting injury or death. Motorists are legally forbidden to pass vehicles on crests of hills, on curves and on street intersections, yet many pay little attention to these restrictions. The above illustrations graphically portray the dangers of such practices. Cautious driving by all would greatly reduce the death tolls. The State Department of Public Safety has continually warned motorists against such infractions as are shown in these pictures, and the State Highway Department has marked many dangerous "no-passing zones"

Farmers Warned About Machinery

Faced with a certainty of inability to get all new farm implements they need all farmers of Chilton County are urged by P. H. Smith, County Agent, to overhaul and repair all their old implements during the winter season. "This means," said Mr. Smith, "that every implement which will be needed any time during 1942 should be checked immediately. If new parts are needed, order them at once.

"All home repairing that is possible should be done, each farmer doing the job himself and using his home materials as far as possible. All of this work should be done long before date of first need."

Mr. Smith added that "some new implements will be available." Farmers expecting to buy them were advised by him to contact their dealers at once and place their orders for delivery when wanted.

The County Agent is also contacting dealers, blacksmiths, and other repair shops, requesting them to contact farmers about service which they render. All are reminded that farmers who wait until an implement is needed to repair it, or to get a new one, is certain to be disappointed, because of inability to get all parts and new machines wanted and needed this year.

In addition to buying the normal number of new implements farmers are being asked to produce in 1942 more with less labor. This makes it imperative that implements on hand be repaired and used more days than has been customary. In many instances it will be necessary for farmers to lend implements to each other so that one will serve more than one farmer.

A Fifty Mile Radius, with Clanton as the center is second only to Pittsburgh, in National Defense importance

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS, CLANTON, ALA

Wishful thinking is a mighty poor substitute for active preparation against impending danger.—Mark.

Safety

—o—

Among the many proverbs of King Solomon is one which every American might ponder with profit at this time. The proverb reads: "The horse is prepared against the day of battle; but safety is of the Lord."

The possibility of American cities being bombed should not be exaggerated, but cannot be ignored. Prompt, intelligent civilian defense activity is essential. To be effective, it requires mental, spiritual, and physical preparation on the part of every individual.

In the mental and spiritual realm, the first requisite is a clear understanding that man's main reliance is on God, and on His comforting assurances of protection to those who turn to Him in time of trouble.

Such a realization precludes fear, and enables individuals and organizations to proceed with outward defense preparations calmly, wisely, and with a right sense of proportion. There must be this freedom from the panic and confusion usually attendant on fear, to permit the necessary cool analysis of the situation, judicious determination of areas most likely to be attacked, and the efficient utilization and distribution of defense mechanism.

Enemy bombers will not disconcert a people who, having taken adequate human precautions, in obedience to official instructions, to prepare "against the day of battle," stand confident in the knowledge that "safety is of the Lord."—The Christian Science Monitor.

'To Build a Free World'

We shall not abandon our democratic faith, either during this war, or when this war is done. No matter what we must face, we mean to see that democracy shall live and grow.... We shall go forward—not in vengeance, and merely to destroy, but to build a free world for all men.—Council for Democracy Bulletin.

Who Will Have It?

All the money gathered together with which to fight the war will go somewhere, and rest in someone's or some corporation's strong box. It will still be here when the war is over, and it will be well for we of the United States to keep an eye on who has it.

PUBLICITY

The Shelby County Reporter says: "Newspapers of Alabama are doing a wonderful work in aiding the government in the publicity of its plans for the public." Correct, and The Reporter should have added: "Newspapers of Alabama are doing an awful lot of work publicising the pet schemes of a good sized portion of the public, free of charge that it should be getting paid for.

Why Worry About It?

The following was widely reprinted during the first World War. It is just appropriate now as it was then, particularly at the beginning of the New Year:

Either you are successful or you are not successful.

If you are successful there is nothing to worry about.

If you are not successful, there are only two things to worry about.

Your health is either good or you are sick.

If your health is good there is nothing to worry about.

You are either going to get well or you are going to die.

If you are going to get well, there is nothing to worry about.

If you are going to die, there are only two things to worry about.

You are either going to heaven or you are not going to heaven.

If you are going to heaven, there is nothing to worry about.

If you are going to the other place, you will be so busy shaking hands with old friends and acquaintances that you won't have anything to worry about.

So why worry?

TOL HAS AILMENT

After roaming around, ruminating and lambasting, numerous and sundry for some 69 Summers, and equally as many Winters, our (no we will not say old) friends Tol Stropshire, finally roamed in to a Rome hospital a few days ago, suffering from a minor trouble with a major aspect. Last accounts say Tol has come out of it, or is coming out of it in great shape, and we may soon expect an erudition of his enforced vacation under conditions and surroundings, while altogether natural and necessary, may not have been just what the Sage and Centre would ordinarily desire, or appreciate.

Attention Farmers

The year 1942 will be one of big opportunities and bigger responsibilities for farmers. To win the war the United States and the nations associated with us must have plenty of farm products as well as machines and munitions of war.

This makes necessary an increase in the production of many products especially peanuts, milk, eggs and meat.

But farmers have been told that the output of farm implements has been curtailed to the extent that many farmers can't get all the new implements they need. Consequently, all old implements must be repaired. This work should be done immediately. If new parts are needed, order them at once. Unless this is done we and other dealers will not be able to serve our customers.

Some new implements will be available. Farmers who anticipate buying them are asked to place their orders promptly. Otherwise they will be disappointed.

—o-o-o—

To aid in keeping the wheels going round, during this uncertain period, you should anticipate your job printing orders as far in advance as possible. Call Chilton County News, Phone 32. and give them your order now.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

By BEN

Vincent Ward, better known as "Doc", wrote us this week from Southern California and tried to make us want to join the army with him . . . his letter in part says, "every afternoon there are a lot of beautiful girls in big cars waiting out at the gate,, ready to take us to ride or anywhere we wish to go, and if we try to pay for anything they get mad." "Doc" ain't in the army. . . .he's in Heaven.

We believe in economy in aiding our Uncle winning this war alright but don't you think Claud Craig is carrying this economy business a bit far. . . . he has his Christmas wreath and light still up in the window and we suspect it is to keep from going to the unnecessary expense of having to put another one up there next year ..... After all its just eleven months and fifteen days until Christmas again.

If Clanton does get that Carnation Plant we will be going to town. . . And we can give a lot of credit to Pat Smith who has worked hard and accomplished much in getting this new business for our progressive county... you can read all about it on page one of this issue.

Boy, they really left town Monday morning. . . we're talking about the selectees. . . three or four buses were needed and they were full too. . . Mrs. Newell at the Draft Board says that she thinks they ought to take married men, they've had more experience fighting.

Did you know that Clanton sort of had something to do with bringing the New Year into Mobile Alabama this year? Little Mr. 1942 of that city is none other than the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Eubanks.... George Wayne, (That is Mr. New Year's name this year(arrived at his destination about 1 hour and ten minutes after 12 midnight. . . the mother is the daughter of the Clanton Eubanks and both Mrs. Golson and the New Year are o. k.

Well we're in Birmingham by the time this reaches you having a good time with our fellow editors of the Alabama Press Association . . . wish you were her.

Things bet you didn't know . . . B. N. Studdard is the youngest Gulf Distributor in the State of Alabama. . . Jack Hayes's auto tag No. is 1415-16 ... James Carl Martin was in town Sunday from the Azalea town in South Alabama. . . Fred, the bootblack, at Eubank's Barber Shop had to leave Monday morning for the army. Fred said, "If white folks would just stop telling me they hated to see me go I wouldn't mind it, but everybody says they hates to see me go," and Fred burst into tears again....

Funny world isn't it? Years ago we lived in Birmingham and there was in the next apartment a young couple who we grew quite fond of. . .. they were strangers in Birmingham and the wife/and I had lived there many years. . . .we became closer friends as the years rolled on and there was never a day that we were not in their home or they in ours. But the years change things and we drifted apart. . . it has been a long time since we have seen either of them. .. but we heard from them in a round about way this week-end. . . the wife's brother who is stationed at Fort McClellan tells us that the 'friend' is interned there for the duration suspected of being a German Spy.

MORAL ECHOS

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D. D.

One day a young man came into the office of Mark Twain, seeking advice as to how he might secure a job. To him he gave the advice, "Pick out the man you want to work for, and then go to work for him. Tell him that you are going to work for him for nothing, till he decides that you are worth something and how much." That sounded like absurd advice, but it worked in the case of that young man. The most of us who apply for jobs want to know first of all how much will we receive for our work. It never occurs to us that may be the boss man would like to know if we are worth our wages to him. I have known one or two people who lost their jobs for no other reason than they were not worth what they wanted. The best way to hold a job is to be worth your hire.

I know amanwho gets mad when somebody tries to steal the highway when he is driving his car. One day a man rushed by him and cut short in front of him, so that he had to leave the road to avoid a wreck. He got mad and waited an opportunity to pass the same man and cut in front of him in like manner. He meant to say by actions, "How do you like it" In turning his fender caught the wheel of the old Ford and all but tore it from his new car. His car was badly damaged, besides he had endangered the lives of several people. He yielded to a fit of anger an it cost him much more than it did the one who had enraged him. Always remember that when you allow yourself to get mad that you injure yourself more than you do any one else.

A man and his wife decided to go up together in a plane. When they are five hundred feet in the air, the husband suddenly decides to jump out. His wife argues with him that he is making a mistake. Together they climb into position to jump out, still arguing. When the husband jumped his wife jumped also, so as to accompany him down, to convince him that he was wrong. It does not take the wisdom of a Solomon to know that the wife has made the same mistake of her husband. That is no more foolish than it is for a husband to get mad with his wife, when she is mad, or for a wife to get mad with her husband when he is mad. They may argue and fume at each other all they please, but each one had made a like mistake. They are doing wrong together and they go down together. If your companion gets mad, you be sure to be in a good humor.

I seated myself in a beautiful church. Sitting by the Console of the organ there was a skilled musician, but there was no music. The instrument was there, and the trained musician was there, but they were not united in a cooperative way. It is a fact that the musician must touch the keys before there is music. God is like that organ. He is the law of love, He is the harmony of the universe. God has completed His work. He is our life and He is abundant life, but no one gets the melody and the harmony of His being until we touch Him. So many sit near God and yet never touch Him, and never give out the melody and the sweetness of His nature. When we play upon the keys of His Divine nature, then it is that the world will be filled with the wonders of the Divine being.

While in a machine shop I observed the workmen as they labored to produce an engine shaft. The master mechanic informed me that should those men deviate one thousandth of an inch in the making of that shaft, that it would produce enough friction in the bearings to ruin the shaft. The bearings must be perfect and the shaft must be perfect before they can work together without friction. It was Jesus who said, "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your father in heaven is perfect." We all know that God is perfect and that we are made to fit into Him, even as the shaft is made to fit into the bearings. When we deviate from the blue print of life given to us by the Man of Galilee, then it is that there is friction. Are you trying hard to fit yourself into the ideals of Jesus Christ? When we lack a little of measuring up to His standard, then it is that we produce friction.

STOP OR SLOW DOWN. Whenever you slow down quickly (unless you give signal for a turn), stick your arm out to the left and point it down toward the ground.

RIGHT TURN. Whenever you are going to turn a corner to the right, pull into a parking place, move over quickly to the right on the open highway, or turn into a side road, or alley, stick your left arm out and slant it up toward the sky.

LEFT TURN. When you are about to move over to the left to pass another car, just before you make a left turn at an intersection, private drive, or alley, and when you plan to pull away from where you have been parked at the curb, stick your arm straight out to the left level with your shoulder.

(By Irvin Lande)

OUR POSITION IN THE PACIFIC

Because we have never been defeated in a war before, and because we are far more advanced culturally and economically than any other section of the world, the majority of the American people—except those unduly pessimistic—have thought that the United States is capable of doing anything it wishes to do in any length of time that it wishes to consume.

Thus, when Guam fell, when Wake finally was captured, and when Manila capitulated to the Japanese, many of us asked one another why had not aid been rushed to these sections of the globe. When Hong Kong was taken by the Japanese, Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain offered as an excuse the fact that British supplies were engaged in Africa. We did not have such an excuse. We were not fighting any other enemy anywhere else. Though, of course, we were aiding Britain through the Lend-Lease program, we were not fighting on any other front from which we could not immediately have withdrawn our forces and our supplies to be used in the Pacific. The fact was that most Americans felt that we had let down the brave garrison at Wake, that we had abandoned General MacArthur in the Philippines, and that all our talking about supplies and armaments was precisely just that—mere talking.

There were many reasons given for the failure to re-infonce our island possessions which are definitely the battlegrounds of our war with Japan. We blamed the loss of Guam upon the Congress that several years ago debated and wrangled over the question of fortifying the island; the Congress that felt that by building up the island, we would be incurring the animosity of Japan. We blamed the tragedy of the attack on Pearl Harbor upon the negligence of our high officers in Hawaii and in the Pacific. We felt that the reason why Wake was not aided was because the Naval Command believed that an attempt to aid the island was too dangerous. We continued that course of thought to the extent that we became convinced that since the navy was severely damaged at Pearl Harbor, we did not have the ships to successfully aid the British at Kong Kong, that we did not have the planes to repel the Japanese as they invaded the Philippines, and that we did not have the naval vessels with whichto rush supplies from this country to all our bases in the Pacific war zone.

Consequently, we even began to think that perhaps we did not have the supplies at home to aid our forces abroad. We slowly began to assume that we had done a lot of talking and very little action. We accepted the idea of a few writers that strikes and lock-outs had so severely damaged our defense effort that it would take us months—perhaps even years—to catch up with the Japanese and the Germans. The whispers we had about our navy being merely in the paper stage began to take on an ominous realism.

As a natural result, the morale at home became paradoxical. We were determined to win the war; yet we had our doubts. We compromised and said that we would win it, though it might take a long time to do so. Because we had a lack of clear vision about the past, and because we were to be quite honest with ourselves, muddled up, we didn't know exactly what to expect in the Pacific. We bought our defense bonds, listened to the radio, and bit our finger nails.

But the real reason why we did not aid our possessions in the Pacific was simply because we could not. The Japanese knew that; our high officials knew it. The initial advantage was Japan's.

For many years the isolationists argued that we were an unconquerable island. They pointed out that we were a continnent surrounded by water—surrounded by oceans so deep and so wide that no invader could harm us. In this, our present crisis, they forgot to turn that around, and, by the same token point out that we were thousands of miles from our enemies. Our antagonists had forced us to fight them in their backyard, where we had our possessions. It would have taken our enemies so long to travel to America to attack us; now it is going to take us so long to reach our possessions which are too near our enemies.

The geographic advantage which we had expected to assist and protect us had changed face and loomed up to stall and hinder us.

We are in the same position now that we have been in many times before. For example, when Greece was in grave danger, President Roosevelt promised her "tanks and guns and amunition and supplies of all kinds." We had the tanks and guns and supplies of all kinds. Britain controlled the Mediterranean. The British and American navies were sufficient to get the equipment to the Greeks. Yet Greece fell, because she did not have enough aid. Many pople felt that we had let Greece down, when we had not. We did not get the aid to her, because we did not have ample time. Hitler had taken Greece before we had had time to cross the Atlantic Ocean, to reach Gibraltar, to proceed from there to Piraeus, the port of Athens.

For many years the American education has consisted of elements of unbelievable speed. We have been taught to think in terms of airplane travel by minutes instead of miles. We neglected the fact that the ocean is still wide and that it still takes a ship more than merely the snapping of a finger to cross the Atlantic or the Pacific Ocean. We let the thought of time become one of alacrity instead of slowness. Such was the inevitable result of our defense program which educated us to the fact that it only takes a bomber a few hours to fly from Germany to the United States. Now we must take the other side of the argument and realize that it will take time to get aid to our Pacific possessions. If we can think through the problems of delay and inertia as well as the ones of speed and haste, we shall have clear heads and clear thinking that will be invaluable aids to us in winning the war and the peace that ofllows.

In the case of our Pacific possessions, we must remember that though we have the aid to send to them, the ships in which to send it, and the will to send it, they are still a very long way from us. Any aid will take a long time to get where it is going. In the rush of reports and bulletins we will anxiously ask where is our aid. We must be content with the fact that it is on the way—but that way is long and hard and dangerous.

If we take down a map—as well all of us should and must if we wish to see the real facts of the situation—we will find that Hawaii is 2,392 miles from San Francisco. The next nearest direct base on the way to the Philippines is Wake, which is 2,290 from Hawaii. From Wake to Guam is 1,672 miles. And to finish the journey, it is 1,593 from Guam to Manila on Luzon in the Philippines. All of which adds up to a sum total of 7,947—from San Francisco to Manila. And these miles are direct air lane miles. Any ship en route could not possibly follow such a course directly. Raids by the Japanese would deter the ships from their course to any number of extra miles. The major portion of our aid to our possessions would have to be, of necessity, sent by naval vessels. Therefore, it will take time to send the assistance, which we so blindly and loudly called for in the early days of this new phase of the war.

Our new problem, therefore, of being good citizens, has become one of getting a new interpretation on the facts of time and space. These are inevitable problems and do not change very quickly. Therefore, if we learn them now, we can rest assured we have learned something sound and something fundamental.

And as the war goes on, we shall see new fields in which we need enlightenment. Our job as Americans is to see that we get that enlightenment and to make sure that, we understand it.

To Prospective New Electric Customers

UNDER the emergency which faces our country, the Office of Production Management has found it necessary to restrict drastically the use of materials needed in production for war. These materials include copper, zinc, iron, steel—all necessary in the manufacture of wire, transformers, hardware and other equipment required for electrical construction.

These OPM restrictions make it impossible for us to continue our policy of general extension of electric service lines to new customers.

While present OPM regulations permit certain short extensions, we do not know when or to what extent further restrictions may of necessity be imposed. Extensions requiring substantial amounts of materials must be specifically approved by OPM before construction can begin, even if the required material is in our stock.

The procedure for presenting requests for priorities, and securing them, on the material items which go into extensions requires considerable time. Therefore, if you are thinking of building, moving or installing equipment requiring an extension of our lines, please consult with us before concluding your plans.

We will be glad to cooperate to the extent that restrictions permit. We wish that restrictions were not necessary but we know that they are; therefore, we accept them willingly and are trying to conform with them both in spirit and to the letter so that VICTORY may come the sooner.

"LONESOME PAPA"

DEACTUR—Sam Thomas, Decatur Negro, subscribes wholeheartedly to the theory that troubles come in threes.

Four months ago his arm was broken and his hand crushed in an auto accident; Christmas week a thief stole his 18 hens, and this week his wife left him, allegedly taking with her $750 of his money.

The thief who took the hens left one rooster after tying a note around his neck. The note read "Lonesome Papa."

TIME TO APPLY FOR YOUR CROP LOAN

Mr. John H. Thigpen, Field Supervisor for the Memphis Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office, stated that farmers of Chilton County are now applying for Emergency Crop Loans to finance the production of 1942 crops. Applications are being received at Room 12, upstairs in the County Courthouse in Clanton.

Emergency Crop Loans are made to small farmers, either owners or tenants, who have land to farm, who have implements and workstock or power to farm with, who need funds to meet production costs, and who are unable to obtain loans on reasonable terms from any other source, or from production credit associations. Such loans are made in amounts commensurate with an applicant's actual cash needs in producing his 1942 crops, are secured by a first mortgage on the crops financed, and bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum.

In addition to crop loans, Emergency Feed loans, to finance the purchase and production of feed, are made to those small farmers who are maintaining livestock to be fed for the market, as breeding animals with the increase to be marketed, or for the production of dairy products, wool, etc. The same rules of eligibility and the same requirements govern the consideration of feed loan applications, except that such loans must be secured by a first mortgage on the stock to be fed.

All farmers who apply for Emergency Crop and Feed Loans will be urged to plant and cultivate crops, both for sale and for farm or home use, according to the Farm Defense Program by the United States Department of Agriculture. Eligible farmers can receive loans based on both their usual operating expenses and their expenses incident to complying with the Defense Program. All applicants will be required to plant home garden and to produce sufficient feed for their workstock and subsistence animals.

Emergency Crop and Feed Loans are available to all farmers who can establish eligibility according to the terms of the loan regulations and authorizing Act—the loans are not restricted to selected applicants. Prior indebtedness will not prevent favorable consideration of an otherwise eligible applicant's request, provided non-payment was due to reasons beyond the debtor's control. A portion of the loan proceeds, sufficient to meet minimum present needs, may be disbursed immediately upon approval of an application, with the bulk of the loan being withheld until crop time.

HE'S COMING BACK

Aug. 3,

Oneday as I sat with my eyes ful tears,
Thinking of my husband at Camp vler
My little ducks came up with a qu
As if to say he was coming back
It cheered me up from the bottom my heart,
So when I got up to start
And get them something good to
But they found it a little cheat
Oh, there's my little chicks, you kn
So I ran to get them some doug
You should have seen them when called.
Big chicks, little chicks, ducks and
When this war is over, dear
How happy we will live back here
And think of the sorrows that ha passed.
And we too, are blessed at last
Those dark eyes I love to see.
Those dark eyes so dear to me.
I know I'll see them once more.
When this awful war is over.
Day by day I sit alone
And wonder when Ray is comi home.
But their Captain they must obey
He will tell them just what day,
He'll give them furloughs, one by Telling each of them to go home
We'll greet him with a kiss
Father, mother, wife and sis.
But when that sad good-bye is sa
Away from us again he's fled.
Then for France he is bound,
When he hears those brass ba sounds.
On the boat he will go,
And he'll get old Kaiser sho.
President Wilson is doing all he can
To win this war and face our land.
He loves his country, he loves men,
And he'll be with us to the end.
They will get the Germans, you they will,
And they are sure to get old Kais Bill.
So here I am with sunburned arms
Down in Coosa on the little farm

WHAT ABOUT MY BUSINESS IN 1942?

Here's the Answer As Given By Roger W. Babson

Mr. Merchant:--If the question of the prospects for retail trade in this year are puzzling you then listen to what one of America's ablest business phophets has to say.

In his annual business forecast for the new year Roger W. Babson has this to say about retail trade prospects for 1942:

"Merchants in defense areas should have a good year." Certainly the Merchants of Chilton County can expect to derive large benefits from defense work as Chilton is certainly located in one of the most vital defense areas in the nation.

"Merchants Should increase advertising appropriations if they expect a good year in 1942."

"Farm Consumer Purchasing power will probably rise to double what it was a few years previously."

The retail merchants of this County face prospects which are not near so discouraging as some would say. The wide awake merchant will begin now to advertise his wares and secure his share of this rise in consumer purchasing power.

There is no better medium in Chilton County for reaching the public with an advertising message. The columns and services of this newspaper are always open to the merchants who are sufficiently wide awake to take advantage of their fortunate situation.

National Defense Items

Twenty-six nations, including the U. S., Britain, Russia and China, signed an agreement pledging their military and economic resources in a finish fight against the Axis and banning any separate peace. The signature of the declaration include Australia, Belgium, Canada, Costa Rica, Cuba, Chechoslovakia, the Dominican Republic, Salvador Greece, Guatemala, Hatti, Honduras, India, Luxemburg, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Poland, South Africa and Jugoslavia. PRODUCTION FOR WAR

OPM reported $78,212,000,000 has been authorized for war purposes. The President told a press conference that although present spending is at the rate of 27 per cent of the estimated 1942 national income of $100,000,000,000 production will be stepped up so that by next July 1 the nation will be spending at the rate of $50,000,000,000 a year—or half the national income.

Asked abcut reports that Canadian British and U. S. production would be pooled, resulting virtually in the end of the lend-lease program as such, the President said that military resources have been pooled since the Japanese attack. The matter of repayment would be adjusted, he said, and would largely depend on where the articles sent other nations were used.

SHIPS

The Maritime Commission said the ship-a-day goal in launchings of new ships has been reached and by the second quarter of 1942 delivery should reach two ships a day. The Commission took over 16 Finish ships that have been tied up in U. S. ports. The Navy announced launching of a destroyer, a floating workship and a minesweeper, and said keels were laid for two more destroyers. The Navy also said it is converting the French liner Normandie into an auxiliary.

LABOR SUPPLY AND TRAINING

President Roosevelt denounced as "stupid" and "unjust" the increasing discharges of loyal, efficient workers in American industries "simply because they were born abroad or because they have foreign-sounding names." He said such unfair discharges engender "the very distrusts and disunity on which our enemies are counting."

OPM Associate Director Hillman announced almost 2,500,000 persons have been enrolled for training for war industry work since July 1, 1940. He asked public vocational schools to expand their courses to permit use of all their facilities on a "round-the clock" basis. Some war contractors are planning to employ as many new men in the next six months as they have in the last eighteen, he said.

ARMY

The War Department authorized return to active duty by February 1 to all inactive enlisted Reservists— the majority former trainees and National Guardsmen recently released from active duty. The Department said it will continue voluntary enlistments of men from 18 to 35. The Department adopted a uniform system for temporary promotion of al lofficers on the basis of merit.

ALIENS

Attorney General Biddle ordered all Japanese, German and Italian aliens to surrender to local police authorities by 11 p. m., January 5 all radio transmitters, short-wave radio sets, and firearms of any description. Mr. Biddle amended regulations governing travel of an alien enemy to permit limited movement in certain cases where special permission is granted.

AGRICULTURE

The Department of Agriculture reported supplies of agricultural commodities are at a high level with record production of many items. The general level of prices received by farmers during the month ended December 15 was 42 points above the corresponding period last year. OPM granted farm equipment manufacturers 83 per cent of materials used in 1940 for new machinery and 150 per cent of 1940 materials to produce spare parts.

He set top prices for 39 grades of imported green coffee, and revised previous schedules for some 1,800, fats and oils, as well as for Douglas fir doors, paperboard and cotton goods.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR WAR SERVICE

The War Department announced it will employ American-born civilian pilots between 21 and 46 to ferry aircraft from U. S. factories to nations receiving Lend-Lease aid. The Air men 20 to 27 years old in meteorology. Corps will train a limited number of Both groups may receive Reserve commissions. Third and fourth-year medical students and first-year internes may obtain Reserve commissions in the Army and Navy, and will be permitted to complete their medical training before being ordered to active duty. Between 200 and 300 additional commissions in the Naval Reserve Civil Engineers Corps are available for college graduates with limited practical engineering experience. Former non - commissioned Marine Regular and Reserve officers may reenlist in the rank held when last discharged, if they have not been out of the Corps more than four years.

The Maritime Commission lowered admission requirements for maritime cadets and cut their training time in half. The Civil Service Commission issued a call for thousands of stenographers needed urgently for national defense work in positions paying $1,440 a year to start. Civilian air raid spotters will have no difficulty distinguishing Axis planes from those of the United Nations if they memorize the markings illustrated above. American and British planes have designs of red, white and blue, and Russia has a red star. Watchers on the southern border occasionally may see the red triangle of Mexico. Axis raiders are easily spotted through the familiar black cross and swastika of Germany, the round red rising sun emblem of Japan and the Roman fasces insignia borne by Italian planes.

Pay Your Poll Tax; Vote This Year

According to State figures poll tax payments are far behind this year. This is due largely to interest in the war situation. But just the same, many important offices are to be filled and it is also one of your patriotic duties to vote .

All poll taxes must be paid before February 1 this year. Attorney General Lawson has ruled that because the first day of February comes on Sunday, poll taxes paid on Monday the second will be no good.

Today is the 23rd day of January. That gives you only seven more days to get to the courthouse and pay up. Don't neglect this important duty, go now before you forget it and do your duty as an American citizen. PAY YOUR POLL TAX.

State Will Carry Out Road Contracts: Dixon

Governor Dixon said Tuesday the state, in his opinion, would be able to carry out all highway construction agreements entered into with the various counties, despite wartime restrictions and priorities.

The executive estimated that the state and various counties had agreements outstanding for the paving of an estimated 210 miles, still to be let to contractors.

Alabama, however, Dixon said, probably will have to depend on wooden bridges in the future, asserting "the state's policy is that it will not compete with the federal government on metals and other essentials to national defense.

"There will be no attempt whatever," he added, "to get priorities for steel. We will use wood."

No project will be abandoned so long as it can be helped, the executive told newsmen, adding that it did not look like any would have to be dropped.

The federal government is insisting, authorities said, on federal aid money being expended primarily on access and stragetic military highways.

"We are not going to proceed any faster than we can chart our financial course ahead," the governor said. "We have, we think, the necessary money on hand to carry out present contracts. We think we will be able to deliver on all county agreements.

The FOUR FREEDOMS

MESSAGE TO THE 77TH CONGRESS . . . JANUARY 6, 1941

● In the future days, which we seek to make secure, we look forward to a world founded upon four essential human freedoms.

1 is freedom of speech and expression—everywhere in the world.

2 is freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world.

3 is freedom from want—which translated into world terms, means economic understandings which will secure to every nation a healthy peacetime life for its inhabitants—everywhere in the world.

4 is freedom from fear—which translated into world terms, means a world-wide reduction of armaments to such a point and in such a thorough fashion that no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor—anywhere.

Chilton County Training School

The Vocational Teachers of the Chilton County Training School just concluded a two days' conference at Tuskegee Institute in a study of the "Food For Freedom Program" for 1942. This study was made along with other Vocational Teachers and Extension workers in the State of Alabama.

One writer said that necessity was the mother of invention. I say that necessity is the mother of Cooperation. This conference was one of the most inspiring meetings that I have ever attended. It was the first time that all Vocational Teachers and Extension workers met in a joint meeting relative to their program of work. It was brought out in the meeting that we must make plans and work these plans for a greater production of food and feed in 1942 than in any previous years. We can do this by close and wholehearted cooperation. This 1942 farm program calls for team work of all agricultural agencies and farmers also. The wage hand on the farm, the share cropper, and all other classifications of farmers can and will play a worthwhile part in this 1942 farm program. The share cropper and farm wage hand may say that there is nothing that I can do to help win the war; but listen, your contribution to the winning of this war is your work of increasing the efficiency of the farm on which you work and live. How By taking special care of the stock that you work, the tools that you handle, and the soil that you till.

Do not leave your plows in the ground over night or over the week end because rust will accumulate and you will loose 30 or 45 minutes each day trying to put your plow in running condition again. Keep all bolts and nuts tightened, and you will see and do a better job of plowing or cultivating.

See that your horse or mule collar fits snug and the gear likewise, this is for the purpose of increasing production by the wise use of time and labor.

Let us lay aside every weight of selfishness that may so easily beset us, and run with patience the race to greater food and feed production. I am sure that every boy in Vocational Agriculture and every girl in Vocational Home Economics will discuss with his and her father and mother the advantage of increasing his or her productive Enterprise projects to meet the 1942 National Emergency We must face facts fearlessly and with courage to fight until we have won this present conflict that has threatened our freedom.

Every human being within the bounds of morality, has a vital part to play in the defense of this country. If we have been indifferent in the past, let us lay it aside and dig up that burried talent of Farm Management and increase production for our defense in 1942 and in years to come.

There has been organized a SHOP DAY at the Chilton County Training School for all farmers throughout said county for the rapair and reworking of all farm tools and implements. There is a tremendous shortage of material for the making of farm tools in 1942, and for that cause I am asking farmers and farm boys to check all plows, planters, harrows, etc., that need repairing, and bring them on Wednesdays to the Chilton County Training School where we will help you with a smile. If you have a pan or bucket that needs soldering, bring them along and we may be in position to work out something that will help you. Place your order early for parts needed. Delay may mean a failure and we shall not fail through this crisis.

"FOOD FOR THOUGHT"

A garden and a cow
A smokehouse and a sow
25 hens and a rooster
Then you will live better than you use to
"It is not the thoughts or ideas,
Nor the fine things we can say,
It is the close cooperation
That helps us win the day.
It is not the Supervisors,
Nor the teachers as a whole
It is the everlasting teamwork,
Of every blooming soul."

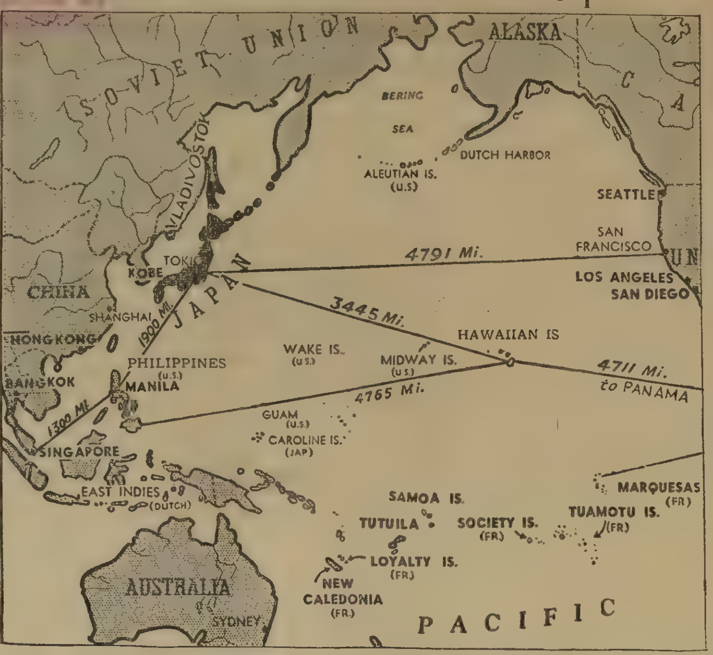
Theater of War Between U. S. and Japan



The above map shows in detail the strategic points of importance in Japan's unprovoked war on the United States. As the headlines grow these locations and distances between them gain increasing attention. Among points of particular interest are the following: the Russian port of Vladivostok and its nearness to Japan which makes it an ideal air base in a bombing campaign on the enemy; the Hawaiian Islands, where at Pearl Harbor the enemy opened its war on the United States with a devastating aerial attack; the most vulnerable sector of the continental United States to Japanese attack—the Pacific coastal area.

Reviews & Previews

(By Irvin Lande)

CENSORSHIP AND THE PEOPLE

American public opinion is divided on the question of censorshi. On the one hand, there are those who believe that we must not, in any way, limit the freedoms of thought and expression. There are those, who, on the other hand, believe that we must withhold from ourselves all information which might, in any way, help the cause of our enemies; for, by withholding the information from ourselves, they argue, we are also withholding the information from those who might put it to use against us.

We cannot arbitrarily conclude that one side or the other is correct. We have to admit that both sides are patriotic in their belief for each has the best interest of the country at heart. Moreover, because this is the first war in the history of mankind in which all people are engaged in a battle of freedom against tyranny, we, unfortunately, do not have many historic examples upon which to base our reasoning. Futher, because the war is comparatively young, we shall have to start at scratch, as it were.

Having assumed that both sides are patriotic, our problem becomes one of deciding which is the better for the nation as a whole—the free circulation of all information, or the withholding of any information which might aid our enemies.

Those who insist on the free circulation of information mean the freedom of reserving all facts except the purely military. They have no objection to the position which Mr. Byron Price holds as director of censorship. His position exists merely to prevent the release of essential military secrets such as the location of the United States fleet. Those who desire the withholding of information, are indeed pleased with the director of censorship, for to them, the office stands as a symbol of future censorship. The release of military secrets, all agree, is detrimental to the welfare of the country.

Those who wish to withhold information do not mean to put any restriction whatsoever upon the freedom of thought or the freedom of argument. They merely insist that what we know to argue about should not be harmful to the country in general.

The actual disagreement about censorship, therefore, is about that information which is controversial by nature. For example, a leading motion picture company released last week a series of pictures about American activity in Hawaii, now that we have had time to regain our senses after Pearl Harbor, and to get back to work. The pictures showed the new Hawaiian troops, trained and ready for action. They showed American planes and battlements and ships. They even showed how we are going about our job of camouflage—how wire netting is being covered with grass and leaves over important positions in Hawaii. Such information is harmful, say those who wish to restrict it. To release pictures like those would be to tell the Japanese the most important of all our secrets. To those who believe that such information is not harmful, however, we receive the argument that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. By showing the Japanese what we are doing, they reason, we are preventing them from coming back for another attack on Hawaii and Pearl Harbor. Furthermore, by showing what we possess we can install a fear of us in the hearts and minds of our enemies.

The fore-going is only an example. We encounter other examples in our newspapers, our magazines, over the radio, and in every field through which information is allowed to reach the thinking public.

The disagreement therefore, between those who ask "Why do they tell those things?" and those who want to know even more finally becomes a disagreement not about military secrets, not about freedom of debate or expression, but about information which, if released, would be harmful to us, if the Japanese and the Germans do not already know it, and information which does not matter anyway, if the Japanese and the Germans do know it.

In the last war, Wilson and Colonel House made the fatal mistake of not having an efficient system of espionage. It has been said that Wilson's only link with Europe was his ambassadors. Wilson had too much faith in the other countries. Consequently, when the war broke out, the United States had to do a great deal of censoring, for we did not know what our enemies knew about us.

The ultimate decision about censorship rests therefore in how much faith Mr. Roosevelt had in the other countries. If he had very little faith in them—and we have good reason to believe he had even less faith than that in them—then we can be assured that we had a very efficient spy system. Our espionage, besides getting information about other countries for us, also, in all probability, has informed our government just how much is known about our bases and our production in the other capitals of the world.

Thus, to put the argument in simple terms, the government must de- est order. cide what will be censored and how. For the government only is in a position to know what may be harmful information and what may not be. The Japanese may have known all about Hawaii before the motion picture industry released their films last week. If they did, there was no harm in allowing the pictures out for public consumption. If, however, the Japanese had no idea of what was in the Hawaiian Islands, the nto have released the pictures was a crime of the high-

We have no way of knowing. Only Washington possesses both the knowledge and the power to decide. The decision on censorship has been taken out of our hands, because we do not have the knowledge with which to comprehend, and has been placed in the waiting and capable hands of Mr. Byron Price, who is in a position to decide.

Things Farm Family Can Do For Defense

Auburn, Ala.—The Alabama Extension Service has listed many things the Alabama farmer and his family can do to help win the war.

They are:

Grow an adequate home garden to provide food for the family.

Plant more peanuts for oil.

Raise more hogs.

Produce more milk.

Collect scrap metal and old rubber that cannot be used on the farm and sell it to the junk dealer.

Cull barren and other inferior cows from the herd and sell them for slaughter.

Produce more eggs.

Practice selective cutting on woodland, leaving enough good trees to produce seed and to keep the tract in production. Plant seedlings for future production and for conserving the soil.

Waste nothing. Can surplus produce.

Work with others in home defense activities.

Advice and information on all phases of farming may be obtained from county agents.

Lee county has grown some wheat for 100 years. This year 500 Lee farmers will plant 2,000 acres in wheat to produce their own flour.

Gold teeth, diamonds, greenbacks and pennies amounting to $70,000 in value, flowed into the National treasury as war gifts during December.

Mrs. Covie Fields Liberty, Pickens county, sold last year $310 worth of butter and $300 worth of milk, Cow feed was grown on the place.

On the Anniston Ordnance Depot property, 3,000,000 pine seedlings are being planted. Schedule calls for 600,000 plantings in January and February.

President Names Production Czar And Reorganizes Defense Set-Ups To Speed Up All-Out War Effort; Report Submarines Off East Coast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Leon Henderson, director, Division of Civilian Supply of the Office of Production Management, trys out one of the "Victory model" bicycles produced by manufacturers at request of OPM. This lightweight model is constructed of less costly material, and shorn of all gadgets. The new bikes will be built for both men and women. Photo shows Henderson pedaling, and Miss Betty Barrett of York, Neb., in the luggage basket. A sure way for the boss to get his secretary to the office on time.

NELSON:
Production Czar

As the United States moved forward into all-out war production, Donald M. Nelson had been named production chief, placed in sole command over OPM, SPAB and all other vital production organizations.

His position was compared to that of Bernard M. Baruch in 1917. Mr. Nelson had been, before his promotion to sole command, the head of SPAB, the priorities control board, and thus had been sitting with his hands on the needle valve which kept materials flowing smoothly to defense plants.

His post also was compared to that of Lord Beaverbrook in England.

He was given command by executive order, and though the order did not immediately make legally clear how far his power went, there was enough in President Roosevelt's statement to show that it would go far enough to put Nelson into sole command.

A board, including Messrs. Knudsen, Hillman and other chiefs of various vital groups, was to work under Nelson.

The President said, in part:

"Mr. Nelson will no longer serve as director of the priorities division. He will devote his entire time to directing the production program. His decisions as to procurement and production will be final."

Thus Mr. Nelson has authority over not only the industrialists and labor leaders who were in Washington to harness American production to a program for victory, but also over the army and navy themselves, in a way, because his decisions as to what they might have in the way of arms and munitions would be final.

They would still have legal contracting authority, but Mr. Nelson would have to pass upon these contracts before they could go into effect, and could, in effect, make them larger or smaller, quicker or slower.

LUZON:
Defense

When the history of World War II is written it will have become evident that the defense of Luzon by the American-Filipino forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur should be placed alongside of other famous "last stands."

Conceded only the slimmest possible hope of hanging on until help might arrive, the MacArthur forces, entrenched in the Mariveles mountains back of Manila bay, had reported not only stemming an "all-out" Japanese drive, but that they had driven the attackers back.

They had forced the Japs to remove their big guns far to the rear, out of range of the American batteries, had silenced 11 Japanese batteries, and had raised havoc with charging detachments of tanks and infantry.

Not in any way claiming that the Japanese advance had been permanently checked, General MacArthur reported to Washington that the 24-hour battle had shown definitely that the American guns and gunnery were superior to those of the enemy.

The Japs claimed that they had taken Olongapo, naval base on a bay to the north of Manila bay, and this had been confirmed by Washington.

There was more than a suspicion that the Japs were content to let the present armed forces now in the Philippines do the "mopping up" against the MacArthur army, and had turned their attention rather to increasing the tempo of the all-important Malay offensive, and the general offensive against the Dutch East Indies, using Mindanao as a base.

SUBMARINE:
Action

Navy planes and ships had a busy time chasing enemy submarines reported lurking off the East coast of the U. S.

Two ships were reported sunk by submarine action off Long Island, N. Y. The first was the Panamanian tanker Norness which was hit by three torpedoes about 120 miles from the coast. Next day watchers on shore claimed they saw a submarine sink another ship about 23 miles from shore.

Meanwhile U. S. underwater craft were also busy, but the location of their action was not disclosed. The navy reported that a 17,000 ton Jap ship of the type used as a plane carrier had been sunk by U. S. submarines in Far Eastern waters.

MALAYA:
Scorched Earth

The house of commons criticism of the British Malaya forces in not carrying out the scorched earth policy was met by dispatches which had been delayed tending to show that the British had applied that policy in the completest way possible.

An eyewitness description of the British evacuation of Perka, Selangor and Kuala Lumpur, the latter an important rubber city and the capital of the Federated Malay States bore this out.

A Durdin dispatch to the Times from Seremban stated that in Perak and Selangor alone millions of dollars' worth of rubber stocks and rubber processing plants and millions more in tin mine dredges and tin ore processing machinery had been destroyed.

In addition the destruction of petroleum products totaled several millions of dollars.

Copra and coal docks were dynamited or burned. Dynamiters were mining the country through which the Japs were approaching closer to Singapore, and this was evident in the slowing down of the Japanese advance.

Describing the evacuation of Kuala Lumpur, Durdin wrote that the British had opened the larger stores and had removed what stocks it wanted, and then had left the stores open to allow the population to take what it wished.

The inhabitants seethed up and down the streets which were littered with refuse, carrying what they had been able to get aboard rickshas, on bicycles and on shoulders and heads.

From every corner of the city sounded the booming explosions as the Punjab sappers and dynamiters destroyed bridges, roads and other communication links as soon as the British convoys had moved through the city.

Two large department stores were completely despoiled of goods within a few hours. Coolies who had never tasted chocolate candy went about with their arms full, giving them away to others who had none.

The burning of the rubber trees was not possible, but since the plants producing rubber and the rubber stocks were burned, the British say it will be a long time before the Japs can get any.

HITLER:
Has He Fled?

Unconfirmed reports had been received from the Russian front that Hitler, with Smolensk threatened by the Russian armies, had fled to a safer point.

While this had been impossible of confirmation, the Red headquarters reported capture of towns in the "Smolensk area" which showed that the war was coming uncomfortably close to "Der Fuehrer" if he was still there on the scene of actual service.

'War Orphan No. 1'

"I am war orphan No. 1," said Mrs. Helen Nelson, wife of Donald M. Nelson, Chicago, Ill., whom President Roosevelt appointed chief of war production just recently.

AIR:
Supremacy Sought

There was every indication that the battle for air supremacy in the Far Eastern theater of war was definitely being battled for.

The news dispatches had contained increasing reports of air battles on all fronts, and though there was still no indication that General MacArthur had any sort of an air arm, both the British and Dutch defenses were being bolstered by American, Chinese and Australian planes.

The Dutch early had said that if the Allies would give them enough planes, they could defeat Japanese efforts to capture important strongholds in their islands.

The Japs, on the other hand, were continuing to capture some, including the island of Tarakan, a small islet defended by about as many men as had stood before the Japs at Wake island.

The Dutch defenders finally had to surrender, though more than half of the garrison got away and lived to fight another day. Before leaving and before the remainder were forced by the odds to lay down their arms, they reported having mined and blown up all the oil wells on the island, an important small producer of petroleum.

It still was not definite where the high command had set up headquarters, save that it was somewhere on the island of Java, but whether at Batavia, from which most of the dispatches were coming, or at Surabaya, could not be learned.

An idea of what the capture of Tarakan meant, by the way, was the Dutch figure on its oil output, 80,000 tons monthly of the finest grade of petroleum. The Dutch, in describing the destruction of the wells, said, simply:

"The Japanese have found that we were not bluffing when we announced that no oil installations would be permitted to fall into their hands."

PAN-AMERICA:
Opens Conference

Of vital importance had been considered the Pan-American conference of nations, which had opened its sessions at Rio, with Sumner Welles in charge of affairs for the American state department.

There were really only two doubtfuls on the list, but they were important, and covered the southern half of the continent—Argentina and Chile.

Yet, as the conference met, with the announced purpose of further fulfilling the general blockade against the Axis by a continental breaking of relations with all Axis nations, it was felt quite hopeful that Argentina and Chile would come in and enter the joint action wholeheartedly.

OUSTER:
Against Dye Men

Five of the principal operating executives of the General Aniline and Film corporation were summarily ousted from their position by order of the treasury department, which had been trying for several months to establish that the company actually was owned by the Nazi firm of I. G. Farbenindustrie.

The men suspended, all naturalized citizens of German birth, were Dr. Rudolph Hutz, a director; Hans Aickelen and William Vom Rath, both former directors who resigned within the past month; F. W. Von Meister, general manager of the Oxalid division, and Leopole Eckler, acting general manager of the Agfa-Ansco division.

They have been refused the right, among other things, to enter the premises of the company. December 12 the treasury department placed 17 of its operatives in the main offices of the company.

MISCELLANY:

London: Germans were resuming constant raids, though on a small scale, of British towns. Most of them were on the northeast coast and in East Anglica.

Rio de Janeiro: Uruguay became the second of the Latin-American republics to sign a lease-lend pact with the United States, entitling it to receive substantial shipments of arms and munitions.

Work and Watch

War along the Eastern Seaboard is growing more serious. It will be foolish to think "it can't happen here," and after it is too late bellyache about what somebody else didn't do in time. It of course is patriotic to pay taxes to aid in the National Defense. It is going to take something more than taxes to win this war. It is going to take sacrifices of many kinds by many people, and if you think this kind of life you have been living is worth perpetuating, then the time to get busy in the effort to preserve it is RIGHT NOW.

Political Show Has Been Postponed Temporarily

With the leading man away from the cast, the political show has been postponed for a time. The curtain is drawn, the stage is darkened, the stage hands are loafing.

It is all because Col. Bibb Graves, generally regarded as a cinch to be the next Governor of Alabama, is in Washington where he will attend to official business as soon as he had had his lookover at John Hopkins where the doctors are taking charge of that recalicitrant kidney stone.

Col. Graves had an engagement at Johns Hopkins nearly three weeks before he was called to Washington on highway and agricultural advisory matters. On reaching Washington he decided to fill the John Hopkins engagement first because he wanted to get himself in proper physical trim for whatever tasks await him.

And while the big politics have been adjourned until the return of Col. Graves, the small fry are jumping about in the water causing ripples to appear over an otherwise calm surface. Candidates for the legislature, both Senate and House are announcing. And they will continue to announce for some time. March 2 is the deadline which will end all qualifying and then the real contests will start.

Sometime ago, Col. Graves informed the writer that he had an engagement at John Hopkins where he wanted a thorough checkup before he took an active part in either defense measures or politics. He wanted a thorough thumping to find the weak spots, if any. He knew that kidney stone was still there and of course wanted it attended to. Col Graves has always been pretty well sold on the idea of periodical physical checkups and especially so since he has had trouble with a kidney stone.

We know what a kidney stone is because we have had several more than one. We thought each time we would die (and wanted to then) but somehow we got through the ordeal and became fit again. But it is no joy time when kidney stones make their presence felt.—Atticus Mullin, in Montgomery Advertiser.

MAKE A YEAR-ROUND GARDEN TO HELP WIN THE WAR

"A good year-round home garden on every Chilton County farm is probably as great a contribution as we can make toward insuring victory in this war."

Making this statement, P. H. Smith, county agent, continued, "By raising the necessary food on every farm we keep ourselves physically strong and more able to withstand the nervous strain in these times. We also insure food that formerly had to be shipped in to us to go to our armed forces and those we are feeding."

Agent Smith stated that a good garden consisted of one that had plenty of vegetables for fresh use and a surplus for canning purposes and included those vegetables which made for a well-rounded diet. "If each Chilton County farmer will get the necessary seed, prepare his garden land now, plant at the proper time, cultivate correctly and destroy insects and diseases that may appear, there is no reason why we should not raise more and better foods than we have ever produced before."

One of the big jobs now is to cut up the weeds and trash and turn the garden deep.

Early turning insures proper decay of vegetation and destroyed hibernation places of insects. Compost can be broadcast heavily—ten to fifteen loads on a half acre garden.

Chilton County farmers should lay off several rows at this time so that they will be able to make early spring plantings on these firm seedbeds without further preparation.

In urging more home gardens, Mr. Smith said this was in line with production goals set up by the local county defense board.

Navy Opens Field To Small Industry

Many Contracts Are Given 'Depressed Areas.'

WASHINGTON.—A new system for the distribution of contracts was announced by the navy as a means of bringing help to the country's "depressed areas." A relaxing of specifications was being ordered wherever possible, it was stated, to spread the manufacture of defense materials.

The program, as described by the navy, is designed to facilitate deliveries of essential material and to widen the heretofore limited field of manufacturers who could produce according to the former specifications.

New systems also are being worked out to ease the method of issuing first contracts for small manufacturers whose efforts to obtain contracts heretofore have been reported as handicapped by red tape.

The effort to assist various areas, navy officials said, had already brought substantial results. Among communities whose manufacturers received first contracts, it was said, were Manitowoc and Sheboygan, Wis.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mansfield, Ohio, and Holyoke, Mass.

From these centers are being obtained such diverse articles as milling machines, parachutes, canned corn, cranes and steel bunks. This type of work-spreading has hardly begun, but is expected to develop into a major factor in the procurement program.

The other direct step to bring new manufacturers into the supply picture has involved a re-survey of hundreds of articles purchased by the navy in order to relax specifications which were rigidly maintained in peacetime but are not now as essential as speed in production.

Boy, Aged 14, Argues Case And Wins on Fine Point

SHERIDAN, WYO.—No, sir, when 14-year-old Calvin Davis gets into trouble he doesn't need to hire a lawyer. He just does a little arguing himself.

Calvin appeared in court charged with killing a duck from a public road. At his request he was allowed to be his own counsel.

Testimony brought out that Calvin shot the duck, which he said he thought was a wild fowl. It developed the bird was domesticated and the owners brought charges seeking damages.

In pleading young Davis said he offered to pay for the duck, but "my offer was refused."

He first argued that the state owned the water upon which the duck was swimming. After failing here Calvin proved he was on a six foot strip of state property between the road and creek when he fired.

Thus, on a technicality, he won his first case.

Sitting Bull Just Sat, Declares Indian Agent

SALT LAKE CITY.—Military history to the contrary, Sitting Bull did not win the battle of the Little Big Horn—better known as Custer's last stand.

So says Clarence M. Groshell, a Salt Lake man whose hobby for years has been Indian research.

Groshell says Sitting Bull was a mediocre fighter. Not only that—he arrived on the scene of the massacre when it was nearly over. The chief really responsible for the Little Big Horn debacle was named simply Gall, Groshell says. But he had able assistance from Red Cloud and Rain-in-the-Face.

Chief Sitting Bull's role was not unimportant, however. The old chief was a wily politician and strategist, and he kept the Indians at fighting pitch.

But when the actual bullets began to fly, Sitting Bull was doing just that—sitting.

Private Deserted by Army Stays at Post 30 Hours

BALTIMORE. — Private Victor Golas, who obeyed orders literally and became a "forgotten soldier" through 30 hours of traffic directing, got a pat on the back and a de luxe ride home.

Maj. A. H. Kratzke, commander of the military police detail with which the Camp Edwards, Mass., selectee was serving, told Private Golas "you are to be congratulated" and "in the army, an order is an order and must be obeyed."

So Golas, who stuck by his post at a railroad crossing through rain and gloom of night long after the last truck of his motor convoy had gone by, received a train ticket to Massachusetts. He also managed to catch up on his sleep—12 hours' worth—at a military police dormitory.

SMITH GIVES INFORMATION ON COTTON INSURANCE

If Chilton County farmers apply for cotton crop insurance, available for the first time in the history of cotton growing. they will be able to know before they plant the first seed how much to expect from their cotton crop, P. H. Smith, county agent, said.

Stating that this, along with parity loans, was the greatest step that had been made in advancing Southern agriculture Mr. Smith urged that farmers consider carefully whether or not they would apply for cotton crop insurance. "The plan allows the farmer to insure his crop for 50 or 75 per cent of the normal yield and if this yield is not made due to some cause over which the farmer has no control he is paid for the loss.

"Not only is cotton crop insurance beneficial to the farmer who plants a crop but to business men who may lend money or depend directly or indirectly on cotton to furnish a part or all of their business," said Mr. Smith. If a creditor lends money to a cotton producer he can be assured that his loan is secure due to the fact that he will know when the loan is made what minimum income the farmer is guaranteed if he carries cotton crop insurance. The farmer in turn should be able to secure credit at a smaller cost.

Chilton County farmers will be able to make application for cotton crop insurance within a short time and must sign these applications before March 16 if they are to have a guaranteed income on the 1942 cotton crop.

Food Plentiful, U. S. Assurance

No War Shortages Likely, Bulging Granaries; High Farm Output Cited.

WASHINGTON.—Reassuring news for housewives concerned over the possibility of war-time food shortages is offered by officials of the department of agriculture.

On top of a record production of summer food and livestock feed crops, farmers are anticipating a bumper output of perishable winter products, such as vegetables, milk, butter and eggs.

The United States entered the war with a two-year supply of wheat. Its store of corn, the basic raw material for meat, dairy and poultry products, is the largest on record. Huge reserves had been accumulated under the farm program.

Milk and Egg Output High.

Only in the case of spices, cocoa and some luxury items imported from the Far East is there the possibility of a restricted supply.

In a report just issued, the department said milk and egg production was at levels never reached before.

First estimates on the entire crop of citrus fruits show prospects for about 141,000,000 boxes, a quantity nearly equal to the record crop of 144,000,000 boxes last season. The orange supply will be the largest on record, but the grapefruit and lemon supplies will be below.

The department said the winter vegetable crop was coming along well. With continued favorable weather, production may be 15 per cent greater than last winter. A 50 per cent increase in early cabbage and a 25 per cent increase in Texas spinach were indicated.

Meat Supplies to Increase.

Already in the nation's larder is a record production of canned and processed vegetables from summer crops.

The department expects meat supplies to increase as the months advance under the influence of favorable prices and bountiful feed supplies.

Egg production this year is expected to be 5 per cent greater than last year and 4 per cent above the record output of 1938. Milk production per capita was said to be the highest on record.

Supplies of sugar, the bulk of which is obtained from offshore producing areas, continue ample for months ahead, the department said. Officials conceded, however, that the war in the Pacific may cut off supplies from the Philippines. They expressed a firm blief, nevertheless, that sufficient supplies could be secured from Cuba, Puerto Rico and South America as well as from domestic production of cane and beets.

Polarized Light Reveals Start of Brain Growths

SAN FRANCISCO.—A way of deecting the beginnings of cancer or umor in brain cells, even before he growth becomes large enough to be seen with an ordinary microscope, was reported to the Radioogical Society of North America recently by Dr. E. R. Witwer of Detroit.

This is done with an instrument which has been in use for more han 100 years, but it gives medical experts an additional means of beng more exact about the diagnosis of abnormal growths or injuries to he brain.

The instrument is the petrographc microscope, which uses polarized ight. When a beam of this light is passed through a very thin layer of brain tissue it shows up as a characteristic color. If an abnormal condition such as a tumorous formation is present, the color varies rom the normal, Dr. Witwer said.

Thus, in cases in which a surgeon might operate yet find no ordinary visible signs of tumorous growth, the petrographic microcope may show a faint beginning of trouble, and the tissues can be emoved.

Make Use of Castoffs for Beauty Spots in City

QUINCY, MASS. — Before anyhing is thrown away, Andrew Stewart takes a look at it and the esult is more than 70 public garden pots throughout the city.

City forester since 1932, Stewart is granted no special funds for the work, but he and his son make it a point of personal pride to beautify he city.

The Stewarts comb the city for what they need in the line of flowrs, shrubs and trees. If elm trees re needed, a foraging expedition is tarted and all wasteland is examned for seedlings for the municipal ursery which itself was made from dump.

Onions and Pineapples More Fluid Than Milk

AMHERST, MASS.—Few persons have tried to drink an onion or a pineapple, yet Massachusetts State college experts say either is far more "fluid" than milk.

Prof. Julius H. Frandsen of the dairy industry department says both onions and pineapples are made up of less solid food material than milk.

This Week In National Defense

A WEEK OF THE WAR

The President established a War Production Board headed by Donald M. Nelson, former mail-order firm executive and more recently Executive Director of SPAB and Priorities Director. The President directed Mr. Nelson to "exercise general direction over the war procurement and production program," to supervise the OPM and issue production and procurement directives where necessary to all other Government agencies. The President said Mr. Nelson's decisions shall be final. Vice President Wallace and other members of the SPAB, now abolished, were made members of the War Production Board.

In letters to TPM Directors Knudsen and Hillman and other production officials, Mr. Nelson said "we must enlarge all our previous activities . . . all our facilities....must produce 24 hours a day, 168 hours a week." OPM Director Hillman, speaking in Washington, said the nation's force of workers in war industries must be doubled or tripled, more women must be trained and brought in to the labor force to take the place of men going into the armed services. He asked employers not to bar aliens in war industries except in plants turning out secret weapons.

Director Odlum of the OPM Contract Distribution Division said a plan has been prepared to set aside one per cent of all available materials to assist small manufacturers in keeping their plants going until they can be converted to war use. He said the nation's entire production facilities—all of those "hidden away in thousands of cities and town and villages"—must join in the total war effort. He asked all mayors to have every manufacturer in their cities register at the nearest OPM Contract Distribution Division field office and to "go after war contracts with every ounce of ingenuity and energy they possess."

THE WAR FRONT

The Navy Department reported the sinking of five enemy vessels in Far Eastern waters—three transports and two large cargo ships. The announcement brought to 25 the total of Japanese vessels reported definitely sunk by the Navy and Marine Corps in the Pacific. The Navy also announced two allied merchant vessels were attacked by Axis submarines off Long Island. Throughout the week Gen. MacArthur reported heavy land and air fighting in the Philippines but said American and Philippine troops were putting up effective resistance and U. S. losses were low.

ARMY

War Secretary Stimson announced the Army will be increased from the present total of 1,700,000 men to 3,600,000 men this year. Combat air units and armored units will be doubled; 32 motorized divisions will be added, and at least 50 more military police units for guarding production facilities wil lbe created. Instead of the originally scheduled 10,000 more than 90,000 privates will be selected to attend officer-training schools. All training centers and posts will be enlarged and five temporary tent camps will be set up. To make 2,000,000 more men eligible the Army will lower age limits for aviation cadets from 20 to 18 years, make married men eligible, and change educational qualifications by eliminating college credit requirements.

Selective Service Director Hershey said the Army increase could be accomplished without calling up men with dependents. He said there are now 1,000,000 men in class 1-A not yet called, and 900,000 more men can be obtained by reclassification of other men and from those men who will register February 16. He said deferment cases would be re-examined but deferments will continue to be given where possible to avoid undue disruption of family life. He said married men with one or more children probably will not be called until an Army of 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 has been built. He estimated 10,000,00 is the top number of men the U. S. could mobilize for service even with lowered physical standards.

LABOR DISPUTES

The President abolished the National Defense Meditation Board and established a National War Labor Board with NDMB Chairman Davis as chairman. Four commissioners will represent the public, four will represent employees and four industry. The new Board has wider authority than the old Board and can arbitrate or meditate disputes as it sees fit except that it cannot disregard existing labor legislation.

The Maritime War Emergency Board established war bonuses for sailors on merchant ships.

AUTOS

The OPA announced auto rationing would begin February 2 in the same manner as tire rationing. Of the 202,000 cars in the industry quota for January, about 150,000 cars will be stored with dealers who promise not to sell without permission—probably not to be granted before January, 1943.—and then only at OPA established prices.

OPA issued a schedule of prices for "retreadable" tire carcasses and "retreads" and forecast a ceiling over all used tires "in the very near future." Federal Loan Administrator Jones announced plans to increase synthetic rubber production capacity to 400,000 tons by pooling of resources and skills of the rubber and oil industries if priorities can be obtained on steel needed to erect plants. OPA Administrator Henderson said tire rationing would probably not be affected because of increasing military needs for rubber

CENSORSHIP

Censorship Director Price, after consultation with newspaper, magazine and periodical editors, announced a code of conduct which publications were asked to follow in handling information in order to prevent information of a military nature reaching the enemy. Prohibited, unless officially released, are most details of military, naval or industrial establishments, casualty lists, damages to war facilities, movements of troops and ships, weather reports except of certain types, and movements of the President or of official military or diplomatic missions.

AGRICULTURE

Agriculture Secretary Wickard said goals have been revised to call for the greatest agricultural production in U. S. history, with particular emphasis on the production of oil-bearing crops such as peanuts and soybeans. The corn goal was stepped up by five million acres in order that there be feed supplies to continue expansion of meat, dairy and poultry production. Dry edible bean and dry pea production increases were called for. An additional five million bushels of rice was asked and provision made for an increase over 1941 of more than 18 million cases of canned fruits and vegetables.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE

The OCO announced 3,516,600 volunteers have enrolled in the various civilian defense services, including 1,423,755 assigned to training or duty in the protective services. The Office also announced a Victory Garden Program under which all families in any community can jointly till community garden, use the produce themselves and give the surplus to schools and institutions.

Surgeon General Parran told the U. S. Conference of Mayors in Washington "the enemy has planned and in my opinion will use bacteriological warfare whenever possible." He asked the mayors to begin at once to take every possible precaution.

CONSERVATION

The OPM Bureau of Industrial Conservation opened a program to mobilize the nation's 1,700,000 retail stores in a continuous drive to salvage materials—wastepaper, scrap metal, old rags, rubber—needed to produce weapons for the fighting forces. Signers will display window emblems signifying their part in the "Salvage for Victory" program. The shopping public was asked to help conserve tires, trucks and paper by carrying home bundles instead of depending on delivery service. Consumers of natural gas in nine States, mostly in the Middlewest were asked to cut consumption as much possible.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Fate: For nine years, William Ortman, a music publisher, sought a hit song. He brought out various numbers that were singable and ear-appealing, but the public didn't buy copies by the thousands. Then along came "The Shrine of St. Cecelia." It sounded good and Mr. Ortman published it. Searching for material for a recording session, Vaughn Monroe chose the ballad, waxed it and liking it, used it on his various broadcasts. One night in the midtown hotel in which Mr. Ortman lived, there was a gun battle between police and three desperate criminals. Mr. Ortman happened to step out of his room into a corridor right in the line of fire. A bullet struck him and he was rushed to a hospital. Now "The Shrine of St. Cecelia" is sweeping the nation and at last the house of Ortman has a hit. But the publisher is dead.

Silly: Some years ago, it was "Knock, knock, who's there?" with all sorts of crazy answers. But that form of insanity was laid away along with prohibition. Then came another era, that of "You tell 'em." That, too, seemingly ran its course and was forgotten. "You tell 'em" was not dead, however—it was merely asleep since once more Broadway and the rest of the town is going batty in exactly the same way. Some of the "prize" ones I've heard lately are, "You tell 'em, butcher, you've got lots of tongue." "You tell 'em, June and don't July." "You tell 'em, roll, you've got plenty of crust." "You tell 'em, cigarette, you're all lit up." "You tell 'em, baker, you're well bred." And the very worst of all, "You tell 'em, submarine, I don't seaplane." One learns a lot living in New York.

Return: When the Nazi blitzkrieg struck Poland, Joana and Louise Leschin, concert duo pianists, got out of the country just ahead of the invaders. So great was their haste in boarding the last train that their trunk, in which were just about all their belongings, was left standing on the station platform. In the course of time, they reached New York and as days lengthened into weeks, weeks into months, and months into years, naturally they lost all hope that their baggage would show up. Consequently their surprise was great when last week, the very same trunk was delivered to them. The only clue as to where it had been was a large label, "From Toledo, Ohio." Only their orchestrations were missing.

Hollywood: Muriel Angelus, British belle, made a great singing hit several seasons back in "The Boys from Syracuse." As a result, she was summoned to the West coast for work in motion pictures. Out there, she wasn't allowed to sing a note, but for some unaccountable reason was given only straight dramatic parts. Then she came back to Broadway to star in "Sunny River," the Hammerstein-Romberg musical. And now Hollywood is once more bidding for her services—in straight dramatic parts.

Memento: Several weeks ago, Jack Dempsey's two little daughters slipped up to the microphone in his Broadway restaurant and sang a chorus of "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire." Recently, Irving Carroll and his orchestra celebrated the completion of a solid year at Dempsey's, and Mrs. Hannah Williams Dempsey presented Carroll with a costly platinum watch as a memento. On the back is engraved, "To our first accompanist; with love, Joan and Barbara Dempsey."

End Piece: At Forty-fourth and Broadway, a wild-looking young man rushed up and panted that if he didn't get a nickel right away, his whole life would be ruined. He explained that he'd been trying to patch up a quarrel with his sweetheart from a pay station and had been cut off because his three minutes were up. If there was any doubt about his story, he added, I could come into the booth with him and listen. He got the nickel—and actually dashed for a drugstore phone.

'se of Electricity On Farms Increases

eport on Rural Systems Praises Operation.

WASHINGTON.—An increase of per cent over the previous year the amount of electricity deliv- ed to consumers is shown in a nited States department of agri- ture statistical report of REA- nced power systems for the fis- l year ending June 30, 1941. Con- mers of these systems used 568,- 0,394 kilowatt-hours of electricity ring the fiscal year 1941, com- red to only 311,479,005 kilowatt- ours during the previous fiscal ar.

Other figures similarly demon- rate substantial development dur- g the past fiscal year, said Harry lattery, rural electrification admin- trator, in the report, the most de- iled yet prepared by REA for gen- ral distribution.

The report covers every phase of perations, including allotments, onstruction and financial statistics, f each of the 823 systems with al- tments as of June 30, 1941. On hat date, the report shows, REA o-operative systems were serving 80,482 consumer members, com- ared to 549,604 on June 30, 1940, -an increase of 42 per cent.

Gross revenues of the systems in peration increased 68.8 per cent uring the fiscal year, from $17,376,- 16 in 1940 to $29,356,462 in fiscal 941.

The number of miles of line ac- ually in operation grew from 232,- 78 on June 30, 1940, to 307,590 on une 30, 1941, an increase of 32 per ent.

REA systems are power distribu- ion companies, most of them owned y the consumers who use the pow- r. Their construction is made pos- ible by loans from REA, but those oans must be repaid with interest ver a period of 25 years.

Finds Sun Is 93,005,000 Miles from the Earth

NEW YORK.—The sun's distance from earth has been remeasured and is found to be 93,005,000 miles.

This is between 100,000 and 200,000 miles farther than previous measurements, which were the result of centuries of careful work.

The announcement is from Dr. H. Spencer Jones, astronomer royal of England, made in Monthly Science News, a new British publication.

The added gap between sun and earth is about as much as would be caused by moving the moon three to five times farther away. The moon would look only about half as big as now.

The new distance to the sun is the most accurate yet obtained. It is considered uncertain by a margin of not more than 10,000 miles. The former estimate, 92,850,000 miles, was uncertain by a 50,000-mile margin.

Astronomers would like to get rid of that last 10,000-mile error, for the sun's distance is the foot-rule of celestial measurement. As long as it continues uncertain, other measurements are affected.

Rock Collecting Fever Costs Woman Fur Coat

SALT LAKE CITY.—Mrs. Grace G. Dearborn of Boston, Mass., admitted that her "collecting spirit" had gotten the better of her.

Mrs. Dearborn, secretary of the Boston Mineral club, visited Utah recently to add a few crystal rocks, found in abundance in Utah, to her collection.

She had, at the same time, been saving her money to buy a new winter coat.

But when she saw some of the "rare and superb" specimens of stone, she did a little re-allocating and ended up using her "coat fund" as collection expenses in gathering up seven suitcases full of the formations to take home.

Fire Dyes His Chickens, Farmer Is Awarded $235

HOUSTON, TEXAS. — Farmer Fritz Muesse got $235 because an oil fire dyed his white chickens black and caused his daughter, Mary, 10, to suffer an attack of asthma.

A Shell Pipeline company pipe across his farm sprang a leak, Muesse told District Judge Ben Wilson, and the oil caught fire. It shrouded his home and hen house with black smoke.

Mary became ill and the chickens practically quit laying, Muesse testified.

"And they haven't gotten back on the job yet," he added.

Judge Wilson awarded $235 damages.

X-Ray Found to Show Up Old Tattoo Marks

ALBANY, N. Y.—Invisible tattoo marks may aid in the identification of soldiers killed in future wars, the New York state department of health suggests, thus reducing the danger of error.

The markings become visible under X-rays, it is explained. They are made with compounds known as phosphors, which shine with various colors when activated by this means.

MORAL ECHOS

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D. D.

Dannecker, the German sculptor, was strolling in the woods one day when he met face to face with the Man of Galilee. He was so overcome with the vision that must have been his, until he determined to carve the face of the Master out of a marble block that he held in his studio. For two years he worked upon this form and thinking that he had done all that he could to make it perfect, he called a little girl to him and asked of her, "Daughter, who is that?" The child gleaned at it for a moment and then said, "O I do not know, some great man I suppose." Dannecker was disappointed and started work all over again. Six years later he called in another little girl and of her he asked, "Daughter, who is that?" She looked at it long and then with her eyes full of tears she replied, "Suffer little children to come unto me." The great sculptor was satisfied. Are you putting Jesus into what you are doing?

Napoleon saw the statue of Christ carved by Dannecker and the General requested that he carve for him the statue of Venus for his Art gallery. The German Artist refused saying, "A man who has seen Christ would commit sacrelege if he should employ his art in carving a pagan goddess. My Art henceforth is a consecrated thing." While up the Sycamore tree Zachous saw Jesus as He came toward Jericho, and that little stumpy Jew was never the same after that. Any man who looks upon the face of Jesus Christ will never be the same again. A vision of Him will do things for us on the inside that time can never change.

In Burma Dr. Judson the eminent Missionary, examines an applicant for baptism to find out if she was really prepared for this important step. Her answers did not satisfy the missionary. His eyes saw the glitter of a beautiful necklace and knowing how the women of Burma treasured this kind of jewelry he asked of her, "My good woman, are you willing to give up that necklace for Jesus? "On hearing the question the woman started lifting it from around her neck, as she said, "Yes, I love Jesus." "I love Christ more than that" she replied. Of course Dr. Judson baptised her without any more inquiry. Jesus said to Peter, "Lovest thou me more than these," referring to the feed supply on which Peter was feasting. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart." No man is far from the Kingdom when Christ is all and in all.

One day I was leaning against the iron gate of a neighbor home, talking to the man of the house. I had thrust my arm through the railings of the iron gate, while my head was distinctly over the fence. Along came the lad of the home and ran against the gate to give it a shove that he might hastily pass through with his dog. Not having time to get my arm disengaged and my head on the right side, I suffered quite an unexpected wrench. This came about all because my hands and my head were on one side of the fence while my heart and body were on the other side. That leads me to say that if you want to avoid many an upset, you had better keep your hands, your feet, your body your heart and your head on the same side of the fence.

In the autumn I have watched the leaves falling from the trees, and I have observed that the most of them let go and float to mother earth. Sometimes I see two or three leaves holding on. They stay on the branch in spite of wind and cold, but when the spring has come, the sap rises and new life flows to the highest branch, and this new life shoves the old leavves from their places and they come down. They are pushed off by the rising tide of new life, for death can not stand before life. So it is with us. Those old habits that belong to our fallen nature, cling to us in spite of ourselves. We try hard to battle them off, but they cling to us. Our only hope to gain the final, complete victory, is when the Spirit of God flows through our hearts with new life and power. Then it is that we find that our old natures are being made new and that we can bud forth with new life. "Lord revive us." Send thy Spirit through our hearts and bring new life everywhere.

Here's One Way You Can Help Win the War

Mrs. Lum Tucker of Marshall county has given to the press one of the very best recipes for helping to win the war that we have read about:

Mrs. Tucker says: "I have one acre in garden, and have canned 1,182 quarts of fruits, vegetables and meats this year. We have four hogs to butcher, 14 head of cattle, some that we will use as beef, and 100 hens. We grow most all the feed for the chickens and cows. With a well-rounded live-at-home program, I have a well-balanced diet for my family and we realize a big saving from our farm products. We plan to buy some defense bonds this year."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown during the illness and death of our father and husband, A. Z. Bean. We especially thank Rev. Johnson, Mr. White and the quartet for their services rendered and also for the floral offering. May the richest of blessings be with all of you.

Alcohol Tax Unit After Moonshiners

The Alcohol Tax Unit of the United States Treasury Department has launched a two-purpose campaign destined to conserve the existing stock of sugar in this county and to eliminate the enormous tax loss which the "moonshine" whiskey industry inflicts on the nation

Every wholesale and retail grocer is being contacted by officials of the Unit and requested to voluntarily pledge himself to refrain from selling sugar in quantity to any suspicious person. Known and suspected violators of the liquor laws will be barred from purchasing sugar when the program is complete

A grocer who sells a 100 pound bag of sugar usually makes a profit of about 35c on the transaction. Each 100 pound sack of sugar, when converted into illicit whiskey, represents a tax loss to the Government of $40.

With increased taxes applying in some form to every man, woman and child in the United States with the largest budget in the history of the world, it is only right that the additional tax burden placed on tax payers by the illegal whiskey makers be eliminated.

Mr. Joe Rollins, Investigator in charge, Alcohol Tax Unit, Birmingham, Alabama, who is directing the program in the State of Alabama, estimates that moonshine whiskey cost the Government at least ten million dollars in this State alone during the year 1941.

Mr. Rollins, in pointing out that it is the patriotic duty of merchants to assist their Government in enforcing the program to prevent sugar from reaching illicit distillers, states that the program is being enthusiastically received by merchants throughout the State. Each merchant who agrees to stop sales of sugar to suspicious persons is given a placard for window display which states that his firm is cooperating with the Government.

Only two cases of wilful diversion of sugar into moonshine whiskey channels has been reported lately. In one case the merchant responsible was sentenced to two years in the Federal Penitentiary. In the other case, the merchant was fined $1,000.00 and given a suspended six months jail sentence and placed on five year probation.

Program For Farmers To Help Win War

A new program to help the small farmer do his part in serving the nation and winning the war was explained today by James L. Hall, Farm Security Administration Supervisor for this district, upon his return from a FSA regional conference in Montgomery, Alabama, at which the plans were developed.

Mr. Hall reported that the conference placed the FSA program on a war footing, for the purpose of increasing food production. To this, he said, every other part of the program will become secondary for the duration.

Minimum goals of food production by families on the FSA program were fixed, Mr. Hall said, and practical help for the small farmer both in and out of the program was planned, with arrangements for loans to those farmers who cannot obtain credit elsewhere and who must have help in buying chickens, cows and hogs, in getting seed and equipment.

The plans put into shape the part which Farm Security will have in the Department of Agriculture's "Food Freedom" campaign, in which all agencies of the department are participating

The goals were an extension of those established by FSA in its "Food for Defense" program started last Spring and which already is adding $15,000 to $20,000 daily to the income of the small farmer through increased production of eggs, milk and pork products.

Besides seeking to double the food production by FSA families, especially in the essential items of eggs, milk and dairy products, cheese and vegetables, the program includes the following general goals:

1. Addition of one acre per family of sorghum or sugar cane.
2. Efforts to transfer cows from one family to another and in some cases from one area to another where families have more than two yet have failed to manage and fee dthem efficiently.
3. Continued effort to cause FSA families to keep and fully develop more heifers and gilts.
4. Continued effort to get families to have more pastures.
5. Develop plans for storing food with minimum facilities.
6. Encourage plans for fencing to overcome the shortage of wire.

Mr. Hall explained the broad goals of the FSA war program as follows:

"We should be able in this period to complete our long effort to get small farmers to produce all the food they will need for fully adequate diets. Thus they will not enter the market to purchase foods needed for domestic consumption by urban families or for export to our allies; and they may be made to feel that one of the really important ways in which they can participate in the war effort is to produce food

"The small farm family is still buying food, feed and seedd. Now we see, and should help this family to see, that its patriotic obligation is to quit buying the food it needs. Now we see that we should quit worrying about a cash economy until we get the Number One job done."

Open New Mine Of Manganese

South Dakota Ore Tested in Plan to Find Supply Of Vital Metal.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D.—The first step toward development of an almost limitless supply of domestic manganese was taken recently when production was started at the federal bureau of mines experimental plant near here.

F. D. DeVaney, metallurgist in charge, estimates that an average of 500 tons of crude ore will be processed daily until freezing weather, and again in the spring. The ore will be shipped to government refining plants at Boulder, Nev., and Provo, Utah, where it will be used in experiments.

Admitting that the South Dakota ore probably is too low-grade for use in normal times, Mr. DeVaney said the government expects to develop an important emergency source in the South Dakota field.

Manganese is regarded as one of the most important strategic minerals in which the United States is deficient. About 14 pounds are used as a hardening agent in the manufacture of a ton of steel. In recent years the United States has imported 95 per cent of its requirements, chiefly from Russia. The remainder has come from small deposits in Arkansas, Montana and Virginia.

Enough for 1,300 Years.

According to the metal resources board, the nation has only a 16-month supply of manganese on hand, and imports have virtually ceased despite efforts of Cuba and Brazil to tap reserves and send the ore to the United States.

The South Dakota deposits are believed to be the largest in the country. A report of the South Dakota Geological Survey this year estimates the deposits at 10,000,000,000 tons of low-grade ore, enough to supply the present steel industry in the United States for 1,300 years.

Engineers in charge of the experimental plant near here are not optimistic about large-scale production, but explain that even the 500 tons of ore being processed daily would produce enough manganese for the manufacture of 800 tons of steel.

The 800 tons of steel, they say, are equivalent to the amount used in building 640 automobiles. A 30-day run at the experimental plant would produce enough manganese to manufacture the steel used in a 30,000-ton battleship of the South Dakota class.

To Use Pressure Method.

The new plant, using a system of screens and washers with an oil-heated drying kiln, will separate an average of 50 tons of 20 per cent manganese from each 500 tons of material handled.

Construction of a second experimental plant, designed to handle 250 tons of ore a day, has been started near here. This plant will operate on the principle of an explosive-shattering plant like those used in manufacturing or processing puffed-grain cereals. Ore will be placed in a steam cylinder under high pressure. As the pressure is released suddenly the ore nodules will be separated from the shale and clay in which they are imbedded when mined.

Both plants were authorized under funds made available by congress for acquisition of strategic minerals. About $80,000 is being spent on the two plants.

Development work in manganese also is being conducted in Arizona and Minnesota, where there are low-grade deposits of smaller extent. A large extraction plant has been proposed for Minnesota.

Trip to Moon? Yes, by 2041, Says Scientist

LOS ANGELES.—A trip to the moon may not be as fantastic as it sounds. Our great-grandchildren may make the first one, in the opinion of Dr. Dinsmore Alter, director of the Griffith Astronomical observatory.

Dr. Alter predicted that man's first visit to the moon would take place "some time within the next 100 years—if not sooner."

The first flight, he said, depends on the development of a new element, known as Uranium 235, now being studied at the University of California at Berkeley.

"It's possible to send objects to the moon right now," the scientist said. "It is almost a matter of fuel and cost. It has been estimated the cost of a rocket to span the 232,000 to 253,000 miles would be about $100,000,000."

He revealed that once on the moon there would be no trouble leaving. The takeoff would be simple because the planet's gravitational pull is only a sixth that of the earth.

Dereliction of Duty Says Inquiry Board

WASHINGTON. — A presidential board of inquiry attributed the success of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor primarily to "dereliction of duty" on the part of Lieutenant General Walter C. Short and Adminal Husband E. Kimmel, the commanding officers of the Army and Navy in that area.

They had been adequately informed from Washington that war was imminent, it found. They had been warned to prepare against an air raid. They failed to confer upon the warnings and the measures to be taken under them. They refused to believe an air attack possible. Consequently the Japanese raid was a "complete surprise."

Unpaid-For Seals

Patterson Hicks, general chairman of the Christmas Seal Campaign, urged that desk drawers and tables be searched for unpaid Christmas Seals.

"These Seals were mailed to residents of our community in November Our local tuberculosis association must draw up its budget for 12 months of work during the coming year. It needs all the support we can give for an effective program."

95 per cent of the money realized from the sale of seals stays in communities where it is raised. The other five per cent goes to help finance the work on a national scale.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

President Sketches World Strategy; Australia Is Periled by Japanese Army Invasion of Its Key Island Outposts; Nelson Speeds Up U. S. War Production

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state and head of the U. S. delegation to the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is cheered by spectators as he waves his hat from the Tiradentes palace, scene of the historic meeting.

BLUEPRINT:
Of World Battle

While the nation girded itself for victory production on a scale never hitherto dreamed of, and while American soldiers were arriving on foreign fields ready to do battle until victory, while still others were filling the news with their heroic exploits, President Roosevelt gave newsmen a hint of the "blueprint of battle."

The President, following the close of the Churchill conferences, and the safe return of the British premier to London by airplane from Bermuda, had told little to newsmen save that there was a complete accord among the united nations.

Now he had begun to give them the picture, a portrait of battle carried on simultaneously in every part of the globe by the soldiers of all nationals working in concert with each other.

Thus were found American aviators fighting in the Singapore area, with the Dutch in the East Indies, in the Philippines, over the Seven Seas, and most lately arriving in Britain and other points for service.

The President said one could look at the map of the world and assume that the anti-Axis group was doing something at almost every strategic point.

He said that joint technical committees were busy, covering the subjects of production, of transportation of produced supplies to every part of the globe, also to the assignment of fighting men and machines to points where they were most needed.

While all of his information had been of a general nature, the nearest he came to giving out details was when he said that excellent progress was being made in strengthening the Allied forces in the Pacific.

This latter statement was taken by the press to be an attempt by the President to allay Chinese fears that the Allies were not going to make a vigorous enough battle against the Japs.

The President had finished a conference with Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Netherlands Indies. Dr. Van Mook came out of the conference room beaming.

JAPS:
Extend Fronts

The Japs, far from being licked or even stopped, were constantly extending their front, and with reports of their continued advances spreading out with attacks on all fronts, came dispatches telling of two new ventures. These were the invasion of New Guinea and the Solomon island area; and an invasion of Burma by the Siamese as a measure to aid Japan.

Indicating a threat to Australia itself, the New Guinea invasion was paced by air attacks and a movement of naval forces. The Solomon islands lie in a chain northeast of Australia and east of New Guinea.

The Burma invasion had started at Myawaddie on the Burma-Thai frontier. This lies at the northern end of the Burmese panhandle bordering the puppet country.

It had not been unexpected, and General Wavell's headquarters some time before had told of Chinese reinforcements to the Burmese troops, apparently sent there for just such a contingency.

The invaders also seized the port of Tavoy, which bisects the panhandle and gave the Jap-assisters a good advantage in opening the fighting.

Jap fliers were reported to have occupied a flying field at Tavoy, and roared out to attack with bombs the important cities and ports of Moulmein and Rangoon.

PRODUCTION:
OPM Finally Dies

The OPM, over which William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman had presided as twin genii for many hard-working, hard-fighting months prior to American entry into the war, finally died, Production Chief Donald Nelson supplanting it entirely with his new War Production board, probably to be known as WPB.

Mr. Nelson, however, had "portfolios" in his new series of divisions for most of the key men in OPM—for it was not so much a junking of an old organization as a revamping of it on a streamlined basis.

The placing of one man, Nelson, at the head of the war production effort, also necessarily called for a change in organization.

This was undertaken fearlessly by Nelson, who created five primary divisions, most of them utilizing as heads former members of the organization of OPM, SPAB and other groups.

Leon Henderson still was in charge of civilian supply; Hillman still had the labor job; Stacy May was "progress reporter," and so on down the line.

Probably the first and most vital job, almost coincidental with the naming of Nelson himself, went to Knudsen. The big motor man became a Lieutenant General, in direct charge of the speeding up of factory production in general, that is, as far as Army procurement was concerned.

But the man who was to be most in the public eye for the next few weeks was Ernest Kanzler, a new figure in the picture, who was named automobile production czar—not of automobiles, but of what the auto factories are going to make.

MAC ARTHUR:
Resistance

As if to prove that the defeat of his army had been prematurely predicted, General MacArthur sprang a distinct surprise on Washington and the country's newspapers when he reported that American-Filipino resistance was continuing on the island of Mindanao in the vicinity of Davao.

An all-out Japanese effort to turn the Luzon defenders' right flank had earlier been turned back with heaviest Jap losses, and yet the danger was far from over, for the Japanese were reported returning to the attack again with vigor.

It was reported that an entire Japanese army—estimated by some as many as 300,000 men—had been thrown into the battle for Luzon and the whole Bataan peninsula front blazed into action in a renewal of the Japanese attempt to crush the defenders.

But the word from MacArthur's headquarters that fighting was continuing in Mindanao came long after official Washington had given up Mindanao for lost, and simply showed how difficult communications were in the area.

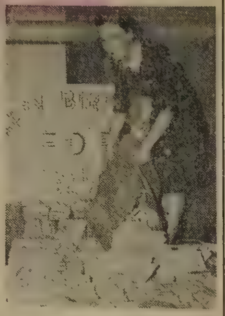
It was believed possible that MacArthur himself had thought Mindanao gone until he received belated word from the southern island that the battle was still in progress.

CRITIQUE:

A dual report on profiteering came before the legislative bodies of the congress, the Truman report and the Vinson report—named for their committee chairmen, the former rushing into print and into the press a few days ahead of the latter.

That congress, aware of the huge character of the hurling of 56 billions into war production in two short years, and of what this might mean if profits were allowed to go beyond certain limits, intended to clamp the lid down was evident.

'March of Dimes'



Alma F. Borgmeyer, clerk in the mail room at the White House, opens mail bags jammed with "March of Dimes" letters addressed to President Roosevelt and designed to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis. The mail was reaching its peak just before the President's Diamond Jubilee Celebration on January 30.

SUB ATTACKS:
Intensified

Submarines, probably German U-boats, were pressing their attacks along the East coast of the United States, but the Navy department had reported that strong counter measures were being taken.

The whereabouts of the navy's chief strength was being kept a closely guarded secret, but all authorities from the President down continued to insist that the navy was extremely active, and was disposed in such a manner as best to meet present threats.

The sinking of a Japanese cruiser by navy bombing planes was announced, and there had been a number of sinkings of supply ships, some of them close to Japan.

Most dramatic had been the exploit of PT-boat division commander Lieutenant Bulkeley, who shot his own boat at 80 miles an hour into the Bay of Olongapo, sent a 5,000-ton Japanese vessel to the bottom and escaped unscathed.

Bulkeley's boat, a 77-foot speedster, carries heavy machine-guns and 18-inch torpedoes. He was being hailed as a hero almost on a par with Colin Kelly.

The cruiser sinking lacked details, but the navy said it was sent to the bottom 100 miles off the island of Jolo, one of the nearly 8,000 isles of the Philippine group.

Where the American bombers which did this trick and achieved other victories were based was a closely guarded secret, but there were many possible bases in territory within reach of the location where the sinking occurred.

PRICE CONTROL:
'Joker'

The price control bill, sulking in the house and senate conference under the baleful displeasure of the President, continued to bog down as prices continued to soar.

The farm relief "joker" in the bill had met with condemnation, not only from the White House, but from many leading agricultural centers, and this remained the main point of controversy in the bill.

In the meantime, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard came out with a statement that there probably would be a shortage of sugar, just after all the refinery men had gone out on a limb with the opposite prediction.

Sugar hoarders, and other purchasers of foodstuffs were continuing to storm grocery stores and cartoons were published under the caption "this little pig went to market" showing hoarders at their deadly work at the grocery counters.

Administration circles were at their gloomiest over the situation, one source saying "we had hoped to get an improvement over the house bill when we got to the senate, but the senate bill was worse than the house bill, and now most of us would be calling it a victory if we could get the house bill enacted."

SR. III CLASS POEM OF ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

O. F. Davenport, our class president is very small, except when he presides over the class,
To equal his heart, he'll have to grow
For he does love "Miss Isabella High" so;
We admit she is a dear, step up, boy your chance is here.
Now Lillian Higgins you see
Stayed at the head of the class,
We Seniors can't see how this can be
When we can hardly pass;
Though Studious Sr's. are not so few;
She exceeds Naomi Culp by only a point or two.
Next we'll tell you about Sara Traywick,
Oh, yes she's here, don't you see
She's always 'round where there's fun,
But never, never is the one
To get caught in her plays,
Because of her innocent look and ways.
Roy Davis with his wit and jest
In helping the class is one of the best
Carolyn Deramus, though she's not very tall,
With her cheery disposition makes friends with all.
If Margaret Oden's smiles were counted and sold
Her pockets would be full of gold.
A good sport is Betty Lee Tucker,
Liked by all because she's so jolly and gay;
Eva Conway is fond of fun
And is liked by everyone;
Oh, she would no willing heart beguile,
This jolly Ruby Mae Mizzelle with her winsome smile.
Dorothy Culp, though small in statue,
Is so cunning no one can match her.
She hopes to teach in some big school,
Grow fat and enforce the Golden Rule.
We hope Helen Durbin will be her friend
For happy hours together they spend.
Carroll Cobern would not be a shirker
For he is a willing worker.
When others are busy, as they pretend,
Always on Carroll we can depend.
Marion Headley is another who is smart
He's always willing to do his part.
C. B. Lenoir is not easy to provoke;
He always appreciates a good joke,
And signifies by a hearty laugh
Or return a joke with his lively craft.
So Sober, steadfast and demure
Is our modest Elbert Henson with thoughts so pure.
Van Buxton often seems melancholy
And shuns the noise of folly,
But he's a very regal lad;
One of the most diligent to be had.
Susie Nell Sexton with her dainty air
Is just as kind as she is fair,
She would harm no mortal thing,
And oh, how she loves to sing.

THE PLOW SHARE IS A SWORD

MR. FARMER!

ARE YOU DOING YOUR PART

TO HELP WIN THIS WAR?

If the answer is yes, you are planning to farm all the land possible this year, and you are planning to produce more food and feed crops. This is going to take plow tools and equipment.

When the supply of tools and equipment now in your dealers' warehouses are gone, it may take him as much as three months to get more. This is true of all types of equipment — plows, bolts, harness and machinery parts. This means that you, Mr. Farmer, are going to have to order this equipment and parts from us, your local dealers, NOW, if you are going to make a crop.

WE SUGGEST THAT YOU DO THE FOLLOWING:

1. Carefully check over each plow and piece of machinery to determine what will be needed in the way of repairs for this farming year.
2. Order all equipment and parts needed NOW. This includes all plows, points, wings, slides, scooters, shovels, sweeps, scrapes and all equipment that is made of metal.
3. Add new labor-saving equipment, and cooperate with your County Extension Agents and the U.S.D.A. War Board in their efforts to get food and feed quotas for Chilton County produced in 1942.

STATE FERTILIZER TAX TAGS LOST IN SINKING

Montgomery, Ala.—Note to Alabama fertilizer companies:

"You won't bet getting the usual fertilizer tax tags right away. They happen to be at the bottom of the ocean somewhere off the Carolina coast, but the state is going to fix you up with some substitute ones."

It all happened when the American vessel, City of Atlanta, was sunk Monday. Part of the ship's cargo consisted of 2,000,000 of the state fertilizer tags that were being shipped here from Boston by way of Savannah, Ga.

The tags were to have been taken up by fertilizer companies to show they have paid approximately $60,000 in taxes. One is placed on each fertilizer bag.

What we would like to know is: Why was 2,000,000 Alabama fertilizer tax tags being shipped from Boston printers that should have been printedhere in Alabama?

IMPORTANT THAT FARMERS ORDER FARM MACHINERY

Auburn, Ala.—Wide awake farmers over the State are placing their orders with farm machinery dealers now for new parts and equipment.

It is pointed out by J. B Wilson, extension agricultural engineer, that farm machinery dealers are encouraging farmers to place definite orders with them so they may secure parts or equipment as soon as possible. Orders must be in the hands of the manufacturers at least three months before they are needed due to increased defense orders.

Farmers placing orders now will be ready to start their farm operations around the first of April but farmers who do not place orders early may have to make this year's orcp with the equipment they now have.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

I copy the following from an article written by Dr. E. Stanley Jones: "In South America I saw in the courtroom that had been used in the Inquisition a wooden statute of Christ. This wooden statute had a string attached to it so that the judge on the bench could render his decision and then pull the string so as to make the head of the Christ to nod His approval." We are shocked to know that such blasphemy and such deception could be practiced anywhere. That judge was dealing with a wooden Christ, a dead Christ. There are still people in our day who seek the sanction, the endorsement of the Christ just as did the judge of the Inquisition. We are going far afield when we pull a string in order to score the nod of approval of Christ of our manner of living. Remember that the Christ of the Church is a living Christ and not a dead Christ.

Look deep into your heart and see if you do not discover a critical dispostion within. Anybody can be critical. Just any kind of a preacher can criticize his congregation. Just any sort of a church member can criticize his preacher. There are men who pride themselves because of their candor, but oft times this generates into brutality. One such man said to John Wesley, "Mr. Wesley, I pride myself on speaking my mind; that is one of my talents." "Well" replied Mr. Wesley, "That is one talent that the Lord wouldn't object to you burying." We do not have to approve everything, but it does little good for us to be forever criticising.

What is your reaction to crticism? Are you so selfish as to get mad and hurt over every word that is critical? Do you take general criticism as a personal thrust? At one time I was addressing a gathering of Sunday School teachers on the importance and the opportunity of the teacher's position and one poor soul became offended andran out of the room in a rage. When a church leader is urging his people to do a good job, and doing it in love and with a spirit of inspiration, there can be no personal criticism and there should be no wounded feelings. When preachers, or laymen get their feelings hurt on the account of inspirational criticism it is in order to weep over Zion. Certainly, you are going to be criticsed. Be a good sport and let it inspire you to do your very best. Mean criticism is the exception to the rule.

I know a father who had three sons. In a crate of apples he found three that had on them rotten spots and he decided that he would offer these to his three boys. The father wanted to see what the boys would do with the apples offered. One boy took his apple and ate it, rotten spots peeling and all. The next boy took his apple, looked it over and threw it away. The third boy took his apple and seeing that it had bad spots on it, he asked his father to loan him his knife. He cut away the rotten spots, peeled the rest and ate it with relish. If those boys had been yours, which one would you have selected as the wisest of the three? Some people will gobble down good and bad. Some discard good and bad. There are some who will carve away the bad and use the good. Blessed is that one who knows the good and will hold to it. Discard the bad.

There are times when a decision must be made between life and death and that in a moment. One night the ship "Stephen Whitney" rammed a cliff on an Irish shore in the midnight hour. For a few moments the wounded ship clung to the rock. Many of the passengers saw the danger and they ran to the bow and leaped off on the rock and were safe. This quick decision made it possible for them to be saved. Other passengers hesitated and the returning waves swept them from the dock and they were lost in the deep. It was decision and safety. It was hesitation and death. Look my brother, your ship of sin is just ready to strike the cliffs and you are in danger. Better run forward and leap to the old Rock of Ages and be forever safe. If you continue to hesitate and then linger on that unsafe way of life, before you know it the wave of time will sweep you from the deck of life and you will be lost forever. With many it is "Now" or never.

A Letter From Mr. Padgett

To The Voters of Chilton County:

I am announcing as a candidate for Commissioner of the first district and wish to give you a few of the qualifications I think a commissioner should have. I have had about thirty years experience on construction work and some of this was building roads and bridges. I believe all bridges should be built of concrete and steel wherever possible. Our oak lumber is fast disappearing and it is hard to get enough good oak to supply the need of the small bridge and water boxes. I don't think the present price of oak lumber is high enough because the cost of manufacturing it is much higher than it was a year ago. I believe the laborer who works the county roads should be paid at least two dolalrs per day for eight hours work. Ithink when any changes are to be made on a piece of road or any new roads built the citizens of the community should be consulted about the changes. I don't think any changes should be made in the winter when there is so much rain but all new work should be done in the summer months and as soon as any new work is done it should have gravel put on it before using it, one of the great troubles with our roads is not having enough gravel.

I don't think the commissioners should spend any of the county's money without being sure they get value received for same. I think everything possible should be done to help our old people of the county who have reached the pension age. I believe Chilton County should pay its part of the money due for the pension and think the state should match all federal funds for this. I have never asked for an office before and I pledge myself to give you a fair and impartial administration, if elected. I know it is going to be impossible to see you all in person but I will promise you if you nominate me in May I will be elected in November. Thanking you in advance for your very trulybaizi $R.dia support, I am youre very truly.

—J. E. PADGETT.

ALABAMA STATE DEFENSE COUNCIL WARNING

Montgomery, Ala.—The latch string on the front door of every home in Alabama should be out for thousands of babies, school children and disabled who must be evacuated from their homes when German or Jap. planes drop tons of death-dealing bombs on Birmingham, Mobile and other congested defense areas.

That was the assertion here today of Gov. Frank M. Dixon, chairman of the Alabama State Defense Council, who declared that the Axis powers did not declare war on the United States just for fun.

"Open your doors."

That was the plea of the governor to every householder on the farm and in the towns and cities, to every school superintendent, hospital manager, city and county official in the area outside of the sections most likely to be bombed.

CIVILIAN CHEMICAL PLANT WORKERS ARE NEEDED

To fill critical national defense positions at the Huntsville, Alabama Arsenal, important munitions manufacturing center, the Civil Service Commission today urged all qualified persons to file applications for jobs as chemical plant workmen, chemical plant operators, and foremen, chemical plant operators, at salaries ranging from $5.28 to $10 a day.

Employment, the Commission said, will be at the Huntsville Arsenal, and will have a direct bearing on the nation's defense effort.

No Slump In Gas Sales Expected

Despite curtailment of automobile production and the drastic restrictions of the sale of tires, Alabama revenue from gas consumption this year is not expected to slump under that received during the past fiscal year. This was the opinion of State Revenue Commissioner John Curry, who pointed out last week that increases already registered for the first four months of the present fiscal year, which began Oct. 1, will offset to a large extent the decline which the next eight months may bring. Gas tax collections were shown to be running a little better than $200,000 a month ahead of the same month a year ago, with an increase of $800,000 to $1,000,000 indicated for the first four months collections over the same period of the last fiscal year.

CURRENT SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for February 1, 1942

GOLDEN TEXT: "I was in the Spirit on the Lord's Day."—Rev 1:10:

(Lesson Text: Mark 1: 21-34; Luke 4:31-41.)

Shortly after Jesus submitted himself to John the Baptist for baptism and after the forty days' temptation in the wilderness, Jesus selected four of the men who were to accompany him during the years of his ministry. They were two pairs of brothers Peter and Andrew and James and John

With them he went into Capernaum, which was their home. It was an important city on the Sea of Galilee and was to be the center from which Christ was to work during a very important period of his public ministry.

We are told that on the Sabbath Day, according to the custom of the Jews. Jesus visited the synagouge, and there took part in the religious services of the day. There is a lesson in this for our modern world, which very often excuses attendance upon organized religious services and withholds its support from its work because of various criticisms which can oftentimes be rightly made against the church.

Yet, here was Jesus participating in worship when he knew full well that in the end the religious leaders of his day were going to take the lead in hounding him to death and would in every way strive to prevent the success of his mission to mankind.

Shortly afterwards, upon healing a leper, Jesus instructed him to present himself to the priest in order that a required religious rite of his race might be observed. Surely then, regardless of the faults and imperfections any religious body, we should not allow these to prevent our cooperation in the good work which is being attempted

The recognition accorded Jesus in the synagogue in Capernaum on that day was significant. It was customary for visiting rabbis and teachers to be called upon to take part in the services, therefore, the fact that Jesus was given this opportunity shows that already his life was having its effect upon those with whom he came in contact.

Services in the Jewish synagogues included prayer, the reading of the Old Testament and the exposition of the text. In this latter feature, the speakers usually confined themselves to a repetition of former interpretations, adhering strictly to the letter and form of the law. When Christ assumed this function, we are told that his hearers were astonished.

We have no reason to question this surprise because, even at this day, his doctrines have never been surpassed and the ideals which he expounded have never been reached. We can well imagine the amazement in this comparatively rough and primitive day at the wonderful conceptions of service, love and forgiveness with which he attempted to open the hearts of those who heard him to a proper realization of the true character of God. Our world has been softened and improved by the development of these ideals for more than nineteen centuries and yet they appear to us today as wonderful and as perfect as any thing we can imagine.

The public life of Jesus was limited to only a few short years but the effect of his work has been greater and more lasting than that of any other personality in the history of the world. Mark, who is writing for Gentile readers, primrally, explains that wonderful power by showing the reaction to the presence of Jesus under different circumstances.

We see John the Baptist, recognized as a great teacher, testifying that he stood in the presence of one greater than he.

We find fishermen abandoning their work and entering upon a new career as a result of contact with Jesus and his simple invitation without any promise of reward.

We find recognition accorded Jesus in the synagogue, where his unfettered presentation of the truth gripped the hearts of those present and confirmed the verity of his interpretation.

In the presence of sick and diseased humanity, he demonstrated his power and astonished those who saw the beneficent results of his teachings and doctrines prcduced instantaneously rather than through the long and slow process of generations.

One other observation must be made on this lesson. Many millions recognize the divine authority of Jesus and many thousands of those who doubt this recognize and admit his greatness as a moral leader and reformer but, regardless of his elevated character, we find him constantly resorting to prayer, showing that he gained strength and encouragement for the task ahead by this spiritual approach to the Supreme Power.

We wonder what would be accomplished in the world today if those who profess to believe in and follow Jesus were to resort to and rely upon prayer as consistently and with some of the faith that Jesus constantly had. To those who question the power of prayer, the answer can readily be made that it has never been genuinely tested on a consistent and general basis.

Farm Women Doing Excellent War Job

Auburn, Ala.—With the cost of living skyrocketing and the family money manager trying to cut costs, a perennial question of economy in the home is "can women sew and save?"

Home demonstration club women answered this question to their own satisfaction during the year of 1941. The 44,000 home demonstration club women in Alabama report the construction of 241,029 new garments and the renovation of 68,269 garments. The total estimated saving due to the clothing program as reported by home demonstration club women and 4-H club girls is $443,724.00.

In addition, 11,293 club women and 17.897 4-H club girls made and modelled cotton dresses in club dress revue; 18,587 women leaders gave 2.277 demonstrations on clothing to club and non-club groups of women.

Wise care of clothing pays dividends. If wise care and use of materials on hand contributes to the war effort, home demonstration club women are setting a fast pace for all groups of women in their care and use of clothing materials.

During the celendar year 1941, 44,000 home demonstration club women reported the revonation of 4,328 hats and 68,269 dresses, suits and coats. In addition to this they made 109,092 garments from feed sacks, dry cleaned 33,617 articles at home, cleaned and reblocked 11,517 hats, built 2,340 clothe closets and remodelled 8,541 others and mothproofed 1,092 closets. These 44,000 home demonstration club women estimated a saving of $77,721.84 through a program of care and renovation of clothing alone.

Alabama Liquor Money---1941 Sales

MONTGOMERY. — Alabamians spent a record $15,617,193 on legal alcoholic beverages last year, according to a report released today by E. Roy Albright, chairman of the Alabama Beverage Control Board.

More than $10,500,000 of the total went to the Federal Government, state and local governments in the form of taxes.

"An analysis of the 1941 gains over 1940 operations shows that while net profits increased 37 per cent and total cash sales increased 32 per cent, the gallonage increase of legal sales were only 15 per cent," Mr. Albright said.

Indicates Tax Increases

"This means that the sharp increase in net profits and cash sales was due largely to higher taxes for defense needs with resultant purchasing power of an increased Alabama public now enjoying the best business conditions in many years."

The state received an additional net profit of $424,224 from its tax on beer, bringing total revenue to state, counties, and cities from legal sales to $4,677,591 for 1941.

The enforcement work of the board hit its peak during 1941 when the field force of 56 agents made more than 32,000 investigations at the 2472 retail liquor and beer outlets in the state—an almost constant check on the operating of these establishments.

The board, acting on these investigations, suspended or revoked 113 retail licenses during the year, and placed 47 outlets on probation.

Revenue Distribution

A breakdown of revenue distribution to the state, counties and cities showed the state received $3,477,590 from whiskey and beer for its general fund and $200,000 for its public welfare fund; the 67 counties, wet and dry alike, receiving an equal share of $200,000 for public and $200,000 for their general funds. Incorporated cities received $600,000 for their general funds.

The board began 1941 operations with 53 state stores in 23 "wet" counties, and ended operations with 55 stores in 22 "wet" coun stores were opened in Gad mingham and Mobile, whil at Huntsville was closed wh of Madison County voted local option election.

This Week In National Defense

A WEEK OF THE WAR

Chairman Nelson of the War Production Board abolished the OPM and transferred its functions regarding production, purchasing priorities, materials, civilian supply and subcontracting to a new streamlined organization under the Board. In addition, Mr. Nelson created under the new Board a progress reporting and a planning unit to suggest improvements from time to time.

Mr. Nelson stressed two fundamental differences between the old and new organization; an increased amount of authority and a more definite delegation of responsibility to promote speed. He said the main objective of the new organiaztion was the full mobilization in the war effort of every national resource, large and small.

Mr. Nelson named Ernest Kanzler to convert auto industry facilities to war use. He said that he expected to appoint as many other men with similar authority for other industries as are necessary.

THE WAR FRONT

President Roosevelt told his press conference an inter-allied supply council and similar joint commands are in existence, and excellent progress is being made to strengthen the position of the United Nations in the Southwest Pacific.

The Army announced Gen. MacArthur's forces have repulsed continuous heavy attacks by reinforced Japanese units on Bataan Peninsula, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy with comparatively low losses to the defenders. The entire Japanese 14th Army, together with other units, landed on Luzon. U. S. Army forces sank a Japanese cruiser and a large tanker 100 miles off Jolo, and shot down 16 enemy planes in the Philippines.

The Navy announced the freighter SS Brazos was sunk in a collision 120 miles southwest of Cape Hatteras, and during the past week U-boats sank the City of Aatvian freighter Ciltvaria, the tankers Coimbra and Allan Jackson, and torpedoed the tanker Malay. The Navy did not announce number of U-boats sunk or captured but said "some of the recent visitors to our territorial waters will never enjoy the return trip portion of their voyage." The U. S. Navy sank three enemy merchant shipts off Tokyo Bay and torpedoed a 5,000-ton enemy vessel in Binagna Bay.

REPORT TO THE NATION

The Office of Facts and Figures, coordinating the information activities of all Federal agencies to keep the public informed of the war effort, issued a 62-page booklet, "Report to the Nation," outlining the defense and war programs from the beginning to the present. In separate chapters the report discusses price control activities, alien control, economic warfare, production of all necessary war items, civilian defense, war financing and all other phases of the national effort.

AUTOS, TRUCKS AND TIRES

The WPB ordered all production of passenger cars and light trucks for any purpose halted February 1. The announcement of the order said all military demands can be filled from the stockpile of autos that will be on hand by that date and which cannot be sold without Government permission.

OPA announced that there is no prospect of rationing for used cars or of commandeering of private cars. OPA amended the auto freezing order to permit transfer of title to any vehicle under the terms of installment contracts drawn up before January 1 and repossession of any vehicle involved in a breach of such contract. The agency also amended its tire freezing rules to allow clergymen to purchase new tires and tubes. OPA put a ceiling price on materials used in retreading used tires.

TRANSPORTATION

The Interstate Commerce Commission granted railroads permission to increase passenger fares 10 per cent. Exempt from the increase are special fares granted to military or naval men on furlough. Permission was also granted to military or naval Reiz granted to the Railway Express Agency, Inc., to make an emergency additional charge of 10 cents per package sent at first, second or third class rates.

ARMY

The President said the United Nations are collaborating with the U. S. to effect transfers to the American armed services of the Americans who had enlisted before the war under foreign flags. War Secretary Stimson announced completion of plans for the formation of a 6th Armored Division and two additional all-Negro units; an infantry division and an air pursuit squadron. The House passed and sent to the Senate legislation appropriating $12,500,000,000 to provide 33,000 new Army planes and equipment for them.

NAVY

President Roosevelt asked Congress for $15,960,000,000 for the Navy and signed a bill authorizing establishment of a special limited-service Marine Corps composed of World War veterans and older men to be used in patrolling and guarding vital facilities. The Navy announced that students in school or college who have not yet reached their 20th birthday may enlist in the Naval Reserve with permission to complete the current school year before reporting for duty.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE

President Roosevelt asked Congress for $100,000,000 to be used by the OCD for air raid protection of civilians. Congress authorized the appropriation and formally placed the responsibility for civilian protection with the OCD. The FBI announced it will conduct special war traffic schools for police of 120 strategically located cities. The War Department announced that in cooperation with the OCD it will establish six more schools to teach civilian defense workers protection against chemical weapons such as incendiary bombs.

LABOR

Labor Secretary Perkins reported hourly earnings of wage earners in manufacturing industries rose 1.5 per cent to a new high of 78.1 per cent—15 per cent above the same time last year. Average hours worked per week (40.3 hours) were 4 per cent above last year and weekly earnings $(32.81), 2 per cent higher.

Labor Director Hillman announced regional labor conferences will soon be held in Philadelphia. Pittsburgh and Columbus, Ohio "to bring labor organiaztions into the war effort on their own ground." Labor organizations officials, Government officials and representatives of universities and colleges will attend the meetings.

AGRICULTURE

The Department of Agriculture announced it will increase purchases of eggs to support market prices at a level at least 85 per cent of parity. The Commodity Credit Corporation announced it will offer 100,000,000 bushels of wheat for sale to aid livestock producers to attain new production goals. Agricultural Marketing Administrator Henderson reported more than 2,650,000,000 pounds of agricultural commodities valued at $300,000,000 had been shipped to Britain under the Lend-Lease program up to December 1. He said the war in the Pacific had not changed the basic program for agricultural operations—"we are continuing heavy purchases to make available the vital supply of foods for England and Russia."

SHIPS

The Maritime Commission awarded contracts for construction of 660 vessels. This brought the total of Liberty ships contracted for to 997. Labor Director Hillman purposed a plan to place shipyard workers on a six-day 48-hour week in the Atlantic, Gulf and Great Lakes zones.

PRIORITY UNEMPLOYMENT

President Roosevelt asked Congress for $300,000,000 to aid workers who lose their jobs temporarily because of conversion of civilian industry to war production, if the worker is willing to take special training to fit him for a war industry job. Under the program workers would receive a weekly benefit payment equal to 60 per cent of regular earnings, but in no case more than $35 a week in benefits for 26 weeks. The Federal grant would make up the differences between unemployment compensation paid by the State and the 60 per cent war dislocation benefit.

The WPA announced it is working on a program to shift to WPA rolls those workers dislocated by the war who do not fall within the scope of the program outlined by the President.

Farmers Face Harder Tasks Says P. O. Davis

AUBURN.—Returning after several days in Washington, P. O. Davis said that there is much evidence that "this nation is getting ready for a long, big and hard war." To this he added that "the general public is not aware of the seriousness of the situation."

"We don't appreciate the fact that we are in a five-ocean-all-out war with ruthless nations that have planned it for years and spent billions and billions of dollars getting ready for it," he said.

In Washington on agricultural business, Mr. Davis had opportunity to get information about the job as a whole. He expressed confidence that farmers will come through with bigger output of farm products this year, in response to patriotic appeals.

"But it won't be easy," he said. It must be done with less labor, inadequate new machinery, and probably less fertilizer than will be needed.

"This means better planning will be required, and that men, mules and machines must work more hours and more days this year. More attention is essential also to saving and reusing all supplies that can be saved and reused. Likewise, farm implements need careful repair at once for use as and when needed."

Mr. Davis believes the controversial price legislation now before Congress will be enacted into law about as advocated by Senator John H. Bank head with the strong backing of the Alabama and the American Farm Bureau Federations. The administration in Washington is reported to have agreed to this, he said.

This position, he explained, is not one of inflation, but of full parity of price and income to farmers without inflation. On this principle the Farm Bureau has worked for years and is now confident of another victory.

"The whole Washington atmosphere," Mr. Davis added, "is grave. One is made to feel that only by intelligent planning, plus efficient and vigorous action, can the job be done No one in possession of facts believes victory will come easy or in less than three years."

Watch Your Knitting Says Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON.— The War Production Board has adopted an official position on the question of women knitting sweaters for soldiers and sailors.

Don't knit, the board suggested, unless the sweaters are absolutely needed by the armed forces and commanding officers have requested them.

"On the whole, we don't want a broad wave of knitting that will consume millions of pounds of wool that is needed for more essential purposes," R. R. Guthrie, chief of the WPB textile branch, explained. "This is the system we have set up with the Red Cross. When a commanding officer desires such additional clothing as sweaters, he will apply to the Red Cross. The Red Cross will then arrange for the sweaters to be knitted."

Mule Clinic Schedule Announced

Please notice your mail for a notice from the county agent, about the mule clinic.

If you are in doubt about the condition of your mules' mouth bring him and I'll be glad to advise you.

All our southern mules and horses that have been exposed to the Nit fly should have the worm treatment. The worm treatment not only kills the bats which are hatched from the eggs of the nit fly but it kills the other worms or will if you have your mule or horse empty. Do not feed any for 12 or 18 hours before you treat them and you will be pleased with results. On a full stomach you can see the worms have lots of protection.

Another word about the tooth work. Do not wait to have the mouth worked until your animal cannot eat. Usually by then the teeth are so bad or gone until the mouth cannot be fixed where it will be satisfactory. My policy is to work them in the early stage so they will be good. when without the work they would be gone.

The price will be 50c for worm treatment and $100 for teeth. By doing this at this price it will have to be all cash.

The F. S. A. clients may have them paid through the office if you have a showing from the office.

Thirty Cities To Practice Blackout

At the request of Gov. Frank M. Dixon, Civilian defense chiefs, from counties having cities of more than 5,000 population, will meet in Birmingham Feb. 4, to discuss "necessary plans for a general blackout of those cities."

Gov. Dixon's letter which asked that chief air raid wardens, police and fire chief, to be present, follows:

"I am calling a conference of key civilian defense officials from counties having cities with a population in excess of five thousand to be held at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham on Feb. 4, beginning promptly at 10:00 o'clock.

"The purpose of this conference is to make necessary plans for a general blackout in those cities in the state with a population of more than five thousand. It is obvious that there may be a necessity for an actual blackout at any time and we do not want to be caught short without adequate preparation and training for it.

"I am therefore requesting you to attend this conference and to bring along with you your chief of police, and any others who are connected with your training program.

"I hope that you make your plans to attend this conference as it is one of the most important to be held in connection with civilian defense."

The Drivers' License Division of the Department of Publc Safety has mailed out 485,000 drivers' licenses to applicants in all sections of Alabama, but has approximately 15,000 more to be issued and mailed. Hundreds of licenses are being mailed daily.

About 5,000 drivers' licenses have been returned to the Department of Public Safety by postmasters, on account of improper addresses or changes in address. In some instances, it is stated, applicants gave the names of their respective communities, instead of the proper post office, street or route numbers, thus making difficult the delivery of their mail.

Sparks Launches Campaign for Governor

Eufaula Attorney Fires Opening Gun In Campaign For Governor; Outlines Platform

EUFAULA, ALA.—Judge Chauncey Sparks of Eufaula, who launched his campaign for Governor in Huntsville, January 29th with a slashing attack on the patronage and spoils system in state government, swung into action in South Alabama with Clarke, Washington, Choctaw, Monroe, Escambia, Conecuh, Butler and Cullman counties on his itinerary.

JUDGE CHAUNCEY SPARKS

In his opening address at Huntsville, Judge Sparks sounded the keynote of his campaign when he asserted that the basic issue was the "Spoils vs. the Merit System" in state government. He declared that he was confident of winning "Because when the vast majority of the electorate of the state are reminded of the pie-eating, the pillage, the broken promises and the debts previously piled on to this state by the spoils system they will rally to my support."

Judge Sparks began his address by reading to his audience a copy of a telegram which he had just dispatched to President Roosevelt, pledging the president "now and after the campaign is over" his undivided loyalty and support. He called for the dedication of Alabama's resources and manpower to win the war and preserve democracy.

"Not One Dime for Patronage"

Sparks set off campaign fireworks when he asserted that as governor, he would make sure that every dollar coming into the state would go back to the people in the form of fruitful services and benefits and that not one dime of public funds would be spent for patronage in any form.

Presenting his platform in detail and promising to discuss fully every plank in the course of his campaign, Judge Sparks declared for:

All-out state aid to our Government and to our President in our Nation's war program.

Strict efficiency in all departments of State Government that every tax dollar may do its full duty.

No new taxes except for war purposes.

Greater aid to agriculture to increase farm income and improve rural life.

An eight months' minimum school term throughout the state; an increase in teachers' salaries of at least 10% and a fixed teacher retirement fund.

A strengthened Civil Service System.

An improved Pardons and Paroles System.

Continued highway development and adequate support for all essential governmental services.

Reinforcement of the rights and gains of labor by all statutory safeguards, fair representation for labor in all governmental agencies and preservation of the right of any citizen to work.

A statewide vote of the people to decide if state store liquor outlets shall be retained, and if retained, the abolition of all other liquor sales outlets except state stores.

A flat $5.00 auto tax tag.

A plan of reapportionment by legislative compromise and constitutional amendment that will recognize both area and population.

An old age pension with the ultimate objective $30 per month.

Support and strengthening of conservation department.

Judge Sparks, a practicing attorney in Eufaula since 1910, and a leader in several legislatures, was a runner-up to Governor Dixon in the 1938 campaign.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS URGED TO BUY DEFENSE BONDS

Every 4-H Club in Chilton County is being urged to grow a garden and to buy defense stamps and bonds.

This is reported by M. R. Glasscock, assistant county agent, and Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent who say that every club member should have a garden, and that members carrying livestock projects make every effort to increase poultry, meat and milk production. In growing more food 4-H members will be releasing food, usually bought in Alabama, to be sent to other nations fighting the Axis powers.

Since food has become the front line element of this war, Chilton county 4-H members should start this month in order to produce a year-round garden. Some vegetables should be planted in the garden at least 10 months of the year Mr. Glasscock and Miss Barber say.

Every club member can help win the war by buying as many defense stamps and bonds as possible. Free books in which to place stamps can be obtained at banks or post offices. Stamps in 10c, 25c, 50c, $1 and $5 denomination can be bought from any post office, rural mail carrier or bank. When an amount of these stamps equivalent to a bond has been bought they can be exchanged for a bond.

If every 4-H club of Chilton County enters 100 per cent in buying defense stamps and producing more food they will have achieved an important objective in the defense of our country. Those clubs participating 100 per cent will be presented a regulation size 4-H club flag for their club room.

DEFICIENCIES AND HOW TO PREVENT THEM

Gross deficiencies of vitamins and minerals in food do about as much damage to the human body as does being gassed or hit by a machine gun bullets, says Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration agent.

Pointing out that a gross deficiency of iron and copper produces a blood-cripple—pale, anemic, weak and unable to resist ordinary diseases, Miss Barber advises farmers to include more foods high in iron such as liver, lean meats, eggs, green leafy vegetables, dried apricots, prunes, and raisins to overcome these deficiencies. (These foods are also high in copper.)

A gross deficiency of calcium, phosphorous and Vitamin D (any or all) in childhood produces a bone-cripple with crooked limbs, narrow chest and malformed jaws. Miss Barber says this deficiency may be corrected by including plenty of milk, milk products and vegetables in the diet of a growing child.

Chilton County farmers can correct Vitamin A deficiencies, which produce eye-cripple, by eating liver, butter, green and yellow vegetables and fruits.

A deficiency of Vitamin B1, which produces a nerve cripple, may be corrected by eating pork, ham, whole wheat products, liver, peas and potatoes.

A deficiency of Vitamin C that may result in a cripple with sore, stiff joints, swollen and bleeding gums and loose teeth may be corrected by eating raw fruits and vegetables.

If a person has a deficiency of Vitamin G, which cripples the activity of every living cell and interferes with growth, it may be corrected by eating plenty of lean meat, liver, milk products, leafy vegetables, prunes salmon, and wheat germs.

If a gross deficiency of some food essential completely wrecks a human being in body and often in mind, as we know it does, that substance obviously plays a profound part in our life processes. With this in mind Miss Barber said that Chilton County farmers should do everything to see that their families receive balanced diets with adequate Vitamins and minerals.

SENATOR HAYSE TUCKER QUALIFIES FOR CONGRESS

Friends Endorse and Cite His Record As "Alabama's Outstanding Legislator"

Elsewhere in this paper appears an unusual political document, an announcement and nomination for Congress issued by "Friends of Hayse Tucker". Such an endorsement in advance is rare; and the statements made could be certified only by intimate acquaintances. They deserve the careful study of voters.

Senator Tucker has become increasingly prominent in the political life of Alabama during the last eight years; and, during 1941, he was urged by many groups to offer for the governor's chair. He has chosen instead to make the race for Congress.

His entry into Sixth District politics insures an active and fact-based campaign, for that is the record of the man. In Tuscaloosa he is known as a tireless worker and a student. He labored and studied in the automobile business until he has built one of the large and successful enterprises of the Druid City. As a legislator in Montgomery, he simply extended the reputation built at home. The Sixth District will now see his activity and energy displayed in his race for higher office. Meanwhile, the endorsement of his intimate friends is an impressive beginning.

President Says Move "Parasites"

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt's suggestion that all "parasites" leave overcrowded Washington to make room for the influx of new government workers stirred a "tempest in a teapot" today but failed to bring forth any volunteers.

The president said that every person in the capital ought to ask himself or herself: "Are you a pasasite?" He added that a parasite might be any person who lives in Washington simply because he likes the capital's social life, or who wants his son or daughter to go to one of the 30 fashionable schools here.

Representative Manasco (D.), Alabama, said that it would be a "tragic mistake" to force people to move out of Washington.

PLANNING for

~~DEFENSE~~

Victory

THESE pictures were taken just a few days ago. Had they been taken in 1940, they would have looked very much the same. But in 1940 these engineers, a part of our designing staff, would have been busy designing electric power plants for defense. Today, they are planning for defense and VICTORY.

In the field, skilled workmen are building the power plants their plans call for. Work is well under way toward doubling the capacity of the big new steam power plant we placed in operation in May, 1941. At another location work is progressing on the construction of another steam generating plant big enough to supply the needs of a city almost the size of Birmingham. Other generating facilities are being built in Florida, Mississippi and Georgia by companies affiliated with Alabama Power Company.

When completed these new plants will generate additional millions of kilowatt-hours weekly for war production needs in the Southeast. And after Victory is won, the energy they produce will be available for more comfortable living—electrically.

CALHOUN BACKS BIBB GRAVES

As group after group over Alabama endorses the candidacy of Col. Bibb Graves for Governor of Alabama, and reports from every corner of the state indicate that his popularity with Alabama voters has not been exaggerated, it is gratifying to know that Anniston and Calhoun County are no exception.

Everywhere here one is told—Bibb Graves is the man." He is supported by no one faction, by no one classification of our citizens. Merchants, professional men, industrialists, laboring men, white collar workers— the overwhelming majority of all are agreed that Bibb Graves is the man to lead Alabama through the years of stress ahead. No other man holds so much confidence of the people.

The Anniston Times traditionally has supported Bibb Graves. We have been supporting him in these last two years as he has been striding upward to the highest peak of state acclaim that any man has ever reached as a candidate for Governor of Alabama. We are proud to have had our judgment so verified by the people.

We do not offer Bibb Graves as a man of perfection. Like all men he has points of imperfection. But any fair observer, looking back at the two previous administrations of Bibb Graves, will admit that his short comings are outweighed by his fine qualities—PROVEN qualities, we emphasize—that no other candidate in the field can approach. His schools, his roads, his expansion of the health and agricultural services, his fair dealings with labor and capital alike—all these in two previous administrations are proof of Bibb Graves' right to a third term in the Governor's Chair.

The favorite smear-term of opposing forces is "pie". They say that Bibb Graves will serve "pie" to all his friends. The difference in Graves and some others that he has never denied his loyalty to his friends, and has never sought to cover up the fact.

In view of the almost unanimous support accorded him, we predict that Bibb Graves will give Alabama the best of his three administrations. We know that he has deliberately refrained from striking at certain of his opponents because he feels that this is a time when Alabama as well as the nation needs internal harmony and unity. It is gratifying to know that Calhoun County is joined in the solid ranks behind the "Little Colonel" who has led us well before.—Anniston Times.

FOR GOVERNOR OF ALABAMA: BIBB GRAVES

Bibb Graves, twice governor of his native state, has announced for a third term.

Alabama, as an integral part of this great nation, on the eve of a quadrennial political campaign finds itself in an unprecedented position. We are in the initial stages of what bids certain to be the greatest war of all time. It may be long; it is sure to be hard. Everything for which we have fought and worked for more than four centuries is at stake.

Recent rapid-fire movements in Washington emphasizes again that united, cohesive cooperation and organization are absolutely necessary if this nation is to prosecute this war to a successful end. The states have a great and enormous responsibility in this.

It is a matter of record that Colonel Graves enjoys the respect and confidence of the Administration to a rare degree. He has been in the past—and will in the future—work with the President in complete unity and harmony for the best interests of the nation at war and for Alabama at peace.

His eight years experience in the Governor's office should give him a grasp on the affairs of state that no other living man could possibly have. Even his most severe critics have always had to admit his genuine interest in the welfare of Alabama and her people. History will record him as one of the really great builders of this generation. If this terrible war should end during the next four years, Alabama will be fortunate to have at its head a man with an established reputation for building education, public health, good roads, and all those other institutions which the war will tend to demoralize and frustrate.

Alabama is fortunate that Bibb Graves is available for Governor in 1942.—From the Athens Courier.

CANDIDATES TAKE NOTICE

The Association of Tax Collectors and Tax Assessors is now on record as endorsing Bibb Graves for a third term for Governor. This endorsement follows similar action by the Association of Probate Judges and Commissioners and the League of Municipalities. Other likely candidates could spare themselves a lot of useless trouble by taking note of the above and those who don't like Graves as Governor might as well begin arranging now for a 4-year vacation—Grove Hill Democrat.

South Alabamians Want Him For Governor Again

MONROE FOR GRAVES SAYS JUDGE MILSAP

If there should be a convention of men who have never before voted for Col Bibb Graves for governor, at least 75,000 more group votes would be added to the total he will receive next Spring, according to Probate Judge Milsap, of Monroe County.

"I see where The Advertiser has recounted the action of large groups of voters who will support Col. Graves," said Judge Millsap. "If there should ever be a convention of the 75,000 men and women of Alabama who have never voted for Col. Graves before, you would be able to make further predictions as to Col. Graves' chances of eelction."

Judge Millsap said he had noticed that in his section of southwest Alabama that men who had never voted for Col. Graves would do it in the primary next year. "And Col. Graves has not lost any of his old voters," said the judge. It was the opinion of Judge Millsap that his county was overwhelmingly for Graves.

Judge Millsap was active in the Dixon campaigns. As a matter of fact after McCord was eliminated in the first election, Judge Millsap handled the south Alabama situation for Dixon. He said that all of the Dixon men he knew, or nearly all of them would vote for Graves next time.

The writer has recently visited six or eight counties in south Alabama and in each one of them he found the strongest Graves shouters were former Dixon men. Just why this should be so, we cannot explain. But it is so all over Alabama if the information we get is correct. Perhaps new converts are louder shouters than old ones.—Atticus Mullin in Montgomery Advertiser.

GRAVES CAN WORK OUT PENSION PROBLEM

". . . I have never favored the Townsend plan of pensions because it promises too much. However, there are many arguments made in favor of that plan which equally apply to any other pension plan.

"In my opinion the pension could be provided by the State to match Federal aid, which could be easily financed. The State has financed many other problems more serious and not as important as this and there is no good reason why a good pension law should not be enacted by the next Legislature.

"In this connection I may say I think the more ardent advocates of old age pensions are making a mistake in opposing Gov. Graves for Governor. The question is too big and important to be affected by personalities. Personally, I do not believe they could have a man in the Governor's office that would be more sympathetic to this question than would be Gov. Graves. I have known him and we have been friends all of our lives, and the greatest criticism ever made of him as a public officer has been that he has been too human and liberal with education and all welfare activities. Personally, I would be willing to risk him in working out this problem."—Sen. Charles B. Teasley, of Montgomery.

GRAVES SURE FOR A THIRD TERM

According to the Montgomery Advertiser, the question of who will be nominated for Governor is settled. The former foes of Col. Bibb Graves are now for him. Judge Milsap of Monroe county comes out for the Colonel, and he says that Graves will sweep the county of Monroe. If his former foes are for him and his former friends are standing solidly for him, he can not be beaten. It looks to us that he has the field bluffed. The old age Pension following has gone into politics, which means its political death. We are for the Pension issue, but consider it a mistake to try to elect a Governor and Legislature. We are expecting some one to bob up for the Legislature, who are wholly incompetent to fill the office. It looks sure that Graves will be nominated for Governor for a Third term. —Luverne Journal.

ALABAMA ISOLATIONISTS

We notice some few publications that come to our office are still predicting that Graves is not the man for Governor—that the "Little Colonel" has a worry on his hand if he thinks he can be elected. Well, we will just have to brand these few as "Alabama isolationists" for they surely don't know just how popular Bibb Graves is with the overwhelming majority of Alabamians, and to say that a man that is as popular as Bibb Graves has anything but majority endorsement, simply registers prejudice or ignorance. We still insist the few mentioned above are "Alabama Isolationists"—Sumter County Journal. Mr. Editor, you have made a good pronouncement. Maybe those gentlemen don't realize that they are being isolationists now, but there'll come a day when they will know what real isolation means.—Cullman Banner.

DALLAS 75% FOR GRAVES SAYS ATTICUS

Politically Dallas County is in the Graves column for governor. The "Little Colonel" has always had trouble in Dallas before but not this time. Every political faction is welded into a mass behind Col. Graves. There is not a single individual, group or institutional voice in Dallas County capable of influencing as many as 100 votes, speaking out against Col Graves. Men of all factions told us on our visit here that the county right now is more than 75 per cent for Graves and will get stronger as time goes by. There are probably 500 irreconcilables in the county now.—Atticus Mullin, in The Montgomery Advertiser.

Montgomery, when more than a thousand political leaders of the State and another thousand citizens from every walk of life, pledged loyalty and all out support to the Little Colonel, Senators John H. Bankhead and Lister Hill leaves not a scinfilla of doubt that Alabama as a whole is solidly back of this triumvirate of Statesman and do not propose to become stampeded by longings of the political puddin' hunters, who have been hunting so dilligently for that hundred thousand dollars with which to defeat Graves for Governor. Since the barbecue, everything has been so quiet in the anti-Graves camp that the State's best reporters can hardly find a news paragraph on that side of the political fence. —Chilton County News.

East Alabamians Want Him For Governor Again

BIBB GRAVES — THE NEXT GOVERNOR

It now seems as certain as anything human and in politics can be so far ahead, that Bibb Graves, twice Governor of Alabama, will be elected next year to a third term in that high office.

Col. Graves, he is called Colonel about as often as he is called Governor, has been peculiarly fortunate in his successors in the office of Governor. Each time he has been followed by a man who denounced him and all his works, and promised to high heaven to sweep out and scrub down every thing that might even look like Graves. Then almost on the first day each of these successors took office he began to prepare the way for Graves to come back. This, it seems to us, is especially true of the present Governor.

And so it looks like a third term for Graves. And why not The people want him; at least a great majority. Realizing that, the politicians have staged the mightest band wagon rush this state has ever seen. Practically every newspaper that has declared itself so far is for Graves.

Weeks ago, Atticus Mullin of the Montgomery Advertiser, one of the shrewdest political writers in the state, gave it as his opinion then, that not another man in the state, had a chance against Graves. So, barring a miracle, as certain as January 1943 rolls round, Alabama will have her first third term governor —and his name will be Col. Bibb Graves.—Shelby County Reporter.

A FIGHTING HERITAGE

Whether Bibb Graves is to be governor of Alabama again without a real fight remains to be seen, but that does not lessen his apparent willingness to go into battle if necessary. As a matter of fact, the twice governor of Alabama may be making this race for a third term to keep up the family record.

Colonel Graves' grandfather had a grandfather, William Graves, who fought in the Revolutionary War, came to Montgomery County, received a grant of land from Chief Manac and lived near Graves Landing on the Alabama River until he was buried in the soil of his adopted state. His son joined Andrew Jackson and took part in the War of 1812.

In the next generation the Graves representative was fighting in the Mexican War while still another one went through the War Between the States as a Confederate soldier. Bibb Graves carried on the family fighting tradition beginning as captain of cadets while in the University and in 1916 seeing service on the Mexican border, serving as adjutant general of the state and serving as colonel of the 117th Field Artillery in the first World War.

In case there should be another war this year or next he will not be in position to serve in the fighting ranks. Hence he probably feels that he will be carrying on the family tradition as a fighter by getting back in the political arena.—Alabama Journal.

Another Crop Of War Millionaires

From behind the scenes in Washington there comes certain bits of information which discloses that America is on the threshold of making another crop of war millionaires.

It is obvious that we have in Congress from every state in the nation Representatives and Senators who are afraid to rise up and speak their minds and represent the people.

This is true because on more than one occasion things have come to pass which proved the point.

Take for example the price fixing legislation now in the process of enactment. It is as unfair at it is unsound; it is absolutely onesided and gives rights and privileges to some and takes rights and privileges from many.

Any Congressman or Senator who favored fixing a price ceiling for farm products without fixing all other price ceilings, including wage scale, has no business in Congress.

The bill provides for fixing prices on the farmer's products. The prices of his products wil be what someone else says, yet labor, by coercion and strikes, can continue to carry its prices higher because not one provision is in the bill to fix the price of labor.

It is shameful, almost to the extent of being a disgrace, the tremendous profit some manufacturers are reported making out of government contracts. Dollar-a-year-men have proven to be exceptionally good lobbyists —most expensive employees for our government.

Any red-blooded American citizen's heart is stirred every time he sees the stars and stripes waving in the land of liberty and freedom and any red blooded American citizen will suffer; will fight; will die, if necessary, to preserve this Democratic freedom and liberty but for a "spineless" Congress to legislate in such a way as to make another crop of millionaires who "gouge" the government and create a debt that all of us will sacrifice to pay, is not Democracy in its greatest entirety.

What is fair for one is fair for another in this government of ours. In war, winning it is the first objective but to win a war and have no government left is almost the equivalent of losing the war with no debt to pay.

Senator Bankhead and his colleagues who fought for the farmer are to be commended but the voters of this nation should know "who is who in Washington and who is doing what to who" there.

In this, an hour of war, as well as in an hour of peace, we need statesmen in Washington and not politicians and the sooner the voters of this nation realize this the quicker our Democracy will be purged to a new purity level.—Franklin County Times.

Advice To Farmers

This writer is not a farmer, but judging from all the bunk he reads by all the "bunksters", he feels fully qualified to advise the farmers what they should do in 1942.

So here goes: grow every pound of wheat, corn, cotton, peanuts, beans, peas, potatoes, sorghum and sugar cane syrup; all fruits and vegetables that can be canned, dried or preserved; raise all the poultry, pigs, calves, sheep and goats that you can.

Forget about the prices. The world is already in need of these things and the need is going to grow greater and greater as the days go by—and the farmer is the only one who can supply that need.

We prate an awful lot about industry, trade, commerce and capital—but only the farmers can feed the world. If they should fail, or decide to stage a "set down" strike, all else would be lost.

The English seem to be more interested in keeping Winston Churchill in the spot light, than they are in getting Adolph Hitler out of it.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

In Pilgrim's Progress Christian met a man who had two faces and he was named, "Facing-Two-Ways." Christian stopped to scrutinize the gentleman and by no means could he determine as to which way he was traveling. One face looked up toward heaven, while the other looked down toward the world. Talking with him for a moment he saw his trouble. He was not all out for right against wrong, and neither was he all out for wrong against right. We are still meeting Mr. "Two-Face" in our travels along the road of life. He is looking toward heaven and toward the world with about equal longing for each. He is not all out for right and neither is he all out for wrong. He wants to go to heaven, but he wants the ways of the world with equal desire.

In the First World War there was a British surgeon in the field Hospital behind the lines, and before him was a soldier dying from blood poison. The young doctor knew that it was only a matter of a few hours before the soldier would die if he did not do something unusual. In desparation the surgeon decided to cut away the damaged tissues. This had never been done before, and he could hardly hope for success. To his delight the soldier started getting better as soon as this was done and recovered. That was in 1915 and today this method of treating blood poison is accepted by physicians everywhere. In this Second World War thousands of soldiers will be saved because this young doctor dared to try a new method of treatment. All the paths to health, to Science and to religion, have not yet been traveled.

Long before the settlement of the Northwest, fur companies established trading posts in different centers. From those centers they sent out their men to blaze trails and to trap for fur. All the trails established left the trading camp and ended at the trading camp. It mattered not where a trail was found, either end would go to camp. That was where all trails ended. With us today, death is the end of the trail. A man may climb the heights of wealth, fame and power, or travel the deep canyons of poverty, but on reaching the end of the road, he will find a grave. He may come down to the end of his trapping days with many paths at his buckle, or he may have only a few, it is all the same. Death is there. May we not learn that with rapid feet we are traveling this trail of life and it won't be long before the camp will come in sight. Even now, this camping ground may be just over the hill for some of us.

While serving as pastor at Brewton Alabama, I had a close call with an heart attack, and for weeks I had to be very quiet. One Sunday the phone rang and it was announced that Bishop Decall was in town and that he would be to see me in a few moments. This time was spent in making preparation for the coming of this distinguished guest. The bed had to be set in order, flowers had to be arranged and all dust removed. When the good Bishop came in we were ready for him. Let me announce to you that you are going to have a caller soon. This caller may not be expected and he may not be wanted, but he is coming. I refer to death. It is appointed to men to die, and death is ahead for all of us. Now is the time to prepare for his coming. If preparation must be made after he knocks, I fear that it will then be too late.

It is said of Dr. Kidd, a noted Scotch preacher, that he was very eccentric and was constantly doing the unexpected. On a New Year's day he called at the home of one of his parishioners and without knocking on the door, he opened it and stepped in among the family. There was embarrassment and confusion in the family. On seeing this, the minister in rather an abrupt tone inquired, "Were you not expecting me?" The man of the house replied, "No sir, we were not expecting you doctor." Then the eccentric old man turned upon his heels and strode out o fthe room, saying over his shoulder, "What if I had been death?" The man's pastor was gone, but he left his members something to think about. Some day death is coming in on us in that unexpected manner. Be perpared.

BRAKES OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE—"Brakes on all motor vehicles are of paramount importance, when these vehicles travel the State highways or city streets," said Director James F. Brawner, of the Department of Public Safety. "A car should be equipped with two different kinds of effective brakes: a foot brake and a hand or emergency brake. The foot brake should be strong enough to stop the car in 30 feet from a speed of 20 miles per hour. The hand brake should be strong enough to hold a car at a standstill on a hill, and be able to stop a car in 55 feet, from 20 miles per hour. Traveling at 40, 50, 60 miles an hour, much longer distances will be needed to stop cars, in cases of emergency. Speeds over 60 are hazardous at any time. ARE YOUR FEET KILLING YOU?—Thousands of people complain of foot trouble, for one reason or another, but in one year 12,300 people in the U. S. let their feet kill them—they literally walked into death! Statistics show that half of this number resided in rural sections or small towns, where they felt safe from danger. Director J. F. Brawner, of the State Department of Public Safety, says: "People who reside in cities should walk on sidewalks and be cautious at street crossings—never "jay walk". People who of necessity must walk the highways, should walk on the extreme left, always facing the traffic, where approaching cars may be seen and avoided. Persons who 'walk with the traffic on the right-hand side of the road' canont see cars approaching from the rear, and thus hazard their lives. A motorist may not see a person walking the highway—may be momentarily preoccupied, or at night may be blinded by lights of an approaching car. The pedestrian himself should play safe. And in taking a short cut, he should not take a long chance." (Courtesy National Safety Council).

The Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A. was called to order Tuesday afternoon at the Grammar School by the vice-president, Mrs. Chas. Wade.

COUNTY VOCATIONAL TO MEET HERE TUESDAY, FEB. 10

Teachers of Vocational Agriculture from 10 schools will meet at the vocational agriculture building at Clanton on Feb. 10, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of further adjusting their program of work to meet the needs of the war effort.

C. C. Scarborough, district supervisor of vocational agriculture will meet with the group to direct discussion on five major objectives.

Attention is to center on (1) assisting in producing and preserving a sufficient supply of food for the United States and her allies; (2) assisting in producing enough feed for present livestock and those to be added under the food for freedom program; and (3) assisting farmers in repairing, using, and caring for farm equipment now on the farm so as to get the maximum use from it, thereby reducing the strain on industry in producing war equipment.

(4) Emphasis will also be placed on plans to cooperate in all war efforts including collecting scrap iron, collecting rubber, the sale of war saving stamps, and maintaining morale.

(5) Fifth objective will be to give a fair interpretation of the program to the public.

The teachers of vocational agriculture are playing a great part in the food and feed for victory program, by increasing their supervised practice program to include 100 per cent of boys taking garden for an improvement project. They are increasing the feed products as well as stressing better methods of preserving food and feed. War time action—planning for peace time—America's safety—the Sixth District's future demand today the finest talent, the clearest thinking, the best abilities our country can command. In Congress—where our laws are made—as well as on fighting fronts, the urgent need is for able leadership. In these critical times, ours is a solemn duty to select as our representative in Congress the man best fitted for the times and task. Each vote is vital to the life of the nation. In choosing a candidate, make this the test—WHAT HAS HE DONE?

This advertisement has been written, paid for, and published by Hayse Tucker's friends and admirers who have known him long and well, to inform and remind the voters of the historic Sixth District of "What He Has Done" and to urge Hayse Tucker's elevation to Congress on the strength of a service record unsurpassed by that of any citizen of Alabama.

In this statement, Hayse Tucker is being called for service in Congress in the same spirit that sends our youth into military activity. Business men, professional men, organized labor, farmers, and citizens without a special label—all of us people who have known and tried out our candidate—join in proposing HAYSE TUCKER FOR CONGRESS. We want him to go to Congress exactly as he twice has been sent to the State Senate of Alabama—chosen by the best thinking of his district, urged to run, and overwhelmingly approved in popular elections. We pledge the voting public that he will take his seat in Congress free and unhampered, tied by no pledges or trades or underhand political deals—a big man sent by his people to do a big job in a big way.

That You May Better Know
"The Gentleman from Alabama"--HAYSE TUCKER

Who Can Be Counted On to Rise to Leadership in Congress As He Did in the Legislature as State Senator—

We Present Highlights from His Brilliant Record As Citizen, Civic Leader, and Public Servant

Who He Is And How He Made His Way

AS A BOY Hayse Tucker was reared and educated in the West, in Colorado, but his parentage and blood lines are as Southern as the Deep South. One grandfather, William David Tucker, served through the Civil War as a member of the Kentucky Confederate Volunteers. His great-grandfather, Dr. Eberle, was a distinguished physician in the Confederate Army. His father was a lifelong member of the Southern Democratic Party, even after thirty years in a divided western state.

Hayse Tucker was born on a farm. Following his grade school education, he worked his own way in seven years thru high school and college. He served as president of his college student body, and played four years of football.

AS A YOUNG MAN, age 20, Hayse Tucker volunteered for military service in the World War and reached an officer's rating in aviation. From the army, he came to Birmingham in 1919 and went to work as a machinist's helper. In 1921, backed by men who knew his worth, he went into business for himself in Tuscaloosa. In 20 years he has developed a large automobile agency—and with it a reputation for straightforward dealing. He has had all the honors that his home community can give him—member of the School Board, President of the Community Chest, President of the Chamber of Commerce, prominent position in Red Cross, Hospital, and Church activities, leader in drives to land new industries. In recent years he was elected by church, club and governmental leaders as the MOST USEFUL CITIZEN OF TUSCALOOSA and received a suitable plaque in grateful recognition of his outstanding civic work.

Why He Was Voted "Alabama's Outstanding Legislator"

Hayse Tucker was pressed into political service in 1934, and sent to the State Senate. There he made his reputation as an absolutely honest man, a tireless governmental student and a fearless law-maker who dodged no issues. He was re-elected overwhelmingly in 1938. His second term brought him state-wide honors and the vote of Montgomery newspaper men as "Alabama's outstanding legislator." Let's look at his record:

IN EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS, as a member of the Committee on Education, he became an authority on school facts. He supported the Minimum Program Act, IMPROVING RURAL SCHOOL CONDITIONS, the School Warrant Act, ALL BILLS INCREASING SCHOOL APPROPRIATIONS, FREE TEXTBOOK ACTS, increases to institutions of higher learning, Teacher Tenure, and expanded vocational programs. HE DID MORE THAN ANY OTHER MAN TO PUT THE TEACHER RETIREMENT ACT INTO EFFECT. As Chairman of the Finance and Taxation Committee, he guided the planning so that the new budget GAVE STATE SCHOOLS $3,500,000 MORE FUNDS IN 1941 without the levy of new taxes.

IN MATTERS AFFECTING LABOR he was consistently fair and courageous. HE VOTED FOR THE CREATION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR—FOR INCREASED BENEFITS TO INJURED WORKMEN. He fought and BLOCKED IN THE SENATE AN ANTI-SEDITION BILL, favorably reported by Associates, but which he thought unfair to labor.

ON LEGISLATION TO BENEFIT THE FARMER, he voted FOR THE NEW AND IMPROVED AGRICULTURAL CODE—FOR INCREASES IN FARM AND HOME EXTENSION WORK and for bills which made possible Alabama's participation in the federal AAA program. He was a sponsor for the appropriations for control of Bang's Disease and helped organize the new Department of Conservation, including increased appropriations for forestry.

As a member of the committee on Public Health he supported the expanded program which has BROUGHT HEALTH SERVICE TO EVERY COUNTY.

He stood like a rock against every pressure that would mean spending more than the state received in taxes. But he kept in mind the living quarters of deaf and dumb children in Talladega, the need for repairs to Mobile docks, the conditions in women's prisons, the cost of improved parole service for young prisoners, and the needs of the underprivileged. Especially was his merit proved during the hot summer days of 1939 when for seven weeks as chairman of a joint recess committee of both houses he labored tirelessly to fashion the entire financial structure of state government. His firmness, fearlessness and common sense made him the acknowledged leader in legislative PLANNING and legislative ACTION.

Why He Is Needed Now For The Bigger Job In Congress

Abroad and at home today, countries and governments are changing horses in mid-stream whenever they can find a better horse to breast the swiftly running current of events. Chamberlain falls and Churchill is sent to the front. Generals of armies, admirals of navies, heads of vast governmental bureaus are being snatched from their places when emergencies demand and a better fitted man is found for a vital task. This is sound policy. Any other course would be suicidal. Our best brains must plan and execute right now as never before—for the war and the peace to follow. HAYSE TUCKER IS THE SIXTH DISTRICT'S "MAN OF THE HOUR." In him we have the brains, the seasoned judgment, the energy, the proved legislative experience, the effective speaker, and the broad understanding of problems of the present. Within a few short years he will be known in Congress as "THE NATIONAL LEADER FROM THE SIXTH DISTRICT OF ALABAMA."

We, His Friends, Ask You to Join in Sending Hayse Tucker to Congress and to Become an Original Member of his Campaign Committee Which We Hope May Soon Include a Large Majority of Voters from the Sixth District. Fill out and mail this enrollment blank now.

EKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

panese Lose Heavily at Macassar hen Dutch and U. S. Forces Unite; ompromise Price Control Passes; dditional Food Rationing Forecast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

There was no sightseeing for these Axis evacuees from South America they went through the Panama Canal Zone to the United States. rt of the group of 111 persons, including seven German and seven Ital- diplomats, are pictured debarking from the special train which car- d them across the isthmus. Uncle Sam took no chances of any Axis htseeing, which would have been possible had the passage been made boat.

ACASSAR:
rst Victory

mericans had hailed the Battle Macassar straits as the first def- e American victory over the Jap- ese, worked out in conjunction h the indomitable Dutch.

he action amounted to the virtu- trapping of a large Jap convoy the straits, probably heading for rontal assault on Java or Sumat- , and its virtual decimation with avy losses in men and ships for Nippon forces.

The fight lasted several days, and number of Japanese warships re engaged by light American val vessels including destroyers d submarines, and by consider- le forces of airplanes.

One of the earliest ships sent to e bottom in the engagement was Jap aircraft carrier, and if she as not sunk she was immobilized a direct torpedo hit, and that eant she was useless as a carrier.

This meant instant air supremacy r the American-Dutch forces, and ey went to work without mercy. ne vessel after another was de- royed and as others were dam- ged and the Japs attempted to eep their convoy intact by slowing eir pace to that of the slowest essel, they were hopelessly trapped.

It apparently took more than six ays for the Japs to negotiate the ss than 500-mile journey through he straits, and the toll was upward f 31 vessels.

The engagement showed several hings—that strong air reinforce- nents had arrived from the United tates into the area; that they vere being deployed effectively to revent a further southward Japa- ese invasion of the East Indies; hat American naval units, once at grips with the Japs, could give a good account of themselves; that the early toll of two ships a day could easily be enlarged to a deadly amount of shipping, an amount which the Japanese could not lose and continue their pace in the South Pacific.

PRICES:
Bill Passed

The passage of the compromise price control bill, setting ceilings on 74 commodities, brought to a head a situation which now was in the hands of the government, namely inflation of commodity prices.

From this point on it would be a criminal offense to sell anything above the ceiling price.

The senate vote had been at a higher ratio than the house, 65 to 14. President Roosevelt had been expected to name Leon Henderson to the post of price administrator, set up in the bill.

Henderson had been doing what he could along this line from his OPACS office, and had been placed in the War Productions board under Nelson.

All Henderson's previous work, wherever it did not conflict with the ceilings in the bill, immediately was validated, and became the law of the land, just as though congress itself had announced the ceilings.

Maximum penalties were one year in prison and a $5,000 fine for willful violations of the law.

A fight had been expected against Henderson on the grounds that the former administrator had been close to the President, who himself had been chief critic of the bill.

U-BOATS:
Active in Atlantic

A constant succession of sinkings of American and allied vessels in the north Atlantic, many of them close to the coastline, had revealed that U-boat activity was being pressed to the utmost.

The U. S. navy reports from the eastern ocean had been that their efforts were being redoubled, and that certain successes had been scored. The policy of not announcing U-boat sinkings was being followed, however.

LUZON:
MacArthurs Fight

Though MacArthur's men were admittedly in a desperate position, it had become evident that he was getting at least some reinforcement, as his latest communiques had told of American "fighter planes," and also of the work of PT boat squadrons in Subic bay and at other points, probably near Corregidor.

But it had not been believed that MacArthur's army had any airplanes left, therefore his report that Curtis P-40 fighters had downed a number of Jap bombers led many to think that they might have been flown in there from a distant base.

How many of the Japanese estimated Luzon army of 300,000 was able to get at MacArthur's men in their tiny front on Bataan peninsula was a problem, as many of them naturally would have to be holding the rear and supply lines against constant harassment of guerrilla bands of Filipinos.

RATIONING:
To Increase

Additional rationing was deemed a certainty, with the placing of sugar on a pound-a-week basis.

In fact, it was known that those who controlled the priorities were frowning even on some of the civilian defense activities.

Among these were the "indiscriminate knitting of sweaters," which was said to have a bearing on a possible shortage of wool.

Another was the selling of commodities in tin cans when they could be otherwise packaged or sold in bulk. Among the list was baking powder, beer, biscuits, candy, confectionery, cereals and flour, chocolate and cocoa, coffee, dog food, petroleum products, spices and condiments and tobacco.

Shipbuilders were being asked so to design their ships that they could use steel of the type milled for automobiles—somewhat narrower plates.

Leon Henderson would be in charge of retail rationing, and James S. Knowlson in charge of that which occurred in industrial quarters, it was announced.

RUSSIANS:
Find Going Tougher

As the Russians announced that the "last live German" had been removed from Moscow province, and that the invaders in the Rhzev area were trapped and doomed, and as they swarmed ever closer to Smolensk, they reported that the Nazi resistance was growing stiffer.

This, the Red high command said, was to be expected, but they drew much cheer from the fact that one victory was following another still, and that the general tactical campaign was shaping up well.

One expert in Red tactics said much credit was being given to a new Russian system of putting fairly heavy artillery into the front line with the infantry.

This, he pointed out, was a bold procedure, but one which the Germans, with nothing heavier than trench mortars in the front line, were finding it difficult to combat.

The Russians have 46 mm. guns and some 76s in the front lines, and though they are not so mobile, they are even being handled by manpower when horses cannot be found to draw them.

These guns fire at point-blank range, and were given much credit in winning the battle of Mozhaisk, a heavily fortified point.

The death toll is terrific in warfare at 40 below zero. Correspondents at the front state that wounded die within 10 or 15 minutes unless kept immediately warm, as their wounds instantly freeze.

The Russians, however, being adept at life under such conditions are reportedly suffering much less than the ill-equipped and prepared Germans.

'Over There'

SOMEWHERE IN IRELAND.—Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney of the U. S. Air Corps, who has been made commanding general of the U. S. army forces in the British isles, is pictured above. He has a high rating as both a combat pilot and combat observer. His headquarters will be "somewhere on the British isles."

REINFORCEMENTS:
For 10 Areas

The arrival of a considerable force of American troops in northern Ireland had been an exciting bit of news which the press leaped on with avidity, and which brought from the White House the statement that this was but one of six, eight or ten areas to which reinforcements had been sent.

Pressing the President for more information, newsmen succeeded in getting the revelation that help is being rushed with all possible speed into the Pacific war theater.

Nothing was said officially about the identity of the Northern Ireland troops, but the fact that a major general was named commander and that his staff included brigadiers led many to believe it was at least a division.

News dispatches from Ireland, passed by censorship, used the words "from their training ground in Louisiana" and the fact that they had come "from midwestern homes," but this was as close to identification as the war department would permit.

President DeValera criticized the sending, said his government should have been consulted, but though President Roosevelt recalled that DeValera was a "warm personal friend," he expressed no sympathy with his viewpoint.

The soldiers were there, reportedly eager for a "crack at the Nazis," and getting accustomed to British fare, living conditions and surroundings.

The President was positive in stating that aid of the strongest sort was being poured into the Pacific theater of the war, and war department estimates of the total manpower of the Japanese in that area was 1,000,000 men.

ROMMEL:
Drive Halted

The counter-drive by Gen. Erwin Rommel's troops in Libya, which had hurled the British back over considerable ground to a former battleground near Bengasi, had apparently been halted with a terrific blast of air power, causing the Germans huge losses.

As Churchill told the house of commons that the German-Italian casualties had been three times that of the British, his cohorts in North Africa had just finished a devastating blow to the Germans, which many believed had halted them in their tracks.

The advance from Agedabia to near Bengasi had found the Germans forced to halt for a time to organize their supply services, and the British took advantage of this respite to do the same.

But the R.A.F. moved forward to attack the supply lines, and reported the destruction of literally "hundreds of vehicles including tanks" and that they had reduced the German rear to "utter and hopeless confusion."

MISCELLANY:

New York: Joseph Lash, friend of Mrs. Roosevelt and one of her proteges, for whom a naval commission had been sought and refused, had been changed from 1-H to 1-A and had not claimed or asked deferment.

Washington: The justice department has ordered the removal of all enemy aliens from vital defense areas throughout the nation.

New York: Discovery of a gigantic plot on the part of the Germans to dispose of diamonds looted in Belgium and Holland in 1940 was made when the government reported a list of indictments against members of several New York corporations. More than $100,000 worth of diamonds already had been disposed of, it was believed.

London: President Roosevelt has received an ornament as a present from the British government. It is of glass, and is composed of fragments of the stained glass windows of parliament, broken by an air raid.

This Week In National Defense

A WEEK OF THE WAR

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill created three Anglo-American boards to pool American and British munitions, shipping and raw materials. The boards will confer with representatives of the Soviet Union, China and others of the 26 United Nations as necessary "to attain common purpose." U. S. representatives are: Harry Hopkins, munitions board; Real Admiral Emory S. Land, shipping board; and William L. Batt, raw material board.

The President told his press conference great progress has betn made in unification of American Army and Navy commands. He said such unification has been going on for the past two months and does not result from the Pearl Harbor inquiry board report. Mr. Roosevelt said he is still studying this report, which placed the blame for lack of American alertness at Hawaii on Admiral Husband E Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, but Presidential Secretary Early indicated further action in regard to the commanders will rest with Navy Secretary Knox and War Secretary Stimson.

PRICE CONTROL LEGISLATION SIGNED

President Roosevelt signed the Price Control Bill which provides for a license system to enforce price regulation, calls for a single administrator and contains provisions to permit farm prices to rise as high as 110 per cent of parity. The President said, however, he may ask Congress to correct certain gaps in the bill, particularly the agriculture provisions. He said the prohibition against farm price ceilings at less than 110 per cent of parity is a direct threat to the cost of living. although the licensing, rent control and other provisions are use of Agriculture reported the average ful against inflation. The Department of farm product prices on January 15 was 102 per cent of parity.

THE WAR FRONT

The Army reported the Japanese were making heavy reinforcements in the Philippines preparatory to resumption of a large scale offensive against Gen. MacArthur's forces which were continuing to hold strong positions in the Bataan Peninsula. In the Philippine area U. S. forces destroyed a 5,000-ton enemy vessel and at least five enemy planes, while in the Macassar Straits, Army and Navy forces sank three large enemy transports, set two more afire, torpedoed an aircraft carrier, blew up another large ship and scored hits which probably sank others. The Army announced United States Army forces arrived in Northern Ireland, and Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney took over command of all U. S. Army forces in the United Kingdom. President Roosevelt told his press conference this force is one of six, eight or 10 American expeditionary forces outside the U. S in various parts of the world. U-Boat activity resulted in the sinking off the Atlantic coast of two American ships and a Norwegian tanker. The U. S garrison at Midway Island sank an enemy submarine attempting to attack the island.

ARMY

The President signed the Fourth Supplemental National Defense Bill carrying a $12,600,000,000 appropriation for 33,000 Army planes and equipment. War Secretary Stimson announced plans to speed training of 30,000 pilots, observers, navigators and other personnel to match airplane production. War Secretary Stimson announced 20,000 men have been released for duty with combat troops since the Army began replacement of enlisted men engaged in clerical and housekeeping activities by civilian employees, some of them women. He said entrance requirements for officer candidate schools have been changed to allow qualified men from 18 to 45 to win commissions within six months.

NAVY

The House passed and sent to the Senate a record naval appropriation bill of $18 billion in cash and an additional $4 billion in contract authorizations to build the Navy to unprecedented strength. The Senate Appropriations Committee, at the request of President Roosevelt, added another $6 billion to the bill to strengthen the naval air arm. The Marine Corps announced regulations for enlistment of 6,000 men 30 to 50 for guard duty at naval shore stations. The Corps revised requirements to permit only college juniors and seniors and qualified enlisted men to enroll in its reserve officers' candidate class. The Navy waived minimum age requirements of 25 years for leaders, leadingmen and quartermen in Navy yards and plants under Navy jurisdiction. The Navy is recruiting skilled construction workers for work at naval bases outside continental United States.

PRODUCTION

The Army Ordnance Department estimated it has been spending $21 million a day for the past five weeks for 1,200 various types of items including ammunition, small arms, artillery, tanks, etc. The Army announced its new 105 mm. howitzer is now in mass production. War Production Chairman Nelson told a meeting in New York City the jo bfacing businessmen is to rush war contracts through to completion '('without stop

The War Production Board announced a simplified production requirements plan to speed conversion of small manufacturers doing less than $100,000 business a year. The Board also set up a special section to collect information on all vacant industrial buildings so the Army and Navy procurement branches can award contracts in such a way as to utilize these buildings.

—o—

ALIENS

Attorney General Biddle ordered all German, Japanese and Italian nationals to leave specified areas in San Francisco and Los Angeles by February 24. Mr. Biddle said 27 additional prohibited areas recommended by the War Department would be published later.

—o—

CONVERSION OF AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY

Ernest Kanzler, WPB official in charge of converting the automobile industry to war production, said the industry up to January 16 had orders for $8 billion worth of guns, tanks planes and other war material. He said the industry's present employment of 500,000 workers may be doubled when peak war production is reached late this year. He said lack of machine tools is the present bottleneck in the conversion effort but labor supply may be the next big problem.

Leads Armed Forces

Lt Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in command of combined U. S.-Filipino army in the Philippines is head of U. S. armed forces in the Far East.

—o—

PRIORITIES AND ALLOCATIONS

The Senate passed and sent to the House a second War Powers Bill extending the Government's requisitioning power and carrying criminal penalties for violation of the priorities system. The WPB cut radio production by 40 per cent, prohibited use of aluminum except on war contracts and restricted consumption of nickel brass and copper for advertising and decorative purposes to 50 per cent of last year. The Board also announced it will withhold a percentage of canned goods in 1942 to insure ample supplies of certain foods for the armed forces.

War Production Chairman Nelson placed full authority in the Office of Price Administration to ration all goods and commodities sold on the retail market and for goods to satisfy personal needs. Price Administrator Henderson said initial sugar sales under the rationing plan to be inaugurated next month probably will be restricted to 12 ounces a week for each individual. The Department of Justice announced the Anit-rust Division is investigating the practice of requiring customers to purchase designated amounts of groceries in order to obtain limited amounts of sugar.

THE PROBLEM OF HATE

"Why should we not all live in peace and harmony We look up at the same stars, we are fellow-passengers on the same planet and dwell beneath the same sky. What matters it along which road each individual endeavors to find the ultimate truth? The riddle of existence is too great that there should be only one road leading to an answer."

Centuries ago, Quintus Aurelius Symmachus spoke those words. Very few people listened to him then, and, in all probability, should he speak them again today, even fewer people would listen to him.

For now in this stage of our history, we are doing our utmost to defeat a cunning, obstinate, and ruthless foe. Consequently, we reason that we should hate him—hate him with all our hearts and all our souls. In a democracy, it is very difficult to get the people aroused to the difficulties of the age. Pearl Harbor aroused us. Now the government is trying to keep us aroused by propaganda. They figure we must stay aroused so that we will buy defense bonds and stamps, we will enlist, we will be willing to relinquish certain luxuries in order to win the war. Only by the cultivation of a really good healthy hate can we stay aroused. Therefore, the government and the press is going to make sure that we remember to "Slap the Japs off the Map" and to "Bomb Berlin," and to do the countless other things in our speech which we can never actually do in reality.

However, there are those who question the wisdom of such a course. They feel that by cultivating hate, we are cultivating that spirit which we are trying to eradicate from the world by waging a war to "save democracy." Especially in such times as these, they argue, as the Egyptian Gazette of Cario, Egypt, did in a recent editorial, that "the sublimity of spirit which at the moment of extreme anguish asks forgiveness for the oppressor and torturer is not easily attained," but that if we do not cultivate such an attitude we shall be losing at home those things which we are seeking to offer the world. Furthermore, the Egyptian paper goes on to say that hatred is an essentially destructive force because it upsets mental balance, that hatred is not necessary to military efficiency, and that if we do adopt hatred then "what purpose would there be behind the struggle?"

This problem is a very deep and profound one. It cannot be answered in a few words for all America by any one single person. No writer can answer it; the President cannot answer it; certainly no military authority can answer it. The question must be solved individually in the heart and soul of each and every one of the 130,000,000 Americans living today. The boy fighting the Japanese on the Philippines will have one answer; the President will have one; and the ordinary men and women of America will have another answer still.

Though the big question remains with each of us, there is one phase of it which can and should be answered here and now. The problem of hating our external enemies is an individual one. The problem of hating those enemies inside the United States is the other phase of it which is raising its ugly head at too frequent intervals. It is not the real problem of hating our internal—Fifth Columnist—enemies. We are all agreed that anyone who would wilfully injure the status of the nation should, and must, be hated and punished. But it is the problem of condemning an innocent man to the electric chair. It is the problem of calling a loyal American a fifth columnist and punishing him as such, merely because our feelings and our emotions have gotten the best of us.

We have seen that demonstrated all over the country. We have seen people accused of being "spies," "fifth columnists," "Jap menaces"—only because their name, or some facial characteristic, might be slightly German, Italian, or Japanese. It is not dissimiliar to calling a person a German spy merely because he happened to speak these German words in public: "Morgan die ganse velt." In truth, the person might have learned those words from a poster which is right now in our very own post office in Clanton!

We can see danger of unfairly calling persons spies, or traitors, or criminals. It can lead away from the democratic way of life, and lead us to the same turmoil and persecution which has taken reign in Germany and the conquered countries of Europe.

But that does not mean that we should neglect our duty as Americans to be on the look-out for any possible sabotage or enemy action. We must continually be on the look-out.

We must not, however, permit any Dreyfus cases in America—we must not tear up the Bill of Rights in order to protect it.

But what we must do is to check up on all rumors and reports before we believe them. Our suspicions must not take any action other than reporting to the proper authorities. If there is truth in the rumor, the authorities will attend to its cause. As President Roosevelt once said, "Do not of necessity believe everything you hear. Check up on it first."

CLANTON LIONS CLUB TO SPONSOR 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

(By M. R. Glasscock)

At the last meeting of the Clanton Lions Club the members voted to devote an attractive "nest egg" to the Chilton County 4-H Club Council for the purpose of promoting the production of more high quality hogs in Chilton County.

The money is to be used to purchase a number of registered gilts which will be placed with outstanding 4-H Club members to be fed out and bred for additional registered pig production In return for the pigs donated to 4-H Club members each member is required to feed out and breed his animal, and when his first litter of pigs are produced he is to give back to the 4-H Club Council one gilt pig to be placed with a new 4-H Club member under the original agreement. Thus a continuous chain is formed.

The members of the Lions Club deserves much praise for agreeing to sponsor this timely food production project in addition to the many other civic problems that they are graciously helping to solve.

With the start that the local Lions Club has donated it is hoped that in future years a permanent swine breeding and pork producing unit will be set up on every farm that the project reaches.

Details Given For New Registration

Emphasizing that the Selective Service Registration on February 14 and 16 will complete the registration of America's potential military manpower, Mr. J. N. Calloway, County Registration Coordinator for Chilton County, today pointed out that it affects every male resident in Chilton County between the military ages of 20 and 45 years, with a few exceptions made by Congress.

The requirements, Coordinator Calloway explained, is that all male persons not previously registered, who attained their twentieth birthday on or before December 31, 1941, and who have not attained their forty-fifth birthday on or before February 16, 1942, must register as of their home address between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. February 14 or 16. In other words, all unregistered men who were born between February 17, 1897 and December 31, 1921, must register.

Men between 21 and 36 years of age who registered in 1940 and 1941 are not required to register again. Coordinator Calloway stated. Coordinator Calloway also pointed out that to avoid interference with the production, arrangements have been made for registration in advance of February 16. The dates and places where registration places will be open for this advance registration in Chilton County are:

Saturday, February 14th and Monday, February 16th.
Thorsby schoolhouse.
Cooper school house.
Verbena school house
Maplesville school house
Collins Chapel school house
Enterprise school house
Isabella school house
Jemison school house
Vermont school house
Stanton school house
Clanton—City Hall.
Sunday, February 15th.

The offices of the Local Boards 1 and 2 in Clanton will remain open on Sunday to register any one who cannot register on either the 14th or 15th.

While anyone who is unavoidably away from his home on February 16 may register at the registration place most convenient on that day, Coordinator Calloway said, he urged all Chilton County registrants to make every effort to register with their own local boards to avoid possible confusion in the future. Any person who must register while away from his home, warned, should be careful to specify his home address so that his registration card may be forwarded promptly to his own local board and to insure that he will be included in its potential manpower to fill calls for quotas.

Special registrars also will be provided to register men who cannot appear at a designated registration place because of illness or other incapacity. Persons required to register but who cannot present themselves at a registration station because of illness or other incapacity should inform their Local Board or registration station, either by telephone or otherwise, the situation of their being unable to report. It is the registrant's responsibility to report this information

Every man subject to registration who is an inmate of an asylum, jail, penitentiary, reformatory or similar institution on February 16 is required to register on the day he leaves the institution.

ENDLESS CHAIN SCHEMES SOLICITING DEFENSE STAMPS

To all Postmasters:

The mails in all parts of the country are still being flooded with letters relating to so-called endless chain schemes soliciting defense savings stamps.

The Bulletin of July 22, 1941, contained a notice regarding the legality of such schemes. Nevertheless, patrons of the various post offices are depositing in the mails matter relating to schemes of this nature. They should be warned that the sending of such matter through the mails is a violation of the postal fraud and lottery statutes. Notices are served upon persons participating in such schemes whose names come to the attention of the Post Office Department requiring them to show cause why fraud orders should not be issued against them. Such orders forbid the delivery of any mail to the person named therein.

Parisian Store Now In New Quarters

The Parisian Store, long noted for its fine merchandise and its dependability for fair dealing, has moved to its new store on the corner of Second Avenue and the Highway.

No more beautiful store will be found in a city of our size than the home of the Parisian Store. Mr. David Cohen, proprietor, has spared no pains in making his business a credit to Clanton and Chilton County. He is anxious for all of his friends and customers to come to see him and let him show them over The New Parisian Store.

Shoes for the ladies, the misses and the child, not counting the mens and boys shoes, will fill a good size store alone. Mr. Cohen boasts that his is the finest and most complete line of shoes between Birmingham and Montgomery. He is leaving soon for New York to spend a few days buying new spring merchandise and stocking the Parisian with the latest models in all ladies' Ready-to-wear. Watch their windows for quality, style and price.

WAR FLASHES

Singapore is doomed! The great British war base, supposed (like the Maginot Line) to be impregnible, is now in the hands of the Japs. A greater defeat, perhaps, than Dunkirk.

U. S. Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the combined Allied fleet in the Far East, has been replaced by Vice-Admiral CEL Helfrich, of the Royal Netherlands Navy.

Grave doubt is expressed that the Lafayette, formerly the Normandy, French Queen of the Seas which burned in New York harbor early in the week, can be salvaged.

A.P. announces U. S. Soldiers have been sent to Aruba and Curacao, Dutch islands in the West Indies, to protect the oil refining interests there. The Royal Dutch Shell and the Standard of New York, both have large interests there.

Mayor Laguardia resigned as head of ODC and James M. Landis has been appointed in his stead.

MacArthur and his men are still "Holding the Fort" on Bataan Peninsula, Philippine Islands.

Women Urged To Knit Sweaters for Red Cross

Under the production program of the American Red Cross, Mrs. Sophia Jones, in charge, is asking that the ladies of Chilton County during the next few days knit fifty sweaters for the program. Thread may be obtained at the office of J. Mell Martin, and ladies who will do this work are urged to come in at once and get thread and full instructions about the work.

Report Of Grand Jury Made Court

Officers Instructed To "Abate Such Nuisances as Honky-Tonks in Clanton

STATE OF ALABAMA,
CHILTON COUNTY.
To Hon. Arthur Glover as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We, the Grand Jury, empanelled for the January Term of the Circuit Court, after receiving your honor's most able charge, entered upon our investigations of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 21 cases and have examined 52 witnesses and are returning herewith 18 true bills.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct insofar as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public: and in our examination of the Sneriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners, we find that it is being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and insofar as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

We have made a personal inspection of the county jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

We have considered some evidence that there are in operation at this time within the Town of Clanton and in the county certain places, commonly called "honky-tonks" or "juke joints," which do not contribute to the best moral training of our citizenry, and that these places are in reality nuisances, and that proper action should be taken by the Sheriff's office, the City officials and other law enforcement officers to secure evidence and institute proper proceedings toward abating such nuisances. We request that the next Grand Jury empanelled in this county have this report preesnted to them, with the view that they make investigation to determine whether or not the various law nforcement ofifcers, the Sheriff and his dputies, have complied with this report.

We wish to express our apperciation for the assistance rendered by the county and Circuit Solicitors, by the Baliff, and by the Sheriff and his deputies for their able assistance and courtesies during our deliberation.

We, having complied to the best of our ability with your honor's charge, respectfully ask that we now be recessed until such time as your honor may deem it proper to have us again convene.

This, the fifth day of February, 1942.

LUTHER E. LITTLE, Foreman.

Graves Appoints Richard T. Rives Campaign Manager

Because of our long and close personal friendship, and despite my political inexperience, Colonel Graves has asked me to take charge of his campaign, and I have accepted. I am proud of his confidence in me and of the opportunity to serve our State, but I am humble and pray for divine guidance to fulfill such responsibility

Fortunately, this task is not difficult. Bibb Graves' record is unsurpassed not only in length of service, but also in constructive achievement. Already the people of Alabama know that his guiding principle has been the greatest good to the greatest number, and that his abiding interest in the average man and woman is deep and sincere and genuine. As a humanitarian, a believer in the fundamental importance of the public schools, an advocate of the use of the power of government to promote the public health, a friend alike of agriculture, labor and industry, a builder of roads, bridge and public works, as well as of the bodies, minds and character of men, as a man without bias against any class, sect, creed or group, but whose vision is so broad and sure as to unite all of the powerful forces of good, the record and achievements of Bibb Graves are outstanding and unequalled. In time of war, Bibb Graves served as an officer in our army, and was ready to make any sacrifice. In time of peace, he has given of himself without stint to the service of our State.

No other candidate can present to the people of Alabama such a record No other candidate can be such a tried and true friend of the program of America's greatest leader, Franklin D. Roosevelt, or can work so effectively, hand in hand with our National Administration to keep our people united and fighting the common foe until full and final victory is won

Bibb Graves will run on his own merits and without abuse or vituperation toward any opponent. This is no time to undermine faith and confidence in our democratic processes or to divide and embitter our people for the purpose of serving the political ambition of any man. The people of Alabama are not in a mood for carping criticism of mistakes, inevitably made by anybody who dares to do and accomplish things. Rather are they prepared to ask each candidate "What is your own record for constructive service to our State? What have you done" The people of Alabama already know Bibb Graves and

Rives Sees Graves

Col. Richard Rives, of Montgomery, has just returned from Washington and Baltimore. Last Saturday Col. Rives visited Col. Bibb Graves at John Hopkins in Baltimore. Col. Rives found Col. Graves straining at the leash and wanting to get back to Alabama.

"He was certainly looking fit and fine," said Col. Rives whose interview and visit with Col. Graves took place three days after we visited Baltimore. "He is anxious to get back to Alabama and it is hard to hold him up there. He is going to be in the best of physical shape of his career when he returns."

And right here we will say that the selection of Col. Rives as campaign manager for Col. Graves was a whooping success. Not that Col. Graves needed a campaign manager but that Col. Rives could carry on while Col. Graves recuperates fully. — Atticus Mullin, in Montgomery Advetiser.

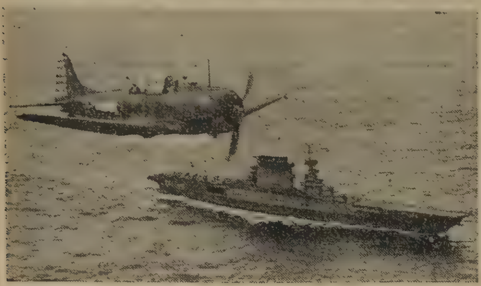
United Nations Rush Reinforcements To Far East Battle Fronts in Effort To Check Spreading of Jap Attacks; Nazis Again Take Offensive in Afica

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)



Somewhere in the Pacific ocean, this dramatic picture taken of a U. S. navy offensive patrol plane carrier being circled by a navy dive bomber as it begins its anti-submarine duties. Note in the picture that on both the side and underpart of the plane there have been deletions of certain parts and insignia which might give information to the enemy. Also on the top rigging of the carrier you will notice further deletions for the same reason.

LUZON:
Epic Battle

Hailed as an epic of warfare that would live in all history, the defense of Bataan peninsula and of the fortresses holding the entrance to Manila bay had been diverting large Jap forces needed elsewhere than in the Philippines.

The adding to MacArthur's embattled and smoke-begrimed army of a battalion of bluejackets and marines was welcome news and showed that perhaps not all of the men of Cavite and Olongapo had been withdrawn, but that they had been given a post of honor with the defenders.

Up on the Mariveles mountains they were entrenched, and no matter what strength the Japs hurled against them they were holding firm. On one moonlit night a whole regiment of small boats moved down the coast, using the same tactics that had hurled the British back on Malaya.

The effort was to get in on MacArthur's flank and confuse the defenders, at the same time signalling for an offensive on the central front.

But the shore defenders and artillery opened up on the Jap invaders, left scores of them struggling in the water, and the few that made shore were quickly mopped up by the Filipinos.

There was apparently at least one Japanese warship which managed to run through the eight-mile strip of water between the fortresses at the entrance of Manila bay.

One of the United States' intrepid torpedo boat skippers, piloting his tiny craft at close to 80 miles an hour, swept down on her in the moonlight, and launched two torpedoes which struck the ship. She is believed to have been sunk.

The attack was carried out directly into the glare of the warship's searchlights, and under the full power of her guns, but so skillfully did its skipper maneuver that she was not struck, and escaped with all hands to tell the tale.

WAVELL:
And Reinforcements

The statement by General Wavell that "great reinforcements" were to arrive, and calling on the Singapore defenders to "defend the city as Tobruk was defended" was more than a little significant.

Tobruk was the bastion that held out for months despite being surrounded on three sides by Axis forces anxious to wipe it out, and finally was relieved by the allied winter drive.

Wavell's statement to the Singapore army smacked of a situation which might see sufficient reinforcements sent to Malaya to do the same thing, not only to relieve the garrison, but send the Japanese on the run again.

Whether this reinforcement was going to be sent to Singapore itself, or whether a method was to be found of striking at the Japanese rear, which might be lightly held, was not revealed. but either method, it was pointed out, might work.

No British commentators felt that the war in the South Pacific would be lost utterly if Singapore was to fall, but the ability to hold the East Indies would immeasurably be weakened if this was to happen, hence Wavell's strong appeal to the city's defenders to hold out at all costs.

GERMANS:
Not Out Yet

Reading endless stories of Russian successes in battles on the east front, and the continuous hammering back of Rommel's forces in north Africa had brought many over-optimistic souls to feel that the war was over, and that all which remained was some sort of mopping up process.

The turning of the tide in north Africa, and the success of German counterattacks in the Crimea showed that with favorable weather conditions the Nazis were still very much to be reckoned with.

The Crimea was a much warmer battlefield than the 40 below zero northern sectors, where the Russians, undiscouraged by the cold, and more at home in such weather, were able to hurl the Nazis back constantly on a wide front.

But the minute the weather moderated in the Crimea, they found themselves more or less up against a stone wall.

On the British and American forces was falling the brunt of the Japanese blitz, and its successes on Malaya and in the Philippines showed that this was no minor war, but an effort against powerful antagonists.

Therefore events generally pointed to what Washington had assured the people was coming—a long and bloody war, not to be lightly won.

Though, generally speaking, the news was not as unfavorable as it might have been, there was much less to be cheering about than there was to be worrying about, and the seriousness of the situation was apparently keenly appreciated by all those in power, including the President, his cabinet and the congress.

RUBBER:
Keeps Coming

Although tire rationing was apparently here to stay, the rubber situation was relieved somewhat when it was announced that shipments from the East Indies were continuing at almost a normal pace.

A glance at the map showed that considerable areas of the Dutch East Indies were still technically out of the active war zone, and the defeat of the Japanese armada in the Macassar straits halted a Jap threat which might have halted much of the rubber shipping summarily.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and Federal Loan administrator, was author of the statement that rubber shipments continued to be received.

He said enough had come in materially to increase the United States' reserve supply. For instance, since the war started, on December 7, he asserted that 114,000 tons of raw rubber had been received, truly a considerably amount.

He said:

"We are unloading some every day, and rubber is being shipped every day from the Dutch East Indies. We will continue to get it as long as we can keep the lanes open, and as long as they can load it.

"Some rubber is still coming out of Singapore."

This was even after the city had gone under siege. The Japs had launched an air attack on Sourabaya, which was the only major Javanese port to undergo such a war blow, but it was recalled that it would take more than an air blitz to put a huge port like this out of normal action.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

Washington: A Portland, Ore., college president, Dexter Keezer, and a former editorial writer, has been made assistant administrator of the Office of Price Administration, directly under Henderson.

London: It was announced that Darlan, Vichy government head, had agreed to send two shiploads of aid to General Rommel in Libya weekly, putting the supplies ashore at Tunis.

New York: Tommy Manville, asbestos heir, to whom war was a side issue, announced he would take his sixth bride April 9, and would stay married this time. No. 6 would be, he said, Madge Lowe of Toronto, 23. She had been divorced.

Washington: Capital circles were stirred by reports that American aid to Russia had fallen below 50 per cent of the amount promised.

General Wounded

General Clinton A. Pierce, who has been reported wounded in action in the Philippines. He is the first U. S. general wounded in action in World war No. 2. This picture was taken before the outbreak of the war in the Pacific.

SINKINGS:
Continue Heavy

The U-boat raids on the North Atlantic continued heavy, with a total of 16 ships attacked of which two escaped and 14 went to the bottom, with about an average loss of life.

Since our entrance into the war, two navy tankers had been torpedoed, the first managing to reach Iceland under her own power, but the second one, the Neches, going down with a reported estimated loss of 56 men, with 126 men escaping to fight again.

The location of the Neches' torpedoing was not immediately announced by the navy, but ship losses had been small in the Pacific after Pearl Harbor, more than equalled two to one by Allied sinkings of Jap ships.

There were growing reports of Allied naval strength in the Pacific, showing that increasing numbers of ships were active in those waters, and in one case having carried the attack to the Japanese-held Marshall and Gilbert islands, generally in the Australia defense zone, with terrific results.

In this action, though no strictly war vessels of Nippon were sunk, the navy reported several auxiliaries were sunk and damaged, which might include tankers, transports, supply ships used for naval purposes.

That our forces lost 11 planes but no ships showed that probably one of our aircraft carriers was in the neighborhood, and that a vessel of this size was being used in a task force offensive action demonstrated that Admiral Nimitz was keen on getting even with Japan for Pearl Harbor.

RUSSIA:
Buying Insurance

The Russians, having fought the Germans back considerably past their announced "winter line" on the northern sectors, might be said to be buying insurance against the Nazis' spring drive.

Some observers, including Senator Tydings, in addresses had warned that the Germans had some 100 divisions of soldiers that they had been holding out of action, just for the spring offensive against Russia.

The Red armies were not, however, believed to be losing anywhere nearly as heavily on the whole front as were the Germans, so this taste of victory, even though temporary, was expected to stand them in good stead when the time comes to hang on after May 1.

Experience of 1940 and 1941 was that the Russian winter would not break until about that time, to any appreciable degree, and at that point the Germans might be expected to launch another all-out attack.

The Red armies were well into Smolensk province, reporting that the Germans, instead of fighting holding actions, were now hastily moving back to better fortified lines, and trying at all costs to save as much material and as many men as possible.

It was considered probable that the Russians would be able, before the coming of spring, to shove the Germans at least back to Smolensk, thus giving the Nazis 230 miles to cover in reaching Moscow again, a distance that the Russians had already fought over twice, once going and once coming, and which they would defend even more stubbornly than the first time.

And they would, it was pointed out, be able this time to get an ever-increasing amount of Allied aid, and not be subject to the same quality of surprise which gave the Germans so much advantage the last time.

The battle-lines now being so well drawn, it would be impossible for the Nazis to gain much momentum.

INSURANCE:
On War Damage

The senate, by passing a bill giving owners of property free insurance up to $15,000 for war damage, showed that it is willing still further to commit the public credit to eventual victory in the war.

Some senators brought up the point during the debate that if property owners are to be given insurance without paying premiums, why should not the congress also give free insurance to civilians killed as the result of the war.

The War Years

America's entrance into World War No. I on April 6, 1917, had immediate effect upon the rail carriers of the nation. Foreseeing the increasing demands that would be made, they formed the Railroad War Board on April 11, 1917, to coordinate their efforts and to have general authority over their activities. The L. & N. was represented by Henry Walters, chairman of its board of directors.

America's production of materials and supplies for our allies soon outstripped the capacities of its merchant ships with the result that loaded freight cars remained on sidings at the nation's ports and elsewhere for long periods of time, greatly handicapping the railroads and resulting in much congestion and confusion. Government operation of the railroads was brought forward as a solution and this became effective on December 28, 1917.

The war years witnessed many changes. Many employes left the service of the L. & N. to join the armed forces, there was a consequent increase in the road's feminine personnel, and passenger equipment was largely monopolized for the moving of soldiers.

Today, once more, America is at war.

The Government, the shipping public and the railroads have profited by the transportation lessons learned from our last experience. They have organized their forces and now are ready to efficiently handle the nation's commerce and war traffic.

Billions of dollars have been spent by the railroads to improve their physical plant to meet any demand that might be expected to be made of them. Train speeds, tons handled per train hour and car and locomotive capacities have all been considerably increased on the Louisville & Nashville and other American railroads. Every phase of the industry has been measurably improved since 1918.

Past Work By WPA In State Shows A Direct Contribution To War Effort

Airports Completed Even Before War Emergency Came; Important Highways Kept in Shape; Defense Vocational Training Is Emphasized

(Editor's Note: The WPA is geared to the all-out war program. It has been, and is, building airports, vital roads; it is training workers for war industries. The WPA program in Alabama is reviewed in the following article written for Chilton County News by Billy Smith, State Information Officer for WPA.)

With this country putting forth its greatest war effort of all times, sacrifices being made and more to be made, it is felt that the public should be given a brief summary of what is going on in the ranks of the WPA in the way of work for our nation's defense.

Taking stock of what has gone on before the national war emergency came to pass, it seems almost prophetic that WPA in Alabama had constructed or improved 15 airports and landing fields. The majority of these were planned primarily to take care of the increasing commercial and private air traffic at that time. Work on these fields included grading, grassing, construction of hangars and proper field lighting.

We would have, indeed, been in dire straits had we been forced to start from scratch to build flying fields on which our pilots could be trained to fly the thousands of planes called for by the President. Those commercial fields, in many instances, have been serving that purpose.

During the past year, WPA has approved 28 airport jobs in Alabama, scattered well at strategic points and approved by the Army and Navy and the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Two of the largest pilot training centers in the nation, Gunter Field at Montgomery and Craig Field Selma, were constructed almost entirely by WPA, and continued expansion in housing facilities is being made by WPA at these two fields and at Maxwell Field, headquarters of the Southeast Air Corps Training centers. All clearing, grading, and installation of utilities of all kinds at Brookley Field, the Army's largest repair and service depot for the air corps at Mobile, was done by WPA. Other expansions and improvements are still underway there.

Many of these new approved airport jobs are improvements and enlargements of fields which had been worked before. Not included in these are an unspecified number of auxiliary landing fields to be constructed by WPA in this state, all of which are specified by the War and Navy Departments as essential to the war program to handle the increased military demands.

Back in 1935 the National Guard of Alabama was sorely in need of adequate training and meeting places and facilities for the safe storage of guns, munitions, and supplies. With an eye to the future, WPA constructed 30 permanent armories for the Alabama National Guard, improved and made additions to two others. It is needless to point out the present use and advantages of these armories. In a recent statement, Brigadier General Ben M. Smith, of the Alabama National Guard, which is now serving in the regular Army said, "To have mobilized the guard quickly and effectively when it was called in this emergency would have been a serious problem had it not been for these armories. The WPA certainly played a major role in that respect."

To further accomodate the rapidly expanding military forces, WPA has also done considerable and extensive work at Fort McClellan, Anniston, in the construction of concrete buildings roads, streets, and firing ranges.

Highways Improved

In making its comprehensive plan for the defense of democracy, the War Department has mapped all roads and highways considered important in the efficient movement of supplies, materials, and troops. The WPA, with the Alabama Highway Department and various county governing bodies, has built or improved over 100 miles of such roads in this state since the emergency was declared. The work which has been done and which continues on the main highways has been seen by thousands of people familiar with the red, white and blue signs reading, "WPA —National Defense." Of course, the general public does not see all the other roads and bridges that are taken into consideration in these war times.

Access roads to military reservations and ninety-nine per cent of all roads, streets and sidewalks within the large air training centers in Alabama were constructed by WPA alone.

But that is touching on more recent work of WPA. With a direct contribution to the rapid and economical movement of machinery, tanks, guns, produce and the needs of a civilian populace are the 19,500 miles of highways, roads and streets and the 9.831 bridges and viaducts constructed or improved in Alabama by WPA in cooperation with the State counties and municipalities during the past six years. Of this total number of bridges and viaducts, 7,825 were of new construction.

Recreation Takes Its Place

Even as late as three years ago, the general public could not fully comprehend the importance of proper recreational facilities and leadership of the nation's daily peace-time life. Now, in war-time activity, this is being very forcibly brought home to us, and WPA had the trained recreation leadership needed.

In every town and city in Alabama where there are military posts of war production industries, there will be found recreation centers under the capable guidance of these trained WPA supervisors. Many of the centers were arranged and furnished through the WPA.

The recreation, library service, and adult education projects of WPA have operated practically for the full period in the camps and nearby towns where there is concentration of troops. Hundreds of selectees have been given the fundamentals of learning as well as higher mathematics by WPA instruction so they may be better equipped to carry out military assignments.

Clerical Help Provided

In the recent truck and bus survey, called for by the War Department in planning for emergency transportation, certified WPA workers were proveded for practically all clerical work. Women in WPA sewing rooms produced the thousands of fine serviceable uniforms for the newly-formed Alabama State Guard which took the place of the National Guard during its service with the regular Army.

Following the fall of France and our nation's determination to be prepared for war and subsequently to become the arsenal of democracy, the shocking relization was thrust upon our vital industries that America did not, at that time, possess skills in sufficient quantities to carry on the production of munitions, ships and the seemingly never-ending list of materials needed for total defense.

So, WPA, in cooperation with other state and Federal agencies, set up a Division of Training and Reemployment for the training and reclaiming of skills for our defense industries Hundreds of WPA workers have attended these 15 schools located in 11 Alabama towns and cities to fit themselves for better jobs and to supply the demand for skilled labor. Practically one hundred per cent of those graduated have places in private employment.

This phase of WPA's contribution to war production effort has been intensified since July by the supplementing of vocational classes with actual training in the industries. The demand is now much greater than workers can be trained. Another school is being conducted for the training of negro airport ground servicemen.

This resume was prepared so as to somewhat take stock of the direct physical contribution made by WPA to the nation's program of defeating the enemies seeking to engulf us. We believe, beyond the shadow of a doubt that WPA has been a program for the total defense of the United States by strengthening our internal social structure, by protecting health, morale, and providing needed services and facilities since 1935. Perhaps the words of the Georgia WPA Administrator draws a better picture, when he said, "Cancel out the work of the WPA in the past six years and, I assure you, it would seem that Hitler's lufwaffe had suddenly visited us in the night."

Our coordinated and highly versatile Administrative staff is at the service of the War Department and ready to perform any task assigned to it. Already many highly trained administrative employees of WPA have been transferred to aid in almost all phases of the war activities.

The sixteen reigning beauties at Alabama College, Montevallo, this year (pictured above) were chosen by three young flying cadets from Maxwell Field, Alabama. Selected by their chaplain, Captain Harrison Brann, for this special duty, the three young flyers were present at the recent Elite Night program when forty candidates for beauty honors appeared before them in what the girls described as an "Unmilitary Review." These girls will be featured in the beauty sections of the 1942 edition of "Montage," the college annual, which this year is edited by Miss Helen Fuller, Montgomery, with Miss Mary Frances Green also of Montgomery, business manager.

All-Out Effort For Gardens This Year

Chilton county farm women are getting some help from the men-folks with their gardens this year, according to Miss Clara Patton, home management supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

"Although the women still consider the garden primarily their concern, Chilton county men don't have to be nagged into preparing that plot for spring planting this year, and even using stable compost on the garden plot instead of the cotton patch," she said.

Spurred by FSA's all-out effort in the Food for Freedom program, and the nation's increasing need for wartime food production, 324 FSA farmer women in Chilton county are pledging themselves to raise more food for their families and for market, and to preserve more food than ever before.

Miss Clara Patton says that the Farm Security families in this county plan to exceed last year's all time high goal in canning during 1942, and to do a great deal of drying and preserving in brine. They will endeavor to make their families entirely self-sustaining the year round, and, in addition, to provide garden truck for sale.

Each family will feed itself, so that no food need be bought which might be shipped to our allies, or used by our armed forces. These families in growing their own food supply will also release transportation facilities for necessary Defense users

In the Fifth Region, embracing Alabama, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina, FSA families have bought or ordered a total of 350 tons of garden seed, at cost of $250,000 to go into production of the 12-month garden which each of them has been asked to plant.

Nearly Two Hundred Miles of Paving Now Under Way

"The State of Alabama has at the present time 186.67 miles of federal aid paving projects under way," said Chris J. Sherlock, State Highway Director. Alabama is classed as a leading member of the 48 State, in its highway program

According to Bituminous Engineer Leon Gottlieb, projects comprising the 186.67 aggregate miles of Federal-aid work are as follows:

Bond Sales High In Alabama

—o—

Carroll Kilpatric, special Washington correspondent for the Birmingham News, says:

Sales of defense bonds in Alabama in December, the first month of war, amounted to $2,906,000 or more than half the total amount sold in the preceding seven months.

Compared with other states, Alabama's record has been high from the beginning, and in December it was even better on a comparative basis than previously.

In other words, Alabama, which ranks almost at the bottom of the list of states in per capita wealth, outranked 19 other states in December in the amount of defense bonds sold.

Officialdom Worrying Over War Apathy

—o—

One report says "War Apathy is worrying (Washington) officialdom."

High pressure on the publicity men will not remove the worry unless said publicity men cease their efforts to deceive and mislead the general public, and begin giving us the exact unvarnished facts, of what is actually happening on all war fronts.

War apathy will vanish when "officialdom" takes the pjublic into its confidence and begins telling the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

We Americans can take it—whatever it is; and give it—whatever it takes.

London Statesmen Uneasy About U. S.

—o—

H. O. Thompson, United Press Washington Staff Correspondent, says:

A Pacific War Council with political headquarters in London, and military strategy directed from Washington, may be the answer to the admitted need for unified conduct of the War in the Pacific, a high diplomatic source said today.

British statesmen were said to be disturbed by the growing tendency of the British Dominions to look to the United States for help and guidance They are loath to see, as has been suggested, both political and military aspects of the Pacific War centered in Washington, it was said.

It has been no secret here that both Australia and New Zealand have been dissatisfied, not only with Britain's conduct of the war thus far, but also with the pre-war type of British statesmanship.

The British view is that the political problems of Canada, New Zealand and Australia—all vitally involved in the Pacific—should be dealt within the mother country. The British are said to look with disfavor upon the closer relationship between the Dominions and the United States because of its potential threat to the British Empire as it existed prior to the war

The Dominions have made no attempt to hide the fact that they look to the United States as the dominant power in the Pacific.

Walter Nash, who presents his credentials this week as the first minister to this country from New Zealand, believes the United States should be the headquarters of both the political and military divisions of the projected War Council.

"Politics and strategy often are closely related," he said in his first general press conference here.

After Pearl Harbor, both Australia and New Zealand looked to Washington for help. It was in the series of conferences during the recent Roosevelt-Churchill meetings here that they pressed their requests for representation on any joint or unified organization that might be developed to deal with Japan.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

I am not an architect but I have drawn quite a few house plans. One day a friend came to me with the request that I draw a blue print for the home that he expected to build. Without delay he let me know that he had already designed his home and that he wanted me to just make the drawing for him. It is in very much the same fashion that we approach the Great Architect with our lives. We print of our way of living, but in pretend to ask God to draw the blue reality we have already determined as to what we are going to be and do. We are not so much seeking after God's way for our living, as we are trying to interest God in our own plans and designs. We seek God's approval of our plan, and not the blue print that God has for us.

God works and we work. God banked the clowds around the setting sun, and the artist saw that beauty and turned it into a beautiful picture. God created the air and man made the plane. God and man are together in flying the plane. God made the hills and the valleys, and He put strength into the soil, and man cultivates that soil and gathers an abundant harvest. God made and buried the minerals and the metals, and man digs them out and puts them into service. Are you working with God every day? Can you say with Jesus, "The Father worketh and I work." We should resolve in every task to work with God and not against Him.

A few years ago a man made a wager with Ralph Thompson, a one-legged boy, nineteen years of age. The bet was that the boy with only one leg could not walk from New York to Chicago and back in six months time. Ralph started out with great speed and traveled on one leg and a crutch with almost the same speed that any one could have traveled with two good feet. He made his expenses by singing to groups on the streets and highways, and in less than two and a half months he walked into Chicago. When five months and seven days had elapsed, the boy with crutches walked briskly down the streets of New York to receive his five hundred dollars. On the journey he was not sick a moment and on his return he was more fit than when he started. I have seen many a gallant soul pressing his way to success on crutches. There are physical and mental defects that make people bobble, but blessed is that man who in spite of crutches, can win in the wager of life.

I was called upon to conduct a funeral. The man who had died was one of the worst men I ever knew. He had lived in sin and under the weight of a degraded life, he came down to an early grave. At his funeral I read a few verses out of the Bible, I prayed an earnest prayer for his family, but I could not speak a word. The man's life had talked for him for the thirty-five years that he had lived. All who attended that funeral got a warning sermon from the text. "The wages of sin is death" and I did not have to utter a word. That man's life delivered his own funeral oration, and men and women strolled about in silence. That leads me to say that your life preaches louder at your funeral than the words of the preacher who officiates at that time.

I was called upon to officiate at another funeral. One of God's shining saints had been asked by the Divine voice to step over the river. This woman had lived long and well, she had suffered and sacrificed. She labored and loved, and to know her was to know the Master of men. All during her life she had given out a brilliant light and that light had shined to help others to live and travel in the ways of truth. At her funeral I read from the Old Book, and the words were of cheer and hope. I did not attempt to speak at this funeral. The life of this saint was more eloquent than any words that I could say. I did no violence to the scripture when I read, "She went about doing good" and then I added, "She was like her Lord in that respect." All who attended that funeral that day met a great sermon, that explained the Christian's way of life. We preach our own funerals, whether they be bad or good.

Letters To The Editor

—o—

I wish to call attention to the following article which appeared on the front page of the Union-Banner:

"I pledge allegiance to the Democratic Party and the Roosevelt family for which it stands, one family indispensible—with divorces and captains for all.

"Four thousand years ago Moses said to his people. 'Take up your shovels, mount your asses, load your camels and ride with me into the promised land.' Four thousand years later Mr. Roosevelt said to his people, 'Throw down your shovels, sit on your a——s, light up a camel, this is the promised land."

The first paragraph of the article is a parody on the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and the second paragraph is, by comparison within the article, a burlesque on a verse from the Bible.

There are many of us, Republicans and Democrats alike, who have disagreed with and criticised the Roosevelt administration for its policies and our right to do this, our right of freedom of expression, is our most cherished possession, for without that right democracy cannot exist.

However, it is a shameful act for one to make a parody on our pledge to the flag for any reason. This act is as unpatriotic as the other reference is very crude.

There is nothing constructive about this kind of criticism.

Yours very truly,
—JOHN M. HIGGINS.

Mr. Ben Tucker.

Dear Ben:

I thought I would write to my many friends at home that I promised to write to, through your paper if you would be kind enough to publish this letter, as it is impossible to write each one personally.

I enlisted in the army January 12, at Montgomery, Ala., and was sent to the reception center at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., that night arriving there at 3 a. m. the following day. I stayed there until the following Saturday night and left at 11 o'clock p. m. for Tyndall Field. While at Fort McPherson I saw Man Mountain Dean, the famous wrestler and he had to shave his beard off and he is sure a big man. I also saw two Chilton county boys that I knew while there. One was Hershell Littlefield and the other was Buck Baker. I saw one Jap and one German. The Jap came from Alabama and the German left Germany 3 years ago and got his American citizenship a short time before the draft got him. I talked to him but did not talk to the Jap.

I got out of recruit training Sunday morning and moved to my outfit which is the 348th School Squadron and a dog gone good outfit and we are all proud of it and intend to keep it that way. I was sure glad to get out of recruit training.

I can sit in my room here and see the Gulf of Mexico. It is only about one-half mile away and there is a beautiful beach there.

Before I joined the army I thought all officers and non-commissioned officers were something that had horns on, but I got a pleasant surprise for all I have come in contact with are all real gentlemen.

There is another boy from Clanton here but I have not met him yet and did not learn his name but I am going to look him up.

I would like to hear from all my friends and will give my address so any one who wishes can write me and by the way, I can truly say I like the army.

So long and best wishes —Cleveland Driver

Pvt. Henry C. Driver, 248th School Squadron, Tyndall Field, Panama City, Fla.

IE DILEMMA OF YOUTH

The high school graduate of today confronted with a problem that is ich more perplexing and, to some gree, more important than the prob- a of the young man of draft age, io must having no choice in the itter. join the arm forces of Uncle m.

For, until Japan woke us up, the ithful scholar, being only seventeen eighteen years of age, could hope at either the United States would ver enter the war, or, if we did en- , the war would be over before the aft bill would catch up with him. those premises, the boy could en- college or enter his field of work, th the hope of quick advancement. college he could go ahead with the urse he desired, for the danger of going to war was far distant. His st decision would be to continue in field he wished, so that after the r, he could take his place in the nerican scheme of things. Liberal ts students had nothing to worry out—the world of education was eirs, and the world of war belonged the young Americans between the es of twenty-one and thirty-five.

Actual declared war, however, anged all that. The events of the t two months have made us real- that the war will probably be a ng one. It shall not be over with e snap of a finger. The boy who today graduating from high school s just as much chance to be in ser- ce for Uncle Sam as has the boy hose draft number will soon place m in some camp. The fresh grad- te must realize that he, too, will be rt of the great democratic front to n the war.

But that, in itself, is not a very eat problem. The average graduate just as willing, perhaps more so, serve his country as anyone else. ie real problem arises when he be- ns to ponder the question of which ould be the better service to his ountry—his continuing along prev- usly planned lines with no change his education for the future, or his anging his plans and becoming an gineer, a radio operator, an archi- ct, or any one of many skilled occupations which the government today feels are necessary to defense, and to the victorious consummation of the war.

Take, purely for example, the problem of the boy who wishes to find his future in the field of economics—who wishes to become an economic advisor. His chosen field is a difficult one, granted, but it is not a technical, highly skilled craft, which, once mastered, can be put immediately to government use. This high school graduate must face the facts and face the chances of the future. If he continues along with his present desires and becomes an economic advisor, he will, if the war ends without his being called, be in position to follow out his chosen line of work. If, however, the war calls his duties, he will be left without definite training that can benefit his government, and his four years of extensive reading and preparation will have been in vain. On the other hand, should this boy forget his wishes, and should he take up electrical engineering, he will be, if the war demands his services, in a position to aid his native land. If the war ends before this scholar is drafted though he will have had four (or three) years of tedious preparation in a field he does not like, and. in a field, which, when the war is over shall probably be overcrowded. Compared with the decision of the men who must go immediately to the army, this problem of education is one which is infinitely more confusing and perplexing. Moreover, if the future of the country is dependent upon the war, and if the war is dependent upon skilled men, this problem then becomes only one of the problems facing youth today, but also one of the great and serious problems facing the entire population of the United States.

For if our decision is unwise, not only the boy affected will regret it to the end of his days, but also the entire nation will be in a miserable state for years and years to come.

We can well imagine the state of the nation if every would-be liberal arts students decided to take up a highly skilled trade. During the war, it would be a good idea. However, should the war not require their services, we would return, when peace should come, to a nation without educators, without journalists, without economists, without writers, and without the various other members of the professions which endeavor to be in the public service. If we do not, though, have enough engineers and skilled craftsmen with which to win the war, our lot shall consequently be even sadder. Ours is a climacteric decision.

The ultimate choice is upon us now. There is no time to debate and argue. For Pearl Harbor has shown us that we need craftsmen, skilled and prepared. for the big job of winning the war. But our history has shown us that we need also, in our type of society, economists, political scientists, philosophers, public servants. Moreover, in this age of specialization, it is exceedingly doubtful if any one person could combine the attributes of a skilled trade and at the same time be a profound and accurate philosopher or theologist. In days like ours, we need the best of both. We cannot accept an inferior quality in either which would inevitably result if we tried to add yards and inches together in the same problem.

This dilemma has not gone unheralded or unnoticed, fortunately. But it has gone without a decision being reached. Some people say that the boy should go ahead and take a course in a skilled trade, and then, after the war, he can pursue his own individual chosen profession, by taking another course in what he wants. This plan has its merits, but valuable time is lost, and, as stated above, the sum result would probably be inferior in quality, for no boy ,after a long, hard college course in chemical engineering or the like, would be willing to endure another three or four years, having reached the prime of life, in trying to achiev mental profoundity. Nor would he be in an acceptable frame of mind to cast to the four winds his previous education in chemistry.

Strange as it seems, though, there is an alternative which might, if properly executed, bring the nation to the highest level of intelligence it has ever manifested. It is the theory already advanced that youth be conscripted by the government immediately upon graduation from high school, and subjected to tests of previous training to tests of personality, to tests of mental ability, to tests of every kind and quality, in order to find which boy or girl is best suited for what work. This is the process of selecting men and women for the jobs for which they are best suited, so that we shall have the best and the sufficient number of engineers and draftsmen during the war, and we shall have the best and the sufficient number of public servants and thinkers after the war. Already hinted in some quarters, already urged in other quarters this seems to be the best solution to a very important and a very perplexing problem. It shall have to be a government job, properly carried out for upon the fulfilment of it rests the hopes, the dreams, and the ambitions of millions of young people throughout the nation. Youth is ready to do its part, but it wants and needs. guidance so that it shall not make a very great mistake in a very decisive hour of our history

This plan will, however, be opposed. It shall be condemned as undemocratic. People will plead that even men with inferior minds can make the better thinkers because they are more determined to do so. And still others will claim that if a man or woman were forced to take a job that he or she did not like, the damage would be far greater materially and spiritually, than it would be if the man or woman were left to natural choice

To these questions, we can only say that if Selective Service were democratic, and most of us are agreed that it is democratic, then the selection of men and women with best talents for certain positions is not only democratic but actually an immeasurable assistance to those youths who are confused, perplexed, and bewildered about their future. It also seems reasonable that if a man or woman were put in a position disliked at first, it would soon come to be liked and actually enjoyed both because of the knowledge that a valuable public service is being rendered, and because a person well fitted for a post could soon rise to the top rung of the ladder.

To some of us, this is the only way out. The opposition may be too strong to allow such a bill to pass in Congress. Furthermore, a better plan might be offered. Nevertheless, the actual conflict of dreams and realities which is facing the graduating class of 1942, which will probably face the class of 1943, is difficult, but important. It is a problem which must be faced squarely, reasonably. But it is one which must be faced NOW.

Isabella Vocational Dept. Makes Report

The Isabella vocational agriculture departments last annual report brings out many interesting facts concerning the FFA boys project work.

The final report shows that 36 FFA boys had completed 106 productive projects for the past year, and realized an average net profit of $90.07 per boy or $3,243.41 total projects that were carried out included corn, cotton, watermelons, orchard, sorghum, beef cattle, dairy cattle, strawberries, hogs, poultry, peanuts and truck patches.

Improvement projects in which the boys had no income included Forest conservation, agriculture, library, farm accounts, poultry, flock improvement, home garden, pasture improvement, orchard improvement, dairy herd improvement, soil conservation, home improvement, improving a field by use of legumes, home grounds improvement and farm shop.

All projects were carried out according to instructions and lessons that had been taught in past years' schooling. Practically all of the lessons from day to day are based on the projects that the boys are undertaking.

As an example: If a boy has a poultry project he feeds, culls, houses, controls diseases, and markets his product according to instructions that he learned in class after some of the actual work has been along these lines while on field trips with the class.

Over 8,000 pounds of chicken feed was bought cooperatively by boys taking poultry projects last year. The boys participating in this activity are as follows: Hansel Grooms, Hollis Williams, Roy Durbin, O. F. Davenport, and Otice Giles. This year other boys are planning to order feed and chicks cooperatively.

Five boys in the community have purchased registered Duroc Jersey pigs as a result of their work in vocational agriculture. These are the only registered hogs in the community. With hog prices high these boys hope to sell registered stock and make a nice profit. FFA boys owning registered gilts are Hansel Groom, Ernest McCary, Kirby Lee Summers, Gordon Conway and Joe James Wells.

ARE YOU PRODUCING FOOD FOR FREEDOM

-o-

Farming might be defined as the management of soil for the production of food and fiber. Food and clothes are the two necessities of the human family. Everything that we produce on farms in America in its final form is either food or clothing. Nations at war are already food conscious. We have an abundance of fiber, so in 1942 we must produce food as we never produced it before.

The Secretary of Agriculture has asked that we increase the production of meats, eggs, milk and vegetables. Some in Chilton County might say, "Well, the amount that I could produce won't make any difference, why should I worry?" It does matter. In the first place we may not be able to get all the meat, eggs milk and vegetables we need if we do not produce them; secondly, every bit that we produce for our own use releases that much produced elsewhere for export.

Your garden area should be about the most important piece of land you cultivate this year. This area must be made to produce efficiently. Some of the things might be done to produce more efficiently are: Prepare soil btter, use more fertilizer, plant more often and control insects.

You will find listed below some vegetables to be planted in your garden in February. Asparagus, beets, cabbage, carrots, radish, spinach and turnips, lettuce, mustard, parsnips, English peas, Irish potatoes. Plant a few seeds of the above for early plantings. If some should be killed by late freeze only a few cents will be lost.

The following should be planted in hotbeds in February to be set in the garden later: eggplant, pepper, and tomatoes.

Where Your Quinine Comes From

-o-

Before war broke out in the Pacific, the United States had laid in a 10,000,000-ounce supply of quinine, precious drug used in the prevention and cure of malaria.

Because 90 per cent of the world's quinine—obtained from the bark of the cinchona tree—comes from The Netherlands Indies, the National Geographic Society says, the United States has placed the substance on the nation's list of stragetic materials, the only drug thus singled out.

A record total of 7,920 tons of cinchona bark was exported from The Netherlands Indies in 1940. But new supplies of quinine from the Far East now are cut off, temporarily at least. At the normal rate of consumption the 10,000,000-ounce quinine reserve would meet all United States needs for from two to three years. In an emergency it could be spread out thin to satisfy all probable demands for from four to five years.

The malarial mosquito (Anopheles,) the common carrier of the disease thrives particularly in the wet tropics. The advance of fullscale war into the equatorial regions therefore bids fair to necessitate added use of anti-malarial drugs.

Although chemical substitutes for quinine have been developed in the laboratory (attibrin and plasmochin perhaps are best known), quinine sulphate, from the bark of the cinchona tree, still is the staple malaria remedy.

Cinchona growing is being revived in Ceylon and in India, where 100,000,000 people are said to be malaria-stricken. The Japanese have had little success in growing cinchona in Formosa, while in the Philippines the trees have thrived. The United States can obtain considerable quinine from South America. Bolivia now has a large cinchona production. Peru, Ecuador, and some other areas also contribute to the Western Hemisphere quinine supply.

Production, of quinine is expensive because the trees themselves must be felled. A quinine plantation, therefore, is handled like a crop, with trees at all stages of growth, from the carefully guarded shoots in the seed-beds to the mature trees.

In Central Java, studded with extensive cinchona plantations, woodcutters fell 10-year-old trees. Cut to one foot lengths, the branches are piled before rows of women, who sit crosslegged stripping the bark. In nearby sheds the dried cocoa-brown bark is pulverized and packed in large sacks for shipment. After extraction from the bark the medicine reaches the drug counters in capsules, tablets or in combination with other chemicals.

In The Netherlands Indies more than 42,000 acres are planted to cinchona trees. About 23,000,000 pounds of the bark are stripped annually

Quinine has other uses than in combatting malaria. It is a traditional cold and influenza remedy, and also finds its way into hair tonics, and into bitters for cooking and beverages including "tonic water."—Birmingham News.

Dies Says Axis Forces Will Attempt Land On Two Fronts

-o-

WASHINGTON.—Rep. Martin Dies (D.), Texas, declared that he has "information" which he believes to be "reliable" that Axis forces will attempt to land simultaneously on the United States east and west coasts in the next 12 months.

Dies said that the information had come to his committee on un-American activities from "conversations in pro-Nazi groups in this country" and from people recently returned from Germany.

This Will Save Your Tires, Your Car, And Maybe Your Neck

Limit your driving to "necessity' trips only; work out a plan with your neighbors for pooling auto rides to school, church, work and other nearby places.

Don't drive at speeds greater than 40 miles per hour; this rate helps to conserve tires, gasoline and the car in general.

Avoid sudden stops; this wastes rubber, brake lining and puts an undue strain on your motor vehicle.

Keep the car well oiled and greased; keep the transmission, differential and body parts lubricated; have your front wheel bearings packed with grease every 10,000 miles.

Don't race the engine under any circumstances.

Watch your generator to see that it does not over or under-charge your battery.

Check the battery, water and tires frequently; see that your cooling system is functioning properly.

"And most important of all," Mr. Frazer said, "give your car a mechanical checkup every month."

PAUL CORWIN GOES TO WAR PAPERS CONSOLIDATED

From the Northwest Alabamian:

Consolidation of The Fayette Northwest Alabamian and The Fayette Banner until the end of the war crisis was announced this week by Jay Thornton, new publisher of the papers.

The necessity for the conservation of labor, paper and other materials during the war is the reason the papers will be temporarily consolidated

After the end of the war, The Banner will be published on Tuesday and the Northwest Alabamian on Friday, according to present plans.

"I am convinced that Fayette deserves and will support two papers a week," said Thornton. "But at the present time, circumstances will prevent this arrangement. Of course, all of us hope that normal conditions will return at the earliest possible moment."

Until the end of the war, one paper a week will be published on Thursday as "The Northwest Alabamian and The Fayette Banner."

his accomplishments, and they love him.

The people are now engrossed in fighting the war. The election is nearly three months off, and a long campaign is not necessary. We are thankful that Colonel Graves is being certainly restored to complete good health and vigor for many more years of useful service to our people. If you could see him and talk with him, as I did last Saturday, you would have no doubt that he is well along on the road to recovery. In due season, Colonel Graves will personally open and conduct the campaign. For the present, let his friends relieve him of any strain, and carry the fight for him. The functioning of the democratic processes through local self government, which Colonel Graves has always advocated, provides the plan for his campaign organiaztion Let his friends in every county, community, and precinct in the State organize themselves into a fighting force to reelect Bibb Graves as our Governor. The order of the day, fellow Democrats, is forward! "Keep on keeping on"

Garden Seed To Be Distributed

MONTGOMERY.—Plans for putting 43,000 low-income farm families of four Southeastern states on a completely self-sufficient basis as to food production call for the distribution of 350 tons of garden seed, the Farm Security Administration said.

A 12-month garden of at least one acre will be asked of the program families living in Alabama Georgia, South Carolina and Florida. The plans were described by FSA state directors stores are 18,000 packages of garden who are meeting here.

To be purchased through local seed in Georgia, 15,000 packages in Alabama, 8,000 packages in South Carolina and 2,000 packages in Florida.

The directors said the total investment will not exceed $250,000 because the purchases are made by group action, usually through county associations in large orders.

The program includes 40 varieties of vegetables, and in each area at least seven varieties are featured.

In addition to the garden program, the FSA announced it will instruct farm families in proper preparation and preservation of foodstuffs. The plan calls for a goal of 100 quarts of vegetables for each member of a farm family.

8,000 Additional Acres Of Peanuts Is Countys Goal For This Season

Peanut oil has been declared a vital food element and increased production is essential to help in winning this war. Chilton County's part is to produce not less than 8,000 acres of peanuts in 1942 for all purposes. This acreage is to be in addition to that acreage planted for "hogging off" and for the whole peanut trade.

At a meeting of the Chilton County USDA War Board last week it was decided that it would take at least five acres of peanuts for each plow operated this year to reach this goal. This means that every farmer in Chilton County is being asked to produce not less than five acres of peanuts to each plow.

The reason for this needed acreage of peanuts for oil is due to the threatened shortage of vegetable oils in this country. Before December 7, we imported about 2,000,000,000 pounds of vegetable oils from the Philippine Islands and other places in that part of the world. This supply has been cut off now. This vegetable oil was used mainly in making soaps and in cooking oils. Since both soap and cooking oils are essential to our health and welfare, this oil must be produced on American farms.

There are three main sources of vegetable oils produced in this country. These are the oils produced from peanuts, dottonseed and soybeans. Since a ton of peanuts will produce almost twice as much oil as either cottonseed or soybeans, they will be of major importance in producing this needed quantity of oil Since soybeans for oil are not practical for Chilton County, our contribution will be in peanuts and cottonseed. Since cotton fiber is not needed at this time in the war effort, major emphasis will be put on peanuts.

Growing peanuts will not only help win this war but will give another cash crop for the Chilton County farmers. Each farmer is asked to plant the maximum acreage possible this year regardless of acreage allotments. No allotment is needed for producing peanuts for oil. A very satisfactory price floor has already been announced. Farmers are guaranteed to receive not les sthan $78 per ton for U. S. No. 1 runner peanuts and $82.00 per ton for U. S. No. 1 Spanish peanuts.

These prices are minimum prices. It is not often that we are guaranteed a very satisfactory price for a crop before the crop is even planted.

The other two major problems for Chilton County farmers in producing peanuts are a satisfactory source of seed and possibility of getting mechanical pickers. The seed supply problems has been solved. Steps were taken to begin bringing in a supply of good peanut seed early this week. These seed may be obtained by any Chilton County farmer desiring to plant peanuts for oil purposes.

The Secretary of Agriculture has announced that pickers will be available in sufficient numbers to pick the peanuts. One picker can satisfactorily pick from 500 to 800 acres of peanuts provided they are not too scattered. It is suggested that farmers plant as many peanuts as possible and then try to get some one in their community to get a picker.

Runner peanuts should be planted in early planting time for best success. They should be planted in 3 feet rows and 6 and 8 inches in the drill. This will require about 30 to 35 pounds of shelled peanuts per acre.

Spanish peanuts may be planted later than runners. They should be planted in two feet rows and 3 to 4 inches in the drill. This will require from 60 to 75 pounds of shelled peanuts per acre.

The above spacing are essential to good yields of peanuts. In past years Chilton County farmers have had a tendency to plant peanuts too thin for best yields.

Peanut fertilizer requirements are very simple. When planted on land that has received a heavy application of a complete fertilizer within the last 3 years, peanuts need no fertilizer.—A heavy fertilizer application is about 600 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer peracre or its equivalent. If needed, peanuts should be fertilized with 200 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate and 50 pounds of potash or 400 lbs. og basic slag and 50 pounds of potash per acre.

Peanuts should be shelled by hand. This means that farmers should obtain seed at once. This is true of both runners and Spanish. It is not recommended that peanuts be planted in the shell under any conditions.

Land that is to be planted in peanuts should be flat broken deep now. If a disk harrow is available, the land should be harrowed completely so as to make an excelient seed bed. After planting, peanuts should be cultivated fast so as to keep out grass.

Planting five acres of peanuts per plow is one of the many things Chilton County farmers will be asked to do to help win this war. Our boys in the armed forces must have everything possible for their health and comfort. Our government is asking us to do this as one thing we can do to help them to do our part. This job can be done when we all make up our minds that it will be done. The important thing is for each one to do his part by planting his share of this county's peanut goal. This is not only a good way to help during the emergency but is also an excellent way to increase the farm income.

"Beer is an Economic Factor In Alabama's Life"

—says Chamber of Commerce President

"I WISH to commend the beer industry on its voluntary program of self-regulation," says W. A. Steadman, president of the progressive Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

"I understand that the brewing industry in Alabama pays State and Federal taxes exceeding $2,788,000 annually," Mr. Steadman added, "and gives employment to more than 8,200 people who receive annual wages exceeding $6,100,000. This is certainly an economic factor in Alabama's life."

You, the public, can help preserve these benefits for Alabama by patronizing only reputable, law-abiding retail beer outlets.

JOE N. POOLE

Poole A Candidate For Commissioner Of Agriculture

Butler County Senator Accedes To Wishes of Friends Throughout State

Joe N. Poole has decided to make the race for Commissioner of Agriculture, and has qualified.

Mr. Poole's whole background for several generations has been that of the farm. He graduated from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn in 1913 in Agriculture and since he was 19 years old has successfully operated a large farm which he has made into one of the most productive and successful in Alabama. He was born and reared on a farm and still resides there.

The problems of the farmers are ever his problems, and they are problems that he has successfully met for the population of 235 white and colored people on his place. Not one of them has ever been on relief. He has produced cotton as a money crop through the years, but with a diversified agricultural economy that has proven successful beyond any question.

He is one of the outstanding business men of his section of the State, and one of the most successful farmers in Alabama.

He was elected to the Legislature from Butler County in 1923, and since that time has served four terms in the House and is now a member of the State Senate from the 17th Senatorial District.

During his first term he was an active sponsor of the law which placed a tax of 2c per gallon on gasoline and gave this sum to the counties for road construction and maintenance. In his second term he was chairman of the Committee on Public Roads and Highways, and author of the present Highway Code. He was an active member, also, of the Committee on Agriculture and was active in the Codifying of the agricultural laws of the State.

Senator Poole introduced and actively supported the laws making possible the establishment of the Rural Electrification Administration in Alabama, thus giving to thousands of farm families the benefits of electricity. All through his career he has worked for the betterment of agriculture and those who live by it.

He is proud to have introduced the constitutional amendment which set up the present Pardon and Parole Board. one of the most humane and far-reaching acts of the Legislature.

Senator Poole is an active member of the Alabama Farm Bureau. He was the 159th man in the State to join this organization. He was a delegate to Washington in 1933 when the United States first pegged the price of cotton at 10c a pound.

Senator Poole's affability and friendliness have given him a wide acquaintanceship, and during the present session of the Legislature he occupied the office of President pro tem of the Senate, which has given him a more close affiliation with the affairs of the State.

U. S. World Power Number One

Today, the United States of America stands at the head of all other nations, as World Power Number One.

Our responsibility as a nation has increased beyond compare during the past few months.

Facts are stubborn things, and the people of the United States are face to face with the fact today, that the preservation of civilization, and of all the finer, nobler things enjoyed by the human race during the past thousands of years, depends upon us—not just a few of us—but ALL OF US.

That we will face this responsibility, there is never a doubt.

The rugged individuality that made this great nation what it is, did not use much "white-wash"—which is but a puny alibi for lack of accomplishments.

The United States of America is filled with great minds, great characters, great doers, great courage, great physical endurance, great resources, great wealth.

And, above all great faith in God, humanity, and our own ability to measure up to the full responsibility which is now upon us.

Firm in that faith we shall go forward and conquer the mighty forces of evil which are now overruning the earth.

Greed for power and pelf has brought this great calamity on the world.

The love of freedom, fair play, and equal justice to all men, will aid us not only in retrieving that which has been lost, but will spur us on in our determination to build a better world for all men, everywhere.

By comparing 8-ft. truck to broad roadway, width of the road is realized. This will be a four-lane highway, with two 22-ft. lanes divided by an 8 to 20-ft. parkway, according to contour. The roadway from shoulder to shoulder will be 68 to 82 feet wide. Part of the roadway is under construction and will likely be opened to use by Summer, or as soon as a creek bridge is completed. However, some portions of the programmed project await deeds for rights-of-way. Another stretch of roadway, 12½ miles, traversing some mountainous terrain, is now in progress between Oneonta and Blountsville, Blount County. This road will be 34 feet wide, from shoulder to shoulder, with 22-ft paving. (Photo by Albert Kraus, State Highway Department.)

Letters To The Editor

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Cohen Stapp
Mayor of Clanton
Dear Cohen:

It gives me great pleasure to read the good article of news boosting Clanton for the first "blackout."

You and the citizens of Clanton are to be congratulated. I think that a man can get a great deal of encouragement and cheer from good news from home, but I believe that about the most appreiative news I have read since the declaration of war was the news of the fact that Clanton was the first city in the State of Alabama to stage a complete "blackout."

This is appreciated more due to the fact that I know there is little if any, reason for fear of air raid in Clanton, due to the location. It is the civic minded spirit of cooperation of the people that counts. This spirit of the united efforts pooled for a great cause. It is the knowledge of this kind of backing that makes men on the battle front fight to the last ounce of energy that is left in their bodies. Men with this kind of backing can't and won't be deefated.

I am proud to claim as my home a city with this type of leadership and civic minded citizens. May your every effort to aid in the destruction of Hitler and his War Mongers meet with the same success. I say again congratulations.

With very best personal wishes to you and yours, I am,

Sincerely yours,
T. H. (Horton) WALKER.

A Message of Vital Importance

To All

BUYERS OF PRINTING..

Business-as-usual for producers and buyers of printing is definitely a thing of the past. Paper, which has risen in price, isn't always easy to get. Metals for type and printing plates are on the priority lists. Most of the plants which manufacture printing machinery are now playing a vital part in the production of armaments. Many a good compositor or pressman has a new job at $21 a month (with the army.)

It isn't always possible for printing service ---particularly time schedules--- to be what they used to be. The cost of finished work has risen---but not out of proportion to the vastly increased value of the power of the printed word to sell, explain, or educate in these days of emergency.

We won't know whether prices are going to be frozen at existing levels or go higher. It seems certain that printing won't be any cheaper tomorrow than it is today.

We don't know what further restrictions may be imposed on printing supplies. It also seems certain that good printing won't be more easily or more quickly obtainable tomorrow than it is today.

We believe---and state in a spirit of service rather than salesmanship---that it would be a good thing for every user of printing to check his inventory of printed business helps today, and place his order now to avoid shortages tomorrow.

You can hardly expect 24-hour service on your printing orders under present conditions. Of course there are a lot of items that we can deliver at once but play safe, give us your next order before you are entirely out of your present stock.

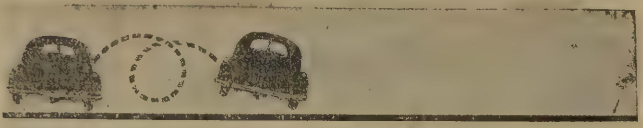
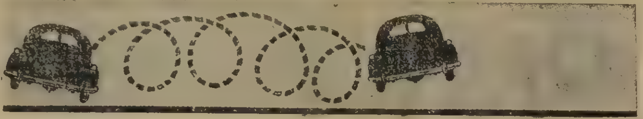
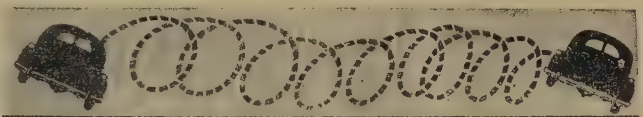
Rolling Along And Rolling Over



AT 25 MILES an hour, a moving car has developed about enough energy to roll over ONCE. Your body could probably "take" this.



AT 50, it has developed not twice, but FOUR TIMES THE ENERGY—enough to roll over FOUR TIMES. You'd have to be LUCKY to come out of this one ALIVE.



AT 75 MILES PER HOUR, it has developed not three times, but NINE TIMES THE ENERGY—enough to ROLL OVER NINE TIMES. Of course, it would probably hit a tree or culvert long before it did its NINTH SOMERSAULT, and then the unused portion of the energy would be spent in ripping the culvert, the car and its contents to pieces. —Caution: Drive carefully, safely!—The State Department of Public Safety (Major James F. Brawner, director) and this newspaper would rejoice in seeing Alabama accident tolls greatly reduced in 1942. More than 700 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in Alabama during 1941. VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE TEACHERS ALL OUT FOR "FOOD FOR VICTORY"

The teachers of vocational agriculture from Chilton County have further adjusted their programs to go on an all out war basis to help meet the war needs of the nation.

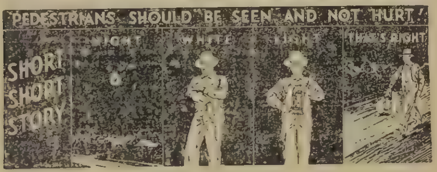
Definite plans have been made for extending their assistance to the farmers in producing and preserving a sufficient supply of food and feed for the United States and her allies. Special emphasis will be placed on meeting the U. S. D. A. "Food for Victory" production goals.

Plans were also made for stepping up their assistance to farmers in repairing, using and caring for farm equipment now on the farm so as to get the maximum use from it.

Emphasis will also be placed on plans to cooperate in all war efforts including collecting scrap iron, collecting rubber, the sale of war saving stamps and bonds and maintaining morale.

The following teachers of vocational agriculture in Chilton County cooperating in the effort are J. H. Camp, Isabella; H. H. Denson, Jemison; J. H. Jackson, Clanton; B. T. Whittington, County Training School.

The teachers of vocational agriculture are playing a part in this war program in which we are no engaged. They are giving farmers and farm boys special instruction in connection with our efforts to win the war. This instruction includes the objectives of the farm war program and the method by which the farmers can help reach these objectives.



SAFETY IN WALKING ALABAMA HIGHWAYS—The above illustration shows three essentials to safety in walking Alabama highways at night: (1) The pedestrian should wear as much white as possible on his outside garments, as white is more easily observed at night; (2) he should carry a lighted lantern, which is preferable to a blinking spot light; he should walk on the extreme left side of the road, facing oncoming traffic. With these precautions, he is reasonably safe.—The law requires all wagons or other animal-drawn vehicles to carry lights at night when traveling the highways.—Director James F. Brawner, of the State Department of Public Safety, warns all pedestrians, drivers of horse or ox-drawn conveyances, and all motor vehicle drivers against traveling the roads at night, unless they display proper lights and obey road regulations. No vehicles should ever be parked on the highways, and those on shoulders of roads should place required flares at prescribed distances. (Illustrations by courtesy National Safety Council.)

Farmers Repairing Farm Equipment

Students taking vocational agriculture and farmers of the Clanton community are busy repairing, sharpening, and getting their plows and equipment ready for use.

The facilities of the shop in the vocational agriculture department at Chilton County High School as well as the services of the teacher are being used in the campaign now in progress to get every plow and farm implement repaired and ready for service.

All farmers are urged to take inventory of their equipment and tools that need repairing or sharpening and get them in good condition before it is time to use them. Any farmer who does not have a shop available for repairing his equipment is urged to bring it to the vocational building and use the facilities of the school shop. The shop will be open to the farmers durin gthe day Tuesdays & Thursdays. If more time is needed to get the job done, the department can be open every day.

The vocational agriculture students are also repairing their farm equipment. Already they have brought to the shop plows, fertilizer distributors, wagons, planters and many other tools of great importance. After the equipment is repaired and cleaned most of the boys prefer to give it a new coat of paint to help its appearance and also to preserve it for longer wear. These boys realize that there will probably be a shortage of farm equipment during the next few years and it will be necessary for everybody to make their present equipment last as long as possible if we meet the "Food for Victory" production goals.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

Fear is the father of many a woe that comes to us along the way of life. Fear is the father of worry, the father of sorrow, and the father of much suffering. As human beings our fear centers around three things. We fear life, we feath death and we fear eternity. Life has so many problems, so many mysteries and so many disappointments. Life has so many burdens and so many crooks and turns. Death is something that we can not understand. It is so certain and so uncertain. It is so alone and so solemn, and it is so complete. No one has ever come back to tell us about it. Then we are afraid of eternity. It is so long and so mysterious. Our Christ had much to do with life and death and eternity and He said, "Fear not." Let us get away from fear and trust in God.

One night I was walking in the darkness and my little boy was walking by my side, holding tightly to my hand. I judged that he must be afraid, and I said to him, "Charlie, are you afraid in the dark?" I felt his little fingers tighten around my hand, as he replied, "No, Daddy, I am not afraid. I am never afraid when you are with me." That was food for thought. He was not afraid, for he was with his father. As we walk down the path of life, often it is dark and uncertain, but if we are walking with God, why should we be afraid? The darker and the rougher the road, the firmer grip we should have upon the Divine hand [illegible]d be not afraid.

In Pilgrim's Progress, we read of where a Christian met a man running down the hill, up which he was climbing, and as he passed him, Christian shouted to him, "Why sir, are you running back?" The man replied over his shoulder as he ran away, "Sir, up the way there are two big lions, one on each side of the road, and I am fleeing for my life." The courage of Christian would not let him turn and follow his frightened friend, and so he advanced up the hill with caution. Sure enough he found the two lions, one on each side of the road, but Christian saw that they were tied so that a traveler passing along in the center of the highway, could not be touched or harmed by them. To be sure there are many things along the way of life to frighten us, but these things are harmless if we will, "Keep in the middle of the road" and place our trust in God. In the midst of a storm on Galilee, the voice of Christ rang out, "It is I, be not afraid."

Well do I remember the days when my boyish immagination ran wild. Early one morning, just at the break of day, I was out after the cattle and just ahead I saw what I thought to be a red fox clinging to the trunk of a small tree. I was very much afraid and ran back to the house and called my brothers to hurry with a gun. On reaching he spot where I had seen the wild beast clinging to the oak, there was the same object, swinging to and fro, but what I had seen was not a fox, but a cluster of pine needels on a fallen limb. My brothers laughed me to shame. I was very much frightened, but it was nothing but my imagination that frightened me. Often is it true that our immaginary fears are more abundant than our real fears. A curbed immagination will reduce the red fox to nothing but a pine limb.

After all, there are some things of which we should be afraid. Our world is a hard task master. We should be afraid to break the laws of nature. To step from the roof of a building and break the law of gravitation, should frighten us. We should be afraid to break laws of health. To drink and gulp down our food and to refuse the right kind of exercise, will surely break the body. We should be afraid to break the laws of our country. Those laws are for our well being as a part of a united citizenship, and to break them will merit to be bound in chains. We should be afraid to break the laws of God. A man must be a simpleton who is not afraid to break the laws of God. Let the world call you a coward if it chooses to do so, but refuse to do wrong. As for me I am a coward when it comes to breaking the laws of God.

ROOSEVELT ASSAILS POLL TAX SYSTEM

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt condemned the levying of poll taxes as a practice that has prevented many poor people in the South from voting and said he has opposed such levies all his life.

He made the comment in saying he had proceeded on an erroneous premise when he said Tuesday that the Farm Security Administration should not pay poll taxes for indignent farmers.

He said today he had found on investigation that the FSA had not paid the poll taxes. He said that farmers seeking FSA loans had included poll taxes in their budget of necessary living expenses, and that the FSA had approved their inclusion in granting loans to cover deficits in the farmers' budgets. That Mr. Roosevelt said, is proper inasmuch as poll taxes are a legitimate liability.

The Japanese strategy now is ob- ous. From the Nippon homeland to ustralia, the Japanese art attempt- g to build an impregnable wall. Thus r they are succeeding. Military men now recognize the ossibility of the Japanese seizure of ustralia should the Japanese take e Dutch East Indies.

To build such a wall would prevent ur having bases in the Pacific War. awaii would come under attack. Our Vest Coast would be in danger. This the Japanese plan. It is complete- clear. A closely-knit military unit hich is Japan, though not having e resources we possess, has dealt a hard-to-take blow in the Pacific ar. Another objective of this wall is prevent future British and Ameri- aid to India and the Near East, and when, Japan unites with Ger- any to attempt conquest of that ter- itory.

American observers do not like the tuation. The loss of the key British ase of Singapore puts the Philippines such danger that the majority of ilitary experts believe the fall of our ch Pacific islands imminent. Fur- ermore, our naval experts fear that pan might be able to take Austra- a before we can get sufficient aid her. Should the gerat British ominion fall, the war would be a rolonged one for us to win. We ould have to start out to reconquer ll that we have lost. The effect on merican economic life would be ter- ific.

Do not underestimate the situation. ur national security is not threaten- d severely as yet, but our interna- onal military prestige is in grave anger. Thus far, we have not felt e real sting of losing so much in the - East. But we will feel it when e time comes to regain it.

Our past evil deeds are now begin- ing to stare us in the face, too. ur indifference to the labor-capital sputes in the past are rising up and reatening our entire defense effort. Ve slept while subversive elements ok over our system of employment. he Normandie incident recently rought that to light. It is claimed hat anyone could have obtained a job n the Normandie who had a union ard. A union card is not a guaran- ee that the worker is not a fifth col- mnist or saboteur. Consequently or ot, the Normandie caught fire, either ccidentally or was set on fire, and e loss to the United States is irre- rable. It is unjust to blame the ss on labor policy entirely; it is un- ir to do so; but the situation war- ants a demand on the part of the tire American people for an investi- n of the Normandie, or U. S. S. ayette, affair.

All our domestic policies and all our oreign policies have a part in the inning of this war. All our efforts ust be directed toward winning this truggle.

We forget when we read the pages history that the great American ictories required sacrifice, toil and ears. If this is to be another great merican victory—it can well be the very greatest—we must decide to get down to work, now.

We have a great task at home and abroad to do. We cannot do the work abroad successfully unless we do the work at home successfully. And to realize what must be changed at home, what investigations must be carried on, and what sacrifices must be made, we must first wake up to the facts. It's been good to sleep. Now it's time for work. After our nice long rest, we should be able to put our all into the task that faces us. Not only we should be able but we must.

NFA VICTORY GARDENS

Victory gardens have been and are being discussed and planned with the Chilton County Training School NFA chapter, and Evening school members. Each member in each of the above groups will do his and her part in increasing the food supply and in meeting the U. S. D. A. production goals.

To be able to meet this request of our National, State and local governments we must check and put in readiness all farm tools and implements that are needed on our farms this year. There are, perhaps, plenty of discarded farm tools and implements that can be repaired, parts, on others that are beyond repair, can be used to repair other farm machinery, etc. Let us do our part. What is our part? Our part is the production of more food and feed than ever before in the history of the American farmer. Our part is to see that our farm tools and implements are repaired, sharpened, and painted if necessary before the time comes for putting this or those tools into use. It is our duty to care for and put our tools and implements into proper condition that they will not depreciate as in previous years. The shop here at the County Training School is open to all farmers on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. More time will be allowed for the work if more time is needed to get the job done to Defeat the enemy.

There are some repairs being made in the shop but I am sure that much more could be done if the repair work is brought in. It is necessary that all farmers place their orders for repair parts and tools needed at an early date, because time lost now will mean that useful labor is lost. Let us keep our forces going forward by furnishing the necessary food. Remember that the food problem is the KEY with which the American farmer can turn the lock on "Old Man" hunger and drive him from the ranks of the Stalwart American soldier who is so bravely defending the American soil. The NFA boys are planning to work with teachers in rural schools in setting up and producing Victory Gardens.

When we analyze the story drawn from Secretary Wickard's survey of the British situation relative to the food problem, it will arouse our patriotic sense of duty to the extent that no stone will be left unturned towards our Victory Campaign. Above all let us do our part.

By B. T. Whittington, Voc.-Agri. Teacher, Chilton County Training School.

I SOLDIER COSTS U. S. $404.65 FIRST YEAR

WASHINGTON. — If you're wondering what Uncle Sam is going to do with all the money he gets from taxes, maybe this will give you an idea.

To outfit just one soldier requires the wool of 20 sheep, the leather of one steer hide, the cotton from half an acre of farmland and the fur of innumerable rabbits.

It costs $404.65 to feed; equip and maintain the average enlisted man during his first year—not counting his weapons, pay and ammunition.

These figures were released this week by the army's quartermaster.

Army Area Dealer Obeys Beer Laws

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 18. — (Special)—Early reports from a survey of retail beer outlets around Army Camps and defense projects in Alabama show that the great majority of retailers are coopearting 100 per cent with the ABC Board and the Alabama beer industry's "Clean Up or Close Up" campaign.

David E. Dunn, director of the Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee, made the report today to Birmingham wholesale beer dealers who comprise District 3 of the Committee's statewide organization.

"We are conferring with the Commanding Officers and Military Police at Alabama's seven Army camps and Flying Fields and offering our cooperation," Mr. Dunn said, "and I am happy to report that our conferences thus far have shown that conditions at retail outlets are good.

"At these conferences, we compared our own field reports with those of their Military Police and sent warnings immediately to the scattered few outlets which were violating civil or military regulations.

"A recheck will be made at these outlets within the next 30 days and those who have failed to heed our warnings will be cited to the ABC Board for punitive action.

"Almost without exception, however, officials at the Army camps have reported that they have had little or no trouble at retail beer outlets, and that they have found retailers cooperative in every way."

Mr. Dunn said that the statewide survey also included retail outlets around the big defense projects now underway in Alabama, and at special emphasis would be placed on these congested areas.

Despite the Emergency which our country faces, a few days ago, the members of Congress, by unanimous consent voted themselves a liberal pension for life. The record shows that your present Congressman, the Hon. Pete Jarman, made no effort to defeat this unwise legislation but actually consented to its passage. Surely the people of the Sixth Congressional District are entitled to a less selfish and more patriotic representation by their Congressman.

STATE ISSUES PROCLAMATION ON INFANTILE PARALYSIS

—o—

Last Summer Chilton County reported eleven cases of infantile paralysis during the period when Alabama experienced the most serious epidemic of this disease in its history. The Health Department is gratified to be able to say that not one of these eleven children will be seriously crippled as a result of this disease. We feel that we owe a great debt to the Crippled Children's Service for their prompt help to the physicians of the County and the Health Department in providing orthopedic care and appliances for these children. We know that without such assistance our results could not have been so fortunate. The case of one of our children will illustrate the type of service given by this organiaztion.

On September 12 a little girl of two years was taken sick. Her physician suspected that she had infantile paralysis and she was sent home to stay in bed. On September 14th, there seemed to be some weakness of her back muscles, and soreness was present in both arms and legs. Treatment was started at once and the State Crippled Children Service was notified. The next day we received splints and a frame for this child so that the weakened muscles could be protected. The Service also sent an orthopedic nurse to instruct the mother about the care of the little child. When the disease had developed fully, the child had some paralysis of both legs, both arms, and adominal and back muscles. On October 9, due to a serious injury of a member of the family, it was not possible for this little girl to receive at home the constant care she needed. The Crippled Children Service again helped by admitting her to their fine hospital in Birmingham, where she remained for four weeks. By this time, November 9, she had recovered the use of both legs and one arm. Th other arm was improving. The child has returned regularly to the clinic at Birmingham where her mother has been instructed regarding her care. Although she still wears a corset for support at the present time, on her last visit to the clinic she was found to have recovered the use of all her muscles nearly to 100 per cent of normal. We feel sure that within a few month even the most careful examinatio will fail to detect that this little gi ever had infantile paralysis. He parents of course join us in our thank to the Crippled Children Service fo the splendid work they did for thi child and for the other children sim ilarly afflicted.

TOT SURVIVES SINKING DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Birmingham, Ala. — Blond Little Ann O'Neal, age 3, survived the sinking of the steamship Zamzam last June by a German raider but succumbed to pneumonia here last night.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul O'Neal of Dallas, Texas, she was rescued then by her father, who heard her feeble cries as she attempted to swim without a life jacket.

She was stricken while on her way to Birmingham with her mother to visit relatives.

It will be remembered by Clanton people that Rev. Paul O'Neal filled in at Clanton Baptist church in August, 1940, in the absence of the pastor. He was educated to be a medical missionary. Rev. and Mrs. Oscar A. Davis attended the funeral in Birmingham Sunday afternoon.

Large Fund For Unemployed Workers

Alabama had $26,403,061 in its unemployment trust fund at the end of January and it will be available for payment to eligible unemployed workers in the future. This announcement was made today by Judge John D. Petree, Director of Industrial Relations, who released statistics showing benefit payments during the past year.

Expansion of business and the resulting employment of large numbers of persons at full-time work in 1941 made a reduction of $1,596,995 in benefit payments compared with the preceding year. In 1940 the Unemployment Compensation Agency paid $4,776,653 in benefits compared with $3,179,657 in 1941. Of the total payments last year, $43,117 went to coal miners who were unemployed during the mine holiday in 1939 and were held to be eligible for benefits by the courts. Of course, the amount paid to coal miners was properly chargeable to 1939 operations.

ALABAMA WEEKLY WEATHER AND CROP REPORT

The temperature of the week averaged somewhat below normal but there was no extremely cold weather in any portion of the State. Although no rain fell until the close of the week, the heavy precipitation of a week ago made the soil too wet to work. This inconvenience is compensated in some measure by needed storage of moisture in the soil.

Farm work made very little advance during the past week due to the rains of the last two days of the previous week. Considerable plowing, however, had been done earlier in the southern part of the State and the planting of early irish potatoes is well advanced in Baldwin and Mobile Counties.

The condition of oats, while held back to some extent by the cold weather, is reported satisfactorily. Growth is slow but a good root system has been developed and with the advent of warmer weather, they should make good progress. Cover crops are reported fair. Plants are generally small but are in a healthy condition.

Livestock are in fair to good condition throughout the State. Grass is beginning to make a little growth in central and southern Alabama and within a few more weeks should afford considerable grazing.

To Limit School Bus Transportation

National and State educational authorities have asked local school authorities to cooperate in conserving vital and necessary war materials by limiting the use of school buses to transporting children to and from schools. Officials point out that the government may refuse to allow county boards of education priority in obtaining tires and repair parts where buses are used for other purposes.

Because of this request superintendent Rascoe Maddox states that the Chilton County schools will continue their policy of restricting the use of buses to transporting school children.

Children Asked Make Model Airplanes

The schools of Chilton County have been asked by the Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox, to make 150 model airplanes for the use of the United States Army and Navy, according to Rascoe Maddox, County Superintendent of Education.

The specific purpose of the project is to provide the Army and Navy a large number of model planes to scale which can be used in training air and ground personnel in recognition, rage estimation, and determination of "Cones and fire." There are about fifty different models, ranging in size from five inches to twenty-four inches in wing spread. High School children in Chilton County are asked to make three sets of fifty planes each.

Fred Buckelew of Clanton has been asked to act as local director of the model aircraft project. Plans and specifications will be furnished by the Navy.

Construction materials will be soft woods, glue and paint and will be supplied locally. Boys and girls who wish to serve the cause of national defense by building these models should speak to their local manual arts teacher or principal immediately.

Bibb Graves Taking On Sun Tan And Florida Vitamins

Col. Col. Rives had this to say:

"I have just returned from meeting Col. Graves and Mrs. Graves and spending most of the day with them at a little cottage near Daytona, Fla. War Reminiscences

"With his lifelong military experience, he is naturally intensely interested in the progress of the war and spent a good part of the time discussing it. It is in talking about the war that we realize the strength of his determination, his tenacity of purpose, and the meaning to him of his personal motto, 'Keep on keeping on.'

"As to the gubernatorial campaign, I reassured him that he could take the time to get thoroughly well and sunburned, that his loyal friends in every county in the State were not only holding fast, but were adding to the numbers of his supporters, and that his record of constructive service was so well known and appreciated that an early opening of his speaking campaign and announcement of a formal platform were not necessary.

"He spent most of the time either walking about with me, or going over the lists of his friends from all over the State who have called or written assuring him of their support and urging that he take time to regain his full strength and vigor before opening an active campaign. He is most grateful to those friends and supporters and asked me to express to them his heartfelt thanks. He hopes to see them all in person when he returns shortly to Montgomery, where he will make his opening address."

TEXT OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS TO THE NATION ON THE STATE OF THE WAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The text President Roosevelt's address del-ered on the night of Feb. 23 from e White House follows:

Washington's birthday is a most ppropriate occasion for us to talk th each other about things as they e today and things as we know they all be in the future.

For eight years, General Washing-n and his Continental Army were ced continually with formidable ds and recurring defeats. Supplies d equipment were lacking. In a se every Winter was a Valley rge. Throughout the 13 states there isted fifth columnists—selfish men lous men, fearful men, who pro-imed that Washington's cause was peless, that he should ask for a ne-tiated peace.

Washington's conduct in those hard [illegible] has provided the model for all ricans ever since — a model of amina. He held to his course, as it d been chartered in the Declaration Independence. He and the brave en who served with him knew that man's life or fortune was secure, ithout freedom and free institutions.

The present great struggle has tau-t us increasingly that freedom of rson and security of property any-here in the world depend upon the curity of the rights and obligations liberty and justice everywhere in world.

A New Kind of War

This war is a new kind of war. It different from all other wars of past, not only in its methods and apons but also in its geography. It warfare in terms of every continent, every island, every sea, every airline in the world.

That is the reason why I have asked you to take out and spread before you the map of the whole earth, and to follow with me the references which I shall make to the world-encircling battle lines of this war. Many questions will, I fear, remain unanswered; but I know you will realize I cannot cover everything in any one report to the people.

The broad oceans which have been heralded in the past as our protection from attack have become endless battlefields on which we are constantly being challenged by our enemies.

We must all understand and face the hard fact that our job now is to fight at distances which extend all the way around the globe.

We fight at these vast distances because that is where our enemies are. Until our flow of supplies gives us clear superiority we must keep on striking our enemies wherever and whenever we can meet them, even if, for a while, we have to yield ground. Actually we are taking a heavy toll of the enemy every day that goes by.

We must fight at these vast distances to protect our supply lines and our lines of communication with our allies—protect these lines from the enemies who are bending every ounce of their strength, striving against time to cut them. The object of the Nazis and the Japanese is to separate the United States, Britain, China and Russia, and to isolate them one from another, so that each will be surrounded and cut off from sources of supplies and reinforcements. It is the old familiar Axis policy of "divide and conquer."

Can't Bring Fleet Home

There are those who still think in terms of the days of sailing ships. They advise us to pull our war ships and our planes and our merchant ships to our home waters and concentrate solely on last ditch defense. But let me illustrate what would happen if we followed such foolish advice.

Look at your map. Look at the vast area of China, with its millions of fighting men. Look at the vast area of Russia, with its powerful armies and proven military might. Look at the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand, the Dutch Indies, India, the Near East and the continent of Africa with their resources of raw materials and of peoples determined to America, South America, and Central resist Axis domination. Look at North America.

It is obvious what would happen if were cut off from each other either all these great reservoirs of power by enemy action or by self-imposed isolation.

1. We could no longer send aid of any kind to China—to the brave people who, for nearly five years have withstood Japanese assault, destroyed hundreds of thousands of Japanese soldiers and vast quantities of Japanese war munitions. It is essential that we help China in her magnificent defense and in her inevitable counter offensive—for that is one important element in the ultimate deefat of Japan.

2. If we lost communication with the southwest Pacific, all of that area, including Australia and New Zealand, would fall under Japanese domination. Japan could then release great numbers of ships and men to launch attacks on a larger scale against the costs of the western hemisphere, including Alaska. At the same time, she could immediately extend her conquests to India and through the Indian Ocean to Africa and the Near East.

3.If we were to stop sending munitions to the British and the Russians in the Mediterranean and Persian gulf areas, we would help the Nazis to overrun Turkey, Syria, Iraq, Persia, Egypt and the Suez Canal, the whole coast of North Africa and the whole coast of West Africa—putting Germany within easy striking distance of South America.

4. If, by such a fatuous policy, we ceased to protect the North Atlantic supply line to Britain and to Russia, would help to cripple the splendid counter-offensive by Russia against the Nazis, and we would help to deprive Britain of essential food, supplies and munitions.

Those Americans who believed that we could live under the illusion of isolationism wanted the American Eagle to imitate the tactics of the ostrich. Now, many of those same people, afraid that we may be sticking our necks out, want our national bird to be turned into a turtle. But we prefer to retain the Eagle as it is—flying high and striking hard.

U. S. Won't Be a Turtle

I know that I speak for the mass of the American people when I say that we reject the turtle policy and will continue increasingly the policy of carrying the war to the enemy in distant lands and distant waters—as far as possible from our own home grounds.

There are four main lines of communication now being traveled by our ships: The North Atlantic, the South Atlantic, the Indian Ocean and the South Pacific. These routes are not one-way streets—for the ships which carry our troops and munitions outbound bring back essential raw materials which we require for our own use.

The maintenance of these lines is a very tough job. It is a job which requires tremendous daring, tremendous resourcefulness and above all, tremendous production of planes and tanks and guns and of the ships to carry them. And I speak again for the American people when I say that we can and will do that job.

The defense of the world-wide lines of communication demands relatively safe use by us of the sea and of the air along the various routes; and this, in turn, depends upon control of the United Nations of the strategic bases along these routes.

Problems of Air War

Control of the air involves the simultaneous use of two types of planes —first the long-range heavy bomber; and second, light bombers, dive bombers, torpedo planes, and short-range pursuit planes which are essential to the protection of the bases and of the bombers themselves.

Heavy bombers can fly under their own power from here to the southwest Pacific; but the smaller planes cannot. Therefore, these fighter planes have to be packed in crates and sent on board cargo ships. Look at your map again; and you will see that the route is long—and at many places perilous—either across the South Atlantic around South Africa, or from California to the East Indies direct. A vessel can make a round trip by either route in about four months or only three round trips in a whole year.

In spite of the length and difficulties of this transportation I can tell you that we already have a large number of bombers and pursuit planes manned by American pilots, which are now in daily contact with the enemy in the Southwest Pacific. And thousands of American troops are today in the area engaged in operations not only in the air but on the ground as well.

In this battle area, Japan has had an obvious initial advantage. For she could fly even her short-range planes to the points of attack by using many stepping stones open to her—bases in a multitude of Pacific islands and also bases on the China, Indo-China, Thailand and Malay coasts. Japanese troops could go south from Japan and China through the narrow China Sea

Rural Churches Have Chance Make Progress

Now that agriculture has a favorable advantage in the price structure of the defense program, rural churches have a great opportunity to undertake a progressive program, says Dr. T. A. Tripp, national rural life specialist.

"The greatest need of humanity after this war will be the prevention of a Third World War," he states. "The churches should join in a vigorous movement now to help provide leadership for the achievement of this objective. The churches can contribute to the future welfare of world society by pressing their effort to become one of the centers of a wide study of world organiaztion for a just and durable peace.

"The rural church must do everything possible to require a recognition of the economic and social issues of the rural world involved in a just and durable peace."

MILITARY BUDGET GIVEN IN HOUSEWIFE LANGUAGE

Boiled down to a four-letter word, the government's 35 billion dollar military budget can mean only one thing to housewives who do not usually think in terms of large figures — "save."

Outside of the fact that food, clothing, shelter and other household prices are rising, the rapidity of the shift from a peacetime or wartime way of living is hard to realize. This may be one reason why many folks are still going on hoping for the best but not making any adjustments in family living.

For the benefit of housewives who talk in terms of dollars and cents and not billions of dollars, the situation is like this: In 1941, for each $100 income in the nation, about $8 was spent for defense. In 1942 as much as $37 out of every $100 may be spent for defense.

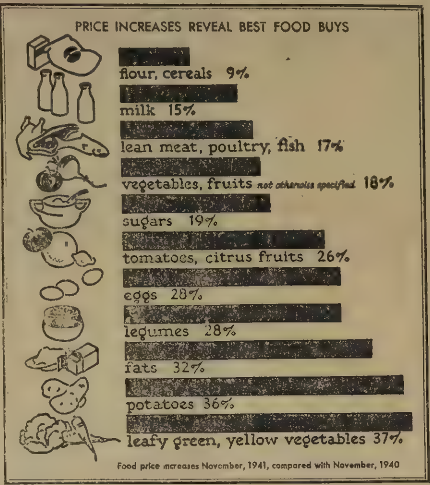
U. S. Diet Standards Studied



Food price increases November, 1941, compared with November, 1940

THE average price increase for a moderate cost adequate diet for a family of four, for one week, has increased 24 per cent in the past year, according to the National Dairy Council. The foods chosen were based on dietary standards set up by the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. The prices were from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Average price increases of each group of foods were computed from the latest retail prices in 51 cities compared to the same period of the previous year. The smallest price increase, 9 per cent, was for flour and cereals. Milk was the next smallest with an increase of only 15 per cent. The price increase for fats varied from 16 to 63 per cent with an average of 32 per cent. Among all fats butter with 16 per cent showed the lowest increase.

Farmers May Buy Salvage Property

The Salvage and Surplus Property Branch of the Army Quartermaster Corps is offering farmers an opportunity to purchase various surplus and salvage property at the Army Posts. This includes egg crates and various other food packages, but does not, at the present time, include burlap bags since the Army has other use for burlap bags that are in good condition.

The procedure followed at each Army Post is for the Salvage Officers to advertise for bids on the materials. In the case of used food packages, such as egg crates, bids are on a continuing basis, as so much per unit, and it is necessary for the buyer to remove the material at regular intervals, since the Post has very limited storage space.

BRIEF FARM NEWS

Alabama's allotted cotton acreage for 1942 totals 2,215,283 acres. In the nation the allotment is 26,598,00 acres.

To get their share of nitrate of soda, Alabama farmers are urged by the USDA to look to their regular sources of supply, the USDA says. Nitrate of soda is being alocated by the Government to manufacturers in ratio to shipments they received last season—though in reduced tonnages. This method of distributing nitrate of soda, so important to agriculture, is the fairest possible way under the circumstances.

Alabama farmers are advised that seed patches of winter legumes should be left this spring at turning time to provide more legume seed.

Liver contains a good supply of vitamin A., is rich in riboflavin, iron and phosphorus, and contains thiamin and nicotinic acid. Other foods which are valuable sources of nicotinic acid are lean beef, corned beef, chicken, and rabbit. Lesser amounts are found in milk, collards, kale, green peas, tomato juice, and turnip greens.

Tighten all bolts on farm machinery at regular intervals, advises J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer. Vibration, he points out, looosens them and causes more vibration. Heavy vibration will shear heavy parts. Tighten plow shares after use. If loose, they wear rapidly.

The Department of Commerce estimated production for military purposes will constitute approximately 53 per cent of total U. S. industrial output in 1942, compared with 21 per cent last year. In durable goods about 80 per cent of total production will go for war purposes.

Disorderly Conduct Of Registrants

Owing to the numerous complaints being received by the State Headquarters of the Selective Service System from bus transportation companies and from Army Examining Teams on account of the disorderly conduct of selectees being transported from the Local Boards to the Army Examining Station and return, and from the Local Boards to the Induction Stations, State Headquarters is asking all local boards in the state to remedy the situation at once.

"Selectees are civilians until they are actually inducted into the armed forces. Therefore, they are subject to the same laws, rules, and regulations of the bus companies as are other civilians," states the communication from the State Headquarters. Quoting further from this communication. "bus companies have been instructed that they are within their rights to discharge from a bus any selectee on account of drunkenness or disorderly conduct, just as they would do in the case of any other civilian passenger." It is further asserted that if a selectee is discharged from the bus en route to the Examining Station or the Induction Station that selectee will be under the burden to deliver himself to the designated destination at his own expense.

Local Boards have been requested to instruct their selectees, when reporting for induction or for the pre-induction physical examination, that they are to refrain from drinking whiskey, beer, or other intoxicating liquors while in route to or from those stations.

It is hoped by the members of the Local Boards that it will not be necessary to resort to drastic methods to obtain the proper and most desirable conduct of the registrants. It is with great reluctance that this matter is being called to the attention of the registrants.

Fire Heated Potato Beds: Early Plants

Fire heated sweet potato hotbeds will give plants two to three weeks earlier than when bedded without heat as is ordinarily done on the farm. This will give earlier potatoes for eating in summer. Also, vine cuttings from the patches set from draws can be had earlier to give a longer growing period and higher yields for the main crop.

Some growers use manure hotbeds for growing potato draws, but this is not generally advisable because of the danger of transmitting disease through the manure. Where manure is used at all precautions should be taken to see that it comes from mules and horses which have not eaten sweet potatoes and at least four inches of clean woods soil should be put over the manure and the potatoes bedded over that.

Plans for fire-heated beds may be obtained from your county agent or by writing the Department of Horticulture and Forestry at Auburn.

Isabella FFA Busy Checking Tools

Members of the Isabella FFA and farmers of the community are busily engaged in checking and repairing farm equipment which is so vitally needed in our Victory program.

All farmers not having access to a farm shop at home are urged to take their equipment needing repairs to the Isabella vocational agriculture shop, and put it in a good state of repair. The facilities of the shop can be used in the repair program as well as the services of the teacher of vocational agriculture. The shop will be open to farmers on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. It can be kept open every day if more time is needed for repair work.

NEW STANDARD OIL MAP AIDS MOTORING ECONOMY

"Save While You See the Sights" is a slogan that will appeal to American motorists, for saving is the order of the day—saving tires, saving gasoline, saving the car itself.

And one way to save is to get more out of each trip, to see more with less mileage. Visitors and residents in Georgia and Alabama will be able to do just that by carefully planning their trips in advance with the aid of the new 1942 road map of Georgia and Alabama just issued by the Standard Oil Company.

Most striking feature of this new map is the Pictorial Guide which appears for the first time. On it are depicted in full color more than 80 outstanding tourists attractions in these two States.

Motorists may obtain this map free of charge from Standard Oil Service Stations and Dealers throughout Georgia and Alabama.

The WPB ordered all radio manufacturers to convert their facilities to war production within four months.

FFA Cooperate In Garden Planting

Realizing that plenty of good home grown vegetables will play an important part in winning this war all members of the Isabella FFA recently decided to conduct Victory Gardens as part of their project program in vocational agriculture.

Each FFA member will help improve his home garden by proper planning, planting, fertilizing, cultivating and controlling insects and diseases.

Proper gardening methods are studied at school in the classroom and in the field. An all-year round garden is planned and cared for by the students in their laboratory area as part of this regular routine.

TO MY FRIENDS and CONSTITUENTS

PETE JARMAN

I base my desire to continue serving you during this critical period in the House of Representatives, where seniority is more valuable than anywhere else in the world, on my record and background of service, both prior to and since you honored me with a seat in Congress six years ago. I naturally refer to what my record really is, not what my critics and saboteurs say it is.

I invite my opponents to explain their reasons for believing that our District and our Nation would profit by the substitution of a freshman's natural inexperience for the experience, seniority and contacts your kindness has enabled me to obtain.

Space is not available to analyze this record but those of you who have dealt with your Congressman, as well as all citizens of our District who are both studious and fair minded, are familiar with it. While there is naturally occasional difference of opinion among thinking people, I am confident that all such people will share the pride I naturally and humbly feel in it. Furthermore, you are not now interested in such an analysis, just as you are not interested in political strife, or in a congressional campaign; just as you feel that your Congressman should not be disturbed in the performance of his urgently important duties by opposition at this most critical period in our history.

Instead, you and I would have preferred that I be permitted to continue to devote every hour of each day to the performance of these duties, rather than be required to divide these hours between this endeavor and the requirements of a campaign. This is true because of your natural knowledge of the great need for experienced, efficient, maximum representation in the Congress now, during this month and next year, rather than five years hence, when we all hope the ravages of war will have passed into history. Yes, you wish representation which can influence the situation during the war.

Because of the natural necessity for a ranking member of the Foreign Affairs Committee to be almost constantly at his post of duty at such a hazardous time, it will, of course, be impossible for me to spend as much time in the District and campaign as constantly as I would otherwise greatly enjoy doing. Therefore, it will be necessary for me to lean much more heavily on my friends, as well as on all patriotic citizens of the District who appreciate the situation whether they be my particular friends or not, than I have done heretofore. I hope and believe that I shall not be disappointed in your reaction.

In soliciting not only the vote, but the whole-hearted active support and interest of every person in the 6th District who wishes skilled and equal representation in Congress, I pledge to continue representing each of you, poor as well as rich, lowly as well as high, to the best of my ability, and to remain worthy of your confidence by continuing a record in the National Law Making Body to which you and I may ever point with pride.

May I sincerely thank each of you from the bottom of a very appreciative heart; a heart which knows not forgetfulness, and is at the moment thoroughly and completely absorbed in contributing its bit toward solving the terrific problem which confronts the country we love at this perilous hour.

which can be protected by Japanese planes throughout its whole length.

I ask you to look at your maps again, particularly at that portion of the Pacific Ocean lying west of Hawaii Before this war even started, the Philippine Islands were already surrounded on three sides by Japanese power. On the west, the Japanese were in possession of the coast of China and the coast of Indo-China which had been yielded to them by the Vichy French. On the north, are the islands of Japan themselves, reaching down almost to northern Luzon. On the east, are the mandated islands—which Japan had occupied exclusively, and had fortified in absoulte violation of her written word.

These islands, hundreds of them, appear only as small dots on most maps. But they cover large strategic area. Guam lies in the middle of them—a lone outpost which we never fortified.

Under the Washington treaty of 1912 we had solemnly agreed not to add to the fortification of the Philippine Islands. We had no safe naval base there, so we could not use the islands for extensive naval operations.

Immediately after this war started, the Japanese forces moved down on either side of the Philippines to numerous points south of them—thereby completely encircling the islands from North. South, East and West.

Why Not Rescue MacArthur?

It is that complete encirclement, with control of the air by Japanese land-based aircraft, which has prevented us from sending substantial reinforcements of men and material to the gallant defenders of the Philippines For 40 years it has always been our strategy—a strategy born of necessity—that in the event of a full-scale attack on the islands by Japan, we should fight a delaying action, attempting to retire slowly into Bataan Peninsula and Corregidor.

We knew that the war as a whole would have to be fought and won by a process of attrition against Japan itself We knew all along that, with our greater resources, we could outbuild Japan and ultimately overwhelm her on sea, on land and in the air. We knew that, to obtain our objective, many varieties of operations would be necessary in areas other than the Philippines.

Nothing that has occurred in the past two months has caused us to revise this basic strategy—except that the defense put up by Gen. MacArthur has magnificently exceeded the previous estimates; and he and his men are gaining eternal glory therefrom.

MacArthur's army of Filipinos and Americans, and the forces of the Unit Nations in China, in Burma and The Netherlands East Indies, are all together fulfilling the same essential task. They are making Japan pay an increasingly terrible price for her ambitious attempts to seize control of the whole Asiatic world. Every Japanese transport sunk off Java is one less transport that they can use to carry reinforcements to their army opposing Gen. MacArthur in Luzon.

Pearl Harbor Not So Important

It has been said that Japanese gains in the Philippines were made possible only by the success of their surprise attack on Pearl Harbor. I tell you that this is not so.

Even if the attack had not been made, your map will show that it would have been a hopeless operation for us to send the fleet to the Philippines through thousands of miles of ocean, while all those island bases were under the sole control of the Japanese.

The consequences of the attack on Pearl Harbor—serious as they were—have been widely exaggerated in other ways. These exaggerations come originally from Axis propagandists; but they have been repeated, I regret to say, by Americans in and out of public life.

You and I have the utmost contempt for Americans who, since Pearl Harbor, have whispered or announced "off the record" that there was no longer any Pacific fleet—that the fleet was all sunk or destroyed on December 7th—that more than 1,000 of our planes were destroyed on the ground. They have suggested slyly that the government has withheld the truth about casualties—that eleven of twelve thousand men were killed at Pearl Harbor instead of the figures as officially announced. They have even served the enemy propagandists by spreading the incredible story that shiploads of bodies of our honored American dead were about to arrive in New York Harbor to be put in a common garve.

Rumors of Losses Help Axis

Almost every Axis broadcast directly quotes Americans who, by speech or in the press, make damnable misstatements such as these.

The American people realize that in many cases details of military operations cannot be disclosed until we are absolutely certain that the announcement will not give the enemy military information which he does not already possess.

Your government has unmistabable confidence in your ability to hear the worst, without flinching or losing heart. You must, in turn, have complete confidence that your government is keeping nothing from you except information that will help the enemy in his attempt to destroy us. In a democracy there is always a solemn pact of truth between government and the people; but there must also always be a full use of discretion—and that word "discretion" applies to the critics of government as well.

This is war. The American people want to know, and will be told, the general trend of how the war is going. But they do not wish to help the enemy any more than our fighting forces do; and they will pay little attention to the rumor-mongers and poison peddlers in our midst.

To pass from the realm of rumor and poison to the field of facts: The number of our officers and men killed in the attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7 was 2,340, and the number wounded was 946. Of all the combatant ships based on Pearl Harbor — battleships, heavy cruisers, light cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers and submarines—only three were permanently put out of commission.

Damage to Ships Repaired

Very many of the ships of the Pacific fleet were not even in Pearl Harbor. Some of those that were there were hit very slightly; and others that were damaged have either rejoined the fleet by now or are still under going repairs. When those repairs are completed, the ships will be more efficient fighting machines than they were before.

The report that we lost more than a thousand airplanes at Pearl Harbor is as baseless as the other weird rumors. The Japanese do not know just how many planes they destroyed that day, and I am not going to tell them. But I can say that to date—and including Pearl Harbor—we have destroyed considerably more Japanese planes than they have destroyed of ours.

We have most certainly suffered losses from Hitler's U-Boats in the Atlantic as well as from the Japanese in the Pacific—and we shall suffer more of them before the turn of the tide. But, speaking for the United States of America, let me say once and for all to the people of the world: We Americans have been compelled to yield ground, but we will regain it We and the other United Nations are committed to the destruction of the militarism of Japan and Germany. We are daily increasing our strength. Soon, we and not our enemies, will have the offensive; we, not they, will win the final battles: and we, not they, will make the final peace.

Must Win to Avoid Nazi Yoke

Conquered nations in Europe know what the yoke of the Nazis is like And the people of Korea and of Manchuria know in their flesh the harsh deposition of Japan. All of the people of Asia know that if there is to be an honorable and decent future for any of them or for us, that future depends on victory by the United Nations over the forces of Axis enslavement

If a just and durable peace is to be attained, or even if all of us are merely to save our own skins, there is one thought for us here at home to keep uppermost—the fulfillment of our special task of production.

Germany, Italy and Japan are very close to their maximum output of planes, guns, tanks and ships. The United Nations are not—especially the United States of America.

Our first job then is to build up production so that the United Nations can maintain control of the seas and attain control of the air—not merely a slight superiority, but an overwhelming superiority.

On Jan. 6 of this year, I set certain definite goals of production for airplanes, tanks, guns and ships. The Axis propagandists called them fantastic. Tonight nearly two months later, and after a careful survey of progress by Donald Nelson and others charged with responsibility for our production, I can tell you that those goals will be attained.

Most People Are Cooperating

In every part of the country, experts in production and the men and women at work in the plants are giving loyal service. With few exceptions, labor, capital and farming realize that this is no time either to make undue profits or to gain special advantages, one over the other.

We are calling for new plants and additions to old plants and for plant conversion to war needs. We are seeking more men and more women to run them. We are working longer hours. We are coming to realize that one extra plane or extra tank or extra gun or extra ship completed tomorrow may, in a few months, turn the tide on some distant battlefield; it may make the difference between life and death for some of our fighting men. We know now that if we lose this war it will be generations or even centuries before our conception of democracy can live again. And we can lose this war only if we slow up our effort or if we waste our ammunition sniping at each other.

Here are three high purposes for every American:

1. We shall not stop work for a single day. If any dispute arises we shall keep on working while the dispute is solved by meditation, conciliation or arbitration —until the war is won.

2. We shall not demand special gains or special privileges or advantages for any one group or occupation.

3. We shall give up conveniences and modify the routine of our lives if our country asks us to do so. We will do it cheerfully, remembering that the common enemy seeks to destroy every home and every freedom in every part of our land.

This generation of Americans has come to realize with a present and personal realization, that there is something larger and more important than the life of any individual or of any indidividual group—something for which a man will sacrifice, and gladly sacrifice, not only his pleasures, not only his goods, not only his associations with those he loves, but his life itself. In time of crisis when the future is in the balance, we come to understand, with full recognition and devotion, what this nation is, and what we owe to it.

Propaganda Hits At Allies

The Axis propagandists have tried in various evil ways to destroy our determination and our morale. Failing that, they are now trying to destroy our confidence in our own allies. They say that the British are finished—that the Russians and Chinese are about to quit. Patriotic and sensible Americans will reject these absurdities. And instead of listening to any of this crude propaganda, they will recall some of the things that diers. or Chinese soldiers to do our Nazis and Japanese have said and are still saying about us.

Ever since this nation became the arsenal of democracy—ever since enactment of lend-lease—there has been one persistent thme through all Axis propaganda.

This theme has been that Americans are admittedly rich, and that Americans have considerable industrial power—but that Americans are soft and decadent, that they cannot and will not unite and work and fight

From Berlin, Rome and Tokyo, we have been described as a nation of weaklings — "playboys"—who would hire British soldiers, or Russian solfighting for us

Let them repeat that now!

Let them tell that to General MacArthur and his men

Let them tell that to the sailors who today are hitting hard in the far waters of the Pacific

Let them tell that to the boys in the flying fortresses

Let them tell that to the Marines

Strength in Unison

The United Nations constitute an association of independent peoples of equal dignity and importance. The United Nations are dedicated to a common cause. We share equally and with equal zeal the anguish and awful sacrifices of war. In the partnership of our common enterprise, we must share a unified plan in which all of us must play our several parts, each of us being equally indispensable and dependent one on the other

We have unified command and cooperation and comradeship.

We Americans will contribute unified production and unified acceptance of sacrifice, and of effort. That means a national unity that can know no limitations of race or creed or selfish politics. The American people expect that much from themselves. And the American people will find ways and means of expressing their determination to their enemies, including the Japanese admiral who has said that he will dictate the terms of peace here in the White House

We of the United Nations are agreed on certain broad principles in the kind of peace we seek. The Atlantic Charter applies not only to the parts of the world that border the Atlantic but to the whole world; disarmament of aggressors, self-determination of nations and peoples, and the four freedoms—freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want, and freedom from fear

British, Russians Won't Quit

The British and the Russian people have known the full fury of Nazi onslaught. There have been times when the fate of London and Moscow was in serious doubt. There was never the slightest question that either the British or the Russians would yield. And today all the United Nations salute the superb Russian army as it celebrates the 24th anniversary of its first assembly

Though their homeland was overrun, the Dutch people are still fighting stubbornly and powerfully overseas.

The great Chinese people have suffered grievous losses; Chungking has been almost wiped out of existence—yet it remains the capital of an unbeatable China.

That is the conquering spirit which prevails throughout the United Nations in this war.

The task that we Americans now face will test us to the uttermost.

Never before have we been called upon for such a prodigious effort. Never before have we had so little time in which to do so much.

"These are the times that try men's souls."

Tom Paine wrote those words on a drum-head by the light of a campfire. That was when Washington's little army of ragged, rugged men was retreating across New Jersey, having tasted nothing but defeat.

And Gen. Washington ordered that these great words written by Tom Paine be read to the men of every regiment in the Continental Army, and this was the assurance given to the first American armed forces:

"The Summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the sacrifice, the more glorious the triumph."

So spoke Americans in the year 1776.

So speak Americans today

It's The 'Little Colonel' Again!

(From The Cullman Tribune, Feb. 2, 1942)

An Editorial

Judge Chauncey Sparks, opening his campaign for governor in Cullman last Saturday, spoke to a court room, which, according to his supporters was 'crowded' by a hundred people. Actually there were 87 there to hear his remarks.

The Eufaula Judge, defeated in his first try for the governor's chair, spent quite a while heaping abuse upon his opponent, Bibb Graves, and all the officers of state, county and municipal governments, including Tax Assessors, Tax Collectors, Circuit Clerks, Sheriffs, Commissioners, Probate Judges, Mayors, Justices of the Peace . . . in fact, all who have endorsed Colonel Graves in conventions held during the past few months.

Then, candidate Sparks turned to what he apparently considered his ace in the campaign, and made eloquent promises to the aged and infirm, assuring them that their support would be rewarded with a pension of $30.00 per month.

Judge Spark's concern for his aged brothers may have brought great anticipation to many, but to others it brought memories of another campaign, a congressional race in the Third District back in 1934, when Henry B Steagall was opposed by James E. Folsom who is now a resident of Cullman. Folsom is one of the original advocates of old age pensions in the state, and he was vigorously applying his platform in the campaign according to reports reaching us. Judge Sparks, the same who is looking out for his old friends now, was campaigning for Mr. Steagall, and is alleged to have declared in speeches throughout the district, that old age pensions would bankrupt the country.

And the judge's pious promises also brought recollections to many of an amendment which failed to pass in Alabama's House of Representatives a few years ago. The management allegedly set the pensions paid by the state to the old aged persons at the fat sum of $1.50 per month. And who sponsored the amendment None other than the man who now poses as the champion of the rights of the aged. . . Chauncey Sparks.

Candidate Sparks apparently forgot and cast aside his old stands when he was considering means of getting votes. Furthermore, the address showed that the Eufaula candidate was attempting to raise votes by 'knocking' Colonel Graves and his record, and it has been a frequent and wise observation that candidates who seek to win by this route, usually come out at the "little end of the horn."

During Col. Graves' last administration, this journal was one of his severest critics. Whatever might be said about the 'Little Colonel,' he is recognized everywhere as a positive force in Alabama, a leader, one who understands the people of the state along with its institutions, its system of government, its aged people, its highways and hopes for the future. Certainly, he is one who is in accord with the program of our great president.

This is no time for citizens to vote for one candidate simply to be voting against another. This is the time to vote for a proved leader, and that man can only be Alabama's most famous booster.—Bibb Graves.

THIRD TERMER

(From ALABAMA, News Magazine, Feb. 20th, 1942).

Sirs:

You and the other commentators who think pie and spoils will be the main issue (in the state campaign) are all wet. The main issue is human welfare and Governor Bibb Graves is going in again on that issue. I predict he will make his third administration the best of all. . . . —ROY MABRY, Gadsden.

POLITICS: RETURNING BIBB GRAVES TO GOVERNOR'S CHAIR AT THIS CRITICAL HOUR, IS NOT A POLITICAL BAND WAGON COMPLEX, BUT JUST THE ORDINARY COMMON SENSE PROCEEDURE OF A SENSIBLE PEOPLE WHO KNOW WHAT IS BEST FOR THEM—MARK.

Private Enterprise And The General Good

A lot has been said about "rugged individuality" and the great things which have been accomplished through "private enterprise."

Most of this "information" comes from the well organized propaganda mill of the industrialists.

We would not deny the industrialists, nor the rugged industrialists one bit of the credit due them for the great part they have played in making America what it is today.

But, all of the efforts of the industrialists and rugged individualists have not been expended in interest of the general good. This is amply proved by the fact that most of the wealth of the nation has been brought under the control of a very few financial overlords and, in the midst of plenty there are millions right here in America who are under-nourished, with insufficient shelter and clothing for comfortable living.

The industrialists have done, and are doing, a great work—in our present "all out" defense program; but, judging from past performances, many of them are doing it, not from choice, but from necessity.

Unless there is a more even distribution of the good things of life among the whole people of the Earth after this war is over, and a more equitable sharing in earned profits by those who actually do the work that produces wealth, nothing whatever will have been gained by the destruction of life and property, and the havoc that is now being wrought. Rather, a greater chaos than is now taking place will ensue, and civilization can easily, from the effects of the same sort of greed and selfishness which has brought on this conflagration, slip back into the Dark Ages.

Plant Sugar Cane

Every farmer in Alabama's Sugar cane belt should plant every stalk of seed cane he has, or can get.

The tremendous amount of sugar needed in the production of alcohol for war needs, and the great losses to the Axis powers of sugar sources in the East Indies, Malaga, Philippines and Russia, is, according to Donald Nelson, was production chief, a serious threat to the sugar supply of U. S.

The demand is almost sure to become greater, and the farmer who grows syrup will be able to sell it at a good price.

We need sugar in our coffee, but we need it in our war production factories worse.

Action Wins Wars

War cannot be won with words. Talking of sacrifice and personal privation does not build airplanes, battleships and great defense armies. It is going to take a full and concerted effort on the part of the people. Nothing less will win this war. We may expect continued reverses on the eastern front for many more weeks. We may lose the Philippines, the West Indies—in fact Japan may be in actual possession of the entire eastern front in a very few weeks. If she does, it is going to take a long time to regain our lost territory, and a long and bloody war to conquer our enemies. Already we hear criticism of delayed action. What can we expect? If we are to make an offensive campaign within a year, we will be doing well. The war department is doing all it can to stem the tide. This war is going to be won by the bread makers. Unless we do our part well back home, our armies can not make progress. A well fed and well clothed army can win. We must provide the food and clothing. It means a period of long hours, hard work and personal sacrifice. There is something for each of us to do to help win this war. Find your place in the great armies of labor and fill it now. Let's keep this war on the other side of the ocean. Let's lick the enemy in his own back yard.

Stop complaining and go to fighting. Action wins wars. —Pickens County Herald.

Those Good Old Days

Remember when every housewife bought ice from the iceman and cooked in iron pots and pans? When old folks were convinced that the automobile was a reckless invention and nearly everyone walked to work? Looking back toward those misty years at the turn of the century, some of us are apt to call them the "good old days" and feel sorry that they passed. Actually, however, they haven't passed entirely. In many respects those old days are certain to be like the new days coming up in the months that are just ahead.

As our factories turn out more and more mountains of war materials to supply the armies of freedom, more and more of the products we've taken for granted are going to disappear from our lives. Metal articles ranging all the way from electric refrigerators and washing machines to pins and needles are going to become scarcer as the war continues. Many changes are going to occur in the way we live and work.

As our standard of living goes back toward that of the old days—as we begin doing without many of our wonderful modern industrial products — this much becomes apparent: those days may not have been so good as people thought they were. Modern industry has made our new days so much more comfortable and convenient.

Yet the old days were good enough for our parents and our grandparents —good enough for all those who came before and changed a wilderness continent into a mighty nation. Our forebears managed and more than managed with the resources at their command. Today it's not too much to expect us to do the same temporarily.

Even with the shortages we must accept, our standard of living will still be higher than it was in those old days. And after the war, when our factories can turn all their productive skill to the manufacture of peace time goods, it will once again be higher than anything the world has ever known.—Evergreen Courant.

Scrap Iron Boomerang

For many years our country has been selling scrap iron to the Japs, which was used for the greater part in making guns, and other death dealing weapons used in war. And now this very scrap iron, figuratively speaking, has to us become a boomerang. There is no telling how many of our boys will be killed and wounded with our own iron. Now from every part of our country comes the call, through the press and over the air, to collect all of the scrap iron around your premises. What for? That the plows and pruning hooks may be made into weapons for the defense of the allied nations, against Japan, Germany, Italy and their Allies.

We never pass an automobile Junk Yard, but that a feeling of sadness comes over us and we think "How many hopes lie buried here.' As we see these torn and twisted wrecks we think no doubt their mangled victims would fill a large cemetery. From the Junk Yard they will be shipped to factories to be converted into deadly weapons, that we may with our allied countries remain free and not carry the sign of the beast "Swastika."

In order that we remain free we must cooperate in every possible way with the Defense or War Program. It makes no difference how we got into this war, the question is now, how are we going to get out of it with VICTORY? No one can tell us how or when. It depends upon every man, woman and child in a nation working only with one aim in view, Victory with honor. In order to help in this program, collect all of your scrap iron. Your failure to do so individually, may not mean much, but collectively it may mean victory. "If we want Victory over the Japs, then save your "scrap."

It is now Spring, as all of the flowers are in full bloom in the Seed Catalogues.—Centerville Press.

THE EDITOR PAYS AND PAYS

Since the latter days of the past December we have paid our state, county and school taxes, city ad valorem tax, state sales tax, federal social security tax, and last, but not least, we have paid our income tax and city license tax for the current year, and are still in a good humor and will continue to give a limited amount of space to news releases from our city, county and state officials and from the various departments of the federal government. Still we wonder often why it is that all government units buy and pay for everything they use except newspaper space for their propaganda. They expect the newspaper management to pay his taxes and then pay for their propaganda too.—Andalusia Star.

VALENTINE PARTY

All roads led to the home of Mrs. J. D. Bell last Friday,. Feb. 13, and all the cars that stopped there brought loads of very important people. These cars were driven by members of the Homemakers Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church. The passengers were the young ladies in the church who were the honored guests for the day.

The devotional period was directed by Mrs. O. A. Davis. who used a large Valentine on poster paper and scripture verses on "Our Hearts". The group sang with heads bowed, "Speak to My Heart" as the opening prayer. How inspiring to hear these sing "Amazing Grace," "What a Friend," "How Firm a Foundation" and other great old hymns that have been loved and sung through the years. Little Martha Bell accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Golden sang, "Jesus Loves Me," and a Valentine song for the group.

Ample time was given for those present to relate experiences of by gone days.

At noon the guests of honor found their places at attractively arranged tables by dainty valentine place cards bearing their names. A delicious plate was served.

The following children of members of the Homemakers Class played piano solos: Barbara Burnett, Peggy Wade, Peggy Burgess, Helen Hayes and Henry Grady Heflin.

Pictures were made of the group which was made up of the following ladies: Mrs. R. C. Barrett, Mrs. L. A. Calloway, Mrs. J. M. Curlee, Mrs. Sarah Clarke, Mrs. Clara Curry, Mrs. F. M. Connell, Mrs. W. J. Fiquette, Mrs. W. W. Hand, Mrs. M. E. Mays, Mrs. P. M. Moore, Mrs. Hugh Foshee, Mrs. J. V. Harris, Mrs. Marion Marcus, Mrs. John Robinson, Mrs. J. T. Rockett, and "Aunt Laura White.

This was a very happy and enjoyable occasion and is one way the Homemakers class has of telling these women who have been faithful .in their living and to their church through the years how much they appreciate them for their constant inspiration.

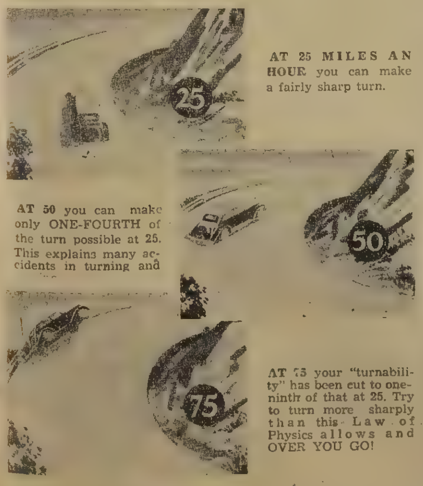
"During the past year living costs increased 12 per cent in Birmingham and more than 16 per cent in Mobile, as compared with a 10 per cent increase in costs throughout the nation." said Frank L. Grove, Secretary of the Alabama Education Asosciation in quoting recent figures released by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics.

'Turnability,' Immutable Law Of Motion, Governs Motoring



AT 25 MILES AN HOUR you can make a fairly sharp turn.

AT 50 you can make only ONE-FOURTH of the turn possible at 25. This explains many accidents in turning and

AT 75 your "turnability" has been cut to one-ninth of that at 25. Try to turn more sharply than this Law of Physics allows and OVER YOU GO!

THE first Law of Motion is that a moving body tends to continue its uniform motion in a straight line. The energy of a moving body is in proportion to the square of the speed.

This Lesson in Physics for Drivers is presented by the Department of Public Safety (Maj. James F. Brawner, director) and this newspaper in the hope that drivers may take heed and that accidents may be prevented. Over 700 people were killed in traffic accidents in Alabama in 1941. The 1942 toll should be lessened by many score. Lives of Alabamians are valuable! (Illustrations by courtesy of "Death Begins at 40!")

Counties Listed For Turkey Hunting

In addition to open areas already listed, Ben C. Morgan, chief of the Game, Fish and Seafood Division of the Alabama Department of Conservation, announces that certain portions of Talladega and Clay counties will be opened to wild turkey hunting this Spring.

The new regulation, signed February 20 by Dr. Walter B. Jones, director of conservation, specifies that all of the territory east of U. S. highway 241 in Talladega county and west of Alabama Highway 9 in Clay county shall be open for wild turkey hunting. All other areas in both counties shall remain closed. This regulation was passed because of a sufficient stock to permit hunting and to relieve pressure on Coosa county's wild turkey population.

Since a great portion of the territory in both counties lies within the Talladega National Forest boundaries, the regulation provides that hunting within the forest itself "shall be by permit issued by the U. S. Forest Service, which shall be issued without cost to any person having in his possession a hunting license entitling him to hunt in said counties."

Alabama's spring turkey hunting season opens March 20 and closes April 15. There will be daily bag and possession limit of one wild turkey gobbler with a total bag limit of five for the entire fall and spring season. Shooting of wild turkey hens is a game law violation.

Other open areas include the counties of Baldwin. Barbour, Butler, Choctaw, Clarke, Conecuh, Coosa, Covington, Escambia, Greene, Henry, Houston .Marengo, Mobile, Monroe, Pickens, Sumter, Washington, Wilcox, Shelby; Bibb, east of highway 5 from Moundville to Greensboro and west Centerville to Woodstock and north of highway 25 from Centerville to Montevallo; Hale, west of Highway 13 from of highway 61 from Greensboro to Uniontown; Tuscaloosa, west of highway -3 from Tuscaloosa to Moundville and north of highway 6 from Tuscaloosa to Centerville.

Feb. 28 Final Date On Entrance Fees

Sum Must Actually Be In Hands of State Or County Chairman Then McCorvey Says

Candidates expecting to enter the state or county Democratic primaries may file their declaration of candidacy on or before March 2, but unless the candidate has paid his entrance or assessment fee not later than Saturday, Feb. 28, he will not be eligible to enter the primary.

This was the explanation of the law governing this year's primaries, contained in a circular letter mailed out this week by State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Gessner T. McCorvey, of Mobile, to members of the State Democratic Executive Committee and county chairmen.

"Many prospective candidates seem to be under the impression that since March 1 falls on Sunday they have until Monday, March 2, within which to complete their qualification as candidates in our Democratic primaries," McCorvey declared.

"It is true that under the statute and under the resolution adopted by the state committee (which, of course, had to comply with the statute), candidates can file their declaration of candidacy with the affidavit as to party loyalty at any time on or before Monday, March 2. However, this will avail a candidate nothing unless the candidate pays his entrance or assessment fee not later than Saturday, February 28, as the statute, as well as the resolution of the state committee requires the entrance or assessment fee to be paid before March 1.

"In other words, there is a different date for paying the entrance or assessment fee and for filing the declaration for candidacy. There was really no reason that I can conceive of for fixing a different date for filing the declaration of candidacy and paying the entrance assessment fee but, be that as it may, the statute provides for this difference."

Chairman McCorvey also branded as erroneous the idea that if a candidate had a check for his entrance fee in the mail on the last available day he was qualified. The fee must be actually paid to the chairman of the state committee not later than Saturday Feb. 28, the state chairman explained.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

In a certain Alabama town there was a very fine young man riding along the highway, when he was hailed by three other young men. He stopped his car and gave the strangers a ride. They had only gone a short distance when he felt the end of a pistol against his ribs and he was ordered into a side road. He had taken three noted robbers into the car with him and soon they had left his dead body by the roadside and they went away in his car. All sorrowed over the sad death of that fine young man. In another town in Alabama I knew a very fine young man who went traveling down the road of life, and three bad habbits waived him down and asked to travel with him. He took them into his life. One was cigarettes, another was intemperance and the third was impurity. Those three robbers stuck the gun into his way of living and soon this fine young man was found cold in death by the roadside of life. They robbed him of his hopes of the pride of fond parents and even killed the poor boy. Beware of picking up bad habits, they will kill you like a desperado.

A strange whistle was heard at the railroad crossing and with a host of others, we rushed out to see. Before us was an unusual coach, on an unusual mission. This car was fitted out as a road detecter, and when it found a flat rail, or any kind of defect in the track, it would stop and register and mark the place. At the crossing it detected a flat rail and marked it in our presence. The road officials were testing the road for heavy traffic and it must be safe. If you want to detect what is wrong in your life, take God's Holy Book and let it run down over your way of living, and it will never fail to detect and mark what is wrong in your life. Blessed is that life that is corrected by the Holy Book.

During October and November the leaves fell from the trees and filled the gutter on top of the Ten Cent store. The leaves were very small, but in the gathering of many of them, the gutter was filled to overflowing. In early December there was a down pour of rain and the water ran into the store, damaging the goods from one side to the other. It was not one leaf that blocked the gutter, but it was the collecting of many little leaves. We are prone to think that there is not much harm in one little sin. Better look out, little sins will congregate in your life and before you know it the channel that connects you with God, is blocked and great damage will come to your soul.

One of the most destructive things in American life is hurry. Hurry pulls unripe mellons, picks green apples and pulls corn that is not fit for use. Hurry trips over the rug, slips over the polished floor and mashes the finger with the hammer. Hurry breaks the point of the pencil, runs the boat aground and strips the gear of the car. Hurry barks the shin, wrecks the car and crashes the red light. Hurry endangers all of us and pushes us on where angels fear to tread. God is not in a hurry and why should we be. When you find yourself in a hurry, just stop and think. It is haste that produces waste. Avoid hurry as you would worrk. Both are harmful.

I know a man who was very, VERY good. Men referred to him as being holy. I watched him and studied him with care, and after much close observation, I came to the conclusion that he was more holy than human. His leanings were toward the superhuman. That man's life made me ask this question, "Does God expect us to be more holy than human?" It seems to me that the man who is more holy than human is likely to be discredited. The word "Holy" means, "Hale." To be holy then only means that a person is to be hale and healthy in his soul life. We all know that holiness is not a profession, it is life. It is always better to live it than claim it. Never allow yourself to be more holy than human, or more human than holy. The best way to live is to be both holy and human.

EGG PRICES

To Be At Least 85 Per Cent Of Parity

WASHINGTON.— The Agriculture Department announced today it would extend its egg-buying operations to Southern States during the Spring season of heavy production in a move to assure farmers equitable prices.

Public refrigerated warehouses will be authorized to buy eggs for the department from farmers, cooperative organizations, small dealers and storekeepers in lots of not less than 10 cases.

Warehouses in Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Florida are being asked to submit offers for their services as buying agents for the department.

These warehouses will be authorized to buy eggs at announced prices on designated days each week. The prices will be at least 85 per cent of parity. Parity now is about 30 cents a dozen for the country as a whole, but officials indicated it might be figured higher in the South because feed costs are higher there.

The government has asked farmers to increase egg production for the war needs and has promised them prices averaging not less than 85 per cent of parity. The government eggs are distributed under lend-lease and domestic relief programs.

Virginia Paper Pays Tribute To Jarman

ALABAMA STATESMANSHIP

EDITOR'S NOTE) The following complimentary editorial clipped from the Portsmouth Va., Star of Tuesday February 17th, shows how highly our Congressman and his wife are held in the esteem of this southern Virginia coast city.

Alabama sent many of her distinguished sons and daughters to yesterday's launching at the Norfolk navy yard of that great fortress of the sea—named for the "first state" of the union in the alphabetical forty eight. However, there were none to come who more nearly represented the true life of that beloved Southern Commonwealth where the "Goldenrod" ever blooms—that land, too, of "Cotton" the "Lizard" and "Yellowhammers"—than one we, here in Virginia, were especially proud to call friend—that superb Pete Jarman from Livingston, Congressman, too, from Alabama's great and glorious Sixth District, Methodist churchman, World War Veteran, civic and fraternity leader at home whom an appreciative people have for three terms sent to represent them at Washington and, who for their own good will certainly retain as long as he is willing to serve. Yes we might say and give the sacrifice that it takes today for any congressman to serve as efficiently at Washington as Peter Jarman serves. We can attest to this because we have seen Pete Jarman in real harness in Washington. We know the kind of things he does. We know the long hours he keeps in that Capitol office of his serving an appreciative constituency and we know, too, that kind of helpmate he has with him there in Washington—that charming and delightful former Miss Beryl Bricken, daughter of Alabama's Chief Justice Bricken, himself a Virginian by birth, but since early youth a resident and devoted Alabamian. With Congressman Jarman yesterday came Mrs. Jarman, and all who met these Jarmans while they were with us in Tidewater Virginia at yesterday's launching of the battleship "Alabama" are hoping they may some time soon again find the time to spend a few more hours with us here where salt water tides from the great Atlantic ocean ebb and flow.

Alabama produces more cast iron pipe than all other sections of the U. S. combined.

APPEAL TO THE UNIONS

here are two very excellent rea- s for demanding today the utmost eiency, with the least corruption, our labor unions. The first rea- is that the man behind the boy ind the gun should not think this is a plaything, and should back the young man in uniform not on- n words, but in example. The oth- reason is that since time is of ut- t importance, we can not waste e, even though we may be paid e for not expending too much en- y.

e know that morale is an import- phase in winning a war. The mor- of the people at home is very de- ve in the prosecution of a war, but morale of the boy in uniform is even greater importance to the l outcome. By flag waving, but- -wearing, and yelling to the top our lungs, we can influence the n who will fight, that we are all way behind them. Those super- us measures do not, however, have raction of the importance that be- gs to the real, true fact of act- y working with, not merely as- ing, the boys in the service of Un- Sam. To work with them, means make the same sacrifices that they having to make. As long as the n at home are working to give the diers all the supplies and material y need, the morale of the men in p will be fine. But when a use- strike, a demand for double-pay, some such mars the home effort, soldiers have a right to complain, then all our flag-waving and but- -wearing is insignificant.

This happened the other day. We d not mention names and places, a certain group of workers de- nded either a day off or extra pay working that day. Such a move the part of labor created a stir in armed forces of our country. It uld have. Furthermore, it should e created not only a stir but also relentless demand for labor legis- on in Congress. We can't let the my, Navy, and Marines down. They the men making the supreme sac- ce. If we work all day every day ry week and every year, we still n't doing what our armed forces doing. To let them down by net- dispute is a criminal act of nation- proportions. For that reason, the r unions should realize now that ir job is to help win the war, ra- r than to win a few cents that n't matter anyway if we lose the r.

The morale of our men is not the y reason for acting above board r domestic labor policy. Every nute's delay prolongs the war. hen we ask one another why we are ing, we answer very meekly that "haven't had time to get supplies oad." There is no other reason can willingly submit as to why we not winning this struggle. Time our scapegoat.

f time is the reason, then it is a nious crime to permit further delay strikes, lock-outs, demands for re pay. Time must be conserved. Consequently, we have two reasons the investigating and readjusting labor policy in the United States. e first is the morale of our men in vice: the second is the conserva- n of time. Both are of the ulti- te importance.

f we look at the argument clear- ndedly, I do not think we will fail see that both the morale of our n and the conservation of time are isive factors in the winning of the r. Consequently, I think we will ree that everything else is subord- te in the present situation. Certain petty labor union principles ought to be sacrificed now in the national interest.

Some people have yet to realize that when working on a defense job, it is not just their duty to while away time, to smoke a cigarette, or to wait patiently from one pay day to another. Many of our workers are guilty of glaring inefficiency. We all know examples of men placed in jobs they cannot handle; certain men we know receive pay for jobs which are, even to them, "easy ones." It is a deplorable state of affairs at the most crucial time in American history.

I do not like to think that these men have no greater sense of responsibility. They are American citizens; as such, they are accredited with a high sense of public duty. But facts are indisputable, and if the blame does not rest with individuals, it is bound to rest somewhere.

The answer lies, I think, in a creeping parasite which is draining the lifeblood of American industry, which is destroying a basic American tradition called "rugged individualism." This force is the labor union.

We cannot arbitrarily dismiss the labor union as evil, for it does have its goods points, but in the present crisis the government should coerce the misinformed, misled elements of labor to a broader understanding of the responsibility which it must shoulder.

The labor union question should have been settled long ago, but we were too busy sleeping to worry very much about it. Now all the problems of the war and all the problems at home are rising up to be solved. We can't dismiss any of them. They must be settled. It will require a great deal of energy to do so, but we won't regret the work if we can win the war.

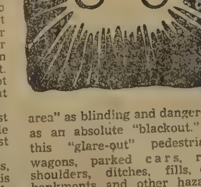
Death In Dazzling Headlights



MUCH complaint is heard over the State of glaring headlights on motor vehicles any accidents and deaths are ibed to confusing brilliance ese lights. The law requires t each motor vehicle carry wo headlights (motorcycle. one) giving sufficient light to e a person 200 feet ahead at ht, when there is no fog or rain. Low-beam or dimmer lights should be used when an ncoming car is within 500 feet. Headlight beams should not each higher than 42 inches at 75 feet ahead.

The rear light or lights must be red or yellow, discernible 500 feet, and a white light must shine on registration plate.

A dangerous, careless, thoughtless form of driving is to refuse to dim bright headlights on the approach of or meeting other cars. When an oncoming driver of truck or car signals that your headlights are glaring (by dimming his lights) the courtesy should be reciprocated; a failure to do so is but an invitation to hazard of life, limb and property.

An approaching dazzling headlight creates a "glare-out-area" as blinding and dangerous as an absolute "blackout." In this "glare-out" pedestrians, wagons, parked cars, road shoulders, ditches, fills, embankments and other hazards are invisible—the usual consequence is disaster.

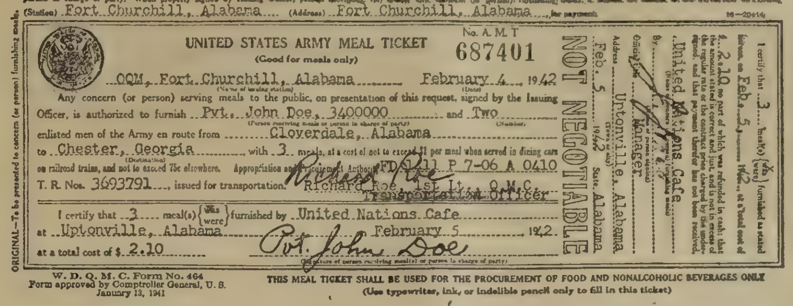
The State Department of Public Safety (Major James F. Brawner, director), and this newspaper ask you to be careful as to using intense and glaring headlights, and thus conserve life and property. For city driving, town lights should always be used.

New Army Meal Ticket Good News for Restaurant Owners

What may prove a boon to restaurant owners is the Army's new practice of issuing meal tickets instead of cash to soldiers for the purchase of meals while traveling. These tickets allow a soldier to spend a maximum of 75 cents a meal in restaurants and $1 a meal in railroad dining cars—in many instances more than he would spend if he were paying cash.

The tickets (one of which is reproduced below) are slightly larger than a currency note, are white and must be filled out by the issuing officer. When a restaurant operator receives one in tender for a meal, he fills in a few blanks and mails the ticket to the finance officer at the post from which the soldier traveled. When the meal tickets are received by the finance officer, they are given immediate attention and checks for the full amount are sent at once.

Now that the United States is at war, more and more of these meal tickets will be used. Restaurant operators who wish to share in the task of feeding the soldiers will acquaint themselves with the new meal tickets and be prepared to honor them.



This ticket should be accepted in lieu of cash by concerns or persons serving meals to the public, and it must be presented before ordering meals, signed by the person receiving meals or person in charge of party. When properly signed by Issuing Officer, person receiving the meals, and concern (or person) furnishing meals, it should be mailed to the FINANCE OFFICER,

Your Income Tax Report Explained

Montgomery, Ala.—To aid Alabamians in making up their State income tax returns, Commissioner John C. Curry of the State Department of Revenue, has assigned a number of agents of that department to that special task.

Persons desiring this assistance may contact these special agents in Room 214, second floor of the State Capitol. Agents will likewise be stationed for this service in Room 101, Court House building, Birmingham, and Room 811, First National Bank Annex in Mobile.

Ample forms and facilities are provided for taking care of defense workers and those in the military service of the United States, stationed at Army posts in connection with Federal activities.

No charge is made for this service which includes the legal acknowledgement, as required by law.

Commissioner Curry is placing stress on the importance of filing returns before the last minute, or final limit, which is at the close of business on March 16th, since the 15th falls on Sunday, thus giving the income tax payer one day of grace.

The tax payer is reminded that the State income tax law has not been changed. The requirements relative to filing returns for the year 1941 are the same as those in effect in 1940 and prior years, since the Act was amended in 1935.

The requirements, briefly stated, are as follows: Returns should be filed by:

(a) Every individual having a net income for the year 1941 of $1,500 or over if single, or $3,000 or over if married and living with husband or wife;

(b) Every corporation, joint stock company or association not specifically exempt by the Alabama Income Tax Law;

(c) Every partnership regardless of the amount of gain or loss, or whether or not the profits have been distributed to the partners:

(d) Every fiduciary if the taxpayer for whom he acts is required to file return. An estate or trust having a net income of $1,500 or over is required to file a return.

Forms To Be Used

Form 40 is to be used by individuals, regardless of nature, source or amount of income; also estates and trusts unless the income is taxable to the beneficiary, in which case Form 41 is required showing the amounts distributed or distributable. Form 40B is to be used by non-resident individual taxpayers.

Form 20 is to be used by resident corporation, and Form 20B by non-resident corporations.

Form 65 is to be used by partnerships.

All forms will be furnished upon request addressed to the State Department of Revenue, Income Tax Division, Montgomery, Alabama.

Information On National Cemeteries

Dotted here and there over these United States are park-like spots, studded with flowers and shrubbery and kept beautiful by perpetual care, where the veterans of Uncle Sam's fighting forces may gather at long last.

They are the National Cemeteries and any veteran of the armed forces who has been honorably discharged, is entitled to burial there, Colonel James R. Alfonte, Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster announced today.

With this announcement was an outline of the procedure to be taken by the relatives or friends of the deceased veteran to gain permission for his burial in these cemeteries Uncle Sam provides for his soldiers, sailors and marines.

To gain such permission, the family must take the deceased veteran's last discharge—and it must be an honorable discharge—to the superintendent of the National Cemetery. The superintendent then wires The Quartermaster General in Washington, for verification of all information contained in the discharge. If the infor-Quartermaster General wires the supmation is found to be correct. The erintendent the verification and permission for the burial. A lot is then assigned and arrangements made for the interment, including the date and hour of the funeral. This procedure usually requires about 24 hours.

The family or friends then arrange the services desired in such manner that the body will arrive at the cemetery at the hour set. They will arrange to handle expenses covering all services such as embalming, clothing, casket, shipping box, hearse, transportation, etc. The government bears the expense of opening and closing the grave. However, after the burial, the responsible parties, meaning those obligated for the expense of the funeral services rendered, may apply to the Veteran's Administration, with the properly endorsed invoices for services, and will be reimbursed to the extent of $100.

Provision is also made for burial of the veteran's wife there, but when the wife dies first and is buried in a National Cemetery, the veteran must sign an agreement that he, too, will be buried there. At the time either is thus buried, reservation is made for an adjoining grave site for the other.

The burial of minor children and unmarried adult daughters is permitted, under certain conditions, provided there is room in the lot assigned to the individual veteran, but the wife only can be interred prior to the interment of the evteran. Lots are not assigned in all cemeteries.

In case a member of any branch of the armed services dies while on active duty, burial may be made in a National Cemetery if the family so desires, and the government will bear all expenses up to a certain figure, and is handled by the Quartermaster Corps at the post where the deceased was assigned. This expense usually runs $85, but may exceed that amount in exceptional cases upon authority of The Quartermaster General. If death is by accident, such as drowning, an airplane accident, etc., the government will pay expenses incurred in the recovery of the body in addition to embalming, clothing, casket, shipping box, hearse, transportation, pall bearers and an escort.

If veteran of the Spanish-American or World War I dies in a veterans' hospital or soldiers' home and his family or friends desire that he be buried in a National Cemetery, permission is obtained from The Quartermaster General.

This permission is obtained from The Quartermaster General by request from the manager of the Veterans' Administration facility by wire. After verification of the service of the decedent, The Quartermaster General will send a wire to the superintendent of the cemetery in which burial is dsired. Completion of arrangements is then the responsibility of the manager of the facility and the superintendent of the cemetery. The manager will advise the superintendent when the body will arrive and whether deceased is white or colored. The Veterans' Administration has contracts with undertakers in each city where a National Cemetery is located. If touching up service is necessary, this is furnished in addition to the hearse and pall bearers. The contracting undertaker bills the Veterans' Administration, ordering the service. Expenses for clothing, casket, shipping box and transportation to the nearest National Cemetery is paid by the Veterans' Administration.

It is Sdfi tar cultcon-

If it is desired that the body be shipped directly from the place of death to the National Cemetery, arrangements will be made by the superintendent for services at the cemetery, if such request is made at the time the superintendent is first contacted. Desires of the family, such as religious rites, will be granted insofar as possible.

PATES CHAPEL

It seems that Mr. Winter is visiting our community after a few days pretty weather in which it seemed that everybody should be prepairing a garden.

Some have already began plowing and cleaning up their farm land. But most are holding their job at Childersburg.

We are sorry to know that Mrs. Cleckler's leg is not feeling and better, but hope it wil lsoon improve where she can walk good again. She is always missed when she is not able to visit the sick and go to church.

Mrs. Earl Hays was the Saturday guest of Mrs. Eunis Dawson.

We are also sorry to know that Mr. Cooper Scott broke his shoulder last Thursday at his work, but hope for him a speedy recovery.

Little Earline Dawson burned her face last week against a hot iron but it seems to be better now.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cleckler were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCarry Sunday and in the afternoon they all visited Mrs. Margaret Watley.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dawson and sons Bill and Jessie, Mr. and Mrs. Evis Dawson and children, Helen and Erline and Cecil Franklin were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Dawson and family Suday.

We are glad that Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Cameron have moved in our community.

But we are sorry that Uncle Sam has called one of our boys from our community, because we will all miss Milton Bean. We know that he will be as good and generous a boy there as he was in his community. Cheer up Milton, we know you are all o. k and will please your leader a 100 per cent in all your work.

Everybody remember that next Sunday and Sunday night is preaching time. So if it is not to bad weather everybody come to church.

TYPICAL ALABAMA HIGHWAY BRIDGE OVER SMALL STREAM—This bridge (on Alabama Road No. 5) is of standard trestle-type, used extensively in Alabama. It is supported by large steel piles, driven into the ground by 4,300-pound drop hammers. The piles are enclosed in concrete at the ground line, as a protection against corosion. The floor is 24 to 26 feet wide, supported by steel stringers. A new "collision proof" rail is provided, with smooth face which tends to keep vehicles on the bridge, should they strike the railings. This type of bridge is designed for standard "H-15" loading, which is adequate for all loads which will pass along Alabama highways, except tremendously heavy loads in industrial centers.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE WORK FOR FOOD FOR VICTORY

The teachers of vocational agriculture in Chilton county have gone on an all-out war effort to serve their people and their country.

They have included in their program the main objectives of the farm war which includes special instructions and supervision in producing meat, milk, eggs, and other such commodities urgently needed.

Adequate provisions for food for home consumption and the conserving of scrap iron and other materials not needed on farms which can be used in war industries are being stressed. Special plans for making further adjustment on their farms in order to meet war needs will also be one main objective.

The teachers of vocational agriculture are trying to render a real service to the farmers and to the nation in their school communities to improve their feeding and management methods in milk production as well as production of the other commodities desired. The facilities of the shops in the vocational agriculture schools as well as the services of the teachers, are being used in the campaign to repair farm machinery. Now is the time for everybody to join the "Food for Victory" program.

Elba FFA Members Repair Own Equipment

ELBA, Ala.—Much has been said in the past six months about the need for farmers to repair their farm tools, thereby saving money for themselves and material that is needed for National Defenses. With this in mind the Elba chapter of Future Farmers of America decided to change a talking program into a active program. They set up as one of their objectives for the year to repair all the farm machinery on their farms and to help get evening school men in their community to repair their tools.

Plans were made whereby each student could bring his tools to the vocational shop, a two week period was set up during which the tools were brought in, at the end of this time work was started in the shop. Each student worked out a bill of material for each job, this material was then purchased at a reduced cost by buying cooperatively at one of the stores. During the time the students were in shop 23 steel beams, 27 ratchet stocks, 8 single trees, 2 distributors, 3 corn shellers, 2 middle busters, 2 harrows, 12 hammer handles, 7 axes, 7 tables, 3 saws, 12 milking stools, 5 chairs, and one lime spreader were repaired; and 23 scrapes were sharpened.

At the evening classes being taught by E. P. Geiger in the Victoria and White Water communities, one class was devoted to the necessity of repairing farm machinery, and with the help of the FFA, plans were worked out for the farmers to bring their tools to the vocational shop. A two week period was set up at night from 7 to 10 o'clock at which time the farmers came to the shop and repaired their own tools. At the close of the class 15 steel beams, 28 ratchet stocks, 4 distributors, 2 planters, 1 cultivator, 11 axes, 9 single trees, 1 drill, and two harrows were repaired; and 77 scrapes were sharpened.

During the repair program 68 farmers and students took part in repairing 278 different articles at a cost of $86.18, representing a saving of $53.30 to the farmers.

Many farmers who did not take part in the night program have seen the work done by the other men and are now coming to the shop during the day and repairing their tools. If you are in the Elba community and are one of the farmers that did not take part in the program you should make arrangements to come in and repair your tools before it is time to plant. Help your country by saving the material that is needed for defense and repair your tools at a saving to yourself.

Bibb Graves Gubernatorial Headquarters

Opened At The Exchange And Jefferson Davis In Montgomery and the Redmont in Birmingham

MONTGOMERY, Ala.— The third term of Colonel Bibb Graves leaped into motion this week with the Little Colonel himself taking a strong hand in the preliminaries via long distance telephone from Sarasota, Fla., where he is swiftly rebuilding his strength for speaking engagements.

General campaign headquarters have been established in Rooms 108-10-12 of the Exchange Hotel, Montgomery. Here Colonel Richard T. Rives, former president of the Alabama Bar Association, will direct the campaign. These rooms have a tradition of good fortune for it was from that Colonel Graves made his successful bid for a second term in 1934.

A few blocks away in the Jefferson Davis Hotel South Alabama headquarters have been set up under the direction of Senator Charles A. Stakely and Howard E. Pill. Rooms 202-4 have been occupied for the duration.

North Alabama headquarters are in Room 302 of the Redmont Hotel in Birmingham with Cooper Green, president of the Birmingham City Commission, who has been named Jefferson County manager, in command.

Announcing campaign bases, Colonel Rives said they would be utilized for the double purpose of directing campaign activities and welcoming friends of Colonel Graves. "I think all friends of Colonel Graves know they are welcome." Colonel Rives said, "But that there may be no doubt, I want to take this means of inviting them to come in at any and all times and to make themselves at home. We friends of Colonel Graves, I am happy to say, are a large and congenial family. We should see each other often and know each other better."

While Colonel Graves has entrusted the preliminary work of the campaign to his State manager and friends in all parts of the State he has found it impossible to remain hands off. All his energies return to him at his Florida retreat the urge to have a hand in the proceedings has proved irresistible. Now several times a day he is at the telephone in long distance communication with Colonel Rives, discussing tactics and maneuvers in a voice that grows stronger with every call.

No definite definite date has been set for his return to Montgomery where he plans to deliver his first campaign speech, but Colonel Rives has prevailed upon the former governor to remain a little longer in Florida so that he may have a full store of strength for the demands of the real campaign. "There is really no necessity," said Colonel Rives. "for him to hurry back. The situation is so well in hand, the loyalty of his supporters is so intense, and the challenge to his candidacy is so negligible, that he may feel free to remain in the Florida sunshine as long as he pleases."

Reynolds Writes In Farmers Behalf

February 20, 1942.

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.
Gentlemen:

Sometime ago I noticed a report in the Birmingham News made by the ABC Board, which stated that the State liquor stores in Alabama spent, in round numbers, 15 million dollars and that it netted the State and County 10 million dollars. Could anybody call this good business to put 15 million dollars into a propostion and draw out 10 million, and every dollar that was spent for liquor was to the injury of the citizens that drank it?

I noticed another article in the News recently, by Mr. P. O. Davis of Auburn, in which he urges the farmers to plant all the crops they possibly can and to conserve all the food they possibly can. He requested that they work long hours, which they always do, and I think his letter was well taken, but wouldn't it look a little better if our Government would set the example in conserving and saving Take the five million dollars worth of sugar and other food stuffs that go into liquor and give that for defense, also we have a law that laborers cannot work over 8 hours a day and they get good pay. I believe our Government ought to take the lead and reduce all the expenses it possibly can to help in the defense.

I know there are many farmers that will not be able to farm in this county unless there is someone to furnish them stock, fertilizer, and supplies. The farmer ought to be the most independent person of any other business, but he is the most dependent. He brings his produce to market and asks, "What will you give me for it?" When he goes to buy, he asks, "What will you take for what you have to sell " The Government is very much interested in limiting the prices of what the farmers raise, but I have not heard of anyone being interested in what they have to buy. Fertilizer has advanced 40 per cent in price

140,000 ENLIST IN NAVY SINCE DECEMBER 7TH

The Navy Department today announced that enlistments since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, will have passed well over the 140,000 mark by March 1, 1942, and that enlistments are continuing at a heavy rate.

The Navy Department expects to continue enlistments on an entirely voluntary basis.

In answer to many queries coming ito the Navy Department, the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation stated that men registered under the Selective Service System are free to enlist voluntarily in the Navy up to the time they are inducted into the army. It is understood that, registrants now are inducted into the Army immediately after examination by the Army Medical Examining Board.

The Chief of the Bureau of Navigation expressed gratification at the response of the thousands of young men who have decided to join the rapidly expanding United States Navy in defense of their country, as an answer to the Axis threat which culminated in the treacherous Japanese attack on December 7.

ARE YOU A LOYAL AND TRUE AMERICAN?

Each Wednesday night about 7.00 o'clock, the individual groups of the Civilian Defense Committee meet at the High School auditorium for practice and rehearsal of the general routine.

This is necessary, very necessary in case of emergency—the reason for which these groups were created and organized.

The fact is that the members are not attending the weekly meetings as they should. Some attend every week. Others attend occasionally. Others have never been to a meeting.

This is the kind of indifference that has cost the United Nations so much up to this moment.

We know that if every member of these separate groups stopped to think that every member would be present at the next meeting. Not because he would agree with every phase of this routine but because he is a free American Citizen and that he can stand up and present his views and have his say as to what would be, or would not be the best way in which to conduct these meetings, and the Local Defense Program.

We are still a free people—the freest on the face of the earth. That is the thing that makes it compulsory that we attend these meetings and go all-out for Civilian Defense.

We suspect that the weekly newspaper gives more in time and publicity to the cause of National Defense and the cause of freedom than any other one organization, or person or business. Because it has the facilities and the patriotism and the courage to say what it thinks and the way it feels. The weekly press is the life blood of the American people and it is 100 per cent for Civilian Defense—before anything happens. Not after it is too late. There is no use preparing after the bombs have fallen and the cause is lost. The time to prepare is NOW.

Next week when the call is sent out and you are notified of the time and place of the Civilian Defense Meeting, be there. Discuss with Bob Oglesby, Jimmie Bell, Louie Smith, Buck Roberts and the other Foremen of the various groups what your job will be. Work at it. Follow their advice if you think it practical, if not, present your view of the situation. But the main thing is to be there.

Back your city, your county, your state and your nation. Do your share in this Civilian Defense movement. Attend the next meeting and declare yourself ready for anything that needs to be done.

If you are indifferent, now, your patriotism won't be worth much if the bombs come.

REFUGE CHURCH WILL HAVE MODERN BAPTISTRY

Plans were made here Sunday for the purpose of building a baptistry in the church at this place. It has been our fondest dream for some time, but we are happy to say that it is more than a dream now.

We, the pastor and committee have just closed the deal with Ed Edwards the cement man, to do the work. The size will be 4 feet. wide 7 feet long and 3 1-2 feet deep. It will hold about 730 gallons of water. However, we have allowed 6 inches not to be taken up. Only 630 gallons of water will be needed for baptismal services.

The baptistry will be built right up in the rostrum where the minister stands. The pulpit will be moved, giving clear view to the audience during the baptismal services.

A lid will cover the baptistry when not in use. A rug will be used as heretofore taking up no space except while the baptistry is being used.

ISABELLA

Hello folks. Perhaps this bit of news from out this way will reach the office in time for this week's copy of our fine county paper. Due to war time and holidays the reporter has failed to get in the happenings around here lately.

It seems as if every one is looking forward to the Spring days which have not arrived yet. Why did the old ground hog have to see his shadow any way?

Quite a few folks around here are suffering with colds and we are missing them at church. It appears that we will be missing others soon due to tire shortage. But we're hoping something will happen and a way be provided to attend church services. more than ever in this perilous time. People need to go to God's house and its true the church needs all people. Let's resolve to go to church every time we possibly can.

Friday of this week the W. M. S. will observe a day of prayer. And we are looking for all of our members that day. Visitors are cordially invited.

The general assembly of W. M. S. has been postponed until Wednesday of next week.

The Demonstration meeting was held at Mrs. J. H. Wells last Wednesday afternoon with ten present. Miss Barber gave a most interesting talk on poultry which was the object of this meeting. New officers were elected for this year. After various discussions and plans the meeting was adjourned after which a delicious salad plate was served. The next meeting will meet with Mrs. J. H. Camp.

A wedding of much interest was that of Miss Dorothy Manning in Birmingham last Saturday evening. Dots many friends join in congratulations.

Mr. Renfro Oden of Birmingham was home Saturday night and Sunday.

Winning Speech In FFA Contest, Isabella

Following is the speech of Jesse Culp of Isabella that won him first place in the recent FFA Public speaking contest, both for the Chapter and the District.

Rural Leadership

"Again we are faced with that great task of defending our country against a group of power-crazed machines called the Axis powers. Never in the history of our country was the need of good leadership greater than it is today. Good rural leadership is especially needed, because the production of foodstuffs must be raised in order that we and our armed defenders may carry on.

There are probably as many definitions of good and bad leadership as there are people. Each person has his own ideas about leadership. Rural leaders are of two types. those that are from the ranks of the farmers and those that are not. I believe that the former is much more significant for several reasons.

Even though there are others who can give sound advice to the farmer, he will put more trust in a man from his own type of people. Think of yourself, for instance. You had rather be led by a person who loves the same kind of life that you love and one in whom you can confide your secrets and troubles.

George Washington will long be remembered as a great leader and the father of his country. The common people loved and trusted him because he was a farmer himself and was very sympathetic with the common people. Washington once expressed his desire to live and to die on the farm. He was finally able to carry out this desire.

Cooperation is indeed the master work of this century in agriculture. With this fact in mind, it then becomes evident that the farmers in your neighborhood, and in all other neighborhoods must learn to work together. Nearly all of us are aware of the fact that cooperation means working together jointly for the common good of all. It may pay us direct dividends or it may only give us the satisfaction of helping our fellow men. In either way, it is cooperation in its truest form.

The first realization of the need of cooperative work in agriculture came several years ago and cooperatives began to spring up. The leaders of many of these organizations, however, were not the farmers, who were trained with actual toil but were outsiders. For example, in a small town in one of our northern states, a group of dairymen were confronted with the common problem of marketing their products. The business men of that section proposed a cooperative which was readily accepted by the farmers. These dairymen soon found that this cooperative was a hindrance rather than a help to them because they could not furnish the leaders. No organization can exist long without a continuous supply of good capable leadership.

The American Farm Bureau Federation well illustrates the value and results of good leadership. The American Farm Bureau Federation was organized several years ago to help solve farm problems. The leaders were carefully chosen from the ranks of the actual farmers. Since then, this organization has brought us much nearer to the solution of the problem of farm relief. I believe that the only solution to this great problem of farm relief, will be a better representation of the farmers in their own government.

In order to have good leaders, we must study the possible candidates and find those that have the talent and qualities of a good leader. We may compare our own qualities with those of recognized leaders. This will help us to find our strong and weak points and develop ourselves accordingly.

Then there may be some of us who do not have the talent for leadership. It is the duty of us who can't be leaders to train ourselves for wise followers; for even if we do have efficient leaders, they cannot succeed without good followers to assist them.

Today all over the United States, there are rural organizations that are training the farm youth. The FFA is one of these. After vocational agriculture classes had begun in public high schools, progressive leaders saw the need of an organization that would bring the vocational agricultural students closer together so that they might bring about their tasks in an organized way. In 1923, several states actually formed organizations of this kind. These first organizations were called such names as "Junior Farm- of a national organization was then ers" and "Young Farmers." The idea conceived, developed, and called the Future Farmers of America. The principle cornerstone of this organization is leadership. As members of the FFA, we are being taught to do our own thinking; to produce our own leaders.

As we turn through the pages of time, we read of great leaders in our history. Let us be inspired to greater heights by the goals that these men have reached."

According to Edgar A. Guest:

"You are the fellow who makes up your mind.
Whether you'll lead or linger behind.
Whether you'll try for a goal that is far
Or be contented to stay where you are.
Take it or leave it
Here's something to do
Just think it over
It's all up to you."

Isabella Future Farmers Plan Improvements

At a recent meeting of the Isabella Future Farmers of America the subject of Home and Home grounds improvement came up for discussion. Realizing that home beautification and home grounds improvement would play an important part in keeping our morale high during this time of national emergency each member of the FFA decided to make some improvements around the farmstead. Shrubbery for landscaping the homes are grown in the laboratory area and cost the members nothing but a little work. Other shrubs and trees may be obtained in the woods with a little effort on the part of the boy. Some of the things that can be done to make a farm home more attractive and beautiful are as follows:

1. Planting shrubbery, trees and flowers.
2. Picking up and hauling away of trash and junk.
3. Draining low areas and grade lawn.
4. Seeding lawn areas.
5. Improving walks and driveways.
6. Pruning and fertilizing trees, shrubbery, and grass.
7. Controlling weeds around the home.
8. Painting and repairing house and other buildings.
9. Repairing fences.
10. Storing machinery and farm equipment after using.
11. Repairing well curbing and mail box stand.
12. Obtaining cooperation of every member of the family in making the houses a more beautiful place in which to live.

Deadline Set For Cotton Improvement

Final date for organized cotton groups in Aalbama to file application for free classification and market news service for the 1942 crop is Aug. 1st.

Application may be made by any organized cotton improvement group as soon as its members have planted their cotton, but the applications must be filed with the Agricultural Service not later than Aug. 1.

J. T. Belue, cotton improvement specialist, Alabama Extension Service, urges organized groups to get in their applications as early as possible. "It is possible," he said, "that more applications will be received than can be handled with available funds. If so, the order in which the applications are received may be one of the considerations in determining the groups to be served."

Talladega police are making war on vagrancy. Twelve arrests were made during a recent week-end.

Better Cotton Helps In National Defense

By planting their full cotton allotment and producing every pound of cotton on each acre, Alabama farmers will be helping national defense by producing oil for food, linters for munitions, cottonseed meal and hulls as feed for livestock. At the same time they will increase their cash income.

Ths is being brought to the attention of farmers by J. T. Belue, extension cotton improvement specialist, who figures that:

Every ton of cotton seed produced contains 300 pounds of oil, which is needed to substitute for "cut off" imports of vegetable oils; 900 pounds of cotton seed meal which can be used in increasing livestock production; and about 100 pounds linters which can go into the manutacfure of munitions.

The value of the cottonseed meal produced in Alabama from the 790,000 bales of cotton is equivalent in feed value to the corn crop made on 400,000 acres of corn at the average state yield.

AAA authorities report that Alabama's cotton allotment is 2,129,407 acres for 1942. Should farmers of the State average one-half bale per acre in 1942, the cotton seed from this production would be approximately 400,000 tons. This would mean that 60,000 tons of oil, 180,000 tons cottonseed meal, 120,000 tons of hulls, and 20,000 tons of linters could be fitted into the defense program.

This production is possible if farmers follow five important practices. They are: (1) proper fertilization, (2) use of adapted varieties, (3) treat seed with Ceresan, (4) plant early and (5) control of boll weevils.

Wood Becomes More Important As Fuel

With war production using more coal and consumer prices going up, farmers have a better market for fuel wood than in many years, says C. R. Ross, acting extension forester.

Almost every farm has woodland that has an over-supply of low-grade trees that are worthless for timber, he says in advising that these trees be cut for fuelwood at once. Farmers who want extra income from the sale of fuelwood should consider these points:

1. Allow the wood to season from nine months to a year. Seasoned wood sells better than green wood.
2. Supply lengths and sizes of wood customers want.
3. Cut the trees when other work cannot be done.
4. Cut badly sloped and dying trees unsuited for sawlogs.
5. Save enough well-shaped, healthy trees to leave a good stand.

You Can Help Keep Your Electric Service at a High Standard by These Simple Means

1. Give as much notice as possible when you move.

2. Learn to replace blown fuses yourself. It's as easy as changing a light bulb. People at any of our offices (or your meter reader) will show you how. Keep a few spare fuses on hand.

3. If your refrigerator is more than three years old, ask for an inspection before hot weather comes. The cost is moderate, and the service man (your dealer's or ours) can make the inspection when he has another call in your neighborhood. That will help avoid a rush trip later. If repairs or adjustments are indicated, they can be made before the summer rush season.

4. Avoid requesting "rush" service. Try not to call for service on Saturdays, Sundays or at night. You can help the Nation save rubber by permitting us to handle your service calls on regular trips.

5. Be patient with the trouble man or service man. Remember that he'll be carrying an extra burden. He'll get to you as fast as he can. But you wouldn't want him to hurry so much that he'd become slipshod in his work.

6. Don't ask for delivery of such items as lamp bulbs, iron cords and other small, light items. Buy them when you shop for other things.

7. Use as much electricity as you NEED—but don't waste it. Don't waste anything.

Scarcities in tires, automobiles, trucks and many other materials and equipment--and the shortage of skilled men--make it necessary to ask for your cooperation so that you can still have good service, although it may not be as good as before the war, or as good as we would prefer it to be.

(By Irvin Lande)

YOU AND I

We have been asking each other "What Can I do?" To win this war, we want to do our part. Our intentions are excellent. Our work has fallen short of our intentions.

The reason is not because we do not have the work for each of us to do. Neither is it because we don't know what we have to do or how to do it. The reason we have blundered so much, and have asked each other "What can I do?" so often that we are sick of the question, is that our basic, fundamental philosophy of war is one which can very easily lead us to defeat, rather than to victory.

Our philosophy is simply this: "We're going to win this war. It's going to take a long, long time, but we're going to win it. By way of explanation, we add: "The Japs may take islands now, and may run us out of the Pacific, but when we get the planes, and tanks, and guns, we'll show 'em. We'll come back and take everything they've conquered."

This is the basis of all labor trouble, all governmental inefficiency, all unintentional errors in national thinking. It is the basis for the fiasco at Pearl Harbor. It is the reason Singapore fell. If Java and Australia fall this philosophy in Britain and the United States will be the reason.

Under its soporific influence, we are lulled into believing that we have plenty of time to get going, to get behind the ball and to keep plugging. We ask each other "What can I do?" because we mean really "What can I do in my spare time to show my patriotism?" We think gradually we can work into the swing of things. There really isn't any rush—after all we admit it's going to take a long time to win this war.

If it is going to take us such a long time to win this war, we may not win it at all. Here's what will have happened: Japan will have taken Java Sumatra, Australia, and will have built a wall of islands from the North to South that will make it impossible for us to break through without the loss of a tremendous number of lives. If we wait too long, Germany will consolidate her Russian line, and will strike somewhere else in order to meet the Japanese pincers in its drive to take India and China. It is not impossible, also, that the Japanese would be able to obtain bases near enough to our Pacific coast to bomb it, so that our forces would be made to stay at home to protect California.

These are some of the reasons why we must get over the idea that we can breeze along at our leisure. The longer we wait, the harder, more dangerous, more costly the job will be.

We must realize now—not later — that all our energy must be directed toward winning the war. The change over must include everything, you and I, and us all—production, home manufactures, rationing, curtailment of certain supplies. Up-to-now, we have tried to make this changeover slowly not to hurt anyone, we may be killing thousands of our soldiers by our own lack of sagacity.

Our basic philosophy of winning the war by a long struggle originated in order to cover-up for the lack of preparation we had made in the past. That is all water under the bridge. We all know we weren't prepared. There just isn't any sense in using a past excuse for future failure when we could prevent that future failure by getting down to brass tacks now.

We say we're going to reconquer all we lose now. If the Japs lose thousands of men in every engagement against our now-weak fortifications, how many thousands of our men would it take to regain those possessions against strong Japanese fortifications? It doesn't make good sense, in terms of human life, to waste time at home, and to slow down production.

Mr. Donald Nelson said so sincerely last Monday night that we have 304 days left in this year to reach the President's goal of planes, tanks, and guns. We must reach that goal. Not next year. But in the ten months remaining to us. For upon our devoting all our energy this year to the war effort, may depend the future of the world for centuries to come.

Ous basic philosophy must change if we're going to get anything done. To quit quibbling and get down to work, we must come to believe that the sooner we win the war, the fewer lives will be lost. Consequently, we ought to back up our new philosophy that "we're going to win this war as soon as possible. And we're going to quit delaying ourselves."

If we can save the lives of our men, and men throughout the world by concentrating now on war rather than "life as usual," the hardships encountered by a quick changeover will have been worth the cost. It's not too much to devote a year of our life to winning the war now, if by doing so, we will save five or ten years in the future.

WHERE SUDDEN DEATH struck in 1941. Figure in each county shows last year's traffic toll. Two counties, Cla and Lawrence, reported none of the 742 fatalities last year and have a clean slate so far this year, according to State Department of Public Safety reports (official through January). Through Feb. 25 this year reported Alabama traffic deaths total 72, a decrease of 21.7 per cent from the 92 recorded in the same period last year However, the state highway patrol cautions that February reports are incomplete and that constant care should be exercised by motorists

Editor's Note: Chilton County with a total of 29 traffic deaths as shown in the above map, brings to mind the horrible bus accident where 17 lost their lives when a Greyhound bus hit a narrow bridge south of town and burned. Otherwise the total deaths in Chilton County would have been only 12, which of course, is bad but compares with most of the other totals.

UNITY SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING AT MOUNTAIN CREEK

A meeting of the Unity Association Sunday School Convention was held at Mt. Creek Baptist church last Sunday afternoon. The county superintendent, Mr. Judson Strock, called the meeting to order, and Rev. Clark Burkhalter sang the opening song and conducted the devotional. The attendance by churches was registered by the secretary, the following churches, or Sunday Schools, being represented by the number present as indicated:

Mt. Creek, 10; Marbury, 3; Verbena 6; Clanton, 2; Concord, 1; visitors 2; total, 24.

After a few preliminary remarks by the superintendent, Rev. T. H. Brock spoke most interestingly on "The Responsibility of the Teacher and the Need of Training and Study." After a song Prof. Patterson Hicks took the floor and spoke on "The Sunday School the Training Agency for our Young People." In regard to the present belligerent conditions, Prof. Hicks said: "This is a Christian war; unless the world recognizes and turns to God, we are lost."

Following another song, Prof. W. Q. Bradley spoke on "Training the Intermediates." Many valuable points relative to attacking and solving the problems of the younger people were brought out by Prof. Bradley. Mr. Strock made some remarks supplementary to the subject just discussed. Mrs. E. G. Boyd spoke at length on "The Work of the W. M. S.," which was enjoyed by all.

Next Meeting May 3rd

After some discussion as to the time and place of the next meeting, the Superintendent announced that the next meeting would be held at Verbena Baptist church the first Sunday in May. It is hoped that a larger and more representative attendance will be had at the meeting at Verbena.

Following a few remarks by Mr. R. L. Duffey, the meeting was adjourned with prayer.— Judson Strock, County Superintendent; T. E. Wyatt, Secretary.

BRIEF FARM NEWS

Sugar rationing is causing Alabama farmers to make plans for producing syrup and honey. More sugar cane will be produced in South Alabama and more sorghum in North Alabama. Many farmers in all parts of the state are getting from three to five hives of honey bees.

Agricultural loans in Alabama on January 1 this year totaled $90,603,274. Of this amount $66,780,208, or 73.7 per cent had been loaned by federal agencies and $23,823,066, or 26.3 per cent by commercial banks.

Much of the livestock losses by truck and rail in Alabama can be eliminated by careful handling of the livestock from the farm to the packing plant. Common causes of bruises is lack of good loading chutes, hurrying too much in loading, hitting with sticks instead of flaps, sharp corners in pens, and sharp cattle horns.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NEWS

The mid-year Music Recital of Thorsby Institute was held on Friady night. There was quite an audience who seemed very well pleased with the concert. The closing numbers on the program by the girls' Glee Club were exceptionally good. This is the first year that Trumpet and Cornet have been taught here. J. L. Lang played the Trumpet very well and J. L. and James Duke Heflin played a duet "Stars of the Summer Night" which was very pretty. The second number by the boys' Chorus "Aura Lee" was very good. Mrs. T. E. Campbell directed this.

On Thursday and Friday of this week the first term examinations of the second semester will be held.

Instead of a picnic which the school had for several years near April 1, it was voted to take next Monday as a holiday. Most of the boarding students will go home for the week end and they will have one more day at home.

On March 21 two plays will be given by the Pushmataha and Philomathis Clubs. They will be competitive. On April 11 the last Literary Society program meeting will be held. This will be under the direction of Miss Rylander.

IT'S OUR PATRIOTIC DUTY TO ELECT TO CONGRESS A REPRESENTATIVE WHO WILL SEE THAT OUR TAX DOLLARS DO THEIR WARTIME DUTY

HAYSE TUCKER

HAYSE TUCKER, candidate for Congress from the Sixth District, served in the legislature as Chairman of the Finance and Taxation Committee. He guided the entire planning of a balanced state budget totaling over 40 million dollars a year with the result that state schools received $3,500,000 additional funds in 1941 without the levy of new taxes.

Congress now needs men of his broad financial experience and proved character to help plan our Nation's wartime budget. We have a big stake in government today because, as taxpayers, we bear a steadily increasing load of our country's big tax bill.

Choose, Mr. and Mrs. Sixth District Voter, as your representative in Congress—a man trained and conditioned by successful experience in business and in government, one who "knows what it's all about", able to think in millions and even in billions in behalf of his 251,000 constituents.

The Chris Sherlock Race For Governor

(From The Progressive Age, Scottsboro, Feb. 26, 1942)

A major stir was caused in Alabama state poltics Tuesday when Chris Sherlock, head of the Alabama highway system, under the Dixon administration, announced for Governor of Alabama. He has been with the State Highway Department for twenty years.

In his opening announcement, Mr. Sherlock declares his deep affection and sincere friendship for Col. Bibb Graves, also a candidate, but he fears Co. Graves is not able physically to be governor and the office will be run by "a clique, who will make decisions, spend the money, administer the patronage, choose the favorite works of the state" if Col. Graves is elected.

Mr. Sherlock's statement and declaration have some peculiar angles. If he has been such a friend of Col. Graves and in his support, he must have evidently been for a long time one of the "clique" he names, as the Graves crowd now active for the Colonel is identically the same crowd of women and men who have supported and been identified in former Graves' administrations. He held office two terms under Graves and was associated with the other men now known as the "clique."

Also, we believe, Mr. Sherlock was appointed to head the biggest state department by Governor Dixon, whose forces, in most instances, are now known to be anti-Graves.

The editor of these newspapers has no criticism of Mr. Sherlock and certainly knows he has a right to run, but the "opening gun" smacks very much of the idea that the anti-Graves crowd was falling down miserably with Sparks for an opponent for Graves and they are going to let Sparks down and try another horse, who might do better.

This editor has had contact with most of the state during the last few weeks and with many different organizations which constitute most of the votes of Alabama, and we are positive Alabama prefers Bibb Graves for governor over anybody now opposing him, and this statement includes up to this morning.

If Bibb Graves feels he should not run, he will tell his friends and they will pick a man. But we do not think that will be necessary at all. It is amusing that a high official in the anti-Graves camp should set himself up to "save us" from an invalid being controlled years and we are positive he is one man nobody conby others. This editor has known Bibb Graves many trols at any time or forces to do things he does not wish to do.

The matter now looks as if Sparks is completely out of the picture and the "save you from yourselves campaign" will be instituted instead of Sparks "old age pension flower" which was blooming very slowly.

It is my personal belief that no governor in history has ever been fairer and done more for Jackson County than did Bibb Graves. At that time he had associates and friends helping him administer. These are the same people, with many good ones added, now with Graves, and we have no reason to believe that we could better ourselves by running off and leaving true and tried friends because someone "fears for our safety."

Mark Remarks:

Quick, Watson, the needle, quick; Sherlock has discovered two gray hairs near where Bibb use to sit on Goat Hill when governor. By and through the aid of that highly developed analytical political mind of his, Sherlock has deduced that Bibb is too old and decrepit to again serve the people of Alabama as their Governor; and he, the great Sherlock, offers to sacrifice himself on the altar of an unappreciative public in order that Alabama may be saved from another four years of peace, prosperity and progress—the kind of years that Bibb has given them twice before, and is destined to give them again. Hold, Watson! Never mind, several other have tried it, and it just won't work.

MARK TUCKER VISITS

Nothing gives us more pleasure than a chat with Mark Tucker, the sage of Clanton and publisher in the same city. Mark Tucker is an institution in Alabama journalism. Probably no man in the journalistic field in Alabama is better known by his fellow workers or more widely loved.

Mark Tucker has a kindly feeling towards his fellow men. While he is hard as nails when it comes to taking a position in politics, we have never heard of Mark questioning the motives of his opponents. He is too experienced and worldly wise and too kindly to do that. But he is about the most effective fighter in the weekly press of Alabama.

Mark was in town Tuesday and we were honored in being able to spend a few minutes with him. That he is for Col. Graves is very well known and he is proud that 85 per cent of all Alabamians are with him. And so are we.—Atticus Mullin, in Montgomery Advertiser.

Thanks Bishop. Accept our profoundest bow. When we finish counting the votes for Bibb on May 5th, we will go to the Picwick for a pompano and a bottle of sauterne--or whatever it is that goes with pompano.

Letters To The Editor

Tom McKee Writes Voters

To The Voters of Chilton County:

Some weeks back I announced in the local paper that, at the proper time, I would make my announcement as to the running for Tax Collector of Chilton County. Last week I qualified and have filed my declaration as a candidate for Tax Collector of Chilton County.

As you people know I served in this office for a term of four years, 1935-1939, and I tried my best to make you a good County official. Upon my record, courtesies and accomodations shown to the people of the County while serving you, I believe I would be better qualified now to again serve you in this office.

I have the highest appreciation for all of the candidates on the Democratic ticket and they are all my friends, and let us hope that every candidate's actions in canvassing in the primaries and the actions of the ones responsible for the handling of the absentee ballots in the primaries will be such that commend the results of the primaries. My judgment is, from years of experience and observation, that the people will always do the right thing if given the opportunity without undue interference and persuasion.

I was raised and educated to love and appreciate the principles of democracy and in this critical time when our boys are sacrificing their lives in defense of democracy, it makes me appreciate more the battles I have fought for democracy. I wil lappreciate your support and vote for my nomination to the office of Tax Collector.

Respectfully yours,
—T .L. McKEE.

J. R. Hardy Asks Support Of Voters

Friends and fellow citizens, you have no doubt already noticed my announcement as a candidate for Sheriff of Chilton County, subject to the action of the coming May Primary.

I feel that it is quite unnecessary for me to try to tell you about myself, as I feel that my actions during my administration as your Sheriff from 1935 through 1938 surely caused you to form your opinion of me in a much more satisfactory manner than I could explain myself to you in writing. Witnessing the whole-hearted cooperation of the good people from every section of the County with your priceless commendation from time to time caused many of my duties and obligations as Sheriff to become a pleasure, so naturally your actions toward me caused me to feel that you were well pleased with my efforts.

Having been continuously solicited and encouraged by scores of friends from over the County ever since the expiration of my term before, I am coming to you with a firm determination, that should you see fit to nominate and elect me as your Sheriff again, not only to do as well as before, but, having gained experience before, I feel that I can serve you even better again, profiting at all times by any former mistake.

Should I not get to see you in person before the date of the Primary, please do not accept it as an act of carelessness or indifference, for I shall try to see each of you before that time.

I assure you that your vote and influence in my interest will be greatly appreciated.—J. R. HARDY.

Howard Oden A Letter From

Maplesville, Ala., March 3, 1942.

Editor Chilton County News:

I hardly know how to convey to my friends, reasons for not entering the race this time for county Commissioner.

During the world war I I resigned a good job in order that I might do my full part in growing food and feed that our soldier boys and people at home might not suffer for the need of them. Today my own is with the Navy somewhere (I expect to hear from him soon). But whether it is my boy or yours, I am more than ready to do my little mite in order to bring this war to a close as early as possible. Of course what I might do would have scarcely no effect but to put a million or perhaps millions together would amount to a great deal. In fact the nation, or rather our nation is in need of the last one of us doing everything possible. We should realize just how little we know about the true or actual situation confronting us and follow our President in an all-out program for winning this war. To be loyal American citizens we must work, give and be careful how we talk.

Well I did not intend to write an article about the war, but if this all-out program for winning this war is not uppermost in the minds of any of our candidates I believe we ought to pass them up.

I appreciate from the bottom of my heart my friends and your interest in me. If I can be of service to any one of you don't hesitate to call on me. I am,

Sincerely
—H. R. ODEN.

MACARTHUR AND HIS BOYS

Here is just a simple problem,
The Japs can solve real fast;
If one American whips ten Japs,
How long will the Japanese last?
That's being done in the Philippines,
By MacArthur and his few boys;
They're cutting down the Nipponese gang,
Just like they were tin toys.
Look and listen you grinning Japs,
Go and tell the Rising Sun;
That America is now just sparring.
The real fight has not begun.
Hitler learned when he hit Russia,
He had stuck his head in a noose;
He too, had caught him something,
He's not able to turn loose.
Japan has been fighting China,
With little gain in many years;
Now she's tied up with a nation,
That will donate what she fears.

Chas. G. Dobbins For Deputy Administrator

—o—

Joseph H. Lyons, State Administrator for Alabama announced Monday that Charles G. Dobbins, publisher of the Anniston Times, has been added to the Defense Savings Staff for Alabama Administrator.

Dobbins began his duties Monday after going on leave of absence March 1 from the editorship of his Anniston semi-weekly newspaper. He will assist Lyons and his associate, Marc Ray Clement, Tuscaloosa attorney, in the task of organizing Alabama for maximum purchase of Defense Savings Bonds.

Until his promotion Monday, Dobbins had served as District Administrator for the Defense Savings Staff for the Fourth Congressional District of which his own county, Calhoun, is a part.

In addition to District Administrators, Mr. Lyons and his staff are naming a chairman for each County and for each municipality in Alabama. These leaders are aided by committees representative of every business and interest in the county or city.

Born in Crensboro, Alabama, Dobbins attended schools in Hurtsboro and Luverne and graduated from Howard College and Columbia University. He taught for several years at the University of Wisconsin, and later served three years as executive secretary of Alabama College, Montevallo.

After his purchase of The Anniston Times in 1939, the paper received the University of Alabama award for 1940 as the best Alabama weekly newspaper. Last January one of Dobbins' editorials received the University of Alabama award as best in the State for 1941, and he was elected president of the Alabama Press Association. He is Chairman of the Alabama Policy Committee, and is serving under Chairman Donald Comer as head of the inter-racial division of the Ten Year Program for Development of Alabama.

WAYNE "MAGIC" CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN

—o—

Magic and fun for everyone. . . . Magic that would make the Thief of Bagdad "wall-eyed" with envy. . . . A bewildering whirlpool of sensational "mystic" surprises that will widen your eyes with astonishment is promised those who attend the WAYNE "MAGIC" CIRCUS to be held at the Chilton County High School Gymnasium, Clanton, Ala., Monday March 9, at 8:00 p. m.

This show comes to this community through the courtesy of Allied Mills, Inc., manufacturers of Wayne Feeds, and Mr. Dalton Bice, Mgr., Chilton County Farmers Exchange, the local Wayne Feed Dealer.

Clifford P. Kirkpatrick, the man who mystifies magicians, is the feature attraction of the Circus. Mr. Kirkpatrick, veteran magician and for more than 34 years. He comes globe trotter, has performed magic from a family which for many years has been noted for their ability to wield the "Magic Wand" and pull unusual objects out of hats.

Another very popular feature of the magic circus is to be the showing of an educational sound slide film—"It's In the Bag." This film is said to be very interesting and educational.

A great show and a lot of fun is anticipated. It's FREE—open to the public and everyone is invited.

Statement From James E. Folsom

—o—

In announcing my candidacy for Governor of the State of Alabama, I feel that the time has come in this State for a reorganization and spring-cleaning.

I believe that the people realize that the old reactionary administration of government for the benefit of the few is gone, or that it is in process of going; and that we are now entering upon a new era and a new and more abundant life for all the people. This is a new thought and the first time in the history of mankind that it has been embraced and accepted by all Nations on the face of the earth except those that believe in dictatorship. And, therefore, the time is ripe for us to prepare our government to meet and cope with the situation when that thin line of boys will come back from the battlefields and try to readjust themselves to Civil life. I do not believe that the older generation of leadership which has brought about the situation that now exists in the world can meet the demand that will be made upon them What Alabama needs is new blood and life. Quoting from another candidate for Governor(we need an unscarred candidate. However, I don't believe that any man can stay on "Capitol Hill," especially what has gone before, for twenty-one years or for eight years, and come out unscarred. If he can then he is not a potential candidate for Governor but a "miracle."

I have advocated and campaigned dilligently and vigorously for the past ten years for old age benefits, and I have advocated all the time fifty dollars per month for all those over 65. I have seen, up to date, that the aged have no cahmpion in the race, whom I think is sincere and honest on this issue; and having dedicated myself long ago to champion their fight, I enter this race. And I hereby pledge them that I will keep on fighting, even though my head be bloody and the road rough and the battle tough; until victory is attained, because I have the faith. If elected I promise to call a constitutional convention and rewrite the constitution so the evils in our State can be eliminated.

CONCRETE'S
"ribbon of light"
makes roads safer for night driving

If you had to pile your family in the car and speed across Alabama tonight, you'd wish for the visibility and safety of "concrete all the way"—wouldn't you?

As a matter of fact, if Alabama paved with concrete all the way on main roads such as U.S. 80, U.S. 31 and U.S. 78 —to name a few—it would be real public economy as well as adding to the safety and the comfort of all motorists.

Cost of maintenance of concrete on Alabama's main highways is only one-third that of other surfaces. Actual figures in Alabama and all over the country prove concrete's economy.

Silas Coma (Si) Garrett

Statement of Si Garrett of Grove Hill, Ala.

To The People of Alabama:

On February 18, in accordance with plans long previously made, I resigned as Assistant Attorney General and officially qualified as a candidate for Attorney General in the forthcoming Democratic Primaries. From the many assurances of support which I have received from every county in Alabama, I am confident that I could be nominated and elected.

I am of draft age, and though I have been, and am now, in Class 3-A, I realize that the ominous events on the world-wide battle front in the last few days make it possible, if not likely, that the rules and regulations governing my particular status may be changed, making me subject to call for active duty in the armed forces of my country at any time. However, if I were Attorney General, I would not be liable to call, but would be deferred for the term of my office. I feel that I should do nothing to affect my liability to call to serve my country at any time. Therefore, placing my duty to my country above personal ambition, I am foregoing the realization of my ambition to serve the people of Alabama as Attorney General for the time being, at least, and I have today officially withdrawn from the race.

These are the darkest days that World Democracy has ever faced, and the liberties and freedoms that we all hold so dear are under vicious and dastardly criminal assault from the mechanized barbarians of Europe and Asia, and when the call of my country comes, I will cheerfully and willingly answer, and will do my part, small though it may be, in this grim struggle, to the very best of my energy and ability, secure in the knowledge that our cause is just and that ultimate victory will be ours. When the struggle is over, and our Democratic way of life has been preserved, if I survive, I shall return to the Alabama that I love.

I take this opportunity to thank, from the bottom of my heart, every man and woman in Alabama who is supporting me. May God bless you all.

Silas Coma (Si) Garrett, Grove Hill, Ala.

Treat Cottonseed For Better Stands

Experiments by the Alabama Experiment Station reveal that better stands of cotton are obtained when cottonseed are treated with organic mercury dust, reports J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

The poison should be used according to manufacturers' instructions and persons applying it should wear a mask as it is irritating. Destroy all treated seed not planted so they will not be fed or sold. Treated seed are poisonous to livestock.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK
By DR. BOB JONES, JR.
PRESIDENT OF BOB JONES COLLEGE

On two different occasions (Mark -39, Matthew 14:22-27) the Lord's ples were caught in a storm n Sea of Galilee. The first time sus was asleep in the stern of the oat. In their fear they waked Him sking, "Carest Thou not that we erish?" He arose and rebuked the and said to the waves, "Be ill." With the simple language of ivine authority He silenced the empest and calmed the sea. The aves, like little dogs that obey e command of their master, lay own and went to sleep.

On the other occasion the disciples were in the boat without Him, nd in the midst of the tempest He ame to them walking on the sea. his time He did not speak to the ind or the sea but to them. "It I; be not afraid." He had demrated His power over the storm re. Now, His very presence should ing them confidence.

Christ is still able to quiet the pests and subdue storms. He n still work the miracle of bringg peace and quiet out of turmoil d discord, but it is not always is will to do so. When He permits e storm to rage, His very presence the lives of those who know and ve Him brings peace and confidence in the midst of the storm. It is a wonderful thing to know the Saviour, who is able to settle strife and subdue discord and bring peace out of tumult. It is even more wonderful to have a Lord who can give inward peace and confidence to His followers in the midst of the storm it is not His divine will to subdue. Into every life comes a time of tempest when the winds blow and the waves beat and the seas threaten to engulf. In such a time the very presence of the Saviour is able to impart within our souls a sense of security and calm in amazing contrast to the tempest about us. In the midst of the storm which He permits to rage, He comes to His own, walking on the very waves which would become still if He should so command. He does not address the raging elements. He speaks instead to the frightened and storm-tossed ones. Above the sound of the storm and the surge of the seas comes the melody of His voice. "It is I; be not afraid," and all is quiet and peaceful within their breasts. So amid the storms of our life He speaks to His own. "My peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

Maybe You've Heard Something Like This

Some of the moans, groans and regrets emanating from motor graveyards and traffic casualty wards in hospitals (anywhere) are as follows:

I feel run down.
I must have dozed.
I was in a big hurry.
So I sez 'Step on it'.
I stepped her up to 75.
I had the right-o-way.
My luck finally ran out.
Pop let me take the car.
He dared me to go faster.
I must have lost my head.
Yet, she'll do 80 all right.
I musta forgot the signalling.
Think I'd let a fool pass me?
Pedestrians have their rights.
I allus figured stop meant slow.
I went through a yellow light.
I was tight—but my brakes weren't.
You know, I figured I could beat that train.
I wish I had left the kids home on that trip.

But moans, groans, regrets and explanation do not bind up wounds, knit broken bones, restore the dead, nor pay for damages.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

When Gen. U. S. Grant was in the limelight as the leader of the Federal forces of the Civil War, he was holding a conference with his generals, when one of them told an ugly, smutty story. Grant rebuked him saying. "You can't talk that way in our presence." The offender glanced around and then replied, "I do not see why, there are no ladies present." Then Gen. Grant pulled himself to his full height and replied, "That is true, Sir, but we happen to have several gentlemen present." Would that some blab mouthed vulgarians could see that smutty stories are out of order when there are only gentlemen present.

There is a rhythm in the breathing out of the bad and in the breathing in the good. On the inside our bodies are continually breaking up. Impurities gather into the blood, the stomach and the lungs. Nature is operating garbage trucks to gather up and cart out all that is impure within. If it were not for these eliminators the poison within would kill us in a very short time. Our lungs breathe in life and breathe our death and that is true of the digestive organs and of the blood stream. If we live, the good must come in and the bad must go out. In like manner there should be rhythm in our spirits. We are in the world and we must live with the worldly life all around us. but we can so live as to breathe in the good and breathe out the bad. While we are in the world, we can let the rhythm of the soul cast aside all of the wickedness of a wicked world.

I went into a doll factory and watched the men and women at work. They were cutting out patterns and they were making dolls by the thousands. As we came to the last room in the factory the finished products were there on display. The dolls were beautifully made and dressed, but there was nothing but saw dust in their heads. Take a sharp knife and cut open this doll head and there is nothing but saw dust. Not so with a little babe. When the knife is used on the head of the babe, the blood streams out, there is life there. Of that babe in your home, it is well to remember that it is not a doll, but that it is life. It is a human life to be trained for service and for eternity. Never try to make the baby into a doll, but do your best to make it into a human being with blood, brain and soul.

Star Daily was set out on a life of crime because he was laughed at while trying to recite a poem. The lines left his memory and he hesitated. The children of his age tittered and laughed at his embarrassment, and never again did he have the heart to seek their fellowship. He went among boys who were older than he and they made a criminal out of him. Just a laugh, just a titter at the expense of one who is embarrassed, can change a whole life. Few pains in human life are keener than to be embarrassed. If we are real humans and not monkeys, we will see the seriousness of being embarrassed and at that time be on our very best behavior. When you find that any one is embarrassed, it is then a mighty good time to love and lift. Beware of tittering and laughing at those who are embarrassed.

The Duke of Warsaw was one of Napoleon's most trusted generals. He was a very brave man but he was highly nervous. Once when he was getting ready to mount his horse to ride into battle, his knees were shaking so hard that he could not keep his feet in the stirup. His orderly said to him. "Sir, your knees are shaking." "Yes" replied the doughty old soldier, "And if they knew where I was going to carry them, they would be shaking more then they are." The Duke of Warsaw had sense enough to be afraid, but he was no coward. In spite of all of our fear and trembling, we should know our duty and do it. No man can run away from duty and life to have self-mastery. We have got to let our knees shake, but do what is expected of us regardless. Blessed is that one who is braver than his nerves.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

By BEN

A couple of cousins, the Madaris boys were in to see us for a few minutes last Sunday. Both were raised in this neck of the woods and were down saying hello to their country cousins. Julius is living in Birmingham and Jimmie is living in Alexandria, Va., he was sorta mixing business with pleasure on his trip as he represented the Union and was making a tour through Florida, Louisiana and Alabama. Needless to say we enjoyed their visit and urge both to come again.

Mr. Tom McKee called to us across the street last Friday afternoon and said that he was tired of us bellyaching about these candidates that talked a lot about announcing and did nothing about it. So what does Mr. Tom do. . . he qualified that same day and you will find his announcement on the Editorial page. Here's what he had to say about his candidacy:"I have served you four years in the Tax Collector's office. I tried to satisfy you by being efficient, courteous and accomodating. If I accomplished that, then I hope that I deserve your consideration and support." Well go to it fellows, times' a-wastin.

Typical scene of the business district of Clanton Monday morning.

Those long lines down the curbs are cars covered in the snow and if you look good you can see Dolly Bell Harris going into the Farm Loan office with a white raincoat on. Earl Parrish is crossing with John Page from the First National Bank to Alred's Drug Store and Frank Scott has just slipped down in front of their new store. As you can plainly see the photographer who snapped this scene was standing under the light at 2nd Avenue and the highway looking East toward the courthouse. That looks like Red Wagoner going into the Barber shop but we don't think it is. He hadn't got down when this picture was taken. The truck you see sideways across the street is also typical of the traffic on Monday morning. They were either across the street or jammed against the curbing trying to get out into the street. Now if you could just see into the News office, jammed against a warm stove, hibernating, that was me. There are three candidates for Tax Collector in the picture but they are running so fast you can't see them.

Elsewhere in this issue of the News you will find a photograph of Floyd Williams who is somewhere in the Philippines or in that locality. Floyd has only had five birthdays but is 22 years old. He should have had one Sunday but March came in too fast and clipped the 29th of February off and left him without a birthday. That's the day he was born on. Another thing about Floyd's birthday is that he was born on Sunday and he will be about fifty years old before his birthday comes on Sunday again, and then he will have just celebrated his 12th birthday anniversary. February's with Fifth Sundays don't come around very often.

Funny what length some folks will go to prove that we don't know what we are talking about. Now take Jack Fuqua for instance. We stated last week that Jack was in foreign service. Well, he isn't. He walked into the News office this week to prove it. No fooling though, he was supposed to be, but he got transferred at the last minute to the Air Corps and is here awaiting call to Maxwell Field where he will begin training soon.

Things-About-The lady going down the highway Monday afternoon during the deep snow, her husband driving and she calmly curling her hair... The rukus Saturday night at the high school gym, a few more like that and Chilton County High School won't be able to get a game of any kind, no matter where the blame lies. . . and seems everyone there was in a good humor to start a fight. . . The young lady at the Cafe Sunday when we called and asked that she please page Mr.——, she responded, "what do you want with him, do you want him to come to the phone." . . . And we'll never forget a certain young matron who passed us slushing toward home Monday morning, on the verge of freezing. She opened the window of her car and called, "hello. would you like to ride," and drove on into the snow. . . as Mr. Hope says, "Where does an alien go to register?

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of little Loyd Headley who passed away only three months ago.

What would we give to clasp his hand.
His happy face to touch
To hear his voice, to see his smile, that meant so much to us.
We're sad within our memory, lonely in our hearts today.
For the one we loved so dearly.
Has forever been called away.
We think of him in silence.
No eye may see us weep. But many silent tears are shed.
When others are asleep.

MAGNIFICENT BRIDGE OVER TENNESSEE RIVER, between Florence and Sheffield. This bridge over the Tennessee (Pickwick Lake) is two miles below Wilson Dam. Costing over a million dollars, it was under construction for 18 months, and was opened to traffic in October, 1939. The structure is 2,000 feet long. It is 48 feet wide, including two 20-ft. lanes, and a 4-ft. sidewalk. Materials used in this construction were 600 tons of reinforcing steel, 3,000 tons of structural steel, 10,000 barrels of cement, 3,500 tons of sand, and 7,000 tons of gravel. The bridge is designed for "H-20" loading, a standard used only in heavy industrial areas. The structure consists of five steel-deck truss spans each 200 feet long, and one through-steel continuous truss 900 feet long, with a channel span of 420 feet, the longest in the State. The concrete piers are all founded on rock in the river bed. Prior to completion of this great structure, there was an inadequate highway crossing on the lower deck of a railroad bridge. This great bridge is truly an asset to national defense, as there are many large industrial plants in that area. This, the "O'Neal Bridge" honors two Governors of Alabama, Edward A. O'Neal, father, 1882-1886, and Emmett O'Neal, the son, 1911-15.

Bibb Graves Campaign Manager, Dick Rives, Goes After Political Back Cappers

Address Delivered by Hon. Richard T. Rives State Campaign Manager For Colonel Bibb Graves, Over Statewide Hook-up at 8:00 P. M., February 26, 1942, (Originating over WSFA, Montgomery, Ala.)

Ever since it became apparent that there was an overwhelming desire on the part of the people of Alabama for Governor Graves to again become a candidate for the position to which he has been twice elected his political opponents have sought to make political capital of his temporary illness. The rumor mongers said that Governor Graves could never stand a necessary operation. A little over a month ago that report was conclusively proved false when Dr. Young, the famous urologist of Johns Hopkins hospital operated on him and pronounced the operation an unqualified success. Surely no one would believe that this famous surgeon of John Hopkins hospital was giving out any false statement. When their first candidate evidenced no popular support and failed to get up any speed and looked a little leg weary, and it became plain that he could not win but would make an extremely poor showing, in their desperate plight a second candidate has been produced

It is certain that when the public becomes convinced, as they will be when Governor Graves returns in a short time to Alabama and makes his first public appearance, that these opponents have been insidiously and energetically spreading these false reports about his real condition, it will and should react so forcibly against this second candidate that his showing will be even less favorable. No fair and reasonable man would want to profit by the illness of an opponent, no loyal friend would even suggest it, much less exaggerate and misrepresent it. If this candidate was sincere when he said, as he did say in his announcement, "that I regard him (Graves) with affection as a personal friend," then instead of plunging a dagger in his back while he was ill and absent he would have earnestly prayed for his early recovery and restoration to health in order that the people of Alabama might again enjoy the fruit of his labor and grow and prosper under his wise and efficient administration.

The opposition's new self styled unscarred says, I quote—"It is obvious that due to age and physical infirmities Bibb Graves is not physically able to be governor in times like these." Age?—A man not beyond his sixties too old to be governor? Physical infirmities—we all have some physical infirmities. Our president has a physical infirmity. So long as they are not mental we aren't incapacitated. What omniponent power does this "unscarred candidate" possess that authorizes him to declare that Bibb Graves has physical infirmities that disqualify him from being Governor when he knows, as all who read the newspapers know, what some of the greatest doctors and surgeons in America have said about Bibb Graves' condition. It is this false friend's opinion against the opinion of these surgeons and doctors. If he thought these surgeons and doctors were wrong and he was right and he desired to sacrifice himself and save the state from an infirm governor, why did he not go to see the man whom he said he regarded with affection and as a personal friend?

From the reports and long distance calls which I have been receiving from throughout the state I am sure that the despicable tactics of his opponents have been recognized by Governor Graves loyal friends and have stirred them into unprecedented activity in his behalf.

Only this morning I received the following telegram from Sarasota, Fla.

"Col. Richard T. Rives,
Montgomery, Ala.

Since arriving in Sarasota I have heard a rumor that I would not be able on account of physical condition to make the race for governor and would retire in favor of some other candidate. I denounce this as contemptible political propaganda as malicious as it is untrue. Please say to the people of Alabama for me that I am feeling fine and rapidly recovering strength from the natural weakness following an operation. Ask my loyal friends to carry on for the short time necessary for my complete recuperation and assure them that I will be home shortly to open my speaking campaign for governor. I am positively in the race to the finish with an abiding confidence that my people will make me their next governor.

BIBB GRAVES."

I trust that this will put an end to this contemptible political propaganda, and that the candidate will present the records in an orderly and dignified manner on which they are making their appeals for support. Governor Graves on his return will present to the people the record of his administration on which he bases his candidacy and of which he is justly proud, and which we are confident will be approved by our people when the votes are cast in the coming primary.

over last year and we all know that the fertilizer we buy this year was made up last summer and fall, that the material had not advanced but very little. Fertilizer is one of the costliest articles that farmers have to buy. I would love to hear some dealer explain the difference in the price of the material that goes into fertilizer to make this crop and what it was last year.

Farming is number one in the defense program and yet it looks like the farmers are going to be neglected, and we all know that our soldiers could not fight at all without something to eat, and it seems like our responsibility is going to be to help feed our Allies in Europe. It seems like a great deal of land is going to lay out this year unless some special help and encouragement be extended to have the land cultivated.

This County is composed of small farmers, one and two-horse. Since the allotment of cotton has been reduced it is hard for small farmers, but possibly has helped the larger ones because the small farmers have the surplus labor probably to take care of 8 or 10 bales of cotton where they are only permitted to make two or three, but our farmers have begun to diversify with fruit, strawberries, watermelons, and vegetables, and that nearly all own trucks and haul their produce to market, mostly to Birmingham. And I can see that if they cannot get tires for their pick-up's, the farmers will be further injured in this County, but, of course, saving it will help the war condition. We are willing to give up every kind of automobile we have, but what I am trying to call attention to is that we should get every acre of cultivatable land in cultivation in 1942, and I hope that the small farmers in Alabama will not be neglected.
1942, and I hope that the small farmers in Alabama will not be neglected.

Respectfully submitted,
L. H. Reynolds, Chairman, Laymans Movement to make Alabama Dry in 1942.

Caution Urged In Selecting Farm Hands

Urging careful scrutiny of registrants in agricultural occupations to protect food production for the Nation's war effort, Brig. Gen. Ben M. Smith, State Director of Selective Service, today advised all Alabama local boards that they now may obtain information on farm conditions in their localities from the county war boards of the United States Department of Agriculture.

This cooperation, the Director declared, has been arranged by National Headquarters of the Selective Service System and the Department of Agriculture. The data to be given to local boards on request, he said, will include "information on agricultural production goals, the size of farming units required to make a significant contribution to achieve these goals, the skills required for these farming operations, and the availability of workers possessing these skills."

County war boards will be limited to providing general information and will not request deferments or consideration of the cases of individual registrants Director Smith said. Classifications remains the duty and responsibility of the Selective Service local board, he emphasized, and each claim for deverment must be handled on individual merit.

Emphasizing, also, the importance of maintaining production, of certain agricultural products necessary to the National War Program, State Director Ben M. Smith quoted from a memorandum addressed to all State Directors by Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, who said:

"Reports reaching this National Headquarters indicate that, in some sections of the country, the demand for manpower for industrial production and for the armed forces has resulted in the serious depletion of the number of men necessary to the maintenance of essential agricultural activities.

"In order to insure the maintenance of essential agricultural activities, this Headquarters again calls the attention of local boards to the importance of giving full consideration to claims for deferment of men engaged in this field."

Such consideration, General Hershey asserted, "should include thorough analysis of the status of each man with respect to his agricultural employment, and should be based upon full information regarding those agricultural products which are essential." The cooperation promised by the Department of Agriculture, he said, should greatly assist Selective Service local boards in obtaining adequate information for the proper classification of registrants engaged in agricultural pursuits.

Army Still Has Use For Mule

ATLANTA, Ga., March 6.—Genius has devised and built many models of mechanical transportation to hustle fighting equipment and personnel at highly stepped-up speed, but the mule still plods along his flop-eared way—in the Army.

That fact is revealed in a report released today by the office of Colonel James R. Alfonte, Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster, showing that mules—and horses—are helping carry on the work that is steadily piling up a mess of trouble for Hitler and the slant-eyed boys who like to wield a knife in the dark. And these animals are doing work that can't be done by any power-driven machine that has yet been built.

Some of the tasks the Army mule performs are menial, but where the "hard tails" really carry the ball is lending a hand—or rather a back and four sturdy, sure-footed legs—in getting light artillery equipment over mountainous country where even a "jeep" can't go. When the going gets too steep and rough for the gun carriages, caissons and amunition carts, the guns are dismantled, strapped to the mules' backs and the batteries move right on into position.

Horses are still used in some artillery outfits and that dashing, colorful, quick and hard striking service branch, the cavalry, is by no mea extinct.

But with the cavalry, the lo gruelling marches are taboo. And t horses get a break. They ride. W men and mounts fully accoutered, l trucks furnished by the Quarterma er Corps speed them to th where they are most needed. there, men and horses are fresh T are able to form quickly and, in parlance of the fighting man, the enemy."

TO BE STATEWIDE POLITICAL RALLY

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

By ATTICUS MULLIN

The Alabama political campaign which will end with the May primary, will get underway formally in Montgomery, March 21, when Col. Bibb Graves will make his opening address at the city auditorium in which promises to be a Statewide Democratic rally.

Col. Richard T. Rives, State campaign chairman for Col. Graves, returned to Montgomery Monday from Sarasota, Fla., where he visited Col. Graves during the week-end. He was accompanied by Senator Charles Stakely of Montgomery.

"Col. Graves is rapidly convalescing," said Col. Rives. "He is taking active exercise in the sunshine of Sarasota. The weather has cleared and he is getting a sun tan. He will be in tip-top shape for the opening of the campaign in Montgomery on March 21."

Senator Stakely, who spent a day with Col. Graves in company with Col. Rives, commented "Col. Graves had a busy day with us and I was gratified at the improvement he has shown. He will be in top shape when he opens his campaign in Montgomery."

Col. Rives said the State-wide rally in Montgomery would begin around 11 a. m. Saturday of the 21st. It was decided to select a daytime engagement because voters from all over Alabama wanted to be present and a night start would have precluded many of them coming. As it is, Graves men from any county in Alabama can reach Montgomery Saturday morning in time for the rally and can get home that evening in time for supper, even if it is a late one.

To date the political situation has been one that was without parallel in the history of gubernatorial campaigns in Alabama. There has been absolutely no interest among the voters and little among the politicians because the principal actor was first in a hospital at Baltimore and later basking in Florida sunshine to recuperate. Several candidates have announced and started to speak but no interest has been shown in any of them.

From gossip the writer heard Monday, all five of the anti-Graves candidates for governor, Broyles, of Birmingham; Carwile, of Clay; Folsom, of Coffee; Sherlock of Montgomery, and Sparks of Barbour, in alphabetical order, are really glad to know that the campaign will be started on the 21st. These candidates have been chafing at the bits to get started themselves. They tried to start but the pistol failed to fire and they had to return to the starting point. Col. Graves will fire the pistol for the start of the gubernatorial race on the 21st and the five anti-Graves candidates feel that they can get going then and even though they lag in the race, at least they will have a chance to talk politics with somebody listening, even though it might be a Graves man. Today nobody has listened to any of them.

Since the publication in the dailies of Alabama Sunday of photographs showing the improvement in Col. Graves's condition, new diseases have been made up for the doughty Colonel. A Capitol source (who was talking off the record) has said that even though the Colonel can walk about and looks good, his mind is affected. That source was the one that started the cancer talk nearly a month ago. That source says that the cancer was cut out but that it will return and that even though it does not return in time to kill the Colonel before he takes office, it will eventually return and kill him. Of course all of that is the usual hooey. The most famous surgeon in his line in America has officially stated that he operated upon Col. Graves for a stone at the mouth of his bladder and for prostatic trouble and that he will be in better condition soon than he has been in a dozen years. But such is politics where smearers are at large.

Chilton Will Enter State Tournament

The State Champions of last year's basketball Tournament, the Chilton Tigers, go again this week to Tuscaloosa to play in the State-wide contests.

The Poets at Sidney Lanier were eliminated from play in the Tournament when it was learned early this week that Red Bell a member of the team had played with an independent team which is in violation of the State High School rules.

Writers on the Montgomery Dailies in handling their story on the disqualifying of the Poets, showed plainly their feeling toward Clanton and their dissatisfaction when the locals were moved up to second place in the District playoff.

Clanton's mainstays, Collins, Coggins, Johnson, Daniels and Smith will all be in the game and all are in first class shape for the affray. Hundreds from here will journey to Tuscaloosa for the play and the present State champions will return State champions—we hope

Roosevelt Speaks On Ninth Anniversary of Farm Program

Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address Monday night to a series of community dinners observing the anniversary of the administration's farm program:

No one can think back over the nine years without coming to the conclusion that the most significant single fact in recent American history is the ability of the American people to face a tough situation and to take orderly and united action in their own behalf and in behalf of the things in which they believe.

There has been a considerable amount of discussion lately about the alleged complacency of the American people. Newspaper editors and commentators have been telling us that the American people are too complacent—that they are apathetic.

People Aren't Complacent

I think I know the American people pretty well. A lot of them write to me. A lot of them send me messages of one sort or another. They talk to me pretty frankly. If there is one single thing of which I am certain, it is that the American people are not now, and have not been complacent.

On the contrary, they are keenly aware of the situation in which they find themselves, and they are wholeheartedly and entirely committed to action. Now, as a decade ago, they are facing up to the job they have to do, and they propose to see to it that the job is done.

Americans are preparing with all possible speed to take their places on the battlefronts. Workers in the mills and mines are laboring long hours, under great pressure, to turn out the weapons and equipment without which the war can not be won. Men and women in thousands of communities are giving their time and energy in the work of civilian defense. And out in the country, farmers are straining every effort to produce the food which, like the tanks and planes, is absolutely indispensible to victory.

The members of each of these various groups know the extent to which they themselevs are responding. But they do not always know what is being done by the others. And that gives an opportunity to the enemy to get in some deadly blows. That gives an pportunity to the enemy to spread malicious words.

Condemns Whisperers

Labor, says the evil whisper, is sabotaging the war program with strikes and slowdowns and demands for higher wages. Business, it says, is gouging the country with unconscionable profits. And the farmer, according to this treacherous voice, is using the war to grab all he can.

Now it happens that, as a result of the war program, the incomes of all three groups on the average have substantially increased. Of course, there are instances where a few businessmen or a few workers, or a few farmers are demanding and getting more than they ought.

But, in general, the increase to the different groups has been kept fairly well in balance, and there has been only a moderate rise in the cost of living in city and country.

It seems to me that we ought to feel proud of the undoubted fact that we are getting cooperation and a reasonably fair balance among 90 per cent of our population and that if less than 10 per cent of the population is chiseling, we still have a pretty good national record.

But if all prices keep on going up, we shall have inflation of a very dangerous kind—we shall have such a steep rise in prices and cost of living that the entire nation will be hurt. That would greatly increase the cost of the war and the national debt, hamper the drive for victory, and inevitably plunge everyone—city workers and farm workers alike—into ruinous deflation later on.

Inflation Is Danger

I wish someone would invent a better word than "inflation," what we really mean is that even though we may not realize it at the moment, it is not a good thing for the country to upset all the old standards if the cost of living goes up through the roof and wages go up through the roof. Actually, in such a case, we are better off than we were before as individuals or heads of families, and it comes close to being true that that which goes up has to come down.

This fight against inflation is not fought with bullets or with bombs, but it is equally vital. It calls for cooperation and restraint on the part of every group. It calls for mutual good will and a willingness to believe in the other fellows good faith. It calls for unflagging vigilance and effective action by the government to prevent profiteering and unfair returns, alike, for services and for goods.

So, on this ninth anniversary of the founding of the national farm program, we can all rededicate ourselves to the spirit with which this common effort by the farmers came to birth. Never before in our history has there been as much need for unstinting service to the country.

Hard, trying, difficult days are ahead. How hard and how bitter they will be depends on how well we can keep our eyes, our thoughts and our efforts directed toward the only thing that matters now for every one of us in the United Nations—winning the war.

Chilton County Crop Spoilage Can be Halved

Prevention of waste in food distribution will be a vital factor in the effort of Chilton county's 4,985 farm operators and workers to achieve their war time food production goals, it was indicated today in a survey by a leading distributor of Alabama farm produce.

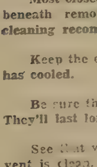
At least half of the estimated $1,600,000 annually lost from spoilage and damage to Alabama fruits and vegetables alone can be prevented by the use of better grading, packing and by better and more direct distribution methods.

If Chilton county farmers, working with distributors, cut by half the average 10 to 12 per cent of fruit and vegetable shipments lost through damage and spoilage, they will have achieved the equivalent of a 5 to 6 per cent increase in production without any acreage, seed, fertilizer, equipment or farm labor.

"Under wartime conditions, use of efficient production methods and efficient distribution channels is becoming incerasingly important." For example, Chilton county's 4,367 farm family workers will find their job of increasing production made more difficult because of the shrinking farm labor supply, rising farm wages and limited availability of farm machinery, and supplies.

"The latest census counted 618 regular hired hands in the county. Since that count was made, farm labor has decreased as much as 49 per cent in certain areas and up to 35 per cent in some Alabama districts."

But despite future labor curtailments, past performance indicates the farmer can approach food production goals. In ten years, covered by recent government reports, the farmer had increased his productive efficiency by 25.2 per cent. The average farmer, the survey revealed, fed 11.7 persons in 1929 and ten years later was feeding 14.1 persons from his fields.



Hints on the Care of Your Electric Range

- Clean outside of range when cool with a cloth dampened with warm, soapy water.
- Avoid letting spilled food dry or harden on the range. Food spilled on open surface "burners" should be burned off. Avoid using stiff brush or sharp instrument.
- Most closed units (burners) can be raised and the pan beneath removed for cleaning. Check manufacturer's cleaning recommendations.
- Keep the oven clean. Remove spilled food when oven has cooled.
- Be sure the oven heating units are plugged in tightly. They'll last longer.
- See that your range is level on the floor and that the vent is clean.

An occasional check-up of your electric range by a competent service man to see that the temperature controls, switches, and "burners" are operating satisfactorily and that the wiring is in tip-top shape, will add to its life. Such a check-up is well worth its modest cost.

REPORT OF COLLINS CHAPEL 4-H CLUB

By Dalton Popwell

The Collins Chapel Boy's and Girls 4-H Club met in joint session on Thursday February 26th.

The meeting was called to order by the Boy's Club president, Charles Mims. After two songs, led by Verna Smith, the Girls song leader, President Mims led the 4-H Club pledge, which is:

My head to clearer thinking,
My heart to greater loyalty,
My hands to larger service,
My health to better living, for My Club, my Community and my Country.

As the 4-H Club pledge indicates, a part of the Clubs work is to be healthy to enable better living. In line with this part of the 4-H Club work our leaders had Mr. Fred Buckelew, member of the County Health Unit, as the Club guest on the program. Mr. Buckelew showed a very interesting and constructive picture on Safe Water System for the Individual Farm Home. The Clubs enjoyed the picture very much and received some valuable information from it.

After the picture shom the meeting was turned over to our Girls 4-H Club Leader, Miss Mattie Jo Barber. She gave a very interesting talk on the foods that we need to produce for our own health and for National Defense. Mr. M. R. Glasscock gave an interesting talk on why Chilton County farmers are being asked to produce 9000 acres of peanuts in 1942. He stated that the United States has been importing 52 per cent of all vegetable oil we use, or 2,000,000,000 lbs. of vegetable oil a year from countries that are now cut off from us by the war. This oil must now be produced here at home if we are to be clean well fed, and have an ample supply of explosives to fight this war; and vegetable oil is used in the making of soap, cooking oil, butter substitutes, and high explosives.

A few minutes at the end of the period was devoted to recreation. Mr. Glasscock and Miss Barber both had a pocketful of interesting tricks which the group enjoyed very much.

The meeting was adjourned until the March meeting day.

County Training School

Livestock Association Organized As A Means of Defense

On February 28, 1942 a group of Chilton County farmers and the Vocational teacher at the Chilton County Training School met at the Community Building in Selma with a group of Extension Workers from Tuskegee Institute and other parts of Alabama, and completed the organization of a Livestock Association for the defense of the Alabama farmer, and help Alabama reach the requested war goal in beef production. A modern farmer, Othe McKinney, of Chilton county is president of the Livestock Association. The farmers of this and other sections must become more livestock minded as a medium to supplement the cash crop thereby building America strong for defense. If the farmers are successful then America will be successful,; therefore, the American farmer must be successful in his efforts to supply the food and feed crops for ourselves and the Allied forces beside whom we shall struggle to the end in this World conflict.

There have not been enough work brought in to our shop for repairs to meet needs on the farms when the time arrives for us to expedite farm work. Should there be farmers who are too far from the school shop to bring in his work, it would be very much appreciated if a group of such farmers would make inventory or check tools need repairing and notify me to meet with them some Saturday in their community at an early date.

Remember an old Chinese Proverb that reads as follows: "Dig Your Well Before You are Thirsty." To the farmers of Chilton County, let us repair our farming equipment before we need them. Let us take care of the farms and the farms will take care of the Nation.

There has been one Defense meeting held in the vicinity of Billingsley, Ala. ,but attendance were not satisfactory and we have scheduled another meeting there for Tuesday night, March 10, 1942, at which time we are hoping to have a full house.

Farmers of Alabama Own More Livestock

Livestock on Alabama farms January 1, this year showed a 3 per cent increase over the same date last year. At the same time the total value of Alabama livestock increased more than 24 per cent, due largely to the increased value per head.

This is reported by J. C. Garrett, agricultural statistician Montgomery, in furnishing the following facts:

Horses on farms January 1, this year are estimated at 64,000 head, a 2 per cent increase, and mules at 294,000 head, a 2 per cent decrease.

All cattle on farms are estimated at 1,086,000 head compared with 1,034,000 head for the same date last year, an increase of 5 per cent.

Hogs are estimated at 1,060,000 head compared with 1,039,000 head on January 1, 1941, an increase of 2 per cent.

Chickens on farms January 1 numbered 9,198,000 head. This is 22 per cent more than the number on farms one year ago. Turkey numbers are estimated at 59,000 head, which is 20 per cent higher than a year earlier.

The Prosperous 'Twenties

Many innovations featured the decade of the 'twenties. The Pan-American was inaugurated in December, 1921, and was one of the first trains to have radio. Loyall Yard was completed in the same month and the subsequent completion of the double-track between Wallsend and Harlan, Ky., 40 miles, in May, 1926, greatly facilitated the handling of coal from the Harlan fields.

Following the return of the nation's railroads to private ownership in 1920, there was some agitation against them and various restrictive legislation was proposed. The L. & N. presented its case to the public through the medium of paid advertisements and bulletins issued periodically. Good will tours were also made to various cities along the line by L. & N. employes and other public relations activities were features of the period.

Wible L. Mapother became president on March 17, 1921, and served until his death on February 3, 1926. During his presidency a safety department was formed, employe organizations were encouraged, group insurance was offered employes at a very low rate, and the Company's 75th anniversary on March 5, 1925, was commemorated by the inauguration of the L. & N. Magazine.

The years of the 'twenties were some of the most profitable the L. & N. had ever experienced and as a result it was able to purchase greatly-needed equipment and make many improvements to its physical plant.

Preparedness is the watchword today, but the history of the L. & N. has been distinguished by its effort to prepare for the future, not only when times were good, but when the going was tough as well. This far-seeing policy has borne gratifying fruit in the present emergency, which found the Old Reliable's physical plant in tip-top shape. It is constantly being improved and is ready to meet all reasonable demands.

TRAINING WORKERS FOR WAR INDUSTRIES AND SERVICES

The Vocational Agricultural Department of the Jemison High school has a part in training workers for war industries and services.

All boys in these classes are adding home gardening as an improvement project to their projects which already consist of livestock, poultry, food and foodstuff and truck crops. They are endeavoring to grow better vegetables.

In addition to gardening almost 100 per cent of the students are adding peanuts to their enterprise, since the government is asking the Southern States to increase peanuts for oil purposes. Our aim is to get peanuts grown on every farm represented by FFA members.

We are planning an extensive program of collecting and saving scrap and waste material which the government can use.

Members of our classes are bringing in tools from their homes and farms to be repaired. A number of these jobs have already been completed such as repairing plow tools, sharpening and trimming scooters and scrapes, remodeling turn plows, fertilizer distributors and building stalk cutters, grinding axes, hammers etc., and building chicken brooders.

The department is completing its second metal work course in National Defense for out of school youths between the ages of 17 and 25 years. These young men are taught to work hot and cold irons, cut and thread pipes, and bolts; weld, solder, babbit and paint. Make coal chisels and punches, sharpen cutting tools. Many of these jobs have been completed and turned over to the farmers in first class condition.

The school shop is being kept open on Tuesdays and Thursday between 2:30 and 5:00 p. m. for farmers to come in and repair tools. This keeps farmers from having to buy new tools and thus helps to conserve metals for war production.

To train these boys, young men, and adult farmers to produce more," save more and utilize more is truly training the man behind the man behind the gun.

Attalla's police radio system is now in use. It has a hook-up with Gadsden and the State Highway Patrol.

Serious Farm Labor Shortage Reported

In an effort to cope with the serious farm labor shortage over Alabama the State USDA War Board has asked that "wherever farm laborers are availble on on WPA rolls we ask the WPA to drop these persons as quickly as they can be absorbed on farms."

At the same time the board commended the Department of Education in keeping many public schools open six days a week and recommended that further provisions be made to adjust the school term in order to release school boys for farm labor needed in the defense effort.

Local draft boards were asked to be very considerate in classification of farmers and men working on farms with the view of placing each man where he can contribute most to the war effort. The strict enforcement of all vagrancy laws by state, county, and municipal officials also was recommended.

All farmers in need of adidtional workers are advised to notify the U. S. Employment Service either through local or state representatives.

Free Defense Bonds For Alabama Farmers

One thousand dollars in defense bonds and stamps—will be given winning Alabama farm families entering the Food for Victory program. Every Alabama farm family living on a farm which has a 1942 farm defense plan sheet is eligible to compete.

Each award will be made on the basis of a written report, including an achievement record, covering the farm's contribution to the Agricultural War Program and degree of attainment of the 1942 goals as set up in the 1942 farm defense plan sheet in the county AAA office.

Further information on the contest may be obtained from county agents and county AAA administrative officers, advises P. O. Davis, extension director and . W. Jones, State AAA administrative officer.

Farmers Advised Get Poison and Equipment

Boll weevils will again this year do considerable damage predicts J. M Robinson, entomologist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who advises farmers not to be asleep when the enemy strikes but to order dusting equipment and calcium arsenate now.

There is a limited amount of dusting equipment and if farmers expect to get new equipment they should order now. There seems to be an ample supply of calcium arsenate at present but it would be wise if supplies be bought now and stored in a dry place.

Cullman county raised $7,545.56 for the Red Cross, or 78 per cent more than the county's quota, which was $4,250.

THE CHANGING CONCEPTION

The war has brought some very definite changes in political ideas. The effort to expedite the Allied war aims has caused changes both in thought and in material arrangements. Some of the ideas which existed before the war began have become antiquated and useless. As the horse as been replaced by the mobile unit, so have political ideas in world terms replaced political ideas in sectional terms

This is one of the very few healthy things the war has created. It has made us realize inescapably that we cannot any longer think in local terms, in isolationists terms. For many year prior to the Pearl Harbor fiasco, there were men in Congress who honestly believed that we could and would remain immune and isolated from the rest of the world. They felt that America was a citadel that no nation would dare attack, even though airplane figures and submarine audacity were leading countless millions to a new belief that the world wasn't so large nor the ocean so broad that we could afford to ignore the rest of the universe.

To show how fully the isolationist idea, held by a few Congressmen in 1919, dominated the American scene, we need only remember the failure of the United States to become a member of the League of Nations. The American people were not yet ready to join the League, for the imagination of the people did not foresee the struggle of 1942 which resulted from our not joining it. The ideas of Wilson, which were ahead of time, were only laughed at.

As the years rolled by, the idea of isolation became even more deeply embedded in the American people. The passive political years during the administration of Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover only served to lull the people into a self-contained political philosophy. When political activity did arise with the Roosevelt election in 1933, it was political activity of a domestic kind—a kind that became identified with the immortal alphabet soup of the AAA, FHA, WPA, HOLC, and a multitude of others.

Today, however, we can easily see the importance of working in international terms. Very few of us today would dare to assert that the United States could win this war single-handedly. The combined effort of all the Allied powers—Russia, Britain, the Latin American nations, and the United States—is prerequisite to victory.

It took a war to make us realize the importance of inter-American cooperation. The great struggle of today is showing us that we cannot exist unless we have the cooperation of all the world.

When the Founding Fathers of our Republic wrote the Constitution, they inserted into it the idea that those powers not specifically given to the Federal government belong, and are reserved, to the states. Many Americans feel now that the government has taken over the powers that belong to the states.

Of course the Federal government has taken over certain powers. It must. The political ideas of 1780 do not fit today. Time and progress have changed the course of power politics.

There is not, however, any great danger as far as state influence is concerned in relinquishing certain political rights. The United States is small enough in world terms. We must act as a united body. States' rights must not hinder the effort of the nation as a whole.

This is the real crux of our new conception of international political ideas. For in accepting internationalism in place of sectionalism, we shall have to give up certain time-honored American beliefs. This will be difficult, but we will have to do it willingly, in order to survive.

Mr. Henry Luce, in a recent issue of "Life" magazine, says that mankind is at the dawn of world history. Individual histories—like the history of China, the history of Europe, the history of the United States—are things of the past. After the termination of this war, all mankind will be bound in one common world history.

If this be so, and everything points to it, the smallest unit of government of great authority will be the national government, with states' rights taking over a smaller degree of importance. With the realization of this new world political philosophy, there is, therefore, no really great danger in relinquishing certain states' rights for the benefit of the nation as a whole.

Farm and AAA News from the County Agent

If you are a tenant or a share cropper and your landlord does not want to insure his interests in the cotton crop you can still cover yours with a cotton crop insurance policy.

P. H. Smith, County Agent of Chilton County, in making this statement, also added that a landlord could carry insuranre on his interest in the crop even though the tenant or share cropper did not care to insure his interest.

Cotton crop insurance, available to cotton producers in 1942 for the first time, can be secured by any persons who has an interest in a cotton crop as owner, landlord, tenant or share cropper and each person who desires insurance must make application individually. A landlord according to Mr. Smith can insure only his interest in the crop, and a tenant can insure only his, but neither can insure the other's interest

To obtain insurance on the 1942 cotton crop a farmer in Chilton County must sign an application for insurance in the AAA office before March 16. With the time for signing applications for cotton crop insurance getting short Chilton County farmers are being urged by P. H. Smith, County Agent, to seriously consider whether or not they wish to carry insurance on 1942 cotton crop

With higher cotton prices it appears that Chilton County farmers would be missing a good bet if they failed to insure their production, said Mr. Smith Production and price determine the final figure which will be obtained for the farmer's 1942 cotton crop. If prices are good and a farmer not carrying insurance makes a [illegible] prices won't help him much. If the same farmer gets good prices for his cotton and also carries cotton crop insurnce then his income is protected

Premiums are paid by signing a commodity note calling for either payment of cotton or cash equivalent, deductions from loss payments, if any, or from CCC cotton loan, if he has one. Losses will be paid Chilton County farmers carrying cotton crop insurance with a certificate of indemnity which may be converted into cash immediately or it may be turned over to the Commodity Credit Corporation for a cotton loan, if such loans are authorized.

Farmers may insure 50 to 75 per cent of their average crop and premiums for this insurance are based on the average historical or appraised crop loss for past years. This protects cotton crops from all unavoidable hazards such as drought, boll weevil and other insects, fire, wind, floods, plant diseases storms and hail.

In January and February four auction sales of livestock in Monroe county brought farmers the sum of $75,136.60.

In the near future the Greenville hat plant will manufacture 1,500 dozen hats daily. Many persons are employed.

Mark Remarks:

The anti-Gravesites are shouting that the Graves Band Wagon has broken down. Ye,s sir; the erstwhile antis crowded upon the old wagon until she finally went down. But, oh boy! Just wait 'till you see that super-streamlined all-Alabama made bus, that will hold about four times as many as the old wagon, when she comes out of the shop brand new, within the next few days. She has a ninety-mile-an-hour engine in her, and she's geared to the political road, along the sides of which are thousands of former friends of the Graves knockers who are now clamoring for a ride to the "promised land". Yes, along with the Little Colonel.

This is every American's war, and every American adult—male and female—should have a part in it. Every individual who can still travel under their own power is able to do something, and want to do their part. Bibb Graves has enough merit in his own right to win another term as Governor without having to resort to vilification and abuse of the other candidates.

SPARKS AND THE SHOW

Indications point to the fact there are going to be some fireworks in the Gubernatorial election after all. With Bibb Graves about recuperated from his illness, and Sherlock's announcement, the timing has been explosive. Waste Is Our Enemy

In England it is now a punishable offense to destroy paper or cardboard, with the exception that a housewife may still use a small twist of paper to start her kitchen fire. People are forbidden to throw away or burn used envelopes, empty cigaret packages or even old bus tickets. All paper must be turned over to a collector or buyer, the Ministry of Supply has ordered.

In America we may be thankful that we have not been brought to necessity for such pinching practices. Yet we have plenty of shortages, too, and most of them seem certain to get much worse before they get better. We have been called the world's most wasteful people, and it's hard for us to imagine being punished for destroying things so insignificant as cigaret packages. But if we want to make sure that it can't happen here, we would do well to realize that waste now—of paper or of any other useful thing—may mean woeful want before the war is won.—Birmingham Post.

TRAINED LEGISLATORS

From Birmingham Age - Herald, Tuesday, Oct. 28, 1941.

We should have trained men in the Senate and the House..

We insist on trained men in medicine, in dentistry, in s urgery. We won't let a man work on our plumbing, cur electrical wiring, our cars, our books, or cut our hair unless we are sure he knows his business.

We should have a high standard of requirements for the members of our Senate and House of Representatives. In the first place, they should be men of unquestionable honor. In the second place, they should be men of unquestioned patriotism. In the third place, they should be men of unquestioned brains and balance. In the fourth place, they should be men well versed in democratic government.

A place in Congress should be a career job. It should require a previous record of long, honorable successful public service. And it should be a permanent job. A man should be allowed to hold it as long as he fills it capably. It should not be possible for politicians to play politics with jobs in the Congress.

CAN'T STOP THE LITTLE COLONEL

Yes, it was a hot gubernatorial race for a few days. They tracked the Little Colonel clear to the Johns-Hopkins Hospital. Of course, they knew where he was all the time. But when the news leaked out that Bibb Graves was heading southward to Alabama, and with the announcement that Richard Rives was to be his State campaign manager, the campaign took on quite a different aspect. Now, Graves has them all treed. They are still putting out candidates in an effort to stop Graves, but it cannot be "did." When Bibb Graves makes you a promise, you may count on it. That's why he will carry practically every county on May 5th. Voters are tired of long-winded speeches that candidates make who never as much as make an effort to carry out their promises. Cast your vote for Bibb Graves for Governor of Alabama. He is your friend.—Fort Payne Journal.

—o-o-o—

A MIGHTY GOOD SIGN

It is a mighty good sign that Bibb Graves will be the next Governor of Alabama when you hear of other candidates going over the State attacking him from all sides. It won't be long now until Colonel Graves will be swinging over the State in a campaign that will line up votes for him by the thousands. When Mr. Graves makes a promise to the voters they can trust him to fulfill it. We have tried him before and the voters are anxious to try him again. When he comes to Fort Payne at a later date to make a speech every voter in the County should come out to hear him.—Fort Payne Journal.

—o-o-o—

Those people who continue to howl about the health of Bibb Graves are the ones that care the least about it... Which reminds us of something the Little Colonel told us recently when inquiring about his condition, he said, "I am in much better shape than some people wish me to be . . ." And no doubt the next governor knows whereof he speaks.—The Baldwin Times.

Letters To The Editor

Tom McKee Writes Voters

EDITOR'S NOTE: Through an error on the part of the proof reader a line was left out of Mr. McKee's letter last week. We are reprinting the letter as it was written by him:

To The Voters of Chilton County:

Some weeks back I announced in the local paper that at the proper time, I would make my announcement as to the running for Tax Collector of Chilton County. Last week I qualified and have filed my declaration as a candidate for Tax Collector of Chilton County.

As you people know I served in this office for a term of four years, 1935-1939, and I tried my best to make you a good County official. Upon my record, courteous and accomodations shown to the people of the County while serving you, I believe I would be better qualified now to again serve you in this office.

I have the highest appreciation for all of the candidates on the Democratic ticket and they are all my friends, and let us hope that every candidate's action in canvassing in the primaries and the actions of the ones responsible for the handling of the absentee ballots in the primaries will be such that the honorable voting people of this County will appreciate and commend the results of the primaries. My judgment is, from years of experience and observation, that the people will always do the right thing if given the opportunity without undue interference and persuasion.

I was raised and educated to love and appreciate the principles of democracy and in this critical time when our boys are sacrificing their lives in defense of democracy, it makes me appreciate the battles I have fought for democracy more. I will appreciate your support and vote. for my nomination to the office of Tax Collector.

Respectfully yours,
—T. L. McKEE.

Col. Graves No "Sideline Rookie"

—o—

MONTGOMERY. Ala.—As America's newest expeditionary force moves into every corner of the globe to fight the Axis powers, at least one of Alabama's six candidates for Governor recalls vividly the last time that American manhood marched into strange lands to defend the Democratic way of living.

Colonel Bibb Graves of Montgomery, admittedly the leader in the race for the Governor's chair, must have been born with a rifle in his hands for he showed a love of military life from the very start.

His first spurs were won at the University of Alabama where his ability quickly gained him the post of Captain of his cadet company, and later he was appointed as Aide-de-Camp to the Brigadier of State Militia.

Later, this regiment was converted into Field Artillery and Graves was named as Colonel of the famous 117th Regiment, serving through its training period in America, and later in the thick of the fight on the battle fields of France where the Regiment won lasting fame as one of the hardest fighting outfits in the field.

Political observers today looking across the list of candidates for Governor in May's primary election, know that Alabama could find in Col. Graves a real "War Governor" who knows the full meaning of War in all its phases—one man who is no sideline rookie.

Rain And Snow Retard Road Work

—o—

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —Rains and snow over Alabama during the latter half of February and early March have greatly retarded highway construction, causing an almost complete shutdown of work.

According to Leon Gottlieb, bituminous engineer of the State Highway Department, and other highway officials, the heavy rains and excessive moisture in the ground have prevented for three or more weeks any appreciable progress in highway construction.

With the coming of pretty weather and warm sunshine, road work will be resumed, with full energy of all the personnel engaged.

—o-o-o—

New Equipment For Road Building Scarce

—o—

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The State Highway Department, due to the war emergency program, is experiencing great difficulty in securing new equipment for road-building purposes.

Many of the industries engaged in the manufacture of road machines have gone into war material production; thus the output of road machines has been greatly reduced.

In the matter of repair parts, the supply has diminished, as some of these industries have turned attention to tool-making. Most of the repair parts now being received likely come from stocks on hand, though there still is limited production.

Highway Department mechanics are displaying ingenuity in keeping machines running.

A WEEK OF THE WAR

The War Production Board said shortages of some materials and manpower were more limiting factors in all-out production than difficulties in obtaining production facilities. The Board reported airplane production, though ahead of schedule, would be more advanced if more materials had been available. Chairman Nelson said he has not "recognized the possibility" that any phase of the production would fail to meet the goals announced by President Roosevelt.

To speed production Mr. Nelson ordered all war supply contracts to be negotiated instead of determined by competitive bidding. Contracts will be assigned to firms reuiring smallest quantities of new equipment to fill orders he said. The War Production Board began an inventory of all idle machine tools to make them available for war production.

The War Production Board said war expenditures during February reached nearly $100,000,000 a day, 18 per cent greater than in January. Reconstruction Finance Corporation disbursements and Treasury checks for war purposes totaled $2,330,000,000 for a month. The Board announced mass production of tanks making greater use of cast steel and welded hulls has begun. Strip mills that last year made sheet steel for automobile bodies are being converted to manufacture ship plate. The Navy Ordnance Bureau said its contractural obligations increased 49 per cent since Pearl Harbor.

RATIONING

Price Administrator Henderson reported United Nations rubber requirements will not allow any rubber for new or recapped tires for nonessential passenger cars. There is not sufficient rubber now to sustain the rate of military produtcion and the most essential civilian needs, he said. To insure maximum durability of tires now being recapped, Mr. Henderson said he is developing minimum standards for grades of recapping material being manufactured. The War Production Board reported athletic equipment manufacturers experimenting with reclaimed rubber had developed serviceable squash and tennis balls and are working to develop an all reclaimed core for baseballs. The War Production Board sugar section began a survey of the sugar situation in all non-Axis countries to find all supplies of sugar available to the United Nations.

The War Production Board stopped all sales and deliveries of new and used typewriters. Chairman Nelson authorized the Office of Price Administration to ration such typewriters at both wholesale and retail levels. Petroleum Coordinator Ickes said gasoline very likely will be rationed if the war council of the petroleum industry recommends such action.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE

President Roosevelt authorized the Office of Civilian Defense to begin placing orders for Civilian Defense workers equipment and medical supplies. Office of Civilian Defense Director requested civic officials not to ask Office of Civilian Defense headquarters for equipment because distribution will be based on a priorities system established by the War and Navy Departments. Priorities will be based on likelihood of attack, vulnerability, and importance to war production of manufacturing plants in the community.

THE WAR FRONT

General MacArthur's small air force sank more than 30,000 tons of Japanese shipping in Subic Bay, resulting in the loss of thousands of enemy soldiers. United States forces in operations west of the Gilbert Islands destroyed 16 of a formation of 18 Japanese heavy bombers. United States submarines in the Far East torpedoed 10 additional enemy vessels. Enemy U-boats in the Atlantic sank the destroyer Jacob Jones, an ore carrier and two freighters. General Wavell was relieved of command of United Nations forces in the East Indies to resume as Commander in Chief of India.

WAR TAXES

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau asked Congress to increase this year's Federal revenue by at least $7,600,000,000 to reach the $27,000,000,000 goal set by the President in his budget message. Mr. Morgenthau recommended income taxes be doubled on incomes below $10,000 to help raise $3,200,000,000. He also recommended increases of $3,000,00,000 in corporation taxes and $1,340,000,000 in excise taxes. He asked that the national debt limit be raised from $65,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000

ARMY PROGRESS

President Roosevelt signed the $32,000,000,000 Fifth Supplemental War Appropriation Bill providing $23,000,000,000 for the Army. Congress completed action of legislation increasing the pay of enlisted men and officers serving outside continental United States. The Senate approved a bill providing clothing and equipment allowances of $150.00 for commissioned officers. Secretary Stimson announced formation of the Seventh Armored Division with 10,000 men at Camp Polk, Louisiana. He said sulfanilamide is now standard equipment for all United States troops in combat areas because it was found particularly effective in curing abdominal wounds at Pearl Harbor.

The War Department estimated there are approximately a million Selective Service III-A registrants of whom 150,000 are suitable as prospective officers under the plan calling for four months training in field units and then at least two months in Officer Candidate Schools. The Department said after the March 17 lottery Selective Service registrants will be placed in two groups—one of the new and the other of the earlier registrants. Local Boards will set ratios between the two groups in calling men for induction. Furloughs to adjust civilian affairs in case of undue hardship caused by immediate induction will be granted heerafter by the Army and not by local boards.

AIR

The Civil Aeronautics Administration reported it has given courses to more than 100,000 pilots since 1939 at an average cost of $600. The Civil Aeronautics Administration said it also has given several thousand refresher courses to instructors at a cost of $250 each. The Office of Education said the second set of types of 500,000 model planes being made by American school children for the Army, Navy and civilian defense personnel will be sent local project directors about March 20.

PRIORITIES AND ALLOCATIONS

The War Production Board ordered manufacture of radios and phonographs for civilian use to be discontinued after April 22, 1942. The industry will manufacture Army Signal Corps equipment and other war supplies.

LABOR

The President asked Congress for a $100,000,000 Work Projects Administration appropriation to relieve communities dislocated by conversion to war industries, and to retain workers. Federal Security Administrator McNutt said public employment offices are referring workers to war production jobs before filling requests for men in civilian production.

A Letter From Mr. Morgenthau

Dear Sir:

This year more than six million American citizens are filing their first income tax returns, and a similar number will actually make their initial contribution to Government through this medium of Federal taxation.

Reports reaching the Treasury Department from all collection districts indicate that our people have cheerfully assumed the additional tax burden which is one of the inevitable consequences of total war.

While these reports offer testimony to the fact that a new spirit pervades the Nation's taxpayers, it is still imperative that the public be reminded, again and again, of the need for prompt payment of their tax liabilities.

I am writing to suggest that your newspaper, which time after time has assisted the Government in carrying forward its public duties, should comment editorially on the necessity of tax payers meeting their liabilities as early as possible this year. Anything you can do to help us in this direction will be very much appreciated.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK
By DR. BOB JONES, JR.
PRESIDENT OF BOB JONES COLLEGE
Cleveland Tennessee

Christ came to the country of the Gadarenes, and they asked Him to depart from their coast. Why?

There was a poor outcast creature possessed of many demons living in the tombs of the hillside. From this fierce, unhappy creature the Lord Jesus Christ cast out the tormenting spirits, permitting them to go into a herd of swine. Unwilling to give habitation to the spirits that had controlled the man, the swine ran into the sea and were drowned (Mark 5:1-17.)

These Gadarenes had the wrong sense of value. They thought more of their pigs than they did of a man. They asked the Son of God to leave them because they preferred to see a man in the grip of demons than to lose some swine.

Some people are like that today. They think more of temporal gain than they do of eternal values. Some men are so busy attending to business that they have no time for their families, and in struggling to accumulate a fortune they let their own children go to destruction.

There are many people who refuse to let the Lord Jesus Christ come into their lives because they want to hold on to some selfish ambition or evil habit or sinful practice. They reject the Saviour because they do not want to give up some fleeting pleasure or worldly idol. They would rather have a few pigs than the presence of the Son of God and all the joy which His salvation brings. They would rather have hogs than heaven, pork than paradise. Christ says, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly," but the Gadarenes among us prefer to keep their pigs. Indeed, there is a strange kinship between such men and their swine—both are satisfied with the gratification of the senses and both lack appreciation of intangible realities. The Lord Jesus Christ comes with an emphasis on the things of the Spirit, the unseen, permanent things. "What shall it profit a man," says Jesus, "if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

MEET YOUR AIR RAID WARDEN!

Your Air Raid Warden brings you this leaflet so you may know what he or she can do to help you protect yourself in case of air raids.

Your Warden is your friend. Welcome him—get to know him. He has some advice for you on which your life may depend!

Do these things when the Air Raid Warden calls:

1. Have him meet every member of your family.
2. Tell him where you are to be found when you are away from home—where you work.
3. Tell him about any member of the household who is ill or handicapped. Tell him about all small children.
4. Show him the room you intend to use as a refuge room, ask his suggestions for fitting it up. Follow them—he knows!
5. Ask him what are the official air raid warning signals, the official "all clear," for your community.
6. Show him your attic or garret, ask his suggestions for protecting it against incendiary bombs. Also garages or outbuildings.
7. Show him where gas and electric shut-off switches are, in all buildings.
8. Ask him to point out good shelter in the neighborhood, should you be caught outdoors in a raid sometime.
9. Answer his questions — trust him; he is a sworn public official, and must know in order to protect you.
10. Carry out his suggestions for storing emergency water, sand, etc., cheerfully and promptly.
11. Ask him how you can help, where you should go to volunteer your services. Calm, strong, able people are needed for volunteer service. Do your part.

Remember what your Air Raid Warden's name is, what he looks like, where he is to be found. He is your best friend in an emergency. He can protect you and help you to do your share in defeating the Japs, Nazis, or any other enemy!

Should an air raid come to your community, you can do your part while protecting yourself. Remember these six simple rules:

1. Keep calm and cool.
2. Stay home
3. Put out lights.
4. Lie down.
5. Stay away from windows.
6. Don't telephone.

Don't run—walk. Don't scream—be quiet. Don't crowd into public places. If the raid starts when you are away from home, lie down under shelter. Keep your mouth open by rolling your handkerchief and putting it between your teeth. Put your hands over your ears. Protect the back of your head. Don't look up.

In the house, go into your refuge room and close the door. Make yourself comfortable. Relax. If bombs fall near you, lie down. A good place is under a table with sturdy legs, or a strong couch turned upside down.

Keep away from windows. Don't look out. Put out all lights you cannot closely screen, so no light reaches the street—the light that's out or covered tight will never guide a Jap!

If an incendiary hits your house, go put it out with a spray (never a stream, jet, or splash) of water. It will burn out rapidly under a fine water spray—a splash or stream makes it scatter molten metal. When it is out, go back to shelter.

The chance your home will be hit is very small. Keep cool. Stay off the streets. Again we say— keep cool!

Appoint one member of the family for your home warden to remember all rules. Mother makes the best!

Stay quiet indoors or under shelter till the "all clear" sounds.

Don't believe wild rumors. Don't crowd. Don't scream. Don't telephone. Don't start disorder or panic. Do what the Air Raid Warden tells you to do. Be strong, be calm, be orderly. Lick the aggressors—everyone can help. Do your share!

C. E. STAPP, Mayor.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

In India a large Bengal tiger entered a home on the mountainside and carried away a small child from its frantic mother. The tiger's teeth were fastened to the child's garment and not into its flesh and so he carried it without hurting the babe. The father was notified and he being the crack shot of all that section, he grabbed his rifle and went in search of the babe. Shortly he found the tiger crouching by a log licking the hand of the unhurt child. The father knew the danger in which the child would be placed by a bullet from his gun, but he must do something. With extreme caution he took aim and then pulled the trigger. At the crack of the gun the tiger leaped over the log and fell dead on the other side. With a glad heart the father rushed forward and folded his babe to his bosom. That father located the enemy of his child and home, and he used his best skill to destroy that enemy and he did it. What are you doing to destroy the wiched influences that are out to destroy your loved ones

There are three ways by which we can establish our identity. One, is by means of the finger print and the government is using this extensively. A second way is by blood tests. In Maternity hospitals this is a safe method by which babies can be identified. Then the third tets is by our own names. This method is not faultless but the most of us are known by our names. When we are tested at the judgment, God is going to use three methods, first, He will examine our finger prints in Christian service, then He will look for the blood of Jesus in our hearts and last He will know us by the name of Christians. It is well for us to look after our hands and characters.

A little boy edged his way along in line with a group of people who were shaking hands with President Roosevelt. Finally it was his turn to grip the hand of the president and he did so with deep animation. After that he ran home to his mother and said, "Mother, I will never soil that hand again." The mother was shocked and wanted to know why. The boy held up his hand and continued, "The President shook that hand." When the Christ touches our hearts with new life, it is time for us to resolve that we will never again soil our life by sin. A wonderful change is wrought within when Jesus comes into our hearts.

In Washington there is a doctor who is trying to perfect a machine by which an individual can be located by a drop of his blood. If he is going on a journey, all that is necessary is for him to leave a drop of his blood with the machine and that drop of blood will not only locate him, but it will register where he may be found on the continent. Already God has perfected a method of locating and knowing the whereabouts of His children. When the blood of Jesus has been poured into our hearts with its cleansing power, God can locate us no matter where we may roam over the face of the earth. The doctor in Washington may fail to perfect his machine, but God is not going to fail. His blood testing machine is already working.

Mr. Roosevelt was scheduled to deliver a very important speech and as the hour came, I had to journey through town and down one of the main streets. As I walked along I was never out of the hearing of the clear, ringing voice of the President. From every place of business and from every home, echoed the voice of Mr. Roosevelt as he spoke from his study in the White House. All wanted to hear the message of our leader and all radios were made vocal with his voice. As I walked along it occured to me that God's voice could be heard just as easioly, if we would tune in and listen. God speaks on a wave length that can be caught in every place of business, in every home throughout the land. This Divine voice is clear and mellow with love and truth, and why not let Him speak to you and then through you to the world. God's voice should be heard everywhere.

Maintenance! More maintenance what will be left for New Roads?

Concrete roads help answer that problem.

Concrete costs only one-third as much for maintenance, per mile per year, as other surfaces on Alabama's main roads.

So-called "low cost roads" may seem cheap at first. But in a few years their expense for repairs and maintenance eats heavily into construction funds. Appeal to your public officials to pave your main traveled roads with concrete. Concrete is lower in cost per year, including maintenance. And its high visibility at night, its skid resistance, wet or dry, save lives and property.

Never park on a hill or curve

CARELESS PARKING on highways is cited by the State Department of Public Safety as one of the many reasons which resulted in 40,000 traffic deaths in the United States in 1941—of which 743 occurred in Alabama. The economic loss to the nation last year from traffic accidents was estimated at $1,800,000,000. Moral: If you have to stop on a highway, get all four wheels off the hard surface. Never park on a hill or a curve, where your car cannot be readily seen for a good distance.

egistrants Can ake Application s Officer Candidate elective Service registrants who ve been deferred by reason of de- ndency only, but wish to volunteer compete for selection as an Officer ndidate must make application ch their local boards, Brigadier al Ben M. Smith, State Direc- r of Selective Service, announced day

All such volunteers, Director Smith clared, must be American citizens d be eligible, aside from their de- ndency claims, for classification in ss 1A. In addition, the "Applica- n to Volunteer and Waiver of De- ndency" filed with the local board st be signed by his dependents over years of age, as well as by the gistrant, and any volunteer under years of age must obtain the writ- n consent of his parents or guard- ns.

Volunteers who are found by the my to be initially qualified will be ducted among quotas sent to the my by their local boards and given ur month training in the ranks to termine if they are potential pros- rts for commissions as second lieut- ants. Any not recommended for an fficer Candidate School at the end this training period may request be transferred to the Enlisted Re- rve, which means that he will re- rn to civilian life and not be sub- ct to call for active service unless gistrants having similar dependency ims are being called. Those who il to complete the Officer Candidate urse, or who are not recommended r commission, likewise may request ansfer to the Enlisted Reserve, or ect to be reassigned as an enlisted an on active duty.

Citing a memorandum from Brig. en. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of elective Service, the following procedure for a Class III-A registrant desiring to volunteer to compete for selection as an Officer Candidate was outlined by the State Director:

(1) The registrant must file with his local board an "Application to Volunteer and Waiver of Dependency" which also must be signed by his dependents over the age of 18 years. The form for this application is obtained from the local board;

(2) After the local board has checked his application, together with his citizenship and as to whether or not he should be deferred as a "necessary man" in his civilian occupation, the registrant is given a preliminary physical examination by the local board examining physician;

(3) If the registrant passes this physical test, he is advised that the next step is to present himself at an Army Reception Center or Army Replacement Center, which will have been designated by the Army Corps Area Commander, for qualification examination. All expenses incident to travel to and from the reception or replacement center, including meals and lodging, must be paid by the registrant;

(4) following the qualification examination, the registrant returns to his home, regardless of whether or not he has been found acceptable, and presents the Army report to his local board;

(5) If the Army has found the registrant to have initial qualifications, the local board places him in Class 1-A and he will be ordered to report for induction as a volunteer for Officer Candidate Training at the next call for delivery of men by his local board. If the registrant is found not qualified by the Army, his application to volunteer is denied by his local board and he is retained in Class III-A.

It is estimated by the War Department that the entire training period for a volunteer seeking a commission, including the four months service in the ranks, normally will require a maximum of six months.

CHILE—COASTAL EMPIRE

If that drop of iodine smeared over bruise or abrasion could share the intelligence and tendencies of its human beneficiary, it would, likely enough, have much to say of its unappreciated dignity and importance, in war as in peace; of its parent, nitrate of soda; of the nitrate's power in life and death in the human family; and finally of the world's only producer of natural nitrates on a commercial scale—the Republic of Chile.

Chile, an empire in itself, a great ribbon of 286,396 square miles, spread along the rim of the Pacific for nearly 3,000 miles, reaches farther south than any other nation of the American Continent. It is sometimes referred to as "the California of South America." If there is some similarity as to relative location, shape and topography, the parallel cannot be carried far.

Two Californias, nearly, could be contained within the boundaries of Chile. They would hold Germany, Belgium, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland. Cape Horn and the Chilean archipelago are about as far from the bleak desert country of the north, where are the nitrate fields, as San Francisco is from New York. The belt line, at its broadest, is about the distance from Washington to New York.

Stretched out between the great Andean mountain range and the Pacific, Chile has a climate varying from the heat of the baked northern desert to the snow and ice of the stormy deep south. Nature has portioned the country, roughly, into three productive zones. In the extreme south, adjacent to the strait of Magellan, are good grazing areas where stock-raising is a rapidly developing industry. To the north is the great Central Valley, famed as one of the world's garden spots. Here all the products of the temperate zone and most of those of sub-tropical climates grow luxuriantly. This is the most thickly settled and the most highly cultivated part of the country. And here, in a fertile valley between mountains and sea, is the beautiful capital city of Santiago. On the coast, only 116 miles away is the equally famous port of Valparaiso. . . .

And last, but by no means least, is the zone of the nitrate fields. The eyes of the nations of a world at war, as the struggle in defense of the ideals of the New World moves toward decision, will turn with more and more eagerness toward Chile's desert storehouse. For nitrate, with its by-products, iodine, is a principal item in the manufacture of explosives. A necessity of war, both for the making and mending of wounds, it is priceless, too, as a nutrient for man and his husbandry.

In times of peace and normal demand, Chilean nitrate was second only to Chilean copper, another war need now. As a world-producer of this metal Chile is outranked only by the United States. The country has, in addition, surpluses of iron and coal. After more than a hundred years, the mining of gold has been resumed. Recent discoveries of oil seepages may be herald of another great industry to come.

Chile's is a republican form of government, with executive, legislative and judicial branches. Its present constitution dates back only to September 18, 1925, but it retains many of the important features of one adopted nearly a hundred years before it. This older constitution was largely the work of the great statesman Diego Portales, Minister of State under President Prieto from 1831 to 1841. This constitution, in turn, superseded a still older one, Chile's first. It was drafted by a committee appointed by the famous General O'Higgins shortly after the Chileans, with the help of the Argentine patriot and soldier, General San Martin, defeated Spanish royalist forces. This triumph, the Battle of Maipo, April 5, 1818, marks the end of Spanish power in Chile and the birth of the Republic.

Vagrants, Vagabonds And Tramps, Beware

To All Peace Officers of the State:

We are at war. Those who are needed to fight are being called into service, but the success of the fighter depends upon the worker who must produce the tools of war. There is a shortage of labor today not only in the factories, but on the farms of Alabama.

There is no room for the idler or loafer. There is a place and need for every able bodied citizen to work or fight.

I am informed that there are still idlers and vagrants among us. Our State has a comprehensive law relating to Vagrants, Vagabonds and Tramps (Section 437 to 444, Title 14, Code of Alabama 1940), the rigid enforcement of which will aid in the apprehension of various criminals and will force the vagrants to work or go to jail.

I urge upon all the peace officers of the State that they intensify their activities against vagrants and idlers thereby greatly assisting in the preparation for and prosecution of the war.

Brawner Urges Motorists To Watch Blackout

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Warning to motorists to use extreme caution to prevent accidents during the blackout of 29 Alabama cities scheduled for the night of Tuesday, March 17, was issued today by Major James F. Brawner, director of the State Department of Public Safety.

Since present plans received from the U. S. Army Air Corps' Third Interceptor Command call for all private vehicles to halt and pull to the side of streets and highways—while busses, taxicabs and other public conveyances continue to operate—Director Brawner warned all drivers who must be abroad Tuesday night to make sure that they are clear of the pavement on state highways and clear of all traffic lanes on city streets when they park.

Although the actual blackout is slated to last only 20 to 30 minutes, Director Brawner pointed out that many accidents could occur in that short period and asked all motorists to cooperate with civilian defense authorities. Pedestrains are advised to remain indoors during the blackout period.

Governor Dixon will explain the significance of the blackout and issue instructions to citizens in a broadcast at 9:30 p. m. Sunday March 15.

Traffic accidents this year in Alabama, up to March 10, have taken at least 116 lives, including 54 in January, 42 reported so far for February and 20 in March—with reports on others expected.

ALABAMA WEEKLY WEATHER AND CROP REPORT

The weather of the week was sufficiently wet to cause continued suspension of farm work, and was too cold to permit normal growth and development of vegetation.

Due to the continued cold wet weather during the past week, there was very little progress made in farm work throughout the State. Farmers are anxiously waiting for the ground to dry so that they can complete their preparation for planting spring crops.

Oats and cover crops are not making normal growth due to the cold weather, however, they are reported in fair condition in most areas. The oat crop has afforded very little grazing during the past week because of slow growth and because of the wet condition of the fields.

It is still too early to estimate the damage to early irish potatoes in South Alabama due to rotting of seed pieces. It is believed that the damage will be confined to low, wet soils.

Livestock continue to make fair progress and no epidemics of diseases are reported. Pastures are affording very little grazing at this time.

Wednesday noon when the house over at the Mill caught fire the County Gas truck and the City Fire Truck came near having a bad wreck when they met at the inter-section of Maplesville Highway and Eighth street. . . Wish all the boys in the Service would drop us a card telling us where they are (if possible) we'd like to know, and too, we would pass it along to their friends . . . seems like we can get into more trouble with Tom McKee without trying. . . Magic Circus at the High School Monday and Monday night, Marionette Show Wednesday and Wednesday night, boy, things are picking up in the old town . . . Mr. C. Fenn Jones tells us that Mr. D. B. You remember Morris Kemp, of course, well he's a barber on a transport now and sent this skirt to the missus. . . says to tell all his friends to write to him his Ship is the U. S. S. Wharton.

WPA SURVEY DISCLOSES 95 AUTO GRAVEYARDS IN ALABAMA CITIES

—o—

There are 95 automobile "graveyard" located in Alabama towns and cities of more than 15.000 population. This was disclosed from a survey conducted recently by the WPA at the request of the Bureau of Industrial Conservation, War Production Board. The Survey was undertaken to locate available sources of scrap metal for use in the war production program.

Completed in less than a week, the survey showed 6 of these junk yards were located in Anniston, 5 in Bessemer, 24 in Birmingham, 4 in Tuscaloosa, 4 in Decatur, 7 in Florence, 9 in Gadsden, 4 in Dothan, 2 in Phenix City, 3 in Selma, 15 in Montgomery, and 12 in Mobile and suburban areas. The number of junk automobiles available for salvage was not given. Cooperating in the survey and handling reports from smaller towns were the Department of Agriculture and the American Automobile Association.

Bibb Graves: Politician, Builder and Humanitarian

From The Montgomery Advertiser, Jan. 14, 1939.

The Advertiser, which opposed the nomination of Colonel Graves as vigorously as it knew how, nevertheless heartily congratulates him and assures him of its good will, of its purpose to aid and support his administration as far as may be consistent with its convictions as to what constitutes good government.

The Advertiser will cooperate with Governor Graves as far as possible and it will not nag him and stick tacks in his tires. We have a State to serve, and the people of Alabama have said that they want Bibb Graves for Governor!—From The Advertiser, June 15, 1934.

The Advertiser has observed this voluntary pledge to the best of its ability, sometimes to its embarrassment because of the honest pressure of old and loyal friends to put on the heat and fry Bibb Graves again. What a temptation it sometimes was to voice the passion of the crowd by excoriating Graves in a manner that long since came to be recognized by some as expert!

In his last race for the governorship The Advertiser fought Graves toe to toe and hit him with everything but the kitchen stove.

It could not stop him. After the battle The Advertiser said that he had been reelected by a sweeping majority by a people that knew all about him by virtue of past experience. The Advertiser knew what he would do, the people knew what he would do, but knowing it, deliberately engaged his services again nevertheless.

It was then that The Advertiser stepped aside and said to the people: "You wanted him. You have him. Now you handle him. We intend to back him when he is right and laugh at the people that elected him when he is wrong and provoking."

The Advertiser is glad that it avoided participation in the subsequent vendetta against Bibb Graves. It is glad to report that upon the whole it has been able to work with him and strengthen his hand, for in many respects he has given a fine performance.

The Advertiser is glad to say of a politician whom it twice unsuccessfully opposed as a candidate for governor, that he has been a brilliant, energetic, competent and forceful ruler. No man before him has had a more ready grasp of executive problems, no man before him has shown a greater zest in attacking these problems. Bibb Graves knows his job as Governor as well as any man before him knew it. There is no department or interest of the state government today that he does not thoroughly understand.

Bibb Graves faults are conspicuous along with his virtues, but we leave his faults for his enemies to contemplate—we named them all when we were trying vainly to destroy him in the lush spring days of 1934. For the sake of the record we may say here that they consist of a yen for extravagance in spending the people's money, that he is capable of playing the game with hard-boiled politicians to have his way, that he will enlarge a payroll and shame the devil, and that at critical moments he will sometimes change his mind without previous notice, for he is an impulsive, emotional man, that his appointments of public servants have not always been wise and fortunate. Having said this the people that dislike him may take him and help themselves. For itself The Advertiser prefers to dwell upon his virtues. It has only to say that today he is more popular than he was two years ago.

His virtues include a passion for building bridges, roads, schools, ports, public edifices and institutions for the immediate beenfit of human beings, high and low. He has been a friend and ardent supporter of the public health system, of the school system, of elementary institutions, of human welfare agencies. He has shown great skill and energy in negotiating with the federal government for moneys to make Alabama a better state in which to live, having been instrumental in bringing more than $400,000,000 of feedral funds into Alabama. He vetoed a bill passed by his own legislature to limit the political freedom of a minority—the so-called "anti-sedition" bill. He has been in his last term a consistent friend of all minority groups in our State, however recreant to his duty to some minority groups he may have been in his first term. In his first term and in his second term he was the courageous foe of mobs and no governor before him has made a better record in quelling the spirit that moves lynchers. He detests mob murderers and has never hesitated to throw the full power of his office against them.

If Bibb Graves has raised taxes by means of tokens he has lowered them on homesteads. He has pressed his State Tax Commission to go out among the people and gather in the sheaves of money, and the commission has responded quite efficiently. Because his services come high Graves's demands upon the popular purse have been insistent, but productive. He has spent money lavishly—he would be the last to deny it—but he has also collected money on the grand scale, and as he goes out he is able to Point with Pride to the position that the State now holds in the money markets of the world and to the cash on hand as his successor comes in.

Bibb Graves is no man to count the cost when human values and political interests are at stake—but he has shown that he knows how to make investments in both profitable alike to the people and to politicians. He comes high, but Alabamians will yet have to say that on the whole he was worth it! For he has been a builder on the grand scale and a humanitarian in the nobler tradition. He has been efficient, he has been extraordinary energetic and enterprising. But of course he has been expensive.

Now for a closing personal note. Upon two previous occasions when Graves was elected governor, The Advertiser printed editorials entitled, "The Bibbs Return to Power." The Colonel and Miss Dixie are relatives of the first governors of Alabama, William Wyatt Bibb and Thomas Bibb, brothers. After more than 100 years they together have cast a blazing new light upon the great name of their family. Graves has served Alabama as governor for eight years, a longer period than any other governor before him, and his gifted wife has represented her native Alabama—and creditably—in the senate of the United States—all of which in itself makes a romantic tale.

And if the Colonel's kidney stones will but take leave of him he may again become a problem child in Alabama politics. Apparently he does not mind the annoyance and inconvenience of moving from South McDonough to South Perry, and back again.

Congratulations, Colonel upon, a brilliant and magnificent career as a politician, a builder and a humanitarian! Those that once laughed at you must now lift their hats and bow low.

An Extract from an editorial in the Birmingham Age Herald, Jan. 12, 1939.

So we are glad to say, in these closing days of his administration, that we believe that, according to his conceptions, Bibb Graves has striven hard to serve the people of Alabama.

We believe he has a strong strain of human sympathy in his makeup and that he has sought the welfare and the succor of the common folk, and especially of the distressed and underprivileged.

We believe that, loose as seems to us to have been the expenditure of public funds in some respects, this administration has made considerable progress in putting the fiscal affairs of the state in order.

We believe that, although the school situation in Alabama remains in acute financial difficulty, this administration, according to its lights, has undertaken to increase and has increased the state's support of education.

In public health work Alabama has been outstanding.

Our cooperation with the New Deal in recovery and reform has been broad and ready—perhaps greater than Washington's cooperation with us.

Our road program has moved forward.

State homestead tax exemption has been enacted—in our opinion, a sound tax reform.

In two particulars, Gov. Graves' work, in our view, has been especially outstanding; in his fight for the removal of freight rate discrimination against the South and in his courageous stand against mob action and in behalf of law and order.

In other particulars, such as in the establishment of the highway patrol, about which we were at first somewhat skeptical, this administration has, in the governor's phrase, moved "upward and onward."

It is mainly as to means and methods that we have differed from Bibb Graves. But profoundly wrong as we believe some of his means and methods to have been, we readily acknowledge those programs and results that seem to us to have been good. They add up to a considerable total. And in some respects they are impressive.

For these accomplishments we congratulate and express our gratitude to our outgoing governor.

WPA STEPS UP EFFORT TO PLACE WOMEN WORKERS IN WAR PRODUCTION JOBS

—o—

Reemployment and training representatives of the Work Projects Administration have been instructed to give immediate attention to the placing of women WPA workers in jobs which are being opened to women by the war production program, Col. W. G. Henderson, Alabama WPA Administrator, announced today.

"While it has always been the policy to encourage WPA workers to accept private employment whenever possible, there are now many places in which these women can fit into the war effort in private employment," Col. Henderson said.

Orders to all district WPA offices in Alabama call for special effects to find jobs for women who have been trained while on the WPA payroll, who can be so trained, or who are otherwise qualified for factory and other employment. Many women on WPA rolls, the Administrator said, are already qualified because of aptitude and through WPA project experience for certain types of factory jobs, such as assembly work, sewing, pattern making, and clerical work. Still others had such actual experience before coming to WPA.

The WPA places women, as well as men, in private jobs through the channels of the U. S. Employment Service and by filling orders received directly from employers who may contact local or State offices of the agency.

ALABAMA WEEKLY WEATHER AND CROP REPORT

Recurrent rainfall keeps the surface soil too wet to work but is storing moisture in the subsoil for future use of crops. Warmer weather caused rapid advancement in the growth and development of foilage and vegetation in general.

Very little progress was made in farm work during the past week due to continued rainfall throughout the State. The cold weather that had prevailed for the past several weeks was displaced by warmer weather which caused growing crops to make good progress.

Oats and cover crops were greatly benefited by the warm weather of the past week and advancement was very noticeable. Progress is reported fair throughout the State.

Gardening was general in all sections where there was one or more days dry enough to plow. Excess moisture is the limiting factor for all farm operations at this time.

Too much rainfall has been detrimental to the potato crop in the coastal area, with considerable damage being caused by the rotting of seed pieces. Replanting is general in that area.

Livestock continue to make fair progress in most sections, with both cattle and hogs being marketed at good prices.

Following the ceremony the young couple with friends spent a few minutes receiving the many congratulations offered them, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smitherman of North Clanton. Afterwards luncheon was served by Mrs. Smitherman.

The afternoon was spent visiting friends of the bride and groom, while the young couples, Mr. and Mrs. Popwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smitherman enjoyed the picture "Tanks a Million." Then retired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smitherman for the night.

This was the second time as mentioned before, that Clanton had practiced this blackout, we having been the first in the State to try a complete blackout, some several weeks ago. The blackout included the Cotton Mill, Reynolds addition, Tyus Hill and other outlying Districts.

J. E. Gore, chief Air-Raid Warden, wishes on behalf of the members of his staff to thank all the people of the City and the surrounding territory for their wonderful cooperation during the practice and also commend them for their every effort in making such a success of it.

Chilton County Farm Loan Buys Bonds

Mr. D. W. Waite, Secretary-Treasurer of the Chilton County National Farm Loan Association, states: "This Asssociation has purchased $1,900.00 of defense bonds. This investment in the securities of the United States to assist the Nation in providing the fighting equipment for winning the war has been made possible out of reserves built up in past years. In this way, the farmers of this area who have grouped themselves together in an association for the purpose of providing long term land mortgage credit to their membership through the facilities of The Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, are evidencing again, as heretofore, their willingness to go "all out" to win this war."

"In addition, the members of this Association are gearing their individual farm programs to furnish the needed food for the Nation's fighting forces, its people at home who are engaged in war production, and for sending to our allies. Farmers are again proving the old adage that 'farm people are the backbone of the Nation'."

Weils Declare Farmers Face Labor Problem

Machinery has not been able to take the place of the lowly hoe in chopping cotton and removing grass and weeds, and picking the staple is also stil la hand proposition except in the western pa[illegible] of the belt, [illegible]ing to Weil [illegible] crop letter. As result of drain of farm labor to camp and factory, it was forecast that cultivation and harvesting of the cotten crop will be a[illegible]sely affected

The letter follows:

"Our reports tell us that notwithstanding highly mechanized appliances such as tractors and other machinery in the use for planting and cultivating cotton, there is nothing to take the place of manual labor when it comes to chopping and hoeing out grass and weeds. Machinery does not replace labor in these respects and that is a handicap in a full cotton crop such as the government has allotted—we understand 27,000,000 acres. And again, the picking machine is not and cannot be largely used except in the West where it is helpful, particularly in gathering the remnants of the crop. Picking has to be done by hand—it requires labor. We think that the shortage of labor will be felt in cultivation of the crop, when at a critical juncture it is most needed, and the same applies to harvesting.

"As to weather conditions, during the past two to four weeks they have not been propitious for pitching the crop. There has been too much rain all over the belt, preventing farmers from getting in the fields to work. However, the whole belt is, on an average, well up in preparation. All that is now necessary and important is dry weather for two or three weeks. Since the fields are in readiness and have sufficient sub-soil moisture the chances are for an early planting, especially in the southern areas.

"To supply much needed oils, reports indicate that in accordance with government demands there will be extensive planting of peanuts in the central and eastern sections an dof soy beans in Texas and Oklahoma. In Texas various programs provide for the raising of a better quality of cotton this year. Also, to meet defense needs efforts are intensified for improved and longer staple growths wherever possible.

"Very little spot cotton is being offered from the interior. The basis on white cotton continues firm, unchanged on premium staples. Although interest from mills is light at present, full time operation points to a heavy potential demand."

NEW WAR MATERIAL

NEW YORK.—A new war material, glass boards, made of glass fibers finer than any human hair, was announced here Tuesday by the Owens-Corning Fiber Glass Corporation.

These glass boards are intended as substitutes for cork, which comes from Spain and Portugal and is getting short. The new glass may not make good bottle corks, but it will replace cork for very cold refrigerator insulation and for roof insulation.

Buying Foods Wisely Helps The Pocketbook

—o—

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama homemakers can help keep their families healthy and at the same time serve their pocketbook will by producting and eating the right foods, buying foods wisely, and preparing foods correctly and attractively, says Mildred Simon, extension nutritionist.

Every person needs one serving of whole grain products and other cereals every day. For the period of a week, one person needs from one-fourth to 1 1-2 pounds of whole grain products and 1 1-2 to 3 pounds of other cereals and bread.

Here are some tips on buying and storing cereal products; Buy freshly ground whole grain flour and cereals in amounts which can be used in a short time; store flour and meal in a closely covered tin container in a cool place; watch the surplus commodity list, items on it usually are inexpensive; store bread in a dry, well covered, ventilated tin container.

Closed Season Game Fish

—o—

Montgomery, Ala.—March 20—Effective in 1943, Alabama will have a closed spawning season on game fish March 15-April 15 as a result of action taken by the Conservation Advisory Board in its semi-annual meeting. Action was taken following study of data from the more than 40 states which have closed seasons, and on cemommendation of sportsmen, the Alabama Wildlife Federation and Dr. A. H. Wiebbe, chief of the T. V. A. biological readjustment division.

Two years ago the board voted a similar season for 1941, but upon advice of Professor H. S. Swingle, Auburn fish culturist, rescinded the regulation a few weeks before its effective date.

Ratified was a regulation opening Talladega county east of U. S. highway 241 and Caly county west of Alabama highway 9 to spring turkey hunting. Hunters entering Talaldega National Forest must secure a written permit from the U. S. Forest Service.

State Forester Brooks Toler reported 10,247,733 acres, more than half Alabama's foretsed area, were now under intensive forest fire protection programs with 4,837 landowners cooperating. Eleven new forest towers, bringing the total of 84, have been erected; 112 miles of telephone lines for forest protection constructed; and nearly 6,000,000 seedling trees distributed from the state nursery.

Game, Fish and Seafood Chief Ben Morgan stated 10,790 quail had been distributed from the game farm and 3,747,319 fingerlings released from the state hatcheries. Department trappers caught and released 65 beavers. The Fred Stimpson game sanctuary, now nearing completion, already has a population of 21 wild turkey and three deer in its propagation area.

Reporting for Parks Chief W. G. Lunsford, Assistant Chief James DeJarnette estimated improvements were conservatively valued at $3,000,000 on that division's 20,000 acres. DeJarnette reported construction of a 14-room hotel at Cheaha, five additional cabins at Gulf and improvements of facilities for service to the public at the five major parks.

Tom Ford, conservation planning director, recommended study of a program to set up a water policy for the state. His report for a six month period included conseravtion talks before 35 organizations and schools and the recording of seven deaths and 10 injuries from hunting accidents.

C. C. H. S. Retains State Basketball Championship

By Irvin M. Lande

Caesar's veni, vidi, vici, (we came, we saw, we conquered) sums up Chilton County High's sojourn to Tuscaloosa last week end. There, among the fraternities and the dormitories, hundreds of Clantonians mingled and mixed, while the 'Tigers' of Chilton sank basket after basket to beat Lineville, Pleasant Home, Eva, and Woodlawn for their second consecutive state basketball championship.

It was the climatic weekend of a great season of basketball for the defending champions. It was the conclusion to a hectic schedule which saw Clanton lose only to Lanier during the regular season. The old adage about "all's well that ends well" was the opinion of most basketball fans in Clanton. The road to victory was rough and bumpy for Chilton County High this year. There were those close escapes with Jacksonville State Teachers and Howard Freshmen. There was the loss to Lanier in Montgomery, and the ankle injury to All-State 'Bobo' Collins. Moreover Coach Dewey Cox left Clanton for Ramsay in Birmingham. Lanier eked out another victory over Clanton 39-38. The first half of the district playoff in Clanton saw the 'Tigers' lose again to Lanier. In the other half of the district play-off in Selma, colds kept Coach Porch at home and the squad in poor shape for their tussle with Selma. Selma took the battle 24-21, and Clanton was eliminated from the state tournament.

Lady Luck then took a hand. Lanier was disqualified, forcing Clanton into the second spot with Selma the district winners. The rest is basketball history. Clanton went to Tuscaloosa and won. Probably it was the first time in tournament history that a team, eliminated from the district, came back to win the state championship.

But that is what Clanton did, and in spectacular style.

It would be difficult to summarize in a few words the ability which the C. C. H. S. "Tigers" manifested at Tuscaloosa. Their championship team came only after months, even years, of training and practice. Their sportsmanship at Tuscaloosa was excellent. Despite playing under the pressure of being last year's champions and despite the fact that they had to work twice as hard to get half as much recognition, the team played in a way that all the school and all the county can well be proud of. Accepting unjust fouls as a matter of fate, the team smiled their way to victory even when the going was toughest. But they fought all the way — and they fought hard.

Benny Marshall, in writing up the semi-final game with Eva for the Birmingham News, said that Eva "could do nothing at all, couldn't shoot, couldn't pass, couldn't defend." Of course they couldn't. Clanton didn't let them.

That was the way the entire tournament went. Clanton outplayed every team in the tournament, and did so in such style that no one will dare dispute their right to the state championship.

This year, Paul Smith, Clanton's ace basket-ringer, won All-State honors. Paul deserved it, and so did every member of the team. Smith played in his most spectacular games against Pleasant Home and Eva. Shooting from every conceivable position, and making good his shots, Paul got the coaches' eye for All-State honors. In the first game against Lineville, Paul suffered a hurt leg. Had that not happened, there is no telling how many goals the Clanton ace might have scored.

Clanton's contribution to All-State honors last year, "Bobo" Collins, played brilliant ball in his last high school game against Woodlawn. Had "Bobo" not suffered an ankle injury early in the season, he would have been a sure repeater for All-State honors this year. Even so, Collins played the kind of game that one is not soon to forget.

U. L. Riggins was acclaimed as being the most consistent guard in the tournament. Mild-tempered, smooth-playing, and hard-fighting, U. L. played steady, all around basketball. Not sensational, U. L. didn't get the attention some of the other players received, but his type of basketball is the kind that can't be beaten.

Captain Osmond "Punk" Johnson took second team All-State honors. Johnson's height was the margin of victory in many cases this year, and his able basket-shooting put Clanton out in front when the going was hardest.

Despite an annoying cold and a sore eye, Curtis Daniels, like the rest of the boys, couldn't be slowed down. Playing hard and fast, Daniels added more than his share of points. Daniels was the balance in the quintet.

The three other boys who made the trip, F. C. (Buck) Cost, James Payton, and Lamar Edwards, provided the and relief for the starting lineup without which Clanton could not have won. Cost played first string ball every minute he was in the game. He was down the court before his opponent, and to get a shot past him was not easy. Payton had the not so easy task of stopping Pleasant Home's Helms, the boy who made 33 points against Ramsay. Payton did stop him. Helms didn't score while Payton was in the game. Edwards rounded out the eight men who served the Clanton colors at Tuscaloosa, and, like the other seven, he played championship basketball.

We musn't forget either, the excellent job of Coach Porch. To take over where Coach Dewey Cox left off in mid-season was not an easy task, and to keep the boys in spirit and in condition was a job of major proportions. How well Coach Porch succeeded can be easily judged by the fact that Clanton's Tigers are for a third time, state champions.

The tournament is over. The baskets have been shot and the honors have been won. But to every one who has watched and pulled for C. C. H. S., it is good to know that the Tigers ran for a second straight term as state champions.—And won!

Farmers Asked Plant Full Cotton Allotment

—o—

Auburn, Ala.—At the suggestion of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, P. O. Davis, extension director, has asked Alabama's 237,000 cotton farmers to plant their full acreage allotment of 2,129,407 acres of cotton in 1942 and has recommended that as much of this allotment as possible be planted in medium and longer staple varieties in order to assure adequate supplies of the quantities needed to meet military requirements.

"It is especially important," the Secretary said, "that farmers plant their full cotton allotment in those areas which normally produce cotton of a staple length of one inch or better, and where the planting of the full aloltment will not reduce the acreage planted to other oil crops. The war emergency has developed an increased need for cotton of longer staple length, increased cotton production in these areas wil lalso add considerably to our supply of vegetable oils."

PRICE CEILINGS SET ON MIXED FERTILIZER

—o—

Auburn, Ala.— The Office of Price Administration recently set price ceilings on mixed fertilizers, superphosphate, and potash.

This was done as a precautionary measure to prevent inflationary advances of fertilizer prices at a time when farmers are needing fertilizers to meet Food for Freedom goals.

The order provides that the price of mixed fertilizers, superphosphate, and potash shall be no higher than:

1. The list prices used by the manufacturer or dealer during the period between February 16 and February 21; or
2. The average price charged by the manufacturer, agent, or dealer on the same kind of sales during this period; or
3. If there is no such price list and no such sales were made, then the list price of others in the same locality.

This price order covers prices on all fertilizer sales of 250 pounds or more. Prices lower than the maximum established by OPA may be charged.

BRIEF FARM NEWS

—o—

A total of 4,379 farmers in 27 South Alabama counties applied for cotton crop insurance by the closing date of March 2 for that section. These farmers covered 5,002 farm units with the insurance.

The Executive Committee of the Alabama Farm Bureau is on record favoring compulsory inspection of fruits and vegetables in areas where most producers desire this service.

Alabama farmers are being advised that no change in the 1942 tobacco quotas and allotments announced last fall is justified by available information on supplies and prospective demand.

Farmers' 1941 cash income from marketing, commodities placed under loan, and Government payments totaled $11,771,000,000 —highest since 1920, and 29 per cent higher than 1940.

If every man, woman and child in the United States had a diet best adaptted to his or her age, work level, sex, and other needs, we would consume domestically 15 per cent more butter, 20 per cent more milk, 70 per cent more leafy green and yellow vegetables, and 35 per cent more eggs.

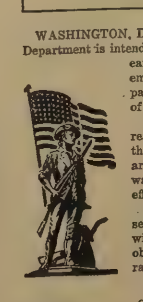
• What Should You Save To Help? •



WASHINGTON, D. C.—The following table issued by the Treasury Department is intended as a savings yardstick for the average income-earner. It suggests how everyone of the 48,000,000 employed persons in the United States may participate in the war effort through the systematic purchase of Defense Savings Bonds.

"The job ahead of us is far bigger than most of us realize," Secretary Morgenthau declared in making the table public. "I know that the American people are ready to do their part to win the war. One of the ways we can do much more is by intensifying our effort in the purchase of Defense Bonds."

While persons without dependents may be able to set aside more than the suggested figures, persons with several dependents, or with other heavy family obligations, may be unable to save at the suggested rate, the Treasury Department pointed out.

Col. Jesse Traywick; Now In Philippines Has Many Relatives In Chilton County

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Verbena, Ala. March 16, 1942.

Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir:

It might be interesting to many Chilton County citizens to know that the "Montgomery West Pointer, Col. Jesse T. Traywick" whose picture and complimentary write up appeared on the front page of The Montgomery Advertiser, Saturday, March 14th, drafted by MacArthur to be a member of his Staff is the son of Jesse T. Traywick, who was reared and educated in Verbena.

He is the grandson of Mr. Thomas Jigg and Mary Thornton Traywick who were reared and married in Coosa County, moving to Verbena about 1877 when Col. Traywick's father was a small boy. In 1897 Jesse Traywick, as he was known to his many friends went to Pike Road as a grocery clerk, later to Montgomery where he worked for the Hobbie Grocery Company for many years, and is now employed by the city of Montgomery.

Col. Traywick's mother was Miss Daisy Wilson, daughter of Mr. Alec Wilson, once a prominent merchant of Montgomery.

He has a number of relatives in Chilton County.

Yours Truly,
W. A. GULLEDGE.

---o---

Serving with Gen. Douglass MacArthur on Corregidor and Bataan is something, but serving with that blessed, beleaguered segment of Uncle Sam's Army by special request of the commander is something else again.

This "serving by special request" is the honor that has come to a Montgomery man who, as a child, played around Court Square, shot sparrows off the hotel's cornice with a slingshot, and got himself generally into mischief.

He was not "to the purple born," but, instead, a child in a hardworking family that lived then at 806 South Court Street.

Jesse T. Traywick, Jr., the son of a grocer's clerk, was a regular boy. He grew up without the high-flown and favored touch of "society." He led no festival balls. He was not president of his class at Lanier high.

But, he had dreams, serious dreams built of clouds—but, always he kept his feet deep in the earth while he dreamed.

To West Point

After two years at Auburn he was appointed by Congressman Hugh S. Dent to West Point. That was in gray limestone fortress on the Hudgray limestone fortress o nthe Hudson was Douglas MacArthur, the superintendent.

Jesse Traywick, Jr., graduated from West Point in 1924. and, full of Mac Arthur's teachings, he was sent to Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga. While there he married Miss Mona Dudley of that city. His honeymoon trip was foreign service (as it was then called) in the Canal Zone.

A session at that international artery ended, and his superiors sent him to Fort Snelling, St. Paul, Minn., and then in a circle to Fort Benning, Ga. Afterwards, his military genius asserting itself rapidly, he was sent to the War College at Fort Leavenworth Kansas.

"That," he said, "was harder than the course at West Point," as he packed his bags again—this time for Fort McClellan, Ala.

In June, 1940 he was detailed to Ft. William McKinley, Philippine Islands, and after a few months General MacArthur issued an order to his former pupil, calling him to join his staff at Fort Santiago. Then a major, he was, after a few months, promoted to colonel.

He Knew Better

While the mainland of the United States basked in the lassitude of persistent appeasement, this former "sparrow shooter of Court Square," knew better—for on June 1, 1941, his wife and three children landed in Montgomery, having been ordered away from Manila by the Great General. Apparently, MacArthur knew well enough what was brewing to the north. Then came Pearl Harbor and Americans prayer for the silence to be broken, that the welfare of men—husbands, fathers and sons—might be learned. But war is war and silence held iron rule over the Pacific.

On the day after Christmas a cable reached the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse T. Traywick of 207 Capitol Avenue:

"I'm okay as long as I'm with MacArthur . . . Don't worry. . . No news will be good news."

Since then, silence.

"I suppose," said the senior Traywick yesterday, "that everything is all right. We hope so. But it's hard."

But there's more to the spell MacArthur has woven over the Traywick family, as he has over all real Americans.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

By DR. BOB JONES, JR.

Wherever He was on the Sabbath, it was the custom of Christ to worship at the House of God. On one particular Sabbath (Mark 1:21-34) He amazed the congregation at the synagogue in Capernaum where He taught, because He spake with such authority and not as the scribes to whom they were accustomed. But Christ did not only speak with authority; He demonstrated His authority—the authority of Diety Himself—by casting out an unclean spirit from a member of the congregation. The deity of Christ is clearly and explicitly taught and emphasized in the Word of God, and Christ Himself repeatedly as on this occasion by His miraculous power demonstrated His deity. When the demon was cast out of the man we are told that the congregation was "all amazed, insomuch that they questioned among themselves, saying: 'What thing is this? what new doctrine is this'?" The demonstration of the eternal truth of His deity so amazed them that in their ignorance of the teaching of the Scripture they thought some new doctrine was being set forth.

It is possible to be in the house of worship and have an unclean spirit. It is possible to be a member of a church and a regular attendant at church worship and not be right of heart. All the ethical teaching and philosophy and emphasis on doctrine which the church has to offer cannot cast out an unclean spirit, cannot give a man a newness of heart. Only the divine Christ is able to perform a regenerating miracle in the life of an individual. Church attendance is valuable and important. Christ Himself sets the example of attendance on public worship, but it is possible to come away from public worship still a slave to sin, unclean and lost. Only a personal meeting there or elsewhere with the Lord Jesus Christ and the acceptance of His divine authority as Lord and Saviour can accomplish the miraculous in the life of the individual.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

Bombs had fallen upon a London street and a merchant's shop had its front torn away. From somewhere he gathered bits of tin and lumber and built a temporary front. Over his doorway he painted a sign, "Open as Usual," and business went on. A few yards further down the street was another merchant's shop that had its front blown away also. This shopkeeper was unable to find bits of tin and lumber to build a front to his store, and yet he was not going to be outdone by his neighbor. At the front of his store he placed this crude sign, "More Open than Usual" and he continued to do business. In spite of bombs and blows these two men were not to be discouraged. The shock of war is upon us and we may think that it is useless for us to fight against the powers that be, but we can be like the British merchant, "More Open Than Usual" and go right on.

There is a little island to the South of us that is known as the Monkey Island. The monkeys living on this island have a high sense of social justice and social rights. As long as there is a Coconut on the island not a not a single monkey goes hungry. All hands have a right to grabble in the coconut shell as long as there is anything in it to grabble. They live together and share all that they have with each other. Not so with many of the human race. We have cultivated bodies and brains. We horde what we have, regardless of needs, We plow up cotton while millions have no beds and clothing. We burn meat, wheat and corn while millions are starving. Why leave the ideal economic division to the monkey race? We can rejoice over the dawning of a better day for the giving out of supplies. Christianity is asserting itself as never before, and some good day we will have favors for none and justice for all.

When a woman is making rolls she puts in a pinch of salt and a bit of leaven and then she makes up the dough. The rolls are cut out and placed into the stove. During the baking time the woman does not open the oven every moment of the baking period to see if the leaven is working. She has mixed it into the flour and she knows that it will do its work. In due time the rolls are light and ready to use. In all of our service to our fellowman we should mix in a large measure of love, and then cease our worry about results. There is no question about it, love will work. Love is the leaven that should be mixed into all of our work and it will get results. Try it.

I walked with a Texas ranchman out to his cattle pen early one morning. This ranchman opened the big gate and gave his cattle call and the herd gave attention and started moving toward the gate. There was no rush and no crowding. Each cow moved quietly and in perfect order through the gate and out on the range. I never saw a more perfect picture of peace and trust. They were going out to feed on the grass that God had provided for them and there were no signs of rush and greediness. On the wide praririe there was enough for all. We might go to the cattle browsing on the plain and learn a lesson of trust in God and justice for our fellowman. Why make a stampede for what is out there, when there is enough for all? Even monkeys and cattle have a high sense of social justice.

And it came to pass that a certain family owned a Ford car and they were happy in the possession of it. But one day the next door neighbor drove up to his home in a big Hudson, and then all the joy and contentment in the family owning the Ford, took the wings off the wind. Each member of the family set up a babble fore a finer car. The home and farm were mortgaged and a big Hudson rolled up to their front gate. Later the mortgage came due and the bank could not be satisfied and the family had to walk away into the world leaving their home and car behind. Verily verily, I say unto you be careful how you envy other people for what they have and be doubly careful, not to spend what you do not have in order to keep up with your neighbor. Learn to be happy with what you can afford. Live your life.

Our friend is dead! The spirit of Bibb Graves---Great lover of his fellowman; counselor, benefactor, builder, humanitarian, will live on through the ages. Bibb Graves Will Live On

(From The Anniston Times)

When David Bibb Graves died sleeping in the early morning of Saturday, March 14, Alabama lost the only man who ever served two full terms as Governor, and the man who would have been this state's third-term Governor had he kept his health until May 5.

But that is a matter for the record and the history books. The Bibb Graves who lives on in countless hearts today is a lively little man full of jokes and wise sayings, a man whose heart was so in tune with the common people of Alabama that they knew him instinctively as their friend

And he proved that friendship in a thousand ways. He proved it with better schools and more schools, and the school leaders of Alabama knew him as an "education governor." He proved it too with better roads, with better health services, with a state department of labor designed to give a fair deal to men high and low.

He was a people's governor. Most of the big interests fought him, for though he would compromise when he had to, "Big Mules," as he good humoredly named them, knew that Bibb Graves in his heart was with the Little Man.

Bibb Graves was an expensive governor. While some would pinch the pennies and ignore human needs, he believed that in people are the great values and he spent the tax money accordingly. He spent it in every city and town and crossroads in Alabama, and the evidence stands there today.

His influence was South-wide. He initiated the fight by Southern Governors against discriminatory freight rates. And this reminds us of a certain academic person who, from the plain-language speeches he had heard Bibb Graves make, and from the ridicule thrown at him by some of the Tory press, had concluded that the Little Colonel was rather a simple fellow. But the professor attended a certain gathering where Bibb Graves spoke on and was questioned about freight rates. The professor came away with a different concept of the then Governor. "That man," he reported, "has one of the keenest minds I ever saw in operation. And facts! Why his knowledge on this freight rate fight is tremendous."

Who can forget that interview of Jonathan Daniels with Graves, as reported in "A Southerner Discovers the South." Of all the men Daniels reported on over the South, none won from him higher praise for grasp of our problems than did the Little Colonel.

Graves prided himself on his knowledge of men. He believed that he could spot qualities of leadership better than most. He once said that three things were required of great leaders. First he said, intelligence. Second, courage, and that, he believed, was not an uncommon quality in men. But the last quality he named was "heart," the capacity for caring about people, and this, he said, was rare in combination with the other two.

How well he himself was supplied with the three, Alabama knows. There were capacity and courage unstinted, and if such a thing be possible, perhaps even an over-supply of love for people and of caring about their needs.

Many are wondering today what the passing of Bibb Graves may mean to the course of political life in Alabama. He and Hugo Black established a new liberal tradition in the politics of the state. Hugo Black in Washington fills with magnificient distinction a seat on the highest tribunal of the land. Bibb Graves is dead. Shall Alabama go still onward as a state in the humanitarian tradition?

Or shall we now go backward into a place as team-mate of New Deal hating, education-fighting Georgia?

With all our heart we believe that Alabama will roll onward toward a day of still better schools, and roads, and health services, toward a day when the income of Alabama families will be on a par with the prosperous families of other states, toward a day when the vast human wealth and natural resources of this state will give us our place at the lead of the nation in economic, cultural and industrial achievement.

Bibb Graves was proudest of his reputation as a builder, and rightly so. He lives on today in many a noble structure where children or young men and women prepare themselves for an uncertain world, and in many a graceful river span opening new areas to the commerce of the state. But brightest of all he lives on in the dreams and the plans of men and women who work for a happier, a more beautiful and a more productive Alabama. There he built best of all.

Bibb Graves And Ala.

(From the Montgomery Advertiser Sunday, March 15, 1942.)

Bibb Graves loved Alabama as have few men in his time; in turn Alabama loved him in as full a measure.

The feeling which he had for his native State was based upon intimate knowledge of its every corner—not geographically alone—but also of its people, their needs, their hopes, their potentialities.

Knowing Alabama and loving Alabama as he did, his consuming desire throughout his career had been to have a share in leading this State to that place in the sun which heritage and resources entitled it.

There are those who have been nettled and dismayed by the ties which bound Bibb Graves and Alabama one to the other. Had they understood fully either the man or the State they would not have been confused.

He was as much a part of this State as pine trees on a hill-top, as much a part of it as farmers turning land in the Spring, or boys going barefooted in the Summer sun, or fish biting in the shade of a willow, or the blasts of furnaces in an industrial region, grown great with turning out goods, or as much a part of us, smiling and saying "Howdy" to passers-by on the street.

Those who had occasion to visit Col. Graves' office during the years he was governor will recall that during the "graduation season" he was accustomed to sign stacks of diplomas while carrying on a conversation. Signing the diplomas of hundreds of graduates from State colleges was no small task. It was the kind of routine job which could have been passed on to a machine or an authorized subordinate. It was certainly not efficient.

But the act of siging of a diploma with his own hand had meaning to Bibb Graves. It was the official stamp of approval of the State of Alabama on a record of a boy or girl whose preparation for life had been made possible by this commonwealth. Bibb Graves' heart, and his respect for the office he held required that he do the job personally—and it gave him a thrill to have the opportunity to do it.

In recalling what might appear to be an incident of no great import at such a time, The Advertiser is not unmindful of the catalogue of Bibb Graves' major contributions to the building of Alabama. The larger record of his service is well-known, his labors in behalf of human welfare, his interest in the dispossessed, his championship of education, his part in developing Alabama's economic resources. Well-known, too, is the fact that often his energies were devoted to those who had no voice, the convicts in the mines, the mentally ill, the sick. Not so well-known is the fact that Negro schools and Negro colleges, whose patrons had no political power, looked to him also.

It is not surprising that the thoughts of those who knew him well turned first to "Miss Dixie," for of all his legion of friends she was the greatest. She was not only his wife, but companion and trusted counsellor as well. Through ups and downs, through victories and defeats the two had gone through life arm in arm.

The capacity for friendships and for inspiring loyalty as well as giving it was part and parcel of Bibb Graves, the man is a part of the record of his stand on public issues.

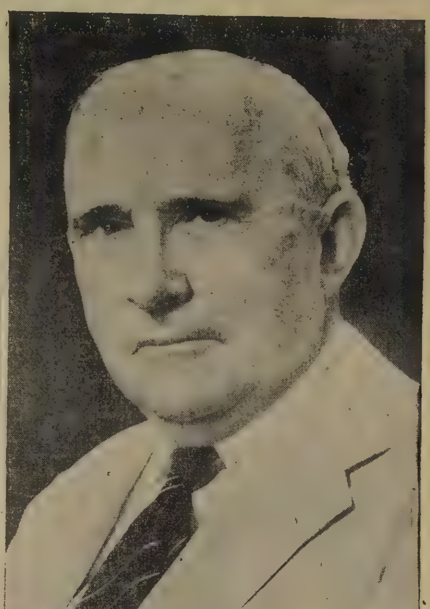
Bibb Graves is dead but the principles which gave his statesmanship life and meaning are imperishable. They may be cast aside. They may be nullified for a season, but they are a living, vital force and will not forever be denied expression. These principles have found a response in the hearts and minds of thousands of Alabamians. They transcend the lines of party and faction. There is a universal quality in them that commands their acceptance by all men of good purpose.

How well these principles accommodated themselves to the spirit and genius of Alabama has been made apparent on two occasions when the people of this State have gone to the polls and chosen Bibb Graves as their implementing force. It was apparent a few hours ago when Bibb Graves, still alive, was an overwhelming choice for a third term as Governor of this great State. It remains apparent still.

A way of thought common to a quarter million men and women does not change; does not vanish into nothingness when its chief exemplar dies. Rather, it remains a monument to his fine spirit, a heritage to those who saw with him, eye to eye.

It would be disheartening if it had to be said, now that Bibb Graves is dead, all that he stood for and fought for must die with him. It does not have to be said. Those who followed in the Bibb Graves way are not yet ready to surrender the lines built up behind him. They are unwilling yet to defer to forces to reaction or political self-seeking. If there is a way they will find it and they are not yet convinced there is not a way.

Col. Richard T. Rives expresses much of this in a statement wrung from him at a time when he would have preferred to be left alone with his grief for a dead friend. In it he



The true blue, loyal supporters of Bibb Graves — those who have fought side by side with him—some of them for more than a third of a century, are far more interested in seeing to it that the ideals of Alabama's greatest humanitarian leader, do not perish from the Earth, than they are in who is going to be the next Governor of Alabama.

The ones who really believed in Bibb Graves, for what he was and what he stood for, will get behind those candidates, from the highest to the lowest, who will continue to carry on the fight for collective human welfare, for the principles that human rights are superior to property rights, that the underprivileged shall have a chance to live and enjoy normal lives as God's other children, and all the other fine and noble things for which he spent his life.

Good-bye, Bibb! We who loved you, believed in you, and who may still have a few days coming to us, will carry on.—Mark.

David Bibb Graves

(From The Alabama Journal, Saturday March 14, 1942.)

Stunned into shocked silence the people of Alabama stand today with bowed heads over the loss of one of the great figures of Alabama history.

The death of David Bibb Graves, coming so suddenly and so unexpectedly after the promising progress he had made from his recent illness, stirs a maelstrom of emotions which will take long to subside.

No one can think clearly or forecast the future with any degree of assurance while mourning the loss of a central figures in the state's whole gamut of activity, political, economic, religious and patriotic.

Bibb Graves was a rare combination of statesman, practical politician and humanitarian. He had served Alabama in public life since the days of his young manhood. He had been in the legislature. He had been adjutant general. He had been chairman of the State Democratic Committee. He had served two terms as governor. He was universally regarded as the outstanding contender in the contest for governorship now under way, and it is believed that nothing but the hand of fate that has stricken him could have prevented his breaking all time precedents in the state and being chosen for a third term in the executive office.

It would take a long while to enumerate and analyze the value of his services to the state. He was proud of the accolade "builder" given him, but he deserved it in full measure; say to the followers of Bibb Graves

"Stand firm. Do not be stampeded in your dismay. Your will is the will of the majority of the people of Alabama and in a democracy the will of so gerat a majority may not lightly be thwarted."

This is a time of sorrow. It is not a time to explore the avenues open to a majority which suddenly finds itself at a disadvantage. If Col Rives, in the high integrity with which his name has always been allied, can find a way, there will come to him this cry from a grateful people, "Keep on keeping on."

for no man ever built in Alabama on such a scale as Bibb Graves. He built in every direction. Schools, public buildings, hospitals, welfare institutions, highways, bridges, from one end of Alabama to to the other these structures testify permanently to the handiwork of Bibb Graves as a builder.

He was no less notable as a humanitarian. He took convicts out of the mines; he brought millions of dollars to the state for child welfare, old age pensions, unemployment relief, aid for the unfortunate. He was a democrat to the innermost recesses of his soul. He believed in majorities and he believed in local self-government. He was a deeply religious and devout man trusting at all times that his acts would be guided by Divine hands, and that his motives would be actuated by the great precepts of Holy Writ.

Bibb Graves has left Monuments all over the state which testify to his eagerness to make life more comfortable and pleasant and happy, but the most enduring monument of all is that which he left in the hearts of the people who loved and trusted him.

President Gets Bill To Reimburse Alabamian

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt had before him Wednesday a bill authorizing payment of $10,000 to the husband and six minor children of Mrs. Estelle Phillips, of Robertsdale, Alabama, who was killed by a low-flying navy plane, March 25, 1941. The bill, (S1,777) was passed by the House Tuesday and sent to the White House for the president's approval.

Under provisions of the bill, her husband, Robert Lee Phillips, would receive $2,000 of the government payment and the children's guardian the remainder.

Two naval ensigns stationed at the Pensacola, Fla., air base were ordered discharged from the service and sentenced to prison in connection with the case. The pilot of the plane received a two-year sentence and his passenger a one-year term, but both were pardoned by Navy Secretary Knox after five months in Portsmouth, N. H., naval prison.

'The Little Colonel'

(From The BirminghamNews-Age-Herald, Sunday, March 15, 1942)

For many years Bibb Graves was known to Alabamians as the "Little Colonel." The appellation fitted him well, not merely because his military rank in the First World War had been that of colonel or because of his small stature, but, more meaningfully because into that name, the "Little Colonel," went a good deal of the affection, the respect and the loyalty which his people felt toward the former governor. The phrase was always spoken or written in that spirit

Warm indeed was the affection in which Alabamians held Gov. Graves His personal friends, whom he numbered literally by the thousands, had a devotion for him such as one rarely finds either in public or private life. His political followers, who numbered into the hundreds of thousands felt almost as strong a devotion, for most of them—and here was one of the secrets of his political success — somehow regarded themselves as his personal friends, too, although they may never have spoken a word to him.

They felt that way because, even though he had never uttered a word to them personally, they had heard him speak time and time again in his campaigns, and there was something about the way Bibb Graves spoke to a crowd that made his followers feel as if he were speaking directly to each of them. They felt that way because they knew that in his heart Bibb Graves was the friend of every man of every woman and every child, in Alabama.

That was, at bottom, the secret of his hold upon the people's affection Bibb Graves was a genuinely friendly man, a kindly man, a man of deep human sympathies. People sensed his genuineness, and responded to it. And so, at campaign rallies, his followers whooped it up for Bibb Graves, in that spirit of enthusiasm and devotion which makes champions among leaders, whether on the battlefield or on the hustings. It was that spirit which made the followers of Bibb Graves really his followers, and not just his supporters. That spells a tremendous difference in politics.

Twice Col. Graves served as governor of Alabama, the only governor ever to serve two terms since the adoption of the constitutional provision making a chief executive ineligible for reelection. Gov. Graves simply waited four years after serving his first term and was elected again at the next election. He was just about to do the same thing again when death so unexpectedly took him in his sleep in the early hours of yesterday morning, as he was thought to be well on the road to recovery from an operation several weeks ago.

Three times had Col. Graves run for governor, the first time unsuccessfully. He had long been ambitious to serve the people of Alabama as their governor. In the early years of this century he launched himself upon a political career which might have carried him to the governorship ever sooner had not the World War intervened. After serving in the legislature and in other political offices he became chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee in 1914, and it was then that he set his eyes upon the governorship. The war interrupted his political career. Bibb Graves, a military man since his youth, naturally entered the service of his country, and commanded a regiment overseas. After the war he returned to Alabama and began to rebuild his political career. In 1922 he ran for governor against William W. Brandon, and lost. In 1926 he ran again, and won.

In his first term Gov. Graves demonstrated that his interest in the people's welfare was not merely for campaign purposes. He gave Alabama a progressive administration. He achieved some important reforms, such, for example, as the ending of the wretched convict-lease system. He broadened and improved the state's system of taxation. Most important of all in his first term, perhaps, was his contribution to educational advancement in Alabama. Probably no governor before him had done as much for the schools as Gov. Graves did in his first administration.

Unfortunately, the close of that administration found the state, along with the nation and the entire world, in a deepening depression, and some of the advances made by his administration, especially in education, were lost. Gov. Graves' popularity had declined considerably, as is usually the case with an outgoing official, when he went out of office in January, 1931, and with hard times at hand, there were accusations that he had given the state an extravagant administration.

Four years later Col. Graves came back as governor, achieving a new high level of popularity in his campaign for a second term. Economic conditions had improved, and people seemed to be ready to move forward again in the state services—education public health, social welfare and the like.

Gov. Graves launched his second administration with a progressiveness in keeping with the times which had ushered in the New Deal nationally.

There'll Never Be Another Bibb Graves

(From the Selma Times-Journal)

In the hearts of thousands of Alabamians today there is deep sorrow over the tragic passing of Former Governor Bibb Graves at Sarasota, Fla., where he had gone to recuperate from two recent operations. These Alabamians were his tried and true supporters, who admired and loved Colonel Graves because of his admirable qualities as an individual rather than because of his political power and his ability to exercise great influence in public affairs.

Even among those who have opposed most bitterly the political progress of Colonel Graves there is genuine regret that his career should thus end so abruptly and so tragically, far from the Alabama he loved so well and at a time when he had hoped to set a virtually-unassailable precedent of having served his state three times as governor. Regar of opposition to Colonel Graves candidate, there are few who did not recognize his capacities for making and holding friends, his warm-heartedness, his complete lack of hy risy and his amazing and enduring loyalty to the followers who helped to mould his political fortunes. Whatever the shortcomings attributed to the policies of "The Little Colonel" he has never been accused of touching a venal dollar and he died a comparatively poor man for one who has administered expenditures of millions of dollars in public funds. That itself is a tribute to his per character.

Few times in its history has the state seen a more colorful and appealing figure than Bibb Graves presented as a candidate. Never pret ing anything other than was covered by his stated philosophy of pol he won supporters by the sheer dacity of his approach to campaign problems, and held them by stead ly standing for those who stood for him.

It was this monumental loyalty to his friends, perhaps, which contributed to his sudden passing, for he defied physical sufferings which would have completely broken a lesser man to continue carrying the banner of his supporters when the prospect of rest and relaxation must have been strongly enticing.

His accomplishments as governor can be evaluated accurately only by time, for there are few observers of the Graves record to render impartial judgment. You were either for or against Bibb Graves, as there didn't seem to be any middle ground upon which to stand and watch the amazing picture of what transpired when he went into action.

Certainly he has left a definite place in the annals of Alabama as a forceful personality and a factor to be reckoned with in every phase of state growth during the past twenty years Worse men and possibly better men may come and go, but there will never be another Bibb Graves.

The quadrennium brought marked progress to Alabama in many ways. Tax revenues rose to higher lev than ever before in the state's history, and expenditures, of course, kept pace. Again the critics of Governor Graves chrged that he was extravagant and wasteful of the taxpayers funds. But not many would deny that he again gave the state a progressive administration. The general feeling as he went out of office in January, 1939, seemed to be that he had been a good governor.

Perhaps the best brief summation of Bibb Graves as chief executive was that which the late Grover C. Hall, editor of The Montgomery Advertiser —which, incidentally, had always opposed Col. Graves as a candidate — used to make. Grover Hall used to say: "Bibb Graves makes a good governor, but an expensive one." That was about right; and whether you were for or against Bibb Graves depended largely on whether you placed governmental economy first, or progressive government even if it was somewhat expensive.

Evidently the the majority of Alabamians put progressive government first, for unquestionably they were in a mood to elect Col. Graves to a third term. Practically everybody will agree that if he had lived and been strong enough to make one of his characteristic campaigns he would have been elected easily.

But time and campaigns and years of heavy responsibility had taken a greater toll of the "Little Colonel" than he and his friends realized. Finally, although he had come safely through two operations, his heart failed him. He would have entered his 70th year the first of April. Thus he fell short only one year of rounding out the Biblican threescore years and 10.

The people of Alabama are full of sorrow over the passing of Gov. Graves. They cannot now elect him governor again, as they had clearly intended to do, but he is enshrined in their memories as one who very earnestly wanted to serve his people well, and in the judgment of most of them, did.

A Letter From Howard Roper to The Voters

Jemison, Ala., March 10, 1942

To The People of Chilton County:

Several weeks ago I announced as a candidate for county commissioner from the First District of Chilton County.

Born and reared in this county, I have spent most of my life here.

I have offered my services to you fully realizing the great responsibility that a Commissioner has and submit my candidacy for your consideration on my merits as a man and a citizen. If I am nominated and elected, it shall be my purpose to be a servant for all the people regardless of political affiliation.

I do not belong to any political faction. I am a Democrat and expect to always carry on in a Democratic way. If I am elected Commissioner your criticism and advice will be welcome at all times for "in multitude of council there is wisdom." But I shall at all times reserve the right to do what I think is right and honest without fanfare or wrangling. I will remember that "yes men" are not worthy of your support and that a "Bull headed man" can do you much harm. With that in mind I will try to safeguard your interests.

Four years ago I advocated old age assistance of $30 per month to be paid by the State and nation alike. I have not changed my attitude and will continue to support that pledge whether elected or not.

I have always believed that labor had a right to organize and bargain for fair wages and that capital should have fair profits on investments

The farmer's interest should be carefully safeguarded and the farm families should have the comforts and privileges of life not because of political prestige but because he is the meal ticket of the nation and since the farmers for ma large per centage of our popualtion from them will come many of the ideals upon which our future will be built. He feeds and clothes the world Why should he be hungry and ragged?

Yes, my boy is in the army now with yours. They are ready to make the supreme sacrifice that we may still have our Democratic way of life. Let us all hope and pray that at some near future day they will win the victory and return to us safe. We must do our part to that end. You have my statement and my confidence and I am depending on you

Sincerely,
HOWARD ROPER.

Homecoming At Macedonia Church Is To Be On The Fifth Sunday In March

About 50 years ago our own Rev. W. S. Cox and one of his neighbors agreed between themselves that they needed a church in the community which is now known as Beat 1—Macedonia community. After they having so agreed, immediately took to the forest with their tools and prepared the necessary timbers from pillar to roof, for a church. Our own Rev. Cox made a trip to Birmingham and secured a deed, from the L. & N. R. R. company to a five acre tract for the purpose of erecting a church house, this all done, they then gave a public working for one day at which time Bro. Cox and his neighbors saw their fond hopes turned into a reality. It was in this church that Bro. Cox was ordained into the ministry of God's work, so although it has not been his privilege to remain in the Macedonia church community. all these years surely we can all agree that he is justified in retaining the peculair fondness for it which he manifested at all times.

On the 29th day of March he and his multitude of friends from this section of the state are meeting at the church for a religious service which will mean much to the memories of our good old stalwarts like Bro. Cox and Bro. Riley Robinson.

All singers of the old Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony are requested to go and carry your song book and a picnic lunch for spreading at the noon hour.

Bro. Cox will preach at the 11:00 o'clock hour. Song services will begin at 10 o'clock.

It is the expectation of the Secretary of the Harp and Harmony Association of Chilton County that we have a goodly number of visitors from other counties on this day, so it is the duty of all singers of this county and all friends of Bro. Cox that we reward him with our presence on this date.

The public is invited and if however you have a member in your family who is an intimate friend of Bro. Cox or who especially enjoys the old singing, you are urgently requested to bring them out for the day. Please bring your lunch for the noon hour. Remember March 29th at Macedonia, 11 miles East of Clanton and 2 miles this side of Mim's Ferry just below Lay Dam.

COUNTY TRAINGING SCHOOL

"FOOD FOR VICTORY", watchword or the duration of the war. In a certain community some years ago, there was an old custom of having an annual community affair. It was in one of these meetings where two persons were sitting at the same table. One of these persons was called on for a few remarks; while making his speech there was a repetition of a worthy saying that had been used over a period of years. The second person of the above mentioned made this statement: "Why does he keep saying the same old story over and over again? The speaker answered this statement as follows: What would happen if a carpenter would buy a new hammer each time he drives a nail? and throw away a saw each time a piece of lumber is sawed?

I am still saying that "Food For Victory" is the key by which the American and Allied forces will be in a position to unlock the storehouse of strength to carry on the fight that is destined to maintain the high and noble Democratic Ideals of a united group. It is the food that gives strength to the man behind the gun as well as the man behind the desk. It is a fact that each true American will plant work and produce enough food and feed for this emergency. Just try producing enough food to prevent buying such foods as meat, corn, potatoes, vegetables eggs, chickens, syrup and you will be strengthening the National foundation of "Food for Victory." The patriotic side of life should appeal to each individual so deeply that his and her desires would be to produce more food than what has been asked of them. From an intellectual point of view we do not grow when we try to get just enough information for our own use because we have none to spare the less fortunate fellow. Consequently, we must produce more food than we need for our own livelihood to have some to share with those who are in need.

B. T. Whittington, Vocational Agriculture Teacher, Chilton County Training School.

Cancer Menace Worst In Alabama's History

Cancer is now claiming more Alabama lives than at any previous time in the State's history, Dr. B. F. Austin, acting State health officer, pointed out in asking Alabama people to pay particular attention to this disease during April, which Governor Dixon has designated as Cancer Control month.

"The history of most diseases has been a story of progress, he said, "but the history of cancer is an exception to the rule. In the face of sharp reductions in the death rates for typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diphtheria, smallpox and many other forms of illness that formerly ranked high on the list of killers. the death rate for cancer was higher in 1940 than in any previous year covered by the mortality record."

TESTING SUITABILITY OF SOIL FOR BASE-COURSES ON ALABAMA ROADS—A tremendous task is the testing of all soils for suitability as construction materials on Alabama roads, yet scores of these tests are made daily—thousands during the year. Along all Alabama road construction projects, samples of soils and other materials are sent to the State Highway Department to run the gauntlet of tests, each for its specific purpose. Shown in the picture above is a laboratory technician operating a liquid limit test machine on soils. After preparing the specimen, the worker runs this test on soil for base-course material. The liquid limit is one of the controlling factors in regard to the ability of a soil in base-courses under bituminous surface treatments. The liquid limit indicates the capillary capacity of a soil. This factor is used in calculating the plasticity index, which indicates cohesion. This is one of the many tests applied in the State Highway Department's testing laboratories.

This Week In National Defense

A WEEK OF THE WAR

War Production Chairman Nelson said man-hours now being put into military production could be doubled if all equipment involved were used 24 hours a day. He asked manufacturers for monthly reports to show how rapidly industry is being converted to war work, the degree of utilization of equipment and any factors interfering with maximum production.

The War Production Board reported 95 per cent of the radio and phonograph industry, which ceases civilian production April 22, will be completely converted to war work before June 30. Production of communication equipment needed by the military services is expected to exceed a rate of $125,000,000 a month by th end of the year.

Chairman Nelson announced 31 regional conferences of labor and management represntatives from prime contracting plants engaged in making guns, ships, planes, tanks and machine tools will be held during the next two weeks. The meetings will lay plans to meet or exceed the production goals announced by the President. The War Produtcion Board ordered the production of domestic laundry equipment to be discontinued by May 15 so the entire capacity of the industry can be devoted to war production.

RUBBER, GASOLINE & OIL

President Roosevelt in a letter to state governors proposed speed limits of 40 miles per hour be established throughout the country to conserve rubber. NICARAGUA—OCEAN LINK OF TOMORROW

Nicaragua is the largest of the Central American republics. Its territory, about that of Wisconsin, forms an isosceles triangle wedged into the middle of Central America, with the Pacific as the western boundary and the Atlantic, the Caribbean Sea as the eastern.

From northwest to southwest the extension of the Sierra Madre mountain system cuts through Nicaragua, dividing it into two parts which have, as yet, little access to each other. The smaller of these, the narrow Pacific Coast region, is about a quarter of the country's total area of 57,000 square miles. But here is most of the agriculture of the nation, and nearly half its population of about a million and a half. Here too, on the southern shore of the famed Lake Managua, about 200 feet above sea level, is Managua, the capital city.

Almost completely destroyed by earthquake and fire in 1931, the city has risen again, more modern but fully as beautiful as of old. The larger eastern section of the triangle is for the most part mountainous. Most of the large rivers emptying into the Atlantic rise in the central cordillera region. The Rio Grande de Matagalpa flows eastward through a large gap in the mountains, and in its valleys are most of the cattle ranches of the country.

Lying placidly between mountains and coasts are the two fresh water lakes for which Nicaragua is famous, Into them empty the mountain streams of the western slopes. The smaller of these is Lake Managua, 38 miles long and 10 to 16 miles in width. The other, Lake Nicaragua, is an elliptical body of water 90 miles long and 39 miles at its widest. It is about 135 feet above sea level and has always been an important factor in the transportation of the country. Davila, the first Spanish conqueror, called it "Freshwater Sea." From Lake Nicaragua, on its way to the Atlantic, flows the San Juan River. Together, these lakes cover nearly 3,500 square miles. These lakes and the San Juan River long have been discussed as possible routes of a second canal linking Atlantic and Pacific. In the days of the California "Gold Rush," there was lively interest in the possibility. A definite step in the direction of such a waterway is a treaty recently entered into by the governments of Nicaragua nd Costa Rica for the canalization of the San Juan. This would open the way for navigation of ships of medium size from the Atlantic to Lake Nicaragua and speed the development of the whole region

Columbus was the first white man to set eyes on Nicaragua. In September of 1502, according to the story, nearing the Central American coast on his last voyage, he was overtaken by a storm. Finding safety in an unknown harbor, so great was his relief that he called the jutting point of land "Gracias a Dios," (Thanks Be to God). So the northeastern corner of Nicaragua got its name.

Conquest did not follow close on the hells of discovery, however. It was not until after Balboa discovered the Pacific and claimed it all in the name of the Spanish king that and Spanish rule, to last for three there was begun a period of conquest years beyond three centuries. Movements toward independence there were, but the country's development into a free nation was delayed by attempts of various foreign powers to administer the affairs of the Nicaraguans. At last, rid of foreign interference, Nicaragua was to enjoy a period of tranquility which has been marked by a steady advance in the political and economic life of the nation.

In the world-market of today Nicaragua can offer gold, coffee, bananas, lumber, cotton, live stock hides and sugar. To supply its own needs, the country requires from other nations, cotton goods, machinery, tools, iron and steel products, oil, chemicals, drugs, automobiles and trucks.

Navy Relief Society To Raise $59,000.00

The Navy Relief Society today opened a drive throughout Alabama for $59,000 as this state's share in the nation-wide $5,000,000 campaign for funds to provide relief for dependent mothers, widows and minor children of deceased officers and men of the Navy and the Marine Corps, and for use in special cases of distress among naval personnel and members of their families. Ed Roberts, of Mobile, president of the Waterman Steamship Corporation, has accepted the campaign chairmanship for Alabama and is setting up an organization to conduct the drive for funds in every one of the state's 67 counties.

Declaring that demands due to the exigencies of war have placed an enormous burden on the Navy Relief Society and millions of dollars are needed to carry on the work of caring for Naval,, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel and their families, Mr. Roberts said:

"The response of our people of Alabama to the call for Naval officers and men has been most commendable. In fact, official figures show enlistment per capita places this state among the leaders of the whole nation. Hundreds of our Alabama boys in blue are with our fighting forces. Scores have already made the supreme sacrifice. Our Navy still carries on at the front. We must back them up at home by caring for their families and dependents.

"It is to meet this need that the Navy Relief Society exists as the enlisted man's anchor to winward. It is organized by the Navy and within the Navy to look after the Navy's own. It maintains its representatives on every ship and every shore station, at every training school and air base.

"In times like these when our men know there is an organization devoted solely to their needs and to whom their families may apply and receive help in an emergency, their peace of mind is much assured. From that peace of mind comes uplift in morale which sharpens the fighting edge.

"Therefore, in contributing to the Navy Relief, you are contributing greatly to the winning of the war, not to mention the gratification which must come to you from the knowledge that you are helping those who are risking their all for you. Broadly speaking, it is all for Country."

The Navy Relief Society of which the local Auxiliary is the administration unit was founded in 1904 and established headquarters in Washington. Up to 1914, funds were obtained from the proceeds of the Army and Navy football games. Since then, funds have been obtained from membership dues, subscriptions from ships and shore stations, from entertainments given by Auxiliaries and donations by civilians and societies.

In ascertaining the need for assistance, the Navy Relief Society is kept informed by the Surgeon General of all deaths occuring in the Navy and Marine Corps. The Navy Bureau of Navigation furnishes in each case the name, address and relationship of the "nearest of kin" as given on the man's enlistment record. If the relationship is that of mother, wife, or child, the Secretary immediately makes inquiries to ascertain if they are in need of assistance. These inquiries are made by referring the cases to the Navy Auxiliary in whose district of an auxiliary, confidential inquiries are addressed to the nearest charity organiaztion. i. e. Red Cross, postmaster, chief of police, or other responsible official.

Upon their reports, the Relief Committee gives assistance wherever needs exist. The Navy Auxiliaries also endeavor to keep informed of all naval families in need of assistance residing in their district. In each case a full report is made to the central Relief Committee with recommendations.

When it is found that dependents are entitled to the benefit of pension or insurance, the Secretary communicates directly with the Government offices concerned and assists in getting such claims adjusted at the earliest practicable date without expense to the claimants.

It is requested that all donations be sent to Navy Reilef Society, care of your local post office.

FOR THOSE WHO GIVE THEIR ALL—WE MUST GIVE THE MOST WE CAN. Lt. Tyrrell Crum, Eighth Naval District.

Virginia Ware, clerk at Local Board No. 1 is going to marry a soldier, which is very appropriate we would say . . . Morris Johnson, who was a local boy, until Uncle Sam agreed to take care of him for a while is to be the groom. The event will take place in the near future but Virginia forgot to tell us just when. . .. would you believe it?. . . . for 34 years there was not a legal voter in Chilton County. . . Buck Roberts, candidate for Tax Assessor was the first one to answer our yelp-for-help when we sent out a call for all candidate's photographs . . . looks like a 'Field Day' around the News office this week, what with the candidates for Governor making calls . . . We didn't know until the "black-out' Tuesday night that you could see a man lighting a cigaret four blocks away. . . and funny, but we have never seen so many having to light cigaretes.

Above is a picture of Clanton Tuesday night during the Black-out (you can't prove that it isn't) and as you will see it was a perfect one. The tiny speck of light on the lower left-hand side of the picture is one of those many citizens who couldn't refrain from lighting up their smoke until the all-clear sounded. . . when we asked our Jr. Warden what one would do in a real blackout when they wanted to light a cigaret she remarked, "why just walk over to the bomb and light up." Anyway although we haven't the equipment of our big dailys, our black-out picture is just as clear and gets over the same idea— that a darn swell job was done by everyone.

Thanks a lot to the Bob Whites out at Spigener Funeral Home for their cooperation in getting us a beautiful potted plant Saturday morning to go under the picture of Col. Bibb Graves, in the window. . . Col Graves had been a close friend of the family for some 40 years and we wished to show tribute in some small way. . . thus the flowers. . . . wonder what ever became of Rufus Gann, who used to work for Curtis Billingsley at Billingsley Service Store? . Rufus was from Nashville and the last we heard from him he had returned there and gone to work. . . . funny how folks come into your life and out and you never know whence they go . . . a married lady of our town was overheard to say down town Tuesday that her old love letters were so sweet that she lived in fear that she would be arrested for hoarding sugar. . . we note the Yellow Front Store at Akron, Ala., was robbed last week. Donald Blackketter,. Mgr. of the local store, says at the low prices that he maintains, come in at any time and buy an order and you will feel that you have robbed the place.

This is awful—All war material is scarce because of the great need of our armed forces . . . when people capitalize on this fact, something should be done . ..trucks are carrying Alabama playing on the patriotism of our Weekly Newspapers and citizens, naming a "Scrap Iron Day" and buying the stuff at about one-half price or less—all for Defense We need it for defense alright . . . but why let the fellow collecting it make such a huge profit as that.

Jimmie Bell gets the d—— ideas. .. and the funny thing about them they're usually pretty good. Now Jimmie has the idea of all these fellows in the stores that close during the summer months on Wednesday afternoons instead of going fishing or to the river, go to work on some farmers land and help raise more produce for Victory. This, as Jimmie says, could be worked in cooperation with Pat Smith and the County Agent's office. Or it might be that some farmer could donate the land and all work on the same farm letting the profits go to some worthy Department in the Defense Program. Anyway, as we said before, whether it works or not . . . its a darn good idea.

We received in the mail this morning a booklet from New York, "Driver's Digest." Mailed us by Gulf Pride Service Station . . . a very interesting booklet too, were it not for the "funny picture" on the center page . . . . a perfect likeness of J. R. Studdard of the J. R. Studdard Gulf Pride Service Station . . . we should have enjoyed it immensely.

Sherlock, Alabama gubernatorial candidate, is shown above congratulating the former State Highway Director on the progress he has made since Sherlock opened his race at Anniston. Ex-Governor Miller, ardent dry and exponent of good government, endorsed Sherlock in the letter shown at the right. Camden, Alabama

March 5, 1942

I will cast my vote for Chris Sherlock, nominee for Governor of Alabama in the Democratic Primary. I consider him the best candidate in the field.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS WILL "KEEP ON KEEPING ON"

(Editorial)

When the best friend, and the greatest leader the rank and file of Alabamians ever had, answered the summons of the Master Builder to cease his labors and rest, hundreds of thousands of his followers, including myself, had nowhere to go—politically speaking.

We, who had labored with him in the battle for the betterment of all mankind, through many long years were suddenly thrown upon our own political resources—each one had to decide for him or herself what their future political alignment would be.

Without being hasty, I began analyzing the situation and appraising the five candidates remaining in the race for governor—Folsom, Sparks, Sherlock, Carwile, Broyles. On careful investigation I found James E. Folsom to be truly representative of the common masses—in other words "just folks"—like you and I. I found him to be honorable and upright, a clean, Christian gentleman, with an earnest desire to serve as best he could in order that all of God's children—the poor and the rich, the low and the high could participate and enjoy the more abundant life. I found that his political ideals and principles more nearly parallel and represent those of our departed friend, whom we all loved so well, than any of the other candidates.

Therefore, Chilton County News endorses to the fullest the candidacy of James E. Folsom, of Cullman, for Governor, and will do all it can to help elect him.

Hiway Dept. Expects Drop In Gas Revenue

If gasoline taxes and auto license revenues drop 50 per cent next year, Alabama may have to seek federal funds to help maintain the state's present $200,000,000 highway system, State Highway Director W. G. Pruett said today. Mr. Pruett pointed out that approximately half of the department's normal $12,000,000 annual budget now goes for road maintenance work and for the payment of interest on and the ertirement of state highway bonds. Other states will be still harder hit, Mr. Pruett said, if gasoline tax and auto tax receipts drop by half.

"LEST WE FORGET THOSE AT HOME"

Early correction of physical deformities prevent life-long handicaps—this is the gist of a statement by the Chilton County committee of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children in opening the annual membership drive.

The Alabama Society for Crippled Children is now conducting its drive for the aid of crippled children in Alabama. In the public schools children are helping through buying Easter seals. Adults are being enlisted to help by joining the Alabama Society for Crippled Children.

This year more than ever help is needed. One of the worst infantile paralysis epidemics in history swept Alabama in 1941 leaving hundreds of crippled children in its wake. These children should receive treatment soon if they are to be successfully cured, and the treatment and braces needed are expensive, so expensive that in most cases the children will remain cripples unless they are helped through an agency such as the Alabama Society for Crippled Children.

Money raised locally is all spent for the benefit of the children in the county where it is raised. In addition state and Federal funds supplement the local funds. During 1941 funds raised in Chilton County for crippled children amounted to $250.00. However the cost of services provided for the children in the county amounted to $2,000.00. This year, because of the great need over the state it is expected that the need for local efforts will be much greater.

Surely this year when so many are well and financially better off than formerly all will want to join the organization which is providing care and treatment for these victims of one of the most dreaded diseases. The minimum membership fee is one dollar but many whose generosity and interest are great give more. People are urged to join by sending membership fee to H. G. Heflin, Clanton, Ala.

Highway Patrol To Enforce 40-Mile Limit

MONTGOMERY. — The State Highway Patrol rigidly will enforce Gov. Frank M. Dixon's proclamation for a 40-mile per hour speed limit effective April 1, State Public Director James F. Brawner announced today. The proclamation was issued in line with President Roosevelt's appeal for conservation of tires. Governor Dixon called attention to the danger of worn tires, pointing out that 753 persons were killed in Alabama traffic accidents last year and more than 125 so far this year.

Director Brawner reminded motorists that the new speed limit still will leave in effect the law restricting speed to 15 miles per hour when a driver's view is obstructed as he approaches grade crossings or intersections, on curves and in passing schools during danger periods; 20 miles per hour in business districts and 25 in residential sections. Trucks already are limited by law to 40 miles an hour on highways and 20 within city limits.

Being Of The People, By the People, and For the People, "Big Jim" Says the Benefits Gained for the Masses Through Years of Fighting Selfishness and Greed, Shall Not Perish.

It was very apparent at the end of the first week of the race for Governor, following the death of David Bibb Graves, that an unknown with all the necessary Graves qualifications had entered into the race for the highest office in the State. He is Jim Folsom of Cullman, and he started off the week with a State-wide Radio broadcast Monday which at once put Chauncey Sparks, Big-wig of the money interests on the spot and caused thousands of the old-line Graves crowd to sit up and think again before they committed themselves in the coming May primary

Folsom is in favor of Old Age Pensions, having started the fight in 1932 and having made a State-wide issue of old age pensioning in 1936, it is something of which he knows what he is talking and what can be done about it. He favors $50.00 a month

He is the first and only candidate to favor a State Department of Labor selecting the heads from the rank and file of organized labor

He favors giving Agriculture an equal opportunity with industry

He favors putting the school teacher on a parity with other state employees and to see that the schools run a minimum of eight months

He is for continuing the present Pardon and Parole system which has received universal acclaim.

Here is what he says in regard to human welfare: "Having received my administartive experience in public welfare work I naturally believe and advocate those great principles set out in the General Welfare clause in the preamble of our Constitution."

FOLSOM SPEECH

James E. Folsom, of Cullman, only candidate representing the common people in the race for Governor, said in a State-wide radio hook-up Monday:

Ladies, Gentlemen and Fellow Citizens of Alabama:

This is "Big Jim Folsom" speaking. I am a candidate for Governor of Alabama. Please listen while I tell you who I am, what I propose to do for you, and what Chauncey Sparks will do to you, if one or the other of us is elected Governor of Alabama.

I don't have to tell you that these are times of crisis for our nation and for our state, that now, more than ever before Alabama needs a Governor who will pursue the most progressive and liberal policies of office, an executive fully aware of the problems of all the citizens of the state, and one who will be willing to do something about them.

Scarcely more than a week ago, untimely death struck from our midst, Alabama's geratest champion of liberal and progressive government. . . . Bibb Graves. Few authorities doubt that had the "Little Colonel" lived he would have filled the seat that he so able filled twice before, would have given the state the kind of progressive leadership that we all want.

But no sooner had death taken our leader than the followers of Chauncey Sparks swarmed to their telephones like a bunch of carrions, eager to make promises to the friends of Mr. Graves, doing their best to welcome into their own ranks all Graves supporters, whom they had vilified as "hogs" and "spoilers" and 'pie eaters." At the offset, some few of the Graves faithfuls listened, turned to Sparks, but by far the majority of them knew, and knew well, that no voter who conscientiously believed in the principles of government endorsed by Bibb Graves could ever turn about face and follow the principles of Chauncey Sparks.

Sparks said in the Birmingham News, Friday, March 20th, quote: "This I pledge to the people of Alabama, whether they were my political allies four years ago, three months ago or today, loyalty is not born of man but is a gift of God. May it be said of me that I am one who appreciates loyalty, whether it be for me or for those who have gone before."

High praise indeed for those men in Montgomery Headquarters on whom he had heaped every known abuse before the death of Bibb Graves.

I charge you people of Alabama that Chauncey Sparks is too ambitious to be your Governor!

But you must make the decision. You must decide now whether your chief executive will govern according to the desires of the people, or whether he will continue to take his

COLOMBIA—AGE-OLD TREASURE CHEST

If the Coffee bean has been given place of honor in the matter-of-fact ledgers of commerce where is kept the account of the Republic of Colombia, the emerald is gem serene in the romance of a country whose legend reaches for substance far back of history's record of the New World.

When Columbus, on his fourth and last voyage, sailed along the Colombian coast, but without making any attempt at settlement of the country, on a high plateau in the Andean Cordillera, not far from where the capital city of Bogota now stands, there was prospecting the kingdom of the Chibehas. It was a nation of highly civilized aborigines not unlike the Incas of Peru. The Chibehas knew about the emerald, and may have worshipped it.

After Columbus came Alonzo de Ojeda, in 1502. Several times he tried to conquer the Chibehas, and failed. In 1436 three expeditions, one led by Balalcadar, first lieutenant of Pizarro himself, and another by the tactful Jimenez de Quesada, converged on the lofty kingdom. Quesada's diplomacy prevailed where force had failed. By agreement with the Chibehas his headquarters, now Bogota, was laid out near the old Indian capital, and explorations were started in all directions.

The opening of mines was begun in 1540. Today, clustered around the emerald in this Andean treasure chest, are platinum, gold, silver and copper. Most of the world's emeralds now come from Colombia. And it is a fact not widely realized that the stone is the most precious of gems. Carat for carat, a flawless emerald may easily bring three times the price of a flawless diamond.

Only Russia, at times, has been able to take first place from Colombia in output of platinum. The extent and wealth of Colombian gold deposits is still largely conjecture. It is thought that her entire Pacific Coast has been formed by gold-bearing alluvial. Great stretches have never been explored except by Indian hunters. As the Pan American highway and tributary roads push on these and other areas can be opened for mining.

Colombian territory cover 439,828 square miles. Within the nation's borders the Andean mountain system splits into three parts, joining again in the extreme south. So the rivers run north and south in the valleys between the mountains. The climate varies as widely as do the altitudes. Tropical along the coasts, it is temperate in the higher regions inland. Bogota, with an elevation of 8,564 feet, is cool and healthful the year around.

There is a corresponding variation in products. Prominent in export trade are coffee, cocoa, sugar cane, tobacco, bananas, hardwoods from the vast forests, and vegetable ivory. These with its precious stones, its platinum, gold, silver and other minerals, Colombia offers in exchange for much of that which it still needs in the way of foodstuffs, textiles, iron and steel products, railway supplies, school and office supplies, machinery, automobiles, agricultural and mining implements.

And not to be ignored in any reckoning is the fact that this republic is the oly country in South America with a seacoast on both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, with good ports on both, open to the trade of the world.

A veritable treasure chest though Colombia undoubtedly is, the gem supreme, in the mind of the true Colombian, is the fact that liberation from the yoke of Spain came at the hands of the Great Liberator himself—Simon Bolivar. It was Bolivar who led the army of patriots to victory in the decisive Battle of Voyaca, August 7, 1819, but it was Santander, "the Man of Law" who established the constitutional regime of New Granada, the republic of Colombia as we know it today. "The sword has made you independent," said Bolivar, after the battle. "The law will make you free."

Over Half Alabama Farmers Are Tenants

—o—

Auburn, Ala.—There are, according to the latest reports, 231,746 farms in Alabama. On these farms live 1,344,349 people, 47 per cent of the total population of Alabama and four per cent of the farm population of the United States.

Operating the farms in Alabama are 80,303 full owners, 14,804 part owners, 415 managers and 136,224 tenants. Thus 34.6 per cent are full owners, 6.4 per cent are part owners, 0.2 per cent are managers, and 58.8 per cent are tenants of various types. Eighty-five per cent of the owners, 74 per cent of the part owners, 95 per cent of the managers and 58 per cent of the tenants are white operators. Sixty-eight per cent of all farm operators are white.

—o-o-o—

Many of Alabama's county agents are being called to active military duty. Four already called are H. F. McJueen, Chambers County; A. D. Jackson, Coosa County; J. H. Nunn, Bullock County; and E. H. Kelly, Wilcox County.

—o-o-o—

Alabama farmers, despite their handicaps, are now engaged vigorously in an all-out drive for maximum production this year. Every day, in every way and every where they are doing thehir best to win the war at the earliest possible date.

Reviews & Previews

(By Irvin Lande)

THE NEED FOR COORDINATION

The Prime Minister of Australia, John Curtain, warned the United States in a broadcast last Saturday that the loss of Australia to Japan would open the way for a Japanese attack on the American West Coast. Mr. Curtin said that Australia was the last stronghold between Japan and the United States.

Mr. Curtin's speech was a direct appeal to the American people to get planes and tanks and guns to Australia. His appeal was not directed to the United States government, for he must have felt that the government was not going to send the supplies Australia needed. Mr. Curtin was depending upon the American people, through their potent press, to demand that equipment be sent to the last stronghold between Japan and America.

We didn't get aid to Java, to Sumatra, to Singapore, to Hong Kong, Whatever the reason, we have failed in those places. The Prime Minister of Australia is not overly confident that we shall get aid to his country.

Now Mr. Curtin should have been informed, as Prime Minister of Australia, just how much our government is able to send his country, in way of men and material. Mr. Curtin was either not informed or was told that he wasn't going to get very much Those two facts are of prime importance. From them we can see very clearly that something is drastically wrong.

What is drastically wrong is that we lack coordination. If Mr. Curtin was not informed, then we are making the same catastrophic mistake which Great Britain made before the war in not calling Russia to her side in negotiating with Hitler. We are making the mistake of thinking that only we are capable of knowing how to run this war, when, in truth, the Australians know more of the real situation that we shall ever be able to comprehend. There is a lack of coordination in maping out the grand strategy which it will take to win this war. Mr. Curtin didn't know how much aid was forthcoming; consequently he could not apportion his strength properly. Mr. Curtin should have had the first position in Mr. Roosevelt's confidence, whether by cable, telephone, radio, or an actual visit. It seems that Mr. Curtin was neglected, or he would not have begged the American people to see to it that aid should reach his endangered nation

On the other hand, if Mr. Curtin was informed, he was told that not much aid was to come. Naturally he spoke to the American people in the hope that they would speed up production in order to get as much aid as possible to Australia. If this is what Mr. Curtin had in mind when he spoke, then the lack of coordination rests not in information, but in production. By now our production should be rolling along smoothly. Obviously, it is not.

Whichever evil exists, coordination is behind it. Somewhere, cordination is lacking, and lacking very badly. Now is the time that it must run properly, efficiently. If it does not, we are lost. We must, therefore, correct the existing evils.

We have painted a very cheerful, lucid picture of twenty-six allied nations bound together for the winning of the war. It all sounds very good, but if those twenty-six nations are bound by merely a scrap of paper, the alliance is not worth anything at all. If there is a coordination behind that paper, a coordination in which every nation has a responsibility and a privilege, we shall win this war with a minimum loss of life and with the speed that Hitler thinks does belong to democracy.

To win this war, we must be united. We must also be coordinated. Already we are united. Now we must coordinate. The weak links and the recalcitrant elements must be thrown out if important positions.

That way, and that way only, can we achieve the coordination which we are so desperately in need of, and which Mr. Curtin so clearly demonstrated to the Ameriran people last Saturday.

Farm And Home Week Suspended

Auburn, Ala.—Because of inadequate rubber for tires the Annual Farm and Home week at Auburn will be suspended again this year, announces P. O. Davis, extension director. The same is true of general farm meetings at sub-experimental stations throughout the state.

"Our conculsion is that we should not ask farmers and extension workers to leave their counties for such meetings when they do not have sufficient tires for in-county work."

MAPLE SPRINGS

Everybody seems to be feeling better now and if we all don't take the spring fever and want to stay at home maybe our Sunday School attendance will increase.

We have had fairly good attendance lately but it could be made much better if all of us would make our minds to go ourselves and carry some one with us. Let's all pray more and do more and we will receive more.

The W. M. U. met at Mrs. Eura Sandlin's last Wedensday afternoon with eleven members present. We had a very good program. We were glad to have a good report of the convention at the Ruhama Baptist church, Birmingham, by our pastor and delegate Bro. Lockhart. If you have not been attending our meetings try to be there next time. We need you.

The W. M. U. will put on a stewardship program at the church next Sunday night and our pastor Bro Lockhart will preach for us after the program. We invite all who can to attend.

HE'S IN THE ARMY NOW

One of the 188 Reasons Your Cooperation Is Necessary

Yes, he's in the Army now. He was one of our linemen. In the picture you see him in his Army work-uniform. His service in the Army is similar to that when he was a member of one of our line crews.

So far 188 of our employees are in military or naval service. We have not been able to replace all of them with men of equal skill. However, with your cooperation, your electric service can still be good, although perhaps not quite as good as in the past, or as good as we would like it to be.

Shortage of skilled help, the restricted use of materials needed in the war effort, the difficulty of getting new equipment and the limited use to which automotive equipment may be put, all make necessary some changes in repair and maintenance service. However—

You Can Help Keep Your Electric Service at a High Standard by These Simple Means

1. Learn to replace blown fuses yourself. It's as easy as changing a light bulb. People at any of our offices (or your meter reader) will show you how. Keep a few spare fuses on hand.

2. Don't ask for delivery of lamp bulbs, iron cords and other small, light items.

3. Be patient with the trouble man or service man. He'll get to you as fast as he can.

4. Avoid requesting "rush" service. Try not to call for service on Saturdays, Sundays or at night.

5. Give as much notice as possible when you move.

6. If your refrigerator is more than three years old, ask for an inspection before hot weather comes. The cost is moderate, and if repairs or adjustments are indicated they can be made before the summer rush season.

7. Use as much electricity as you NEED but don't waste it. Don't waste anything.

Better Grapes Come From Sprayed Vines

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama vineyard operators and home gardners can boost fruit yields and quality if they spray their grape vines early this spring with a standard 4-4-50 -bordeaux mixture, says W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist. Although winter-pruning eliminates much disease-harboring old wood, reinfection is likely in spring unless vines are sprayed.

It is recommended that sprays be applied as follows:

(1) When the new shoots are 7 to 8 inches long; (2) about a week before the blossoming period; (3) just after blossoms fall; (4) when berries are about the size of small peas; and (5) when fruit is about half grown. Diseases are more difficult to control in southern sections.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

By DR. BOB JONES, JR.

PRESIDENT OF BOB JONES COLLEGE

Those few days from the triumphant entry of the Lord into Jerusalem to His crucifixion afford all the proof we need of the fact that popularity is a fleeting thing and that unregenerate man is a fickle and depraved creature.

When Christ entered Jerusalem He was acclaimed and applauded by the multitude. When He went out He was spat upon and jeered at by the mob. He rode into Jerusalem over the garments spread out before Him by the enthusiastic crowd. He went out of Jerusalem bearing a cross. As He was welcomed into the city they cried, "Blessed is the One come in the name of the Lord." As He was led out of the city they cried, "Away with Him. Let Him be crucified." He was received into the city as if He were a conqueror and a king. He was led out of the city as though a malefactor and a criminal. When He came into Jerusalem, palm branches of victory were waved in salutation before Him. When He went out of Jerusalem a crown of thorns in mockery was on His brow. He entered the city from the Mount of Olives surrounded by enthusiastic and admiring throngs. He went out of the city to the mount of execution, a condemned prisoner under guard. So overwhelming was the enthusiasm of His reception into Jerusalem that the Pharisees, His enemies, said, "Behold, the world has gone after Him." So unpopular was He a few days later that not even the Roman governor, who found Him innocent, dared to risk the displeasure of the mob by setting Him free.

Our Lord, as He rode into Jerusalem amid the hosannas of the excited populace, knew they would reject and crucify Him. He had come into the world to die upon the cross, and the Infinite Son of God was not deceived by the momentary swell of apparent popularity that greeted Him that day.

The Lord Jesus Christ knows all about the shallow and changeable human heart. He knows the fickleness of popular favor and the faithlessness of human friends. He saw a false friend betray, a trusted friend deny, cowardly friends follow afar off or flee in the hour of His trial.

It is a common occurrence in the history of a fallen race for fame to fade, friends to fail, and applause to die away, but the Lord Jesus Christ changes not nor faileth ever. He says in the hour of our loneliness and dejection and disappointment as in the time of joy and success and triumph, "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out." He is the one friend "who sticketh closer than a brother," "the same yesterday, today, and forever," infinite in love and compassion and understanding to all who trust in Him.

"Don't Let Your Newspaper Be A War Casualty"

Birmingham, Ala.—"A city which loses its newspaper during this war will be handicapped in its defense effort on the home front and will be in a very bad position to recapture and hold its pre-war trade territory in the years to follow," stated Charles G. Dobbins, president of the Alabama Press Association, at the annual electors meeting today, in commenting upon the rapidly rising operating costs and serious losses of revenue that threaten many newspapers of this state

During the first World War 2,435 daily and weekly newspapers failed. By the end of the crisis of 1914 to 1919 the number of American newspapers had been reduced one-ighth.

Many of th older established papers will weather almost any kind of a storm, but many splendidly operated newspapers which are real assets to the community will be in grave danger of permanently passing out of the picture if the present advertising situation continues its downward trend.

This will not be of sole concern to the publishers, by any means, Dobbins warns. Merchants and civic leaders who view this unparalleled situation from the present emergency and from a long-range viewpoint realize this fact.

"Kill a newspaper which has won reader confidence and is the mirror and voice of its community, and you have killed something more than just a manufacturing plant which contributes its dollars and cents to the community. Stores which survive in the next few years will be tremendously handicapped in the post-war intercity fight for trade without local newspapers.

"During this new type of total war, a community without one or more newspapers is seriously handicapped in securing the united action so essential to the defense and morale on the home front.

"Alabama newspapers are not asking for subsidization. They will continue to stand on their own feet, fighting their own problems and championing the cause of their communities. However business firms should give serious consideration in the investment of their advertising dollars and should spend them where they will do the most good in the long run. Newspapers should be given preference over the fly-by-night specialty advertising salesmen. Miscellaneous programs and publications will not and cannot take the place of the home town paper.

"While Alabama laws require the detailed publication of numerous city and county financial statements, the newspapers in the past have been reluctant to enforce them because of the feeling that they might be accused of self-interest. However, every effort must be made to curtail government expenses not essential to the war effort, and the publication of such financial statements are the greatest check on unreasonable or unnecessary expenditures which cannot stand the light of publicity.

"Both the Canadian and English governments are investing in paid advertising for bond sales and other government war efforts, and are convincdd that it is an excellent investment and the most practical way to secure quick results. In the United States patriotic businessmen and newspapers are financing these publicity campaigns.

"Serious inroads are being made upon the personnel of the newspaper staffs. Active service is claiming many highly skilled printers and front office employees. But despite the facts that newspapers are recognized as an essential industry they have frowned upon the suggestion that they be placed in special classification for deferred status.

Under the circumstances, President Dobbins suggests that civic and commercial organizations give most serious thought to the preservation of their greatest community asset—their Home Town newspapers.

DO NOT REPEAT RUMORS

Birmingham, Ala.—In a determined effort to halt the flood of rumors sweeping this district, members of the City Salesman's Club are personally distributing thousands of small cards which pledge the signer as follows:

"I will not repeat rumors. I will trust my fellow citizen until he is proved to be unworthy. I will report any questionable activities to the proper authorities for investigation. I will ask my friends to do the same."

In the past several days, members of the organiaztion have distributed approximately 5,000 of the pledge cards. What is more important, they insist that the recipient sign the card and keep it in his possession as a constant reminder that we must keep on guard against efforts of this nation's enemies to confuse us, divide us, conquer us.

"Repeating gossip is playing into the hands of our enemies," declares Jim Davis, bald-pated president of the club, a live-wire organiaztion of 75 top-notch local salesmen.

Mr. Davis urges clubs throughout Alabama and the other 47 states to cooperate in the movement by asking their members to make similar pledges against spreading rumors.

Copies of the pledge card may be obtained free from the City Salesman's Club of Birmingham, Post Office Box 1611.

Home Gardens Most Important

The home garden should be the most important plot on the farm says J. H. Camp, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at Isabella High School. It should provide fresh vegetables every day in the year. In order to get all the necessary vitamins for our body we should plant a large variety of vegetables. Success in growing vegetables depends primarily on, things namely: Proper location of the garden, thorough preparation of the soil, proper fertilization, good seed or plants, selection of vegetables, adopted to this section, sufficient cultivation and the control of insects and diseases.

Because of the importance of vegetables to family life, the garden should be located on the best soil on the farm. Also it should be located close to the house for convenience.

Deep and thorough breaking of the soil before planting is essential in order that the plant roots can develop properly. This also materially reduces cultivation practices.

Fertilizer applied at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre should be used in order to get the best vegetables possible. 6-8-4- or 4-10-7 is usually used. Green or animal manures help to improve the quantity and quality also. 400 to 500 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre should be used as a side dressing for such crops as cabbage, lettuce, and spinach. One-half this much nitrate should be used for tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, and beans.

For this section, the following vegetables should be planted now if they haven't already been planted: Cabbage, lettuce, english peas, spinach, Irish potatoes, mustard, turnips, beets, carrots, bush beans, kohl-rabi, radishes, New Zealand spinach and corn.

A little later on insects will probably begin to give a little trouble. Failure to control insects often results in failure with the home garden. Many insect troubles can be avoided by keeping down weeds and grass in the garden and around the fence. Old vegetables should be destroyed also as soon as the insects begin to appear start spraying or dusting the plants with recommended poisons. Apply poison about every 10 days depending on the rainfall and seriousness of the insect infestation.

Sucking insects such as aphids or plant lice may be controlled by spraying with Black Leaf 40 at the rate of two teaspoons to a gollon of warm soapy water.

Chewing insects such as potato beetles, tomato and cabbage worms, bean beetles, etc., may be controlled by using one of the following: A dusting with one pound of Deris and seven pounds of superfine dusting sulphur.

2. One pound of magnesium arsenate and five pounds of hydrated lime used as a dust.

3. Spray with one pound of deris to 25 gallons of water.

Cutworms may be controlled by the use of a poison bait. Prepare the mixture as follows: Mix thoroughly one tablespoon of Paris green and one pound of wheat bran; add a small amount of syrup to one quart of water to which should be added orange or lemon to flavor; then mix thoroughly with the poison bran. Scatter this mixture over the infested area late in the afternoon. This treatment also controls grasshoppers and crickets. Keep chickens out of garden especially when using this treatment.

National Champion To Chop Here

Local Merchant Secures Famous Chopper

Peter McLaren, who claims the wood chopping championship of America will stage a log cutting contest and demonstration here on Monday, April 6th, 2:00 p. m..

This contest has been arranged by Bell Hardware Co., who is to be congratulated for arranging for the visit of this colorful champion, McLaren, whose wizardry with an axe has carried him from a poor farm lad in Australia, to the peak of his profession.

In chopping tours covering a score of years he has chopped before hundreds of thousands, both here and abroad. McLaren who is nearly 50 years old, claims that outdoor chopping is a great physical developer. His own condition bears out this claim.

The contest is open to any local man who has not previously competed against McLaren. A prize of fifty dollars will be paid to any contestant if McLaren fails to chop through a log in two thirds of the time the contestant takes.

The handicap gives all good choppers a sporting chance to win the prize money, as it is just like giving 33 yards in a hundred yard dash.

The only restriction made is that no contestant be permitted to use a Plumb Axe. This is the only axe which McLaren himself ever uses, and he refuses to chop against a Plumb Axe and also allow the handicap.

Every one is cordially invited to attend the demonstration. Choppers wishing to compete should bring their axes with them. It costs nothing to enter the contest.

Acute Shortage Of Farm Labor Says Patton

A recently completed survey reveals an acute shortage of farmers necessary to meet farm production goals in Chilton County, according to S. C. Patton, manager of United States Employment Service at Calera. As that agency has the responsibility of recruiting farm labor, all farm operators needing workers should inform the Employment Service of their needs in detail at once. Various approaches to the problem are under way and it is hoped that progress will be made in meeting it.

The consideration that the Selective Service program gives to farmers is indicative of the vast importance of farming in the war effort. The need for farm workers is so vital that all individuals, men, women, and children, capable of farming or doing farm labor, are urged to offer their services in the Food for Victory program by registering at once with the United States Employment Service for farm employment. The production of an adequate food supply is as great a challenge to American effort and materials and winning battles. The willingness to serve as producing war planting season is at hand and workers are needed now.

Representatives of the Employment Service are in Clanton either in the Court House or City Hall each Tuesday to handle farm recruitment and other activities.

90 PCT. OF TRAFFIC DEATHS REPORTED BY 27 COUNTIES

Forty of Alabama's 67 counties have reported only 10 per cent of the 131 fatal traffic accidents recorded so far this year, while the remaining 27 counties have recorded 119 motor vehicle deaths—90 per cent of the toll, according to figures compiled by the State Department of Public Safety.

Seventy-eight of the deaths were accounted for by 10 counties, as follows: Jefferson, 17; Mobile, 10; Baldwin, and Houston, nine each; Madison, eight; Covington, seven, Etowah and Walker ,five each and Limestone and Talladega, four each.

Seven counties have reported three traffic fataltìes each to date: Chambers, Cullman, Dale, Dallas, Escambia, Marengo and Montgomery.

Ten additional counties have reported two fataltìes each: Butler, Calhoun, Conecuh, DeKalb, Marion, Morgan, Pickens; Russell, Shelby and Tallapoosa.

12 counties only one known traffic death has occurred to date this year: Cherokee, Choctaw, Clarke, Crenshaw, Franklin, Greene, Lauderdale, Lee, Lowndes, Macon, St. Clair and Tuscaloosa.

In the remaining 28 counties, no deaths have been reported to Montgomery thus far involving the operation of a motor vehicle on a public highway—the definition governing these records.

Income Tax Payments Up Nearly 10 Percent

The State Department of Revenue has received 62,000 income tax returns this year (taxable and non-taxable), or 15,000 more than the previous year.

Commissioner John Curry anticipates the collection of $4,000,000 in state income tax this fiscal year, ending Sept. 30, for a nearly 10 per cent increase. The last fiscal year's collection on income tax amounted to $3,625,627.

From Jan. 1 to March 20 this year $2,375,000 was collected.

Sixty per cent of taxpayers making taxable returns are paying cash in full, though quarterly payments are permissible.

Last October 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, the income tax surplus in the state treasury was $2,531.67.

CHURCHES BEGIN SPIRITUAL VICTORY PROGRAM SUNDAY

A Spiritual Victory Program, promoted jointly by the Baptist and Methodist churches of Clanton, will begin on next Sunday and continue for six weeks, through May 10. Since the greatest victories of any age are spiritual, Pastors Davis and Casaday urge upon the membership of the churches the re-establishment of the noble habits of regular church attendance, home devotional life and evangelism. It is "righteousness that exalteth a nation."

With the heating plant of the Baptist church fully repaired, and with both churches joining heartily in mutual Christian effort, it is expected that both Methodist and Baptist churches will have large congregations on next Sunday for the opening of the Spiritual Victory program. Worshipful, timely and inspiring messages and programs will be experienced at both morning and evening services. Both churches cordially invite visitors to attend.

—o-o-o—

LEST YOU FORGET

Reminding all Clanton Methodists and their friends that they are cordially invited and, indeed, expected to attend Church School at 9:45 a. m. and worship service at 11:00 a. m. at the Clanton Methodist church next Sunday, the 29th, Rally and Attendance Day. The church school will first gather in regular classes, make reports and come into the auditorium where there will be singing by a quartet, interesting talk, and, in short, a program worth hearing and heeding. Then at 11:00 a. m. the worship service when Bro. Casaday will inspire us with another good message.

The offering at Church School will go to the orphanage. Let's make it good.

CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

Food for Freedom Program continues to spread rapidly over Chilton County.

We the Vocational Teachers in the Chilton County Training School have had and are still having successful "Food for Freedom" meetings in different communities. We have held 6 meetings and have several more scheduled.

In recent meetings held at Riderville, Shile Community, Thorsby, and Maplesville there were all indications of hearty cooperation among the members of those communities. In each meeting there is a continuous repetition of Alabama's share in the requested 1942 farm program towards winning the war.

The farm machinery repair program is on the upward trend. Farmers are bringing in their harrows, Georgia Stocks, turn plows, distributors, planters, etc. In far away communities, they are making plans for repair work to be done on Saturdays. The work must be done therefore, let us do our part.

"It is not the guns or armament
Nor the money they can pay
It is the close Cooperation
That helps them win the day.
It is not the individual
Nor the army as a whole
It is the everlasting Teamwork
Of every blooming soul."
(Arthur Jason Knox)

CHANCE TO BE EXPERTS

Men who have had radio experience, either as amateurs or repairmen, will be given the chance to enlist in the Naval Reserve with petty officer ratings and sent to school to learn the operation and upkeep of the new radio locators.

Upon completion of school men who qualify will be advanced to still higher petty officer ratings.

No code speed is required, because it will not be used or studied.

Men who have had ralo experience should apply at the nearest Navy Recruiting station for further information.

This is a new field and a real opportunity for 5,000 men who want to advance in the field of radio.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

By BEN

We publish here an obituary to the late Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sunburg. It was written by Frank Davis of Clanton Rt. 1 and is so well written and shows such deep thought in composition we are publishing it here at the head of "Folks and Things." He has titled it "Twa Oaks."

Twa Oaks

The old oak fell a few days ago, patriarch, monarch of the forest. Preceeding his fall some three years, his mate crashed to earth, rose not again. They were of the far north country, country of the midnight sun; the blood of the sturdy Viking stock coursed their veins, knew no fear but the wrath of their God. They stood one lo, these many years; buffetted oftentimes by the angry moods of nature, biting blast of the winter winds, torrid rays of the summer sun and the whirling storms of the spring time. Ever and anon their bodies were bent to earth by the heartless storms but rose again, majestic, beautiful. Mother nature in her mysterious way brought forth from the tiny acorn, the infant sprout, happy childhood, adolescent youth, full fruition, the twa oaks, king and queen of the forest; Always loyal and support one to the other. For many years their arms were spread, a shade, protection a benediction to the young of the forest that grew about them; time moves on, in countless numbers we come and go and as a shadow continueth not. These twa oaks no exception to the natural law, they heard the call, they made reply, here am I, they paid the debt. On reaching the top of life's mountain they slackened the pace, looked back down the corridor of time, counted their blessings, happy to find they far outnumbered the heart ache and shadows; with feeble step they descended to the west, their setting sun and evening star; and now we of the forest bid you a last farewell, and bon voyage grandfather and mother Sunburg; it will be long ere I forget your hearty hand clasp and lowly spoken words God bless you. We doubt not that "you met your Pilot face to face when you crossed the bar." We will be seeing you, some time, somehow, somewhere.

We're sorry to hear that Mr. Jess Moates is so seriously ill in the Central Alabama Hospital. Here's hoping that he soon recovers and is able to be up and about again. . . had you noticed the absence of the boys on the streets since Selective Service.... they are conspicuous by their absence . . . James Carl Martin is the new Agent here for Protective Life Insurance Co. . . . John Deramus heard a commotion out behind his house Wednesday morning early and went out to investigate. His two black Scotties were out there and had killed an old sow 'opossum and seven little 'opposums. Think of the good fried chicken and baked chicken and dressing saved by those two little Scotties. The Scotts are a thrifty lot.

Alex Hayes and Reba Payton are one . . . . they did it some several weeks ago but had been keeping it a secret until the groom could get off long enough to spend a few days at home. That he did, the past week and with his bride has gone back to Florida, where he is employed as an instructor in Uncle Sam's Air Force. Good luck to the both of you Reba and Alex.

* * *

Well sir, we been noticing Claud Craig going around town with his chest out and a big grin on his face all time but we thought it was Spring ....we learned a couple of days ago that it was Claud Jr., all the time. He entered this 'vale of tears' Tuesday a week ago and it is good that he cannot know just what a mess the old world's in at the present. Eleanor is getting along fine and we congratulate them both. We can't congratulate the boy, cause we know Eleanor and Claude.

* * *

'ON ME ALONE," . . . this according to Vice-President Wallace is a reminder to you and me. It was quoted from the diary of Martin Treptow, who died at Chateau Thierry in 1918 but should be remembered today. "America must win this war. Therefore, I will work; I will save; I will sacrifice; I will endure; I will fight cheerfully and do my utmost, as if the whole struggle depended upon me alone."

* * *

Candidate Jack Hayes is getting quite a reputation for hand shaking . . . . it was told to us this week that Jack was standing on the street corner when one of the big school buses drove up and had to stop for a red light. . . now when those big buses stop a big wooden hand comes down to signal the car coming up behind . . . Jack promptly jumped off the curb and grabbed the hand and gave it a friendly shake. . . just gets to be a habit.

* * *

Got a card from Marvin Ellison from down in Louisiana this week... Marvin left with the last group of Selectees . . . says he is liking it fine and to be sure to send him the News . . . we promptly put him on the soldiers list. . . Our sister Mary Blow who went to California several months ago we learned this week is going to work in a West Coast Aircraft Plant making Big Bombers to bomb the bums. . . we heard that R. N. Griffin who is L. & N. agent here hadn't been on a train in two or three years until Sunday before last when he spent the day in the Magic City... our Police Force acted quickly Saturday night and prevented the burglary of the Jim Dandy Feed Store.. Those two beautiful metal signs you see over the Parisian Store were made in our city by W. C. Nuss, a mighty pretty piece of local art we would say. . . . we received lately another letter addressed to Miss Bonnie Hand, Editor of Chilton County News. Shows how long it takes some agencies to correct their mailing list and anyway, we bet Miss Bonnie wouldn't like this cause he's all man and is weighing now close to 190 pounds.

CHILTON COUNTY'S BOYS IN THE SERVICE

Sgt. G. B. Sharp writes this week from way out in the State of Washington. Sgt. Sharp who is located at Paine Field, writes a very nice letter for which we say many thanks. We quote part of his letter here:

"It is my desire to inform all my old friends that a guy a 'purty fur piece from home' gets lonesome at times and remembers the old home folks and would enjoy a line from them.

"I was proud to read of the blackout Clanton was practicing and wish you the best of success.

In case any of you would like to drop this Chilton County boy a line address him as follows: Sgt. G. B Sharpe, 6915990, 54th Sqd. Paine Field Everett Washington.

SOLDIER LOSES EYE

(From the Birmingham News of Monday afternoon.)

Pvt. Arthur E. Bannister, stationed at Ft. McClellan, has lost an eye in an accident at the camp, but he isn't sure yet that he won't stay in service.

Formerly a "Bat Man" in an air show that barnstormed the country, Bannister has made more than 1,000 parachute jumps. He was transferred to Ft. McClellan from Ft. Benning, Ga., recently as an instructor.

—o—

Is it possible that this is the same Elmo Bannister whose "Bat Man" exhibition at Thorsby about 18 months ago failed for some unexplained reason to materialize.

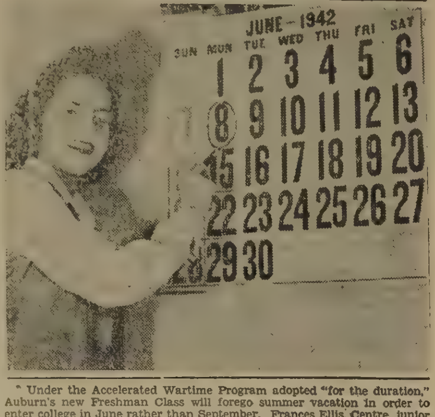
High School Graduates to Substitute College Study for Summer Vacations



* Under the Accelerated Wartime Program adopted "for the duration," Auburn's new Freshman Class will forego summer vacation in order to enter college in June rather than September. Frances Ellis, Centre, junior in Science and Literature, has circled June 8, 1942, as the opening date of Auburn's 71st Regular Session. Freshmen who begin "four-year courses" at that time will graduate three years later in May 1945 by year-round study on the new Quarter System. The Summer, Fall, Winter, and Spring quarters consist of 12 weeks each.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

Glenn Clarke tells of a man who became furiously angry and while he was this way a little dog bit him. The canine swallowed some of the man's blood and died in a few minutes. Anger has poisoned the blood of the man, and the poison has killed the dog. Things will happen to anger the best of us. Our tempers are a source of poison and we need to brace ourselves against madness. In the dailies we often read of where a man becomes angry and drops dead. Glenn Clarke also said that the best way to grow is to have a lot of enemies to love and forgive. Blessed is that one who can do good to those who persecute and despitefully abuse him.

Frank Laubach is the author of a little pamhlet called, "The Game With Minutes," in which he tells us how to use every minute of the day in helpful living. In this little book we are instructed to always see double. We are to see the physical man with the natural eye, and we are to see the Christ with the spiritual eye. With every individual there are two, the man and the Christ, Regardless of color, regardless of education, regardless of wealth, or poverty, we should ever see two people in those who stand before us. To see the physical and the spiritual being at the same time, will doubtless induce us to protect the one and develop the other. If you want to make use of every minute of the day, see double and serve accordingly.

A family in the country were on the way to church on Sunday morning, when the father and mother began talking about the purpose of the meeting that day. They were going to church to pray for rain. A few moments later a little girl of six was seen to break from the group and run back home. She saw that they had no umbrella and if they were going to pray for rain, they would need it and so she returned to get it. How I wish that we all had the faith of that little girl. When we pray for rain, if we have faith, we should carry an umbrella.

The curtains drifted apart and three children sat on the stage to give the play of "Two Stupids." A boy of twelve was dressed as a judge, wise and mighty and before him were two other children who were contending for the possession of a doughnut. Each one claimed it and the wise judge broke it into two pieces and offered each a share. One piece was larger than the aothr and the lad who was getting the smaller piece set up a contention that he was not getting his share. Then the judge took a big bite from the larger piece and it became smaller than the other one, and then the other lad set up a contention. The judge kept biting one piece, then the other to make them the same size, until the doughnut was all eaten and the two stupids had nothing. That is a picture of most all cases brought into court. There may be just claims, but while the contenders contend, the court eats up the profits. There is not much to be gained in a law suit.

Long ago when to play ball on Sunday was a sin, two little boys sneaked in behind an old house and started to pitching and catching their ball. A man passing that way saw them and wanted to know why they did not cross the street and play ball on the open lot. "Mr. Smith, the deacon would see us," confessed one of the boys. Don't you know that God can see you behind the house just as well as one the open lot?" querried the man. "Yes" replied the boy," but we had much rather God would see us than the deacon. The boys were thinking alone of the present disturbance and punishment that would come to them if their missconduct were known. There are people today who do not seem to mind God seeing them when they disobey the Divine law, but they do not want the eye of the law to see them. Afraid of the sheriff, or the police, but not afraid. of God and the judgment. Wrong is wrong, when if it is done in the dark.

Need For Growing Gardens Stressed

Auburn, Ala.— Secretary of Agriculture Claud R. Wickard is calling upon agriculture workers i nall states to stress the importance of each farmer producing a garden this year.

"A review of the farm plans signed up in the Food for Freedom campaign made last Fall shows that many states are going to fall far short of their quota in the national 1942 goals of 5,760,000 farm gardens," he says. "In order to come nearer to our goals every effort should be made to reach every farm family."

The garden quota for Alabama is 229,000 family gardens for 1942. Farm leaders here believe that Alabama farmers will exceed this quota.

ALABAMA TRAFFIC INCREASES, DESPITE AUTO AND TIRE RATIONING—According to the statewide highway planning survey, traffic in Alabama (cities not included) increased seven per cent in January, 1942, over January, 1941. In February the increase was less, being 1.4 per cent over the same month of 1941. The state uses ten automatic electric traffic recording machines at advantageous points on main highways, recording traffic during each of the 24 hours of the day. On other roads portable traffic recorders are used, listing traffic by a sample process which calculates total traffic by actual counts at given periods. Above photo shows automatic electric-eye counter on U. S. Highway 231, the "Bee Line Highway," a trunk line running from the North to Florida. This main artery of travel enters Alabama at Ardmore (U. S. 31) at the Tennessee line, thence through Athens, Decatur, Cullman, Birmingham, Clanton to Montgomery, and out via Troy, Ozark, and Dothan to the Florida line. (Another branch runs out over U. S. 31 to Mobile.) Automatic electric traffic recorders are operated on the principle of an electric beam across the roadway. Passing cars break this beam, causing an electric contact upon the apparatus, which prints the traffic record by hours on a continuous paper roll Within the recording machine is an electric clock, which records the hours.

PETROLEUM INDUSTRIES COMMITTEE MEETING

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The war has driven home the importance of devoting gas taxes and registration receipts to highway uses exclusively, Earl M. Hearne, Secretary Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee told members of the Sixth District Petroleum Industries Committee today at a meeting held in Tuscaloosa.

"The rubber shortage and curtailment of automobile production are bound to reduce receipts from the gasoline tax and from registration fees," he said. "This will mean that there will be less money available for adequate highway maintenance."

"Unless Alabama's highways are adequately maintained, the hundreds of millions of dollars the state and counties have invested in roads and bridges will be lost," Hearne said. "He pointed out that Alabama's roads cannot stand up against weather conditions without prompt and adequate maintenance, and asserted the adoption of a constitutional amendment to safeguard highway funds against misuse and diversion is the only way to insure that this maintenance cost can be met during the war."

Mr. S. E. Gervin, member of the Executive Committee of the Alabama FIC declared that Alabama and Louisiana are the only two states in the entire nation collecting a lubricating oil tax. He asserted the tax is a nuisance, is impossible to enforce properly and should be repealed. It is a nuisance he said, because in many instances it costs more to collect it than the revenue derived from it, and it needlessly increases the cost of lubricants to motor vehicles owners, farmers, saw mill operators, cotton gins, garages and service station dealers and many other businesses. He said it represents a sale tax of from 1.6 per cent to 30 per cent on different types and grades of oils, a tax which can be evaded easily through importation of oils by trucks and automobiles.

R. J. (Bob) Goode, Public Relations Director of the Motor Vehicle Association, in pointing out the effect of truck bottlenecks on our war effort, disclosed that in several southern states, Alabama included, the low allowable gross weight of truck as set by law were causing delays of vital war material movements of from one hour to as much as seven days.

He cited affidavits showing that these trucks being held up by restrictive gross weight laws are hauling such materials as: Aluminum, oil anchor chains, gun mounts, gun rings, machine tools, paint, auto tires, textiles, lumber, steel trusses, fabricated parts, boiler drums, chemicals, fresh meats, bread and other articles both directly and indirectly needed in our war effort.

Another speaker, L. L. Lord, member of the organization's State Committee, said it would be helpful if all members of the industry and others interested would discuss our problems frankly with members of the legislature and Congress. "Too often we are wont to criticize members of these bodies because they did wrong," he said. "Many times this has no doubt been largely our own fault because we failed to go to them and explain our troubles to them. If we fail to give our lawmakers the benefit of our knowledge and information, don't blame them for their action."

Earl M. Hearne, State Secretary, outlined the oil industries extra activities in assisting with the war efforts. He explained the first aid program of the industry wherein the various companies are designating certain of their men throughout the state to act as first aid trainers to help speed up this vital work. He also spoke on behalf of Defense Bond Sales and the collection of scrap iron.

Smith Asks Farmers To Plant Kudzu

Now is a good time to plant kudzu for those who have not already planted.

Kudzu is one of the best perennial legumes that can be grown in Chilton County. It makes excellent hay and furnishes good temporary grazing during the summer. In addition to this it will prevent erosion and build up the soil

For best results, kudzu should always be planted on a firm seed bed. When planted at this time of year, kudzu should be planted on land without any further preparation. This means that holes should be dug and crowns planted without attempting to plow up a bed. These crowns should be planted in rows the same as if they were being planted on beds. Dig the holes large and deep enough to take care of the roots. Fertilize crowns planted this way by siding the crowns with a fertilizer distributor.

The number of crowns to use per acre depends on the crowns available. Use from 500 to 1,000 crowns per acre. If planting at the rate of 500 crowns per acre, plant in 25 foot rows and 3 feet in the drill. If planting at the rate of 1,000 crowns per acre, plant in 12 1-2 feet rows and 3 feet in the drill. The more crowns planted per acre, the quicker the kudzu can be grazed or cut for hay

Kudzu should be fertilized with stable manure at the rate of two tons or more per acre or the equivalent of 200 pounds of 16 per cent super phosphate or 400 pounds of basic slag per acre. When planted as outlined above, the fertilizer may be applied after the kudzu is planted

Kudzu planted and fertilized with a survival of not less than 350 plants per acre will qualify for a soil building payment of $4.50 per acre and will earn 4 credits per acre under the 1942 Agricultural Conservation Program. The above payments will just about pay the cost of planting the kudzu

There are enough crowns in the county to supply the demand. Those who are interested should make arrangements in the very near future to plant this kudzu.

For further information on the above, see or write your county agent.

Navy To Enlist Men For Shore Duty

False teeth and oolor blindness no longer bars men from enlisting in the Navy's base construction regiment.

More than 50 trades are included in this regiment, which are, to name only a few: Bakers, cooks (colored and white), truck drivers, carpenters, tractor operators, blacksmiths, mechanics, and laborers.

Pay ranges from $36 to $99 with $34.50 a month extra for married men who qualify for second class petty officers and above

The age limit for enlistment is 17 to 50, and men may enlist for two, three and four years.

Men may apply at any of the Navy Recruiting Stations in Alabama and West Florida. They should bring with them proof of birth and three letters of recommendation. The letters should show the kind of work they are qualified for and how long they have been employed.

Special trades and high petty officer ratings require an interview with a Construction Officer, who will be at the Navy Recruiting Station, Birmingham, March 29-30-31, but application and physical examination should be completed prior to his arrival.

Mr. Folsom intends to carry the fight for the Governorship into every part of the State.

This week he is making from five to eight speeches a day in the northeastern counties, and expects to keep on speaking at this rate for the duration of the campaign. In addition to carrying his message direct to the people in person, he will use both the press and the radio.

You will miss something if you do not see and hear him.

dictation from a big Birmingham Banker, who, during the past three years has dominated and controlled Alabama politics with his mouthpiece in the governor's office.

For the benefit of those who have just tuned in, this is Big Jim Folsom, candidate for Governor of Alabama, telling you a few facts about the political situation in the state right now!

Now here is the picture of the situation as seen by all of us who know the inside dope. Follow me closely and check me to see if I am wrong. For the past three years, the governor's office and duties have been run by long distance telephone. I understand that there is a private telephone wire running from the office of a Big Birmingham Banker to the office of your governor, Frank M. Dixon. Mr. Dixon would not know how to make a move if the big Banker could not tell him what to do. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, the farmer the teacher, the laboring man . . . none of them have a friend in the governor's office now, and verily I say unto you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than it is for an ordinary citizen to go through the door of the governor's office. You just cannot get in unless you wear a high hat, or unless you have a passport or a long distance call from the big banker in Birmingham. And the situation will not be changed one iota if Chauncey Sparks is elected governor!

Education

Now everybody knows that the folks in Alabama who are most ill-treated, under-paid, kicked around, are the school forces. And during the past few months, whenever the costs of living have gone sky-high, they have had their hands full to make both ends meet, but at the same time, three million dollars has been lying idle in a big bank's vault in Birmingham. You can bet your life that when I get in the governor's chair, one of my first acts will be to turn that money over to the schools, and I'm here to state that I'll see to it that everybody down to the teacher in that little red schoolhouse will feel the benefit. Chauncey Sparks has been in the state legislature for years. What has he done that would had anyone to believe that he will play fair with the teachers? Absolutely nothing!

I believe that there is no more worthy public servant than the school teacher. Under our present constitution, the Education Department is not even on a parity with other public officials. The time has come for a Constitutional Convention in Alabama ....a Convention that will abolish that unfairness to Education, put teachers on a parity with workers in other departments of the state government.

In 1938 Frank Dixon soft-soaped Chauncey Sparks into conceding the election without a run-off by telling him: "Now Chauncey, you go back to your little law office and bank in Eufaula, behave yourself, and me and my banker boss will see to it that you get our blessing next time." But Chauncey, after meakly retiring, turned out to be a dud in this campaign after Dixon had committed himself. Whereupon, the Governor got himself another candidate, Chris Sherlock, anw now he's got two candidates and doesn't know where he stands.

You know why he was so panicky that he hurried Sherlock into the race at the last hour! I'll tell you. He was afraid that that telephone line to Montgomery was going to be cut, and that Big Banker Boss would not be able to run things like he wanted them. . . But, hear me, good people of Alabama, with your help. . . and I really need it. . . I am going to climb that telephone pole and cut that line myself! And in order to do that job, I need pole-climbers, and plenty of them. I want them from the common masses of the people. . . voters, who are just as anxious as I am to end the power of that Big Banker! I want pole-climbers in every community in the state. Call or write me . . .call my headquarters in Montgomery and tell us that you too want to be a pole-climber!

Old-Age Pensions

Chauncey Sparks says he wants to give the old folks a pension, but nobody ever could have dreamed that he felt that way until his campaign began. I have been fighting for Retirement for all those over 65 years old for the past 10 years, and I remember when I was making the race for Congress against Henry B. Steagall in the Third District, the same Mr. Sparks who is now so much interested in the welfare of his aged brethren, ridiculed me to the people, and we received only 30 votes on this issue in Eufaula, his town, and it stings me to the very soul to see him deceive the aged and infirm, when I know his past record on pensions!

Yes, old folks, I am still fighting for that pension, and I am fighting for more. I can see no reason why anyone should have to sign a Pauper's check no more than any other worker when retired, and I shall see that that law is stricken from the statutes.

Farm Program

I believe in the program of the advanced welfare of the Farmer. They feed the world and therefore their welfare is of the utmost importance to the world today. I will do everything in my power to remove the shackles of unfair freight rates and trade barriers.

Labor

I speak from hard experience when I say that I am fully acquainted with the problems of the working man. I was born in Coffee County but I now live in Cullman County and own my home there, and have worked hard all my life. I have been a sailor, a long-shoreman, wheat harvester, and made a crop in Alabama in 1933 and I can say to you here and now that if the laboring man in Alabama and in the United States is given fair treatment he will never shirk his duties to the country, and furthermore, he will win this war!

In the present crisis there is a great gulf between labor and capital . . . one which must be bridged. But, my friends, the laboring man is the backbone of America, and he will come through in any crisis! I will create a Department of Labor, with the head of it drawn from the rank and file of organized labor, and any other department coming under the labor department will be subsidiary to it. And listen, my friends, I will do all in my power to create a just and workable solution whereby organized labor will be protected in their retirement rights.

Alcoholic Beverages

One principal plank in my platform calls for a referendum on the much-discussed question of the handling of alcoholic beverages. This, I intend to do, not because of any opinion of mine, but because it is the Democratic process, and because the will of the people is the very foundation of our government, and for those rights our boys are now spilling their life's blood in the blue waters of the Pacific! Now where does Chauncey Sparks stand on this issue? I'll tell you. He stands with one foot on land and one foot in the sea.

One of the first men you will see whenever you enter Sparks campaign headquarters is "Whiskey-Man" Marshall Johnson, called in some circles "Mystery-Man Johnson," for it's mystery to lots of folks how he gets along so well. He is Frank Dixon's liquor boy, who, I am reliably informed, made $38,000 as the Dixon Man-Friday with the liquor interests last year. Yes Mr. Sparks has one foot on land and one in the sea. And what does he propose to do . Why to hornswaggle everybody by saying simply that he will call a referendum on the liquor question. . . but when, nobody knows!

Well, my friends, I cordially invite you to come to my headquarters and you won't find any liquor interests dictating my policies and my principles. I intend to be the people's candidate and the people's governor. I have nothing to hide in my platform, and challenge anyone to find anything in my past record that contradicts my present stands.

Chauncey Sparks, who apparently was running on a prayer that something would happen to Col. Graves, is now trying to get the "pie brigade" behind him. . . already has wrangled for the support of some who were vilified the most. But true friends of Governor Graves will not be fooled by high-sounding promises. . . They will not be "taken in" by a man who advocates a pension for the aged, but whose record shows that he is directly against any kind of aid for the old folks. They will not elect a man to take what would have been the "Little Colonel's" place who curses them one moment and befriends them the next, for they know that once Sparks is in office, they will be "men without a governor;" they will not have a man who straddles the liquor issue like a mug-wump, seeking to be pious about it whenever "Whiskey-man Johnson" is already among his hearty supporters . . .

No, the supporters of the "Little Colonel" and everyone else who has the welfare of the state at heart, will have none of Chauncey Sparks, and the tabulations on May 5 will show that I am right!

Victory Gardens

Care of the Garden

IN taking care of a garden, weed control is one of the most important jobs. Besides being unsightly, weeds rob crops of sun and air, and deprive them of moisture and nourishment. Thy also harbor and encourage insect pests and plant diseases.

Weeding should begin as soon as the seedlings come up in the row to act as a guide to the gardener. Small weeds can often be pulled with the fingers or with a small knife, care being taken not to uproot the seedlings. As the plant crops grow larger, the hoe and the wheel or hand cultivator are the best implements to use in the control of weeds. Cultivating regularly in the row and between the rows is a great help in keeping weeds in check all through the growing season.

Besides controlling weeds, cultivating the garden soil allows air to enter so that beneficial soil bacteria will have favorable conditions in which to work. It also helps to form a mulch to keep the under layers of soil from drying out. Cultivation, either with a hoe or with a hand cultivator, should be shallow, especially as the plants become larger. Deep stirring is likely to cause injury because the feeding roots of many flowers and vegetables spread out directly beneath the surface of the soil.

During the early part of the season, cultivation should take place as often as once a week, and sometimes even twice a week. The soil should be cultivated only when fairly dry, however; cultivating when wet will cause the surface to bake.

In hot, dry weather, artificial watering is sometimes advisable to keep the garden crops growing normally. In a small home garden, particularly, it is practical to let the hose trail along the ground close to the rows to give the roots of the plants a good wetting. The soil should be soaked for about a foot down. It is not necessary to water the entire garden in this way all in one day. Some of the rows could be watered one day or evening, and other rows the next.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

By BEN

Now we've seen everything, Leo Thompson riding down the street on a bicycle—from airplane to bicycle says Leo, when it comes to helping his Uncle Sam win this war. And before its over he's likely to be back in an airplane, but he won't be flying for the fun of it.

* * *

Saw a sight Monday night down town. . . Pig Headley on his Motor Scooter, pop pop popping, down the street and four very young ladies lined up behind him on the seat. . . taking in the sights.

Well folks, the old mug is back here this week, but, by heck, ain't no kandidate for nothing. . . however, don't you fail to read these candidates advertisements in this issue of Chilton County News, and by all means read the one written by Buck Roberts. It's one of the best we have ever read—hard down facts . . . we see Myrtis and Ruth motored down to Biloxi this past week-end to visit a couple of soldiers, one being Ray Enfinger the husband of Myrtis. . . the champion hard luck story of the week we believe was told to us by Rip Burnett. Rip says a fellow came in last Saturday and bought a used car. Sunday he busted two of the tires. Monday he couldn't get any to take their place and Tuesday he was on his feet again. . . . the pranksters who ruined the gentleman's tires with an ice pick last week should be sent to the reform school if young and to jail if old enough. . . this is no time for that kind of kidding.

We motored to Mobile and Pensacola to see the Azaleas last week-end. They are very pretty this year. But we saw a lot more cabbage and Irish potatoes than we did flowers. However, there was no corned beef to go with either so we drove on. You can hardly get a place to eat or sleep in Mobile things are so crowded. . . and when you do it cost a fortune.

* * *

Dr. J. E. Gowan says that he has seen snow here on Easter . . . we saw a Scotty pup this week that would stand on his hind legs and patty-cake, and that's not all, he would shake 'hands' with either of his four feet . . . .we have just received a new cut of the Methodist church made from a picture taken by S. E. Scott that is a dandy. In the near future we will print some weekly bulletins with the picture of the Church on the front cover. . . we were kidding Elinor and Claud last week about the new arrival. They are two swell sports and the Jr. is also to be congratulated on its parents.

NOTICE

The State Committee of the Laymen's Movement, whose purpose is to get the next Legislature to submit the question of prohibition to Alabama voters has called a meeting at Clanton for Saturday, April 11, 1942 at 2:00 o'clock p. m. We want all the candidates of this county and especially candidates for the legislature and Senate to come to this meeting and we would like to have all the citizens, both men, women and children, that can be present at this meeting, because we feel that the sale of liquor touches every home in Alabama.

I do not have the full program, but if you will watch both county papers next week you will see a full program in the paper.

Hoping that you will arrange to come to the meeting, I am

Respectfully,

L. H. Reynolds, Chairman, Laymen's Movement to make Alabama dry in 1942.

Motor Traffic Slows Down To 40 M.P.H.

The State motor traffic slowed down to 40 miles per hour starting Tuesday night at mid-night. The cause was a ban put on over 40-mile driving by the State Highway Patrol when the United States Government asked all to conserve on rubber and help in every way to preserve their automobiles for the duration.

According to reports from the Patrol this law is being rigidly enforced and those ignoring this limit will be subject to fine and imprisonment.

BERNICE VANCE PROMOTED TO CORPORAL

We have been reliably informed by the Public Relations officer at Fort Sheridan, Ill., that B. L. Vance, better known as Bernice Vance, private first class, has been promoted to corporal. Bernice returned to Clanton a few months ago when those 28 years of age were mustered out of service but when the United States were attacked on Dec. 7 he was recalled with others in his class.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S

Elsewhere in this paper is published a letter written by a victim of Infantile paralysis. This child looks to the future with hope, hope of complete recovery from a disease which might have left her dead or a helpless cripple for life. The secret of her recovery is prompt correct treatment.

All those who bought Easter Seals last year or membership in the Alabama Society for Crippled Children may be glad they had a part in helping this child to recovery and health.

Polio victims are now in need of treatment, nursing and special equipment. Probably others will become victims during the months ahead. It is to help such as these that the Crippled Children's Service is maintained.

To finance such service a membership drive is being conducted. People are urged to become members of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children. Every dollar raised is spent for children in this county. The membership fee of one dollar or more should be sent to the treasurer, H. G. Heflin, Clanton, Alabama.

There will be special Easter music at the 11 o'clock service Sunday at the First Baptist church of Clanton, including the 'Halleluliah chorus' from Mendel's Messiah. Everyone is invited to attend this Easter service.

Draft Orders For May Received By Local Boards

The Selective Service Headquarters have instructed local Boards to use Class 1-A men from 1940 and 1941 registration to fill May quotas if there are a sufficient number of these registrants on the list.

If there is not enough men in this class to fill the quotas the Local Boards have been instructed to use the men who registered in February of this year for this call. That is of course, if these registrants are in the A-1 class. Should this be necessary it would take men of 20 and 36 through 44 years, who had no dependents and were in good physical condition.

Mrs. Miley Thacker and daughter, Josie Mae, spent the latter part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thacker of Billingsley.

To Hold Easter Service

The program at the Clanton Methodist church last Sunday was such an outstanding success, thanks to all who participated, that we want to announce we expect to have another such special service in the near future.

The Sunrise Service next Sunday morning will begin at Clanton Methodist Church at 7 o'clock instead of 6. Everybody is cordially invited to come worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness at the beginning of this anniversary of the Resurrection Day of His Son, our Savior.

Honor the creator and His Son by attending all the Church Services you can next Sunday. You will be the winner. Church School, 9:45, a. m. Other worship services 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Know Your Neighbor

COSTA RICA THE SCHOLARLY

When the conquistadores spoke to each other of the rich, coast, la costa rica," they were not only distinguishing between the Central American region which is now the Republic of Costa Rica, and an area claimed by Christopher Columbus as his personal property; they had visions, too it would appear, of gold to be had for the gathering.

If the name was based on a misconception, common enough in those days of adventure and adventures, Spanish grandees, long stories, and not a little of disillusionment, the Costa Rica of our day presents to the world something which it appraises, along with a good part of the rest of enlightened mankind, as more precious than gold.

The Republic of Costa Rica has 3,000 teachers and 500 soldiers, but it was first of the American nations to declare war on Japan after the events of Pearl Harbor. There is one school for each 800 in a total population of 650,000. Primary education is free and compulsory. Graduates of elementary schools have the choice of going further in the schools of fine arts, agriculture and commerce. Before the dream of a national university became a reality, students preparing for careers in other fields had to go abroad. But now schools of law, pharmacy, engineering, science, liberal arts, denistry and medicine have been, or are about to be incorporated into the university.

For the national university, unquestionably a tangible, and a beautiful one, also is a symbol. It is the apex of an educational system of which any nation rightly could be proud.

Costa Rica's advanced position in education, however, is not by any means the sum of her riches, not even if there be added a tradition inspiring in its unfolding of a people's struggle through foreign conquest and brigandage, to independence and constitutional self-government.

Enlightened government stems from this devotion of the Costa Rican to intellectual attainments. At San Jose, the capital, are the judicial, legislative and executive branches of the government, supported by a constitution that lists 125 articles and a bill of rights. Executive power is vested in a president elected directly by the people for four years. He may not serve another consecutive term.

Southernmost of the five Central Americn republics with an area about that of West Virginia, Costa Rica like many another Latin American country can but guess, as yet, at the extent and character of its natural wealth. The cordillera trends through from northwest to southeast. And though it was not where the Spaniards of old could lay their hands on it, there was gold to be had. It is still there, for the most part, awaiting a day of improved method and better transport for getting it out. The mountains rise to as much as 13,000 feet. A network of streams, their sources there, invite power development estimated at a million horsepower—wealth of another sort.

The ecenomic and social heart of the country is in the plateau region of the medium altitudes where the climate is pleasant and healthful, the soil and rainfall a boom to the farmer. From this region comes the Costa Rican coffee, increasingly famous for its exceptional quality and flavor. England has stood first as buyer of it with with Germany second and the United States third; but with the loss of European markets increasing quantities of Costa Rican coffee are being consumed in this country. The coffee, with bananas and cocoa, makes up eighty-five per cent of Costa Rica's exports. These, with some gold, timber, sugar, hides and skins, the nation offers its neighbors at home and abroad in exchange for what it needs for its bread-baskets, for machinery, fuels and textiles.

Salvage Committee To Be Appointed

A County Salvage Comfittee chairman soon will be appointed for Chiltin County to put into effect the salvage-for-victory program requested by the U. S. War Production Board.

The chairman will name a committee of patriotic citizens of Chilton County to speed the drive.

The committee will serve under the Alabama Salvage Committee appointed by Gov. Frank M. Dixon, with Thomas Bragg of Birmingham as state chairman and Leon Gilbert, Klein-Ashley Bldg., Montgomery, as executive Secretary

Members of of the state committee and all county salvage committee chairmen will meet at the State Capitol in Montgomery at 11 a. m. Friday to outline an intensive drive for the collection of scrap metal, waste parer old rubber, old rags and other material badly needed for war production.

"I am sure that the people of Chilton County will cooperate wholeheartedly in the salvage program," said Governor Dixon. "Alabama expects every citizen . . . every man, woman and child. . . . to do his or her part in collecting waste materials so sorely needed for defense."

From now on we must think twice before we burn old papers, or rags or allow old metal or rubber or any needed materials to lie idle. President Roosevelt has asked every American to see that nothing that can help our victory goes to waste.

"This is a war of production. Scrap metal must be rounded up to help make guns, planes, tanks and warships. Old rubber must be salvaged to help motorize America's growing armies. Old rags are needed for reworked textiles and for use in cleaning machinery. We must have mountains of old papers to help make paper-board to box the munitions. The county committee shortly will issue instructions for collections."

The Alabama Salvage Committee is serving as a part of the Bureau of Industrial Conservation, under Donald Nelson, chief of the War Production Board.

Alabama Farmers are expected to play a big part in this campaign for there is not a farm in Chilton County that does not have a heavy poundage of this vital metal scattered around it; such as old worn out plow points, broken plows and bolts, old axes; in fact anything that is metal.

The money derived from this scrap metal will be given to the Crippled Children's Clinic of Chilton County.

Please bring this salvage to the City Hall and turn it over to the Salvage chairman, Earl Gore.

—J. E. GORE.

Who's Who, And What's What?

Who brought out Chris Sherlock? Frank Dixon.

Who has now double crossed Sherlock, and is supporting Sparks? Frank Dixon.

Who cussed the big brigade Chauncey Sparks.

Who is now welcoming the brigade? Chauncey Sparks.

Now why is the whole bunch trying to double cross each other. We dont know.

Are the people of Alabama going to be doubled crossed by a bunch of professional double crossers? We should say not.

Big Jim Folsom hasn't doubled crossed any one, and he won't when elected Governor of this great state. The big boy is clean, courageous, trustworthy, and sincere, and is the only progressive in the race. He is no reactionary, and you can bet he will do more for Alabama, and for the little man than all of his opponents put together, so therefore Big Jim just simply means good clean government for the little man, and the little man's wife and children.

Mark Remarks:

There has never been an army that did not have a few deserters. Some are caught and shot, some wander away and die of remorse, some are so completely forgotten that they just pine away and die.

The fight for Governor is between progressive Cullman County, in north Alabama, where peace, progress, prosperity and plenty reign, and reactionary Barbour, in the Black Belt, where the Bourbons live off the sweat and toil of the negroes and "po" white trash;" drink bourbon liquor and play politics.

This is the first real opportunity the white counties of North Alabama and South Alabama have had to throw off the political yoke of the Black Belt counties since the Civil War. If counties like Jackson, Marshall and DeKalb; Marion, Fayette and Lamar, sell their birthright to Barbour that brags so much about the many Governors it has produced the State, then they will deserve whatever is in store for them in the future.

The man or woman voter living in the white counties of North or South Alabama who thinks that Chauncey Sparks, as Governor, would ever consent to reapportionment or poll tax reform, is indeed ignorant, or just plain dumb.

The white counties of Alabama really have in Jim Folsom, candidate for Governor, an opportunity to take over the affairs of State, which is their inalienable right under Democratic rule. If they barter this opportunity for a bit of political pie, which Chauncey Sparks, the Black Belt candidate for Governor, has so often denounced and condemned, then, they have no one to blame but themselves.

It is difficult to believe that the rank and file of the voters of the white counties will permit their political leaders to sell them into "political" serfdom of the Black Belt politicians.

BOB JONES COLLEGE

A LOOK AT THE BOOK
By DR. BOB JONES, JR.

I wonder if you ever noticed in reading the account of the resurrection of our Lord how much there is of tears and fears and perplexity in the story.

When the women came early on that Easter morning and found angelic visitors instead of Roman guards, an open tomb and an empty sepulchre instead of a sealed burial place, they were so frightened that the angel had to tell them not to be afraid.

And at least one woman looked upon the beauty of the garden that Easter morning through the glistening of her tears. In John's narrative we are told that as Mary stood outside that open tomb the wondering angels asked her why she wept, and Jesus Himself when He came and stood before her asked the reason for her tears.

There was certainly perplexity. The Apostle Peter, having heard from the women the angel's announcement of the resurrection of the Saviour and having come and seen for himself the empty tomb, "went away wondering in himself at that which had come to pass."

All this fear and grief and uncertainty came because they had failed to understand the plain words of Christ when He had foretold His resurrection as He had talked to them of His death and burial. Now the time for grief and fear was over. The Lord was risen! The tomb was empty! All had happened just as He had said it would. There was now proof of the fulfillment of His promise—the testimony of th angels and the evidence of th empty tomb—but they could no quite comprehend. Their under standing was dull and their eye were blind to the truth.

How much sorrow and fear an perplexity we could avoid if w listened to the Saviour when H speaks. How much unhappines comes because we fail to take Hi literally. How clear and plain i His statement that "Whosoever be lieveth in Him should not peris but have eternal life." Yet me wander on in the misery an wretchedness and unhappiness o sin because they will not believe i Him. Others of us trust Him as ou Saviour and possess the eternal lif which is found in Him and yet g through life failing to enjoy th privileges which are ours as son of God because we do not take Hi at His Word. We worry about ou physical needs—food and clothing— because we do not take His promi to provide these things as litera and sure. We are frightened an perplexed by the sudden changes i condition that face us all. We ar disturbed and afraid because w fail to heed His assuring utteranc that "All things work together fo good to them that love God; to them who are the called according to Hi purpose." The open tomb rebuke our lack of faith. I wonder that w do not hear the resurrected Saviou saying to us as He said to the tw disciples on the road to Emmau that Easter day, "Oh, foolish ones and slow of heart to believe."

Thank You

My friends, as well as you Patriotic Constituents who realize and appreciate the situation whether you have heretofore been my particular friends or not, for your magnificent reaction to the campaign which has been thrust upon us at this critical hour when you and I are primarily interested in only one thing; the winning of this war, not political strife.

While the situation looks good indeed, let us not become overconfident or permit any grass to grow under our feet. Let us strive diligently to secure every vote possible that the victory may be sufficently overwhelming that our attitude may be easily understood and long remembered.

Thank you so much from the bottom of a very appreciative heart.

Sincerely your friend,

America First
The Rebel Route

We hope that during these strenuous and unusual days no one will have occasion to say that the Management of the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad is forgetting its obligation to the public, or that it is indifferent toward the welfare of its employes and investors.

We think we should frankly say, however, that this Railroad is no longer operated primarily for the convenience of the traveling and shipping public, and to furnish jobs for its employes, and to make money for its owners.

These purposes are secondary now—to an all-out war effort

The movement of troops and war materials must be given preference.

Our capacity must be utilized to the fullest extent.

Every car must carry a heavier load and every train must carry more cars

The time consumed in loading and unloading must be reduced and every piece of equipment kept moving.

All materials—such as fuel, rubber and steel—which our Government needs must be conserved.

And every unnecessary service must be discontinued to release equipment for the new needs of defense areas.

In these undertakings our efficiency depends upon the co-operation of the public—and we know that there is no lack of patriotism in the territory which we serve.

J. R Hardy Writes The Voters Of Chilton County, Alabama

Mr. J. R. Hardy, former sheriff of Chilton County and candidate to again serve the people of the county in the same office asks the cooperation of all and the support of all in the coming election to be held May 5th.

Mr. Hardy feels that his past experience and training fits him ably for the place and he served the people well while their Sheriff from 1935 through 1938.

He says in part, "I feel that it is quite unnecessary for me to try to tell you about myself, as I feel that my actions during my administration as your Sheriff surely caused you to form your opinion of me in a much more satisfactory manner than I could explain myself to you in writing. Should I not get to see you before the primary, please do not accept it as an act of carelessness or indifference, for I shall try to see each and every one of you."

"I assure you that your vote and influence in my interest will be greatly appreciated."

PLETCHER

Lastly, but not least, a good altar service was had, when seekers became happy finders. We do praise the Lord because the same God, "yesterday, today and forever," still hears and answers prayer.

"I HAD INFANTILE PARALYSIS"

I am a victim of Infantile Paralysis. I cannot tell you where I contracted the virus. They say it is so tiny that you can hardly see it with a miscroscope and yet to be so tiny, it certainly leaves horrible results. I am thankful it has not left me an invalid, but I will assure you it was through good supervised nursing, work and will power on my part that I will soon have control of my old self. My nurse was instructed and taught by the physiotherapist from the Crippled Children's Service exactly how to massage and exercise the weak muscles. I have carried out her instructions from the beginning, and really believe this is the best known treatment for the disease.

For a week or ten days before my case was diagnosed as Infantile Paralysis, I was very nervous and could hardly sleep for aching. My waist, legs, and arms were sensitive to the touch of clothes and I was very melancholy.

I got up Saturday morning, September the twentieth, and went to my home in Talladega. By this time it was beginning to hurt me to walk. That afternoon I went to bed with a high fever and aching so badly I could hardly lie still. We called the doctor and he gave me a sedative. It helped out but did not relieve the severe pain. I felt sure I had polio and asked the doctor about it several times. He pronounced it Polio on Monday morning, September the 21, after the paralysis had struck.

The doctor put me on a specially made cart with only a thin mattress on it. Splints were put on my legs and my nurse was instructed to begin at once applying hot towels four times a day. These were wonderful for lessening the pain.

I will not forget how beautiful and bright was the month of October and I stayed in the sunshine for the whole month. The paralysis had affected me all over, even my eyes and teeth were sore. But now, as I lay in the sunshine on a Bradford frame, I could feel my legs limber up and could move them a little. When the soreness left me, the physiotherapist of the State Crippled Children's Service taught my nurse a light form of massage and certain exercises. I lay in the sun, the nurse would massage me with oil and I am now on my seventieth pint. By the end of the sixth week, massage and exercises were being done twice a day.

On November twentieth, I was allowed in a wheel chair for two hours a day. On November the twenty-ninth, I had my first automobile ride, fifteen minutes, but I was worn out. Each time, though I felt a little stronger. My exercises were increased each week and by the latter part of November I was spending three hours in the morning and afternoon being massaged and taking exercises.

On December the eighth—a red letter day—I walked four or five steps, very slowly with the aid of crutches and each day the distance was increased by one step.

Here it is February the ninth and I am still keeping up the good work of being exercised and massaged once a day. I am now walking around the house without my crutches, and outside with only a cane. I am happy to say when my legs were measured below my knees they were the same size as before my illness, and above my knees only a fraction of an inch difference. If you could hear from me in two weeks, I am sure they will measure the same.

LET THE RECORD NAME THE MAN

HAYSE TUCKER

"Alabama's Outstanding Legislator"

Let's Look at his Record:---

IN EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS, as a member of the Committee on Education, he became an authority on school facts. He supported the minimum program Act — improving rural school conditions — the School Warrant Act, all bills increasing school appropriations, Free Text Book Acts, increases to institutions of higher learning, Teacher Tenure, and expanded vocational programs. He did more than any other man to put the Teacher Retirement Act into effect. As Chairman of the Finance and Taxation Committee, he guided the planning so that the new budget gave state schools $3,500,000 more funds in 1941—without the levy of new taxes.

IN MATTERS AFFECTING LABOR he was consistently fair and courageous. He voted for the creation of the State Department of Labor, for increased benefits to injured workmen. He fought—and blocked in the Senate—an anti-sedition bill, favorably reported by his associates but which he thought unfair to labor.

ON LEGISLATION TO BENEFIT THE FARMER, he voted for the new and improved Agricultural Code—for increases in farm and home extension work and for bills which made possible Alabamas participation in the Federal AAA program. He was a sponsor for the appropriations for the control of Bang's Disease and helped organize the new Department of Conservation,, including increased appropriations for forestry.

On this Record We Urge Your Active Support of Hayes Tucker

A Good Example

EVERY SCRAP of waste paper from the State Capitol helps win the war and also puts a little money back into the State treasury. It is sold to waste dealers who put it back into industrial channels. Above, Miss Margaret Radford of the Department of Revenue adds a last armful to a loaded truck. Governor Dixon has appealed to all Alabamians to save their old paper for the salvage-for-victory collections.

Before Calling

THE ELECTRIC SERVICE MAN

Check These Things and

SAVE MONEY and TIRES

IS YOUR appliance connected? Sounds obvious, but you'd be amazed how often a disconnected extension cord is all that is wrong.

If one light is out, replace the bulb. If several, check the fuses. Replacing a burned out fuse may be all that is necessary. You can do this as well as the service man.

If ALL your lights are out, and those of your neighbors are too, it may be that a power line is down. Then call the service man.

Light out in your refrigerator? That doesn't necessarily mean that the whole refrigerator isn't working. Probably all you need is a new bulb. You can replace it yourself.

Oven won't heat properly? Be sure the oven heating units are plugged in tightly. Are you sure you've turned on all switches correctly? Is the switch on your automatic clock set to "manual?"

Table or floor lamp won't burn? Maybe the extension cord is worn or needs a new plug.

DO NOT CALL FOR SERVICE AFTER REGULAR HOURS except in case of extreme necessity. Special trips use rubber and cost you more.

Smith Urges Farmers To Plant Peanuts

Our Government has asked Chilton County farmers to grow peanuts for oil this year. This Peanut oil is needed to help win this war. The Chilton County U.S.D.A. War Board is asking each Chilton County farmer to plant not les sthan five acres of "oil peanuts" per plow. Have you made arrangements to plant your part of these "oil peanuts?"

A quantity of seed peanuts to be planted for oil are now on hand. These seed may be purchased for cash or on credit. The AAA office in Clanton is the place to put in your request for these seed. It takes only a very short time to get these seed and they are available on the basis of "first come, first served." It is hoped that seed peanuts can be moved in fast enough to keep some on hand at all times. The important thing is to get seed as soon as possible so that they can be shelled.

Indications are that some farmers who are planning to use fertilizers are nt planning to use enough potash. Peanuts are heavy feeders and should receive an application of not less than 50 pounds potash per acre. Contrary to some information that is out in the county, Muriate of potash is available for peanut fertilizer. Reasonable quantities of Muriate of Poaash are available in Chilton County at present for this purpose and it is recommended that it be used in the above amounts.

It is suggested that several neighbors living in the same community get together and come for these seed at thesame time. This will cut down on the costs of getting the seed out to the farm.

It is felt that Chilton County farmers are ready and willing to do everything possible to help win this war.. Planting these "oil-peanuts" is one way our farmers can help. For further information on the above see or write your County Agent.

Grinders of powdered rotenone-bearing root were requested March 16 not to sell and quanity at a price in excess of 35 cents per pound for 5 per cent pure rotenone-content grade. These prices are f. o. b. grinder's plant.

To My Friends and Fellow Democrats

As you know, I am a candidate for Tax Assessor of Chilton County.

The Democrats of Chilton County are going to choose their nominees for various offices on May 5, next. This is true Americanism; real Democracy; just what our Democratic Party stands for: The right to pick and vote for the candidate of their own choosing.

In traveling over Chilton County I find that the Democrats do not intend to let any man, or group of men say anything or do anything, that will delay or hinder their immediate consolidation after the Primary Election. And this is as it should be and it is encouraging to me to find it this way. The Democrats of Chilton County, and I am a Democrat, will back the Democratic Nominee, and the very limit, and on to victory in November, whomever the nominees may be.

The Democrats are fighters and I am fighting until victory is ours.

May I again say to those of you who have not always subscribed to the doctrines of the Democratic Party, that it is, in my opinion, to the best interest of Chilton County to be and remain democratic. I believe that the people of Chilton County could better serve themselves by placing Democrats in all of our offices.

Again assuring you that your vote and support will be highly appreciated, I am

Yours very truly,
N. L. (Buck) ROBERTS,
Candidate for Tax Assessor of Chilton County.

Pd. Pol. Adv. By N. L. (Buck) Roberts, Clanton, Ala.

MORAL ECHOES

By Rev. D. W. Haskew, D. D.

My little dog had lots of fun chasing pigeons. The birds never seemed worried or distrusted over the approach of the dog. They would walk about over the ground in calmness until the racing pup would draw near and then they would take to their wings and fly out of danger. The pigeons knew that they had wings and why should they be afraid of the barking dog. In like manner, a Christian should be calm and peaceful in this day of alarm and worry. From all directions dangers are bearing down upon us, but we have the wings of faith and why be afraid? We can lift ourselves above the world, and with confidence view danger as it plays beneath us. Yes, we have wings and why be afraid?

While camping in the woods with a troop of scouts, I was impressed with a lesson that has followed me through the years. There was but little fear among the boys as long as our camp fire burned brightly, but let the fire burn low and the boys could hear all kinds of sounds. Many a time have I had to get up and mend the fire with new fuel in order to drive away the fright of a lad who could hear things. When the camp fire burned bright the beasts of the woods would not come near. When do we meet with alarming conditions in our life? Is it when we are true to God and our Christian light is burning brightly, or is it when we neglect our duties and the home fires are burning low? As long as we keep our faith and we are loyal to our Christ, just so long the ways of the world will keep their distance, but when the fire burns low, then we come face to face with disturbing situations.

One summer day I stood by the rail road track and saw a big horse fly sitting on the side of a steel pullman. The train was moving off to a good speed, and as the fly passed me I seemed to hear him shout, "See how fast I can make this train go" Poor deluded fly. It thought that it was running the train. And yet, how like that fly do we find many in the world today. We see them sitting down on God's unvierse while it is moving, and with pride they are saving, "See how we are doing things?" Remember, that you are just about like a horse fly on a pullman boasting that you are running the train.

While reading in a medical journal Icam across the statement of one dohtor who said, "If I could cut off many of my patients heads, they would stand a better show to get well." In other words this physician was admitting that the mind can be sick, and place the sickness off on some other part of the body. The mental attitude often adds to the ailments of the body. It is often true that the mind needs treatment before the Physician can be made well, One great doctor has said that, "Forty per cent of those seeking medical advice, need the advice of a minister, or a Christian leader, who can set them right in their thinking." As long as a patient can think cheerfully and live hopefully, the doctor has a very fine patient. Then a person thinks that he is sick, it will not be long before he will be calling a doctor. The mind often gets sick before the body starts to ailing.

One who was wise in his own conceits sat in my Sunday School class. We were discussing the Miracles of the Bible, when this man who thought himself to be a super man of intelligence blurted out, "Parson, you can talk to me about the miracles of the Bible until you are blue in the face and I will not believe a word of it. The laws of nature are established and no man, no not even a God can change them." I paused for a moment for his egotism to soak in and then I replied quietly, "After all is said, ma can change the laws of nature, to say nothing about God doing it. The law of nature says that water shall always flow down hill, but man has broken that law and made it to flow up hill, and even over mountain tops. It is the law of nature that nothing heavier than air can go upward under its own volition and yet man had made the plane to fly fiv miles high, carrying many tons of weight. If puny man can perform a miracle against the laws of nture, do you not think that God can do that much more?" Do you blame me for puncturing that gas bag?

American farmers will produce in 1942 enough vegetables for one serving of good thick soup three times a day for every man, woman and child in the U. S. . . . hogs enough to make a solid procession two abreast, snout to tail, around the world. . . enough peanut and soybean oil to make more than 60 bars of soap as big as the RCA building. . . .enough 10-gallon cans of milk to build 25 pyramids the size of the great pyramid of Egypt... eggs enough so that if you broke one every second it would take 1,600 years to break them all.

Save Barbed Wire And Help Defense

Farmers may offset in part the present shortage of barbed wire for farm fencing by conserving used wire from fences no longer needed. Engineers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggest that used wire be rerolled on reels of the type used to ship new wire. However, because rusted wire is usually brittle, it may be better to wrap it on reels of larger diameter, such as on barrels or kegs. A hand reel attached to the read of a wagon box is sometimes used for wrapping old wire where long fences are to be removed. A method for rerolling used barbed wire is described in Farmers' Bulletin 1832, available from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

40-Mile-An-Hour Speed Limit Being Enforced

Montgomery—Warning tickets are being issued and arrests are being made where necessary to enforce the 40 miles per hour speed limit which went into effect Wednesday, April 1, Major James F. Brawner, director of the State Department of Public Safety, announced today.

"Where a driver caught speeding displays the right attitude and a willingness to correct his fault," Major Brawner said, "warning tickets are being issued to start with. However, motorists should keep in mind that these and other warning tickets accumulate in our files and sometimes lead to loss of a driver's license if his record becomes too serious.

"Arrests are being made where our patrol officers, in isolated cases, find motorists inclined to ignore or defy the new speed limit."

The 40 m. p. h. regulation was proclaimed as a rubber conservation measure, at the request of President Roosevelt.

Jim Parrish Writes Voters

To the good people of Chilton County:

Many of my loyal supporters have asked me to explain to the people of Chilton County my personal situation that actually exists, in order that the people will have no doubt as to why I have entered the race for Tax Collector.

I was born in Chilton County 54 years ago, and received my education at the Old Union Point school, and afterward attended Providence school. I have a wife and two sons.

For seven years I worked as storekeeper for the L. & N. railroad in Birmingham, and afterward, worked at the Woodward Iron Co., for 1 year and 7 months, at which job I was injured when a car of coke ran over me and as most all of my friends know, I was seriously injured, but I manage to get along and have perfect use of my right arm and right leg.

After this serious setback, I came back to Clanton, my home. Being physically handicapped, I managed to get along as best one could under similar circumstances. My sons grew up, and James married. Doc, my younger son, finished high school here and went to work with the triple A at Auburn. Naturally, Doc has contributed much to me, and really was the breadwinner for my wife and myself. Then, as recent conditions have naturally changed the lives of many of us, and a treacherous foe made their sneaking attack upon our fair land, my son Doc was called to do his part. He is now in the service of his country. He is no longer able to contribute as substantially as he did in the past. I wis hthat it were so that I could join him in the defense of our country, however, I am proud that I can furnish a good boy to go along with the rest of the fine Chilton county boys in order that gansterism might be swept from the face of the earth.

It is of course well known that I am unable to do manual labor, but I feel myself qualified and capable of fulfilling the duties ethat will be entrusted to me when you elect me Tax Collector. I will give my full time and effort to the people of Chilton County. I will not be a Tax Collector in name only but will be on the job all the time, trying to make the people the best Tax Collector that this County has ever had.

In other words, friends, I am not physically able to hold down an appointive job; my son that helped me along the way, is in the army, and in order that I might be self sustaining, I have offered myself a candidate for Tax Collector. I feel that I am capable of administering the duties of the office efficiently, and promise, faithful, honest, and cheerful service.

JIM PARRISH.

TO THE VOTERS of CHILTON COUNTY
FROM ARTHUR J. LECROY

I am in the race for Commissioner for the 2nd Dist. as many of you voters already know. Four years ago I made this same race and was defeated by my opponent in the Primary by a small vote, and I carried my own District over my opponent.

Like many of the other good people of Chilton County I moved here from Coosa County nineteen years ago and have owned my own home and lived on the same farm in the Isabella Community ever since.

Since entering this race for Commissioner this time I have been asked my position on various questions that will affect our county if elected Commissioner. These are my views as to the importance of the problems confronting our County and people at this time.

Above all, I first favor the winning of the war which we are now in and which our boys are now in. As your Commissioner my aim will be to see that Chilton County and the Treasury of Chilton County cooperates in every way to win the War, and we all know that the County and each of us will be called upon more and more, from time to time, to give of our time and money in winning the War.

It will be my next aim to see that all the other necessary functions of the County Government are taken care of as far as possible. That the roads shall be kept up and maintained. That the old people be taken care of by such appropriations as are necessary. That the County will continue to contribute to the educational program. That the County will continue to support the Public Welfare Department, which department contributes to the old age, dependent children, the blind, and the physically and mentally handicapped. That the County Health Department together with the County Agent's Department will also be supported.

I will endeavor to see all the voters between now and May 5th, but being a farmer and operating a farm myself, it will be impossible to see everyone. I want each of your votes, your influence, your continued friendship and your cooperation.

ANY ALABAMA FARMERS TO PLANT EDIBLE SOYBEANS

Auburn, Ala.—Many Alabama farm- s will plant soybeans—a health- ing and hardy-growing edible—for e first time this spring.

Edible soybeans are easy to grow cause of their high drought and in- ct resistance and the likely to suc- ed where other vegetables may fail. In a bulletin entitled "Edible Soy- ns for Alabama" Drs. W. C. Sher- n and H. R. Albrecht, of the Alabama Experiment Station, point out that soybeans are very high in protein and fat.

Work at the Experiment Station indicates that late maturing varieties (September) are the best edible soybeans. The Rokusun and Tokyo are recommended particularly because they yield well and are considered of excellent quality. The intermediate maturing varieties of edible soybeans, Kokkaido, Funk Delicious, and No. 85560 are considered the most desirable midseason varieties tested as they produce green beans of high quality which are ready when other vegetable crops begin to fail. The early-maturing varieties are not particularly recommended for use in Alabama.

Soybeans grown as vegetables can be planted generally in the same manner as those planted for hay. The land should be well prepared for general gardening purposes about five pounds of basic slag muriate of potash mixture can be applied for each 100-foot row. If this is not available use 4-10-7 at the same rate. Plant in April or early May four to eight inches in drill and 2 1-2 foot rows.

In the bulletin, which may be obtained from the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, attractive recipes for cooking and serving soybeans are given.

A MESSAGE

TO THE VOTERS OF THE COUNTY FROM

JACK HAYES

To the citizens of Chilton County, I want to take this opportunity in behalf of my candidacy for the office of Tax Collector of Chilton County to give you some of my qualifications and to state in a brief way what I stand for. I was born in Chilton County and have spent all my life in Chilton county except when I was away at school and following my profession. My parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes, have been life long citizens of Chilton county. I have always been a Democrat and have rendered what service I could for the best interest of the party. In 1927 when I finished school at the University of Alabama I entered professional baseball and joined the Birmingham Barons of the Southern League. During that year I was sold to the Washington Senators of the American League. I played with this club until 1932 when I was traded to the Chicago White Sox of the American League. I played with this club until the fall of 1940 when I was forced to retire because of eye trouble.

In 1933 my brother, Dick Hayes, and I formed a partnership in business known as the Hayes Chevrolet Company. During the off season in baseball I was actively engaged in this business. December 1st, 1941 I sold my interest in this business to Dick.

If elected to the office I will give it my entire time. This is the first time I have asked the citizens of Chilton County to favor me with an office. If permitted to serve you as Tax Collector I will endeavor at all time to act fairly, honestly and without regard to party affiliations when in the performance of my official duties.

I solicit your vote on my record as a citizen, and a business man. I will appreciate any assistance given my candidacy for the office which I seek.

Yours very truly,
M. C. (Jack) HAYES.

(Paid pol. adv. by M. C. (Jack) Hayes.)

A Letter From Geo. M. Taylor

To the Voters of the Fifteenth Senatorial District:

I wish to sincerely thank the voters of the Fifteenth Senatorial District for the honor and privilege which they have bestowed upon me by allowing me to run unopposed for the Democratic Nomination. I assure you that I realize the gravity of the trust placed in me, and I shall do all in my power to merit it. However, my efforts and ability will count for naught, unless I have your confidence and cooperation. I shall attempt to see all of you, but I want you to feel that my office is open to any and all of you at all times, and I urge that you come to see me, and discuss with me the problems of our district and state. It is your office and the legislative matters are yours. My hope is that you will help me represent the will of the district.

Sincerely yours,
GEO. M. TAYLOR, Jr.

Collins Chapel 4-H Club News

Wednesday morning at 10:00 a. m. Collins Chapel 4-H Club was called together by our Club teachers Miss Barber and Mr. Glasscock. Henrietta Smith, President of the girls club, presided over the meeting. Wilton Cox and Verna Smith, song leaedrs, led the club in singing two songs. The 4-H club pledge was given by all club members. Miss Barber taught the club members a new song. Mr. Glasscock had some problems in mathematics. Marie Parker and Robert Burnette weer each fiven 10 cents to buy a Defense Stamp as an award for being the first to work the problem.

The "Best Groomed Girl" was elected. Irene aPtterson being elected by the club. The girls are planning to make dresses which will be worn to next club meeting. At that time a club dress revue will be held.

The boys gave a demonstration on seed treatment and cutting potato seed pieces.

All members are urged to have a Defense Stamp by next club meeting in order that the Club may report 100 per cent having stamps.

On Friday the 13th of March, thirtee nmembers of the Minooka Home Demonstration club met with Mrs. R. Houlditch.

Disregarding the old morbid superstition we went merrily alon ghaving a very enjoyable meeting.

A delightful dinner was served at twelve o'clock after which our President, Mrs. Ryan, called the meeting to order. After routine business Miss Barber gave an inspiring lecture on planting food, and conserving food. She stressed the word that will help win the war, S-A-V-E..

We then enjoyed a picture show of the modern dairy herds, their products and the proper and sanitary war of handling same. We also saw a picture of a well preserved jar of beans canned before the World War. No. 1 under the supervision of Mrs. Lida Jones, the first Home Agent of Chilton County.

We adjourned to meet in April at the home of Mrs. Nannie Williams.

AMA Program Creates More Farm Markets

The creation of additional farm markets in the amount of $237,294.50 by the Alabama community school lunch program, food stamps program and direct distribution program during February was announced recently by James Harry Hurst, Birmingham, Administrative Assistant, Agricultural Marketing Administration and member of the Alabama USDA War Board.
